I wrote either the first or second month after the Corner started, using Housewife as my pen name; that was not in the lists and also others used soon after did not appear, so they need not be mentioned. Believe I have already told you to cross off Aline and Cornflower, now you may also take off Postmaster. I do not not notice any others on the list, except Pussy Willow and Hepatica, but those were used only a short time and have since been appropriated by others who are entirely welcome to them. Wonder if Aunty 1 remembers what trouble she had trying to find out who Hepatica was, some years ago?

There was one writer a number of years ago who signed herself Hannah Who. Does anyone now know who she was? If still living I hope she will write again. Also one of the very first writers signed I think, the name of Hannah Homespun. I am not sure but think she is dead. Does anyone know her, or know who she was?

Two sisters, recently, wrote about Weekapaug and Hammanassett beaches. I wonder if they could tell us where they are? We went a number of times this summer to Pequonnoc beach, a lovely, quiet spot, and a fine place to picnic.

Well, Paula, what has the poor farmer done to you that you should be so bitter towards him in your last letter? I am not a farmer but from what I see my sympathy is mostly with them. The hired man, if one can be found won't work long enough or hard enough to hurt himself, and asks such high wages that the farmer has to work early and late to get enough to pay. And don't lay all the blame on the employers. Some at least belongs to the employees who do not try to give good value in work for the wages they receive, but instead are always trying to see how little they can do and still keep their jobs. As for the small wages years ago, I believe more people saved money then on low wages than they do now on the high ones.

Somebody asked about Certo. I used it in blackberry jelly that refused to set and found it very satisfactory.

I hope our editor won't think it necessary to shoo what few brothers we have off into a Corner by themselves. Most of us I think enjoy their letters, also their company at the few meetings they attend. Anyway, sisters, if they did have a Corner of their own, and regular club meetings how long do you suppose it would be before the sisters would be fishing for invitations? Those who got them would be so proud you couldn't reach them with a ten foot pole and those who didn't would be madder than a flock of wet hens.

PREVENT DUMPLINGS GETTING "SAD"

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Want first of all to thank Kentucky Wonder and Bonie for the beautiful birthday cards. I am not growing old, but older.

The Social Corner sisters of club No. 4 certainly gave us a royal welcome. I forgive 1492 and Mry 'Gusta for keeping me in an awful suspense for a week. Hope you are willing to be forgiven.

J. E. T.: We always look for your letters. How about the roast pork? Not yet? When most of us lay aside our silk hose there's not enough left for a lining.

U. C. E.: Had a great vacation, a wonderful trip. Hope to write about it for the Corner page if the editor is long suffering.

Twice Twenty: What a lovely day we spent with you! One of our friends who we supposed came as a visitor was one of the first of the Social Corner sisters. She was a member long before we were great enough to be divided into clubs, etc. Her pen name was Alwilda. Can you guess who?

If any of the sisters have any trouble with dumplings getting "sad" try using some corn starch in the dough.

Best wishes to one and all.

ESMARALDA.

ORIGINAL CANNING HINTS

Dear Cornerites: To avoid cracking fruit jars, after lifting a jar from the hot water in which it has been sterilized, I wipe it quickly and then stand it on a deep pie plate in which is nearly a cup of very hot water. This keeps the jar hot while filling and sealing and catches the overflow.

To open a fruit jar. Instead of prying a fruit jar open with a knife—just hold the top in warm water for just a minute. You will be surprised to see how easy the lid will come off.

When rubber rings become hard their elasticity can be restored by soaking or leaving them thirty minutes in a mixture composed of one part ammonia and two parts water.

When making preserves drop in, while cooking, six medium sized glass marbles. That will save stirring and many times saves a scorched kettle.

ETHELYN.

APPRECIATED REMEMBRANCE.

To the Social Corner Members: We wish to thank the members of Club No. 2 of the Social Corner for the beautiful floral remembrance that was sent to Great Grandma's funeral.

MRS. ELIZABETH SHERMAN AND FAMILY.

GREETINGS FROM WHIRLWIND

Dear Editor and Social Cornerites: I want to thank the sisters again who so kindly helped me at the meeting in Willimantic. The dinner was a success, but with out the help of the sisters it would not have been. I enjoyed every minute of it and trust each and every one did. Foxglove and I expect to attend the Norwich meeting at least once before the weather gets cold and the driving gets bad. What beautiful weather we are having this month! I think the month of October is the nicest of the fall months. I expect the sisters have all started their house cleaning, now the canning is done. I have not started as yet but will tomorrow, and as I have papering and whitening of ceilings you see what a job I have ahead of me. Don't you feel sorry for me?

Handsome: I bet you were tired last week Wednesday night. You worked like a beaver. How is Social Corner sonny? Just give him a good big kiss for me.

Airy: You should have been to the Willimantic meeting. It is not far from Putnam you know. There was such a good time and such good things to eat. Try for the next one and wear your badge—a yellow ribbon with your pen name printed on it.

Golden Rod and Mary Sunshine—Glad to see your names added to the Corner. Hope to see you in the near future. Come to the meetings. If you come once you will come twice.

Honeysuckle: Sorry you could not come to the meeting; we missed you.

Theoda: We missed you also Oct. 8th but suppose you had as good a time where you were.

Joan: Will see you in Norwich if nothing bigger than a woodchuck happens. Haven't seen you for some time.

I. J. B.—Hope to see you Nov. 5th. If I don't happen to see you, just step up and say "Hello."

Dom Pedro: Hope you are well and enjoying these beautiful fall days. It seems to me they are more beautiful than any I have seen, the oak trees especially. The foliage is splendid.

Eveline Burr: Will you be at the meeting Nov. 5th? Hope so.

Twice Twenty: You sure missed a good time last week Wednesday. Why did you not bring Jennie with you. She would have enjoyed it I am sure.

Keziah Doolittle: Don't forget to come to Buckingham hall Nov. 5th.

Elmer: Will stop and say Hello if we get there early so be up and doing.

Think I have written a long letter and I want to write again had better stop this time.

WHIRLWIND.

CHOP SUEY AND CANNED BEANS

Dear Editor and Sisters of the Social Corner: Some time ago my name was called and I will now say, present. I am glad to see my name still on the Social Corner list, as I have not written for some time. Perhaps if I could write like some of the other members I would write more often. I think the idea of an "emblem pin," a splendid one. I also think a number of members live quite near me, as I see Danielson, Moosup and Central Village mentioned once in a while.

Rainbow: Canned beans are delicious. I do them this way. After shelling beans fill jars full, add 1 teaspoon of salt, a slice of pork, then fill full with cold water, partly seal and cook in boiler for 2 hours, counting from time when the water begins to boil. Then in winter open and cook 15 to 20 minutes and they sure are good. Wish I could do some this year, but have no garden at all.

Here is a recipe for

Chop Suey: Fry out 2 slices of pork cut small, add 2 onions, sliced, 1 lb. of Hamburg steak. Fry together 20 minutes, then put in baking dish and add 1 can of tomatoes, 1 cup of cooked rice, 1 cup of cooked macaroni; season with salt, pepper and 2 teaspoons sugar, then cook slowly in oven for 20 minutes or one half hour. We like it for a change.

Hope to meet with you some time. If I see this in print I may call again soon. Hope all can enjoy this beautiful weather. How I love to drive through the country at this time of year.

Best wishes to all.

PINKEY.

CLUB NO. 3's MEETING OCT. 22

Dear Sisters: Social Corner Club No. 3 will meet in the chapel of the Lebanon Baptist church on Wednesday, Oct. 22. All are cordially invited. Please bring something good to eat. Best wishes for the Corner.

CUTICURA HEALS HARD PIMPLES

Face Terribly Disfigured. Lasted About a Year.

"My brother was troubled with pimples that broke out in blotches on his face. The pimples at first were small and scattered but later they grew larger and were hard and red. It was impossible for him to shave without irritating them and making them bleed. They grew steadily worse, and his face was terribly disfigured. The trouble lasted about a year.

"I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. It helped him so we purchased more, which completely healed him." (Signed) Miss Lenora M. Galusha, Clinton, Me., April 14, 1924.

Use Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Talcum for daily toilet purposes.

Samples Free by Mail. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. X, Malden 48, Mass." Sold everywhere. Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Talcum 25c. Try our new Shaving Stick.

POETRY

Opportunity

They do me wrong say I some no more
When once I knock and fail to find you in;
For every day I stand outside your door
And bid you wake, and rise to fight and win.

Wail not for precious chances passed away!
Weep not for golden ages on the wane!
Each night I burn the records of the day—
At sunrise every soul is born again.

Dost thou behold thy lost youth all aghast?
Dost reel from righteous retribution's blow?
Then turn from blotted archives of the past
And find the future's pages white as snow.

Art thou a mourner? Rouse thee from they spell;
Art thou a sinner? Sins may be forgiven;
Each morning gives thee wings to flee from hell,
Each night a star to guide thy feet to heaven.

Laugh like a boy at splendors that have sped,
To vanished joys be blind and deaf and dumb;
My judgments seal the dead past
with its dead,
But never bind a moment yet to come.

Though deep in mire, wring not your hands and weep;
I lend my arm to all who say "I can!"
No shame-faced outcast ever sank so deep
But yet might rise and be again a man!

Walter Malone.

Scargo Lake

A bit of silence nested 'twixt the roar
Of seas that eague Sound and bleak
Bay Shore.
A place of peace and a world's unrest
Where barred the Past and the Tomorrow's door.
For once when roving over the Cape land
Weft of pine woods and bog and windswept sand,
One of the gods who love it passing
well,
Athirst—brought forth this lake by touch of hand.
And couching by it—so I like to think Tarried a space, of its cool deeps to drink
Then, going, left for others through all time,
The rest he found, upon its reed-fringed brink.

Francis Bartlett in Boston Transcript.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

"I hear the new cook you got was almost perfect." "Yes; the only thing she lacked was staying power."—Exchange.

Mother: Didn't I tell you to notice when the milk boiled over?

Mary: Yes, mother. It was a quarter past four.—The Progressive Grocer.

Preacher (at the reunion meeting)—have only one regret—I miss so many of the old faces I used to shake hands with.—London Weekly Telegram.

"See here, old man, where is that good looking stenographer you had last week?"

"She taught me kissing my wife and left without notice."—Film Fun.

A.—Is this a letter from your son at college? How short it is

B.—Yes, so is my son; that's why he wrote it. "Answers," London.

"Svenson asked me to lend him five dollars.

"Let him have them!"

"Why?"

"If you don't he'll come to me!"—"Tyrhans," Christiania.

A man's novel expedient to "make capital" out of his son's wedding was narrated in a London police court, when a Pole was charged with begging. It was said that he attended his son's wedding dressed in a silk hat and fashionable clothes. Before the ceremony was over, he hurried home, changed into rags, and, returning to the church, begged from the guests as they left.

A PAN OF BISCUITS

Five old cronies were sitting in the shade of my work shop, exchanging memories of their courting days, telling their experiences and how they won their brides. The oldest sat there all the while smoking his pipe with a merry twinkle in his eyes. The youngest turned to him and said, "Well, old pal, tell us how you won Mirandy."

He replied, "We ll, here's where you go back to the times when we didn't have autos or wireless and telephones. Our nearest neighbors were six miles off and town was 18 miles. After courting Mirandy for a couple of years I had come to think it was high time to come to an agreement. So one day I went to my dad to see how he would take it."

Says I, "Dad, I want to marry Mirandy. Have you any objection to it?"

Says Dad, "Now son, could she make you a pan of biscuits?"

"I don't know, dad, but I'll soon find out."

"Well," he said, "before you talk business, find out."

"All right, dad, I will."

I left and went on horseback to her home. When I arrived there, I went around to the kitchen and found her mother baking bread.

"Good morning, Mother. I've come to find out if Mirandy could make me as good a pan of biscuits as yours."

"Now, Johnny, suppose you go around to the side of the house there and ask her for yourself," she replied laughingly.

I went and found Mirandy shelling peas underneath the apple tree. She looked surprised, then blushed and said, "Why Johnny, what brings you here so early?"

"Well, Mirandy, you know what we've been talking about lately and when I spoke to Dad he said he was willing enough for us to marry, but to find out if you could cook me some biscuits, any way."

"Yes, what of that, Johnny?"

"Well, you will have set the date for our wedding day when you can show me biscuits like your mother makes. What do you say, sweetheart?"

She looked at me seriously then smiled, got up and told me to follow her, which I did. Entering the kitchen she took her apron from the closet and put it on, looked at the stove then went right to work making her first batch. Her mother looked at us both and said, "Well, this looks like business."

Mirandy said, "I may have never made any but I've watched ma enough to know by now."

A while later she set me out as pretty a pan of biscuits as I had seen, and as good, too. For I ate them with her right there on the kitchen table and she laughing at the while.

"Well, I said, "You get ready and tomorrow we go to town and get married." Get ready and Dad will drive us in with your mother."

"All right, Johnny, I will be ready."

I went back to Dad and when I told him he just roared over the affair. Then calling mother he whispered in her ear and she went to her room, and came back carrying a box which she gave to him. He took it, counted out ten ten dollar gold pieces and handing them to me said, "Here, son, I give you this as a start and when you go on your new homestead I will help you furnish, it as well as give you a span or horses and work team and plow." I thanked him.

The next morning we hitched up our horses to our carryall, got Mirandy and her mother and drove to town. Mirandy looked fine in a new dress and bonnet, with a shawl her mother had given her.

Arriving in town we went to the minister's and found he was out of town, so we went to the justice of peace and there I asked old Judge Davis if he could marry us.

"Well, Johnny," he said, laughing, "do I have to go to college to know how to marry youngsters like you, ha, ha. Yes I'll marry you but where is your license?"

"Didn't think I'd need one," I answered. At that they all roared, though at the time I didn't see any thing to laugh at.

On our way home Mirandy sat with me and was looking ahead and smiling. "Tell me why you smile so honey," I said.

Well, Johnny I did think you woul get angry when the judge was poking fun at you, and call it off. But never mind, look at what mother gave me after we were married in town."

Looking in her hands I saw a black silk bag which held ten gold pieces.

Arriving home we were dumfounded to find our nearest neighbors waiting for us at Mirandy's house.

"How did you folks find out so quickly we were married today?" Mirandy asked. They all pointed at her only brother who had stayed at home and he said, "I went to Jones after you left and told them so the boys could go and spread the news, while I came right back so you wouldn't miss me here."

We went in to find the tables set for a fine dinner. They had all brought something along.

We celebrated till late that night, then went to my dad's.

The following month we left for our new homestead and cabin and I tell you boys, I've never had to want for my biscuits since.

With this the old cronies left for their supper. I sat there and dreamily could almost see those good old days of long ago.

SUFFERED SINCE YOUNG GIRL

Words Failed to Express Benefit Received from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Greenville, Texas. — "Words can not express how much good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. Every month I would have cramps and headache, and I felt like I was freezing to death. I suffered in this way from the time I was a young girl, and all the doctors said was 'operation.' For months I had a tired, sleepy feeling all day, and when night would come I would be so nervous I couldn't stay in bed. Our druggist recommended the Vegetable Compound to my husband and he bought four bottles. I have taken every one and I think I have a right to praise your medicine."—Mrs. J. B. Holleman, 2214 E. Marshal St., Greenville, Texas.

For fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been used by women from girlhood through middle age.

It is a dependable medicine for troubles common to women. Such symptoms as Mrs. Holleman had are relieved by correcting the cause of the trouble. For sale by druggists everywhere.

Women and Worry.

Women do most of their worrying over what they suspect rather than over what they know.—Exchange.

Turtles Not Dumb

When startled, some turtles give a loud snakelike hiss. The males of the large Galapagos turtles, according to Darwin, bellow or roar at mating season. The land or mud turtle utters a piping note, particularly in the spring.

Beyond Redemption

Shame is like the weaver's thread; if it breaks in the net it is wholly imperfect.—Bulwer.

Passing Strange

Wonder why a woman rather likes being called a vision, yet bristles at being called a sight.—Jack Canuck.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

The week in Norwich fifty years ago was an unusually quiet one. About the only happening of the week that served to intrude on the peace of the residents of the town was the breaking of the big main of the water works. This shut off the supply of water for the town temporarily. In Occum that week a division of the Ancient Order of Hibernians was organized with T. J. Davern as the first president. The Norwich and Worcester railroad company was starting preparations for the building of the tunnel through Laurel Hill.

Interesting extracts taken from the files of The Bulletin of October, 1874 are as follows:

Monday, Oct. 12, 1874—There is quite a demand for nuts in this vicinity, one firm calling for 6,000 bushels and another for 2,000 bushels of chestnuts. Last week the price per bushel was in some cases as high as $6, but Saturday they sold as low as $2. There are no walnuts in the market yet, but when the crop is ripe there will be an unusual abundance.

A rifle club is under discussion in shooting circles. So much interest is felt in the matter that a meeting of the gentlemen whose names can be obtained for the club will be held tomorrow evening at the office of J. Lloyd Greene.

The event of the coming week will be the appearance of Dr. Villers, the American humorist, in the Winter Nights course at Breed hall, tickets for which can be had at the book store of C. D. Noyes & Co.

Tuesday, Oct. 13, 1874—Hand ball is the amusement for October and in some places is now immensely popular. Requirements, a ball alley, and two throwers on a side, or an eligible yard anywhere surrounded by not two many windows.

Last evening at a meeting of the Broadway society it was voted to repair and improve the parsonage on Broadway, so as to make it comfortable and convenient for its occupants. The project of building a study in the tower of the church was discussed, and it was finally concluded best not to do that at present.

The O. D. ones meet this evening at their asylum in full uniform. The great and good C. B. of C., is to be present and oriental visitors will radiate in their usual garb. The B. of B. will be unveiled at the usual hour and there will be music by the full band. Our readers can get a full explanation of the above by applying to any of the fraternity.

Wednesday, Oct., 14, 1874 — The Greeneville fire police have held a secret meeting in regard to the disposition of their property and as to the propriety of holding an annual meeting of the association this year. It was resolved to hold the annual meeting on the regular day in November, as usual, elect officers and levy a tax.

The Bleaching and Calendering company are putting into their new building a fine large water wheel from the manufactory of Hunt, Wait, and Flint, makers of double acting turbines, etc., Orange, Mass.

Our old city lockup has been taken up to Greeneville and put in the basement of the building in which the postoffice is situated. It contains four strong cells, which, we hope, will always be just four more than Greeneville will ever have a use for.

Thursday, Oct. 15 1874—A division of the Ancient Order of Hibernians organized at Occum Tuesday evening, at a meeting attended by 30 or more members. Officers were elected as follows; President, T. J. Davern; vice president, John Hourigan; secretary, Richard J. Lennon; treasurer, Thomas McCarty. It is expected that quite a number of members will join the order, in addition to those present at the meeting.

The big main of the water works, near the Farnum place on the old town road, burst open yesterday, and anxiety sat down on the housekeeper's brow for a brief period. Damages were repaired last night. The West Side may not get full supply till noon.

By order of Chief Carrier, the drivers of the teams of the fire engines were on the alert at their barns last night and the indefatigable chief and Assistant Park were at headquarters, ready for possible emergencies. It was wise precaution in view of the temporary stoppage of the water works.

Friday, Oct. 16, 1874—The Thamesville bus will make trips up Washington street after this week for the convenience of academy students and others going up and down that street. It will make two trips a day, leaving Breed hall corner at 8.35 a. m., and 1.35 p. m., leaving at 9 and 2 respectively for the return.

Officer McCarthy has found at least 25 truants on the West Side, and the schools next week will probably be reinforced by a greater part of that number. These young Arabs and gutter snipes are better there than in the streets, only spare us a bootblack or two, officer.

Prescott Warren, drummer for Co. F., Third Regiment, has been presented with a new $25 drum by the members of the company.

Deacon Mowry was thrown from his carriage in Greeneville by collision with a horse car but fortunately escaped without injury.

Saturday, Oct. 17, 1874—Trees are being felled on the south bank of the Shetucket above the railroad bridge, preparatory to beginning work on the new Norwich & Worcester tunnel through Laurel hill.

A delightful social of the Second Congregational church was held last evening at Mrs. Hakes at Webster heights. There was a perfect jam.

The Norwich Croquet club has received challenge from the Florida Croquet club of New York to play a champion game within four weeks.

The Norwich Singing club has reorganized for the winter with Major Learned as director. When are we going for that county organization?

Farmers have made more money this summer than any other class. Now is the time to paint up the old barn.

PENDLETON HILL

The death of Mrs. Edwin Thompson, (Jennie White) was sad news to her large circle of friends here. Mrs. Thompson had lived the greater part of life in North Stonington and for several years at Pendleton Hill in the apartments owned by Robert B. Palmer. Mrs. Thompson was a genial, kind and able woman, and of such a nature that she surrounded herself by friends wherever she went.

Miss Emma F. Maine is touring New England and Canada with her aunt, Mrs. Ursula Maine Byrnes of Boston and Cape Cod. Miss Maine is remembering friends with interesting picture postals along the journey.

Mr. and Mrs. Birdsey G. Palmer entertained a party of 60 at a dance Saturday evening, Oct. 11, in honor of the birthday of their daughter, Miss Amelia North Palmer. It was a jolly party enjoyed by all.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rae and children Walter, Jack and Robin, Miss Carrie A. Ryder and Mrs. James M. Cook, were guests at the Palmer homestead Thursday. The Rae family closed their summer home here Friday and returned to their winter residence in Caldwell, N. J. This is the first time that their summer home here has been closed in two years. Ray Nash, the well known historian, has written his history of Brazil at the home of the Rae. When published this history will constitute the most exhaustive work on the subject of Brazil which has ever been printed.

Mrs. George Palmer was elected a delegate to the Connecticut Baptist state convention in New Haven.

Monday morning the thermometer registered 27 and Tuesday the mercury was down to 22. In consequence the beautiful hill gardens are divested of much of their beauty, although quite a good many flowers have survived these two killing frosts.

POULTRY MANURE
FINE FERTILIZER

Poultry manure, is the richest of any produced on the farm, yet it receives from the farmer the least attention of any of the animal excrements. Average mixed horse and cattle manure carries 10 pounds of nitrogen, five pounds of phosphoric acid and 12 pounds of potash per ton.

Poultry manure contains in comparison 36 pounds of nitrogen, 35 pounds of phosphoric acid and 18 pounds of potash. Where ordinary farm manure has a fertilizer value of $1.50 a ton, poultry manure has a value of $5 a ton. Even when produced in small quantities, such material, say agricultural experts, is well worthy of careful preservation.

Poultry manure should be allowed to dry as quickly as possible and be kept dry. In this condition it will lose but little of its valuable constituents. Like ordinary manure it ferments rapidly when moist, and will lose thereby a large portion of its nitrogen. This is worth on the market from 25 to 30 cents a pound. Since much of its potash, phosphoric acid and nitrogen is soluble, this manure may suffer greatly from leaching. Caustic lime should never be mixed directly with poultry manure as it tends to liberate nitrogen or ammonia.

Poultry manure is rich in nitrogen and phosphorous. These two conditions may be remedied by diluting and reinforcing the manure as follows: to 10 pounds of manure add six pounds of sawdust or some similar dry material and four pounds of acid phosphate. This gives a fertilizer carrying eight per cent of nitrogen, 3.6 per cent of phosphoric acid and 4.5 per cent of potash or about the same elements as a 3-12-2 mixture of commercial fertilizer.

"Give the air a chance to help pay the fertilizer bill."

This is the suggestion of soil and crop men generally to farmers who complain of high fertilizer costs. Nitrogen is more expensive than either of the other two constituents in a factory-mixed fertilizer, they say. Fertilizer economy necessitates using the unlimited supply of nitrogen in the air. Clover and alfalfa are more promising nitrogen factories than Muscle Shoals.

SENATOR BRANDEGEE LAID TO REST IN CEMETERY AT NEW LONDON

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, Oct. 17, 1924—Funeral services for United States Senator Frank Bosworth Brandegee were held this afternoon in St. James Episcopal church, where he attended divine service from boyhood until he removed to Washington for his duties as senator. Whenever he was in New London on Sunday he continued to be among who attended that church.

New London paid final tribute to its leading citizen and there was a display of mourning and respect such as has never before been manifested here. Long before the hour of the services the church was filled and at 2.30 o'clock there were hundreds of men and women on Huntington street, between Federal and Church streets, who were unable to gain admission. They remained on both sides of the street and the men bared their heads as the casket was borne from the church.

In the assemblage of mourners were a score or more of senators and congressmen who had accompanied the body of their colleague from Washington, besides politicians from throughout the state, all acquaintances of Senator Brandegee for many years. Included among them was Governor Charles W. Templeton and staff and Judge Walter C. Noyes. New York, former law partner of Senator Brandegee, Senator George P. McLean, of Simsbury and his wife; Congressman Cameron, Arizona. Besides these were a score or more members of the New London County Bar association, Norwich Chamber of Commerce, Mayor Waldo E. Clarke, City Manager William A. Holt, members of the city council and throngs of business men.

At 2.30 o'clock Rev. Philip M. Kerridge commenced reading the simple Episcopalian service; fifteen minutes later the mourners were leaving the church. During the service, Prof. William Bauer, organist at Connecticut College for Women, played. As the casket, a plain black, was carried from the church, preceded by the honorary bearers, Judge Charles B. Waller, Frank V. Chappell, Theodore Bodenwein, Daniel M. Cronin, Sidney A. Brown, this city and Arthur M. Brown and Edward W. Higgins, Norwich, a detachment from the Groton State Police Barracks, in charge of Sergeant Clifford Gorgas formed open ranks from the church entrance and while the crowd of mourners was standing outside and the bell in the church tower tolled, the body of the dead senator was placed in the hearse, the casket being covered with a floral pall.

The body was given escort to Cedar Grove cemetery by eight motorcycle state police officers and when lowered to its final resting place Senator Brandegee's body was laid beside that of his sister, Mrs. Helen Brandegee Zabinski, whose death occurred several years ago.

The body arrived in New London from Washington at 5.10 o'clock being accompanied by twenty senators and congressmen, Special agents of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad and local police guarded the funeral cars until 8 o'clock when the body was taken to the church to await the hour of the holding of the funeral. At the church, contrary to announced plans, the casket was not opened.

It is understood that the Christopher Columbus society, composed of Italians in this city, dropped a considerable sum of money by their enterprise to depict on the stage the life of Columbus. Those giving the entertainment were from New York city and something extra fine was looked for. There was a large audience to greet the players, but the latter did not appear on time nor at anything like time, so many who came here from nearby towns went away when there was not tangible evidence that the play was to be put on. The performance was given but not at the appointed hour. It is claimed that the company did not bring along all the stage properties and that the costumes were not up to the requirements of the play so the members of the Columbus society are not at all satisfied with the result.

For the first time in many days, there was no business for the police court this morning.

It is understood that the estate of Charles H. Klinck will erect a three-story building on the lot on Bank street where the Klinck house stood for years beyond the recollection of anyone in this city. Excavation for the erection of the building has begun and will be hurried along as rapidly as circumstances will permit. The new structure will cost, it is understood, some $90,000. The Abner Bassett house occupied the lot where it is proposed to erect a modern structure, and in its day was considered a show place of the town, though it probably did not cost one-fifth what the new structure will represent in outlay when it is completed. The Bassett family occupied the building and later they resided in the stone building across the street in which the Eaton & Wilson company is now located. The passing of the Bassett homestead removes a landmark that was conspicuous as representing an improved home residence at the time it was erected.

A consultation of physicians was held this afternoon to decide upon treatment for Mrs. Adelbert Burr, critically ill with pneumonia. Mrs. Burr has two small children, one of them an infant a few weeks old. Mrs. Burr's father for a time conducted a bakery in the Burr building at Montauk avenue and Bank street.

Interest in the approaching election is manifested by the placing of a few wagers on the result. The bettors give odds that Coolidge will be chosen and demand odds if they take the opposite end of the wager.

Mrs. Weeks, 57 Connecticut avenue, complained to the police today that a "scooter" car was stolen from her yard during the night before. Later in the day a youth appeared at the Robert Bartlett school with the "scooter" and a teacher there took charge of the boy after having ascertained that the outfit had been stolen. The police were notified and Patrolman Frank Philopena took charge of the boy, who was turned over to Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield and will be presented in the juvenile court soon, probably on Saturday.

The condition of Miss Eda Green is considerably improved and it has been determined that the patient is not suffering from an attack of appendicitis, as was at first believed.

Patricia McDonald, 3, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McDonald, of Groton, died late yesterday at a Boston hospital where the child underwent an operation earlier in the week. The body was brought to New London this afternoon and taken to the home of the child's grandmother, Mrs. Mary McDonald, 18 Woodbridge street.

Catherine, widow of Andrew Somers, died this afternoon at her home in Waterford. Mrs. Somers had been ill many weeks. She is survived by two sons, Andrew Somers of Vermont, and John Somers, of New York, and by two daughters, Mrs. Edward Cody, this city and Mrs. William Riley of Waterford. Mrs. Somers' husband died about four months ago.

The funeral of Mary A., widow of Henry H. Bosworth, took place this afternoon at the residence of her daughter Mrs. A. R. Wesson, 175 Williams avenue. The services were conducted by Rev. Horatio J. Chase, pastor of Montauk avenue Baptist church and Rev George R. Agnew, pastor of Groton Heights Baptist church. Burial was in the family plot in Starr cemetery, Groton.

Mrs. Irene T. Phillips, widow of George Nelson Smith, former residents of New London, died last night at her home in New Haven. Mrs. Smith had been in ill health a long time and moved to New Haven about fifteen years ago. Besides her husband, she is survived by a son and daughter and by a sister, Mrs. Frank R. Payne, 161 Howard St., New London.

Miss Bertha McMoran of South Ledyard street; Richard Fritz, Stonington; Mrs. Arthur Porter, Riverview avenue; Mrs. Edward Prentis, Ocean avenue and William Burke, Dorcas House, Goshen Point, patients at Lawrence hospital, were discharged today.

J. Rondomanski of 269 Willetts avenue, complained to the police today because of the nightly practice of youths in the vicinity of Rondomanski's home creating a disturbance that annoys the neighborhood.

A boy residing on Belden street was detected this morning attempting to steal a bicycle at the Nathan Hale grammar school. The youngster was detained until Sergeant John Cavanaugh arrived and took the youth into custody. He will be presented in the juvenile court within a few days.

Charles P. Hammond, member of the New London police force seventeen years who was dismissed a week ago on charges of reporting for duty while under the influence of liquor, appeared at the police station early this morning and delivered to Desk Sergeant James D. Gaffney all of the property owned by the city and used by Hammond as a patrolman prior to his dismissal.

Abraham Bronstein, former resident of New London, now residing in New York, came to this city today and attended the funeral of United States Senator Frank B. Brandegee.

MARIO DIOTALENA WRONGFULLY SUSPECTED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Oct. 17.—Prohibition Enforcement Agents Joseph Fitzpatrick and Harry Avery tonight searched the automobile of Mario Diotalena in the belief that the machine contained liquor that Diotalena was attempting to sell. A search of the car, however, failed to reveal any signs of liquor being stored in it. Diotalena operated his automobile to the parking stand near the Soldiers' and Sailors' monument, about 7.30 o'clock and a short time later Fitzpatrick and Avery appeared and conducted the search, the officers evidently having been tipped off that the car, a roadster, carried liquor. Diotalena recently completed a jail sentence on a charge of assault. He engaged in a bootleggers' row in the Fort Neck section and inflicted a stab wound upon his adversary. Diotalena made his escape from the city in his machine and went to Norwich, where he was found in a club room and taken into custody by the Norwich authorities. Since he was discharged from custody his movements have been closely watched by police and prohibition enforcement agents.

Anything for Profit

A rich Amsterdam burgher was brought before the council of the states general in 1673. He was accused of supplying war material to the English, notwithstanding the fact that his country was at war with England. "Messirs," he told the judges, "there was profit in my venture, and for profit I'd sail my ships through hell."

Annexation of Hawaii

Hawaii was annexed by joint resolution of congress July 7, 1898, and created a territory by act of April 30, 1900. When the United States acquired the Hawaiian islands she assumed the public debt to the amount of $4,000,000 instead of making actual payment. There are 20 islands in the Hawaiian group.

Spread of Freedom

The cause of freedom is identified with the destinies of humanity, and in whatever part of the world it gains ground, by and by it will be a common gain to all who desire it.—Kossuth.

Trees as Reservoirs

Travelers' trees in Madagascar, where there is little rain, have thick leaves, which form reservoirs that hold a quart or more of palatable water.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKET WAS STRONG

New York, Oct. 17—Stock prices gave an impressive demonstration of strength in today's market, net gains in most of the active issues ranging from large fractions to three points. Short covering by speculators who had offered stocks freely trading, but the active demand for some of the specialties was suggestive of pool operations.

American Can, the most active of the so-called pivotal shares, closed nearly three points higher at128 1-2. Baldwin moved up 1 3-4 to 117 3-4 and United States Steel common showed a net gain of 3-4 and 106 1-2, all closing at their top prices of the day.

Maintenance of high car loadings and reports that trunk line executives were making rapid progress in the reaching of agreements on consolidation plans revived speculative interest in the railroad shares, several of which recorded substantial gains. Nickle Plate jumped 4 1-2 points to 111 1-2 and gains of 2 to 3 1-2 points were recorded by Leghigh Valley, Norfolk & Western, Atlantic Coast Line, Rutland preferred and Texas and Pacific.

Copper shares were slow in picking up due to speculative disappointment over the relatively poor semi-annual report of the Chile company. Republic Steel alsowas inclined to heaviness on reflection of poor earnings for the third quarter although Gulf States closed nearly two points higher at 69 3-4.

Lowering of the call money rate from 2 1-2 to 2 per cent. had a cheerful effect on sentiment. Public participation continued in small volume althoughmany traders who had sold their stocks earlier in the week were attracted by the brisk upturn today.

In all nearly three dozen issues closed at net gains of two points or better, with approximately double number recording advances of a point or more. Some of the outstanding strong spots included American Water Works, Colorado Fuel, Postum, United States Industrial Alcohol, Woolworth, American Ice, Central Leather pfd., the commercial soipents issues, Goodyear Tire pfd., Nash Motors, United Drug, International Business Machine, United Fruit, Railway Steel Spring, Hullman and Public Service corporation, up 2 to 4 1-2 points

Little activity activity was noted in the time money market due to the disinclination of leaders to meet the lower bids of borrowers. Commercial paper rates were unchanged.

In foreign exchange trading was quiet with the principal rates moving within a narrow range. Demand Sterling held fairly steady around $4.48 3-4 and French francs ruled just below 5 1-4 cents.

BOND MARKET

New York, Oct. 17.—A clear-cut division in the trend of bond prices, with foreign obligations working lower and domestic issues scoring substancial recovery, featured today's market. The new German bonds yielded fractionally to extensive profit-taking although transactions continued in heavy volume. U. S. treasury 4 1-4s reached a new record high price at 106 16 32nds.

Reports that the French government soon would undertake a program of internal and external financing contributed to the heaviness of French bonds, the leading governmental and municipal issues declining a point or more. Demand for the German liens was less urgent but steady absorption of offerings held price fluctuations within fractional limits. The closing quotation of 93 7-8 represented a net loss of 3-8 on the day. Sales of the issue approximated $2,300,000, as compared with almost $5,000,000 yesterday.

Railroad bonds, moving up in sympathy with the accumulation of stocks of the carriers, led an advance in domestic issues. The demand included Denver & Rio Grande refunding 5s, Erie convertible 4s D, seaboard consolidated 6sN Frisco adjustment and income 6s, and St. Paul convertible 4 1-2s, which advanced a point or so.

Magma Copper 7s, falling back 1 5-8 points, were on the isolated weak spots in the industrial list. Oil and sugar liens were firm. Liberty bonds, following the trend of the treasury issues, moved irregularly higher.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Oct. 17.—Liberal foreign buying led to higher prices today in the wheat market here. It was estimated that 2,000,000 bushels was purchased today for shipment to Europe. Closing quotations for wheat were nervous at 3-4c to 2c net advance. December 1.50 7-8 to 1.51 and May 1.54 1-8 to 1.54 3-8, with corn unchanged to 1-4c down, and provisions varying from 10c decline to 32c gain.

Aside from developments in regard to the volume of export business, the chief factor in governing changes in the wheat market appeared to be news affecting the Argentine crop outlook. The upward swing of the market, however, was resumed when assurance seemed well grounded that the drought in northern Argentina was unbroken.

Significance was in some quarters attached to gossip that the bulk of available vessel room from Montreal during November had been engaged for the movement from the United States. This circumstance was construed as likely to increase the cost of Canadian shipments to Europe, and therefore to enlarge the European demand for wheat from this country.

Despite wheat strength, corn and oats averaged lower in price as a result of what was contended to be ideal weather for maturing the corn crop. On the other hand the corn market displayed notable rallying power at time, and a good deal of ridicule was directed against "selling Sunshine in the corn pit."

Higher quotations on hogs helped to lift the provision market.

CURB MARKET

New York, Oct. 17.—Steady accumulation of the oil shares featured the moderate upturn of prices in today's curb market. Standard Oil of Indiana resumed its leadership of the active issues, closing 3-4 higher at 56 1-8, while net gains of one to three points ferd recorded by Standard Oil of Kansas, Prairie Oil and Gas, south Pennsylvania, Imperial of Canada, and Cities Service common.

Revival of speculative activity in Lehigh Valley coal certificates, which closed more than 2 points higher at 40 1-8 was the outstanding development in the industrial list. Public utilities made further progress, American Light and Traction common, American Power and Light and number of others improved fractionally. Radio shares were firm, Haxeltine standing out with a gain of one point.

The American Super-Power corporation of Delaware's class A and Class B common stock of no par value were admitted to trading the former selling around 25 1-2 and the latter between 26 and 26 1-2.

A moderate advance in standard Gas and Electric 6 1-2s of 1954 featured the bond list.

To err is human; failure to profit by the error is ditto.

Eat Again Like a Hungry Boy

You can remember when you were a boy how eagerly you waited for meal time to come and how you enjoyed the good things your mother set before you. You were young and strong then and your digestive organs were functioning properly.

But since then you have overworked your digestive organs and now you may be on the highroad to becoming a confirmed dyspeptic. You can quickly eliminate your trouble, tone up the digestive and eliminative organs, and bring back the lost appetite of boyhood.

LEGAL NOTICES

NOTICE OF SALE

The undersigned, a committee of the Superior Court, by virtue of an order of said Court, passed October 3, 1924, will sell on November 1, 1924, at eleven o'clock in the forenoon, on the premises hereinafter described as the third piece, the following three pieces of land, together with the buildings on said third piece. All three pieces of land are located in the Town of Hampton and are more particularly described as follows, namely.

First Piece—Situated on the south side of the highway leading westerly from the house of Reuben Pearl to the house of J. W. Cartwright, bounded by commencing at the northeast corner of said tract (it being the south side of said highway and nearly opposite the old town pound), thence running westerly by said highway about 1,090 feet to a corner; thence southerly about 400 feet to a corner; thence easterly parallel with the north line 1,090 feet to a highway leading southerly from the first mentioned highway to a corner; thence northerly by said highway 400 feet to the first mentioned point or place of beginning, containing about ten acres of land, more or less.

Second Piece—Lying to the west and south of the first piece, bounded northerly by said highway leading westerly from the house of Reuben Pearl to the house of J. W. Cartwright and by the first piece; easterly by the first piece, land now or formerly of Joseph Hoffman and land now or formerly of Alice B. Edwards; southerly by land now or formerly of Alice B. Edwards; southerly by land now or formerly of said Hoffman and the highway leading westerly from the Catholic church, known as the Cedar Swamp road, and westerly by land now or formerly of Lloyd Edwards, containing 42 acres, more or less.

Third Piece—Containing five (5) acres of land, more or less, with house thereon standing, situated on the easterly side of the street through the said village of Hampton, and bounded on the north by land now or formerly of Thomas J. Riley; on the east by land now or formerly of C. N. Gill; on the south by land now or formerly of Annie A. Holt and land now or formerly of George L. Burnham; and on the west by said highway.

Said premises will be sold to the highest bidder free and clear of all known encumbrances, except that the undersigned will sell only two undivided one-eighth interests in the first piece above described, and will sell said two undivided one-eighth interests only in the event payment for said two undivided one-eighth interest shall not have been made by the owner of the other six-eighths interests into court on or before the 25th day of October, 1924, as by said order of court provided.

Terms, ten per cent. in cash or by certified check at the time of sale and the balance upon the approval of the sale and deed by the Superior Court.

Dated at Hampton, Connecticut, this 17th day of October, 1924.

JAMES W. CARTWRIGHT,
A Committee of the Superior Court

TRAFFIC ROUTES FOR FOOTBALL GAME CROWDS

In anticipation of a big traffic increase in the state today (Saturday) on account of the crowds going to the Yale Bowl in New Haven for the Yale-Dartmouth football game, the state police, motor vehicle and highway departments are co-operating with local police and automobile clubs of the larger cities through which the bulk of the traffic must pass to prevent confusion and avoid accidents.

Four different routes by which automobiles going to the game from considerable distances may reach the Bowl have been projected by the Automobile club of New Haven and endorsed by the three state departments mentioned as follows:

No. 1. Hartford route—Enters New Haven by the way of North Haven and Middletown avenue to the city line.

No. 2. New London route—Enters by the way of Branford and East Haven and will be directed by traffic officers from the city line to the Bowl.

No. 3. Waterbury route—Enters by the way of Cheshire, Mt. Carmel, and Centerville to Dixwell avenue.

No. 4. New York route—Enters by the way of Washington bridge at Devon to Milford, and, over Milford turnpike to Forest street.

Driving directions published by the state for distribution by the state police particularly to automobile parties from out of the state, will be strictly enforced. These directions are briefly, to stay in line, keep up with traffic, avoid lagging and loitering and, if necessary to stop, to park off the highway. State policemen have instructions not to hesitate to arrest for offense of reckless driving. Cutting in and out of line to get ahead of cars moving at reasonable speed will not be tolerated.

Truck And Automobile Collide

An automobile owned and driven by Benjamin Lahn and an auto truck owned by John Joseph Shannon of No. 98 Boswell avenue collided Friday morning at the corner of Washington and Williams streets. No one was injured. Mr. Lahn's machine had a broken rear wheel and Mr. Shannon's truck suffered the loss of a tire. A report of the accident was made at police headquarters.

Had To Be Carried To Cell

Two men, one of them dead drunk and the other well under the weather, were gathered in on North Thames street early Friday evening by Officers Patrick Shanhan and John Donovan. They were taken to police headquarters in the patrol. One of the duo was down and out and had to be carried into his cell. They will be presented in court this (Saturday) morning.

STONINGTON BOY FATALLY INJURED WHEN STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE

(Special to the Bulletin.)

Stonington, Oct. 17.—Struck by an automobile this afternoon about 2:30 o'clock near the corner of Hyde and Elm streets, Tony Viera, 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. Viera of Hyde street, was so badly injured that he died just as he arrived at the hospital in New London to which he was taken in the ambulance. The boy had a crushed chest, fractured ribs and possible internal injuries.

Tony was playing in front of the Carlson garage at the corner of Hyde and Elm streets when he was hit by the automobile driven by Mrs. H. B. Noyes of Mystic who was coming up Elm street.

The injured boy was attended by Dr. W. T. Veal who quickly summoned the ambulance from New London to take the boy to the hospital.

RICHMOND GARDNER RECEIVES DIPLOMA AT FONTAINEBLEAU

Richmond Gardner of Jewett City has finished a successful term at the Conservatoire Americain at Fontainebleau, France, where on Sept. 16 at the examinations he was one of three in his department to receive diplomas On Sept. 19, at a luncheon given to mark the closing of the season's studies in music and art at the historic palace at Fontainebleau under the auspices of the Paris Journal, to quote the the Paris edition of the Chicago Tribune of Sept. 20, "after Senator Minier of the Fontainebleau district had spoken, as well as M. Vidor and M. Godort, minister of labor and social hygiene, Mr. Richmond Gardner on behalf of the students of the conservatory, thanked all those who had done so much to make studying in the palace feasible.

RICHMOND GARDNER

"Following the luncheon the guests adjourned to the salle des fetes where an excellent concert drew much applause."

Mr. Gardner was one of those who took part in the program.

To quote again, "A novel feature of the afternoon was provided when Mr. Gardner rose and cried out, 'Let's give three cheers for our helpers and the directors of the Journal for today's hospitality.' Three rousing cheers were spontaneously sent echoing through the hall."

On Saturday occurred the grand concert at the Municipal theatre in Fontainebleau of which the following is a translation from the Paris Journal of Sept. 22:

"The American pupils of the Conservatoire Americain of Fontainebleau, were heard at the Municipal theatre at Fontainebleau last Friday afternoon for the benefit of the musical societies of the city.

"The young musicians as a whole acquitted themselves with great credit. We mention especially Miss Dorothy Chamberlain, delightful soprano, Mr. Robert Crawford, Mr. Gregor, Mr. Prahl, Mrs. Gladys Burns and lastly, Miss Scott and Mr. Gardner, both acting perfectly a scene from Veronique, of which they had previously given a delightful performance at the luncheon given the American students by the Journal."

The singing and acting of Miss Scott and Mr. Gardner drew much applause and they were recalled again and again, finally repeating the scene.

Mr. Gardner has been spending a few days since the close of school at Dijon and Lyons and is again settled in Paris for the winter months. He was president of the students of both art and music schools the past season and the directors were unanimous in their hope that he might return for next summer's term.

BOSTON SPEAKER BEFORE UNITED CHURCH WOMEN

The unusually large number of women present at the Community house Friday afternoon augurs well for the coming meetings of the Woman's Guild of the United Congregational church. Of special interest was the talk on the Re-Education of the Wayward Girl, by Miss Anne Hincks who was introduced by the president, Mrs Charles Tyler Bard.

As executive secretary off Bethesda society of Boston, Miss Hincks emphasized the work of the home school for the girls unfitted to maintain a place in the community but who is not in need of more severe discipline of a reformatory. Here she is protected and assisted to a successful return to the community. The speaker also called attention to the work of the after-care department which makes provision for the girl who comes out of the protected environment of the home school and sees that she is not immediately plunged into an unprotected environment to which she cannot at once adjust herself. Thus the society is aiding in decreasing the number of waste human products by turning misdirected lives into wholesome channels.

Victrola selections were enjoyed during the hour which followed, when tea was served.

SCHOLARSHIP AT YALE FOR CHARLES D. GEER, JR.

Charles David Geer, Jr., of city, a senior at Yale, was one of ten to be awarded a James Goodrich memorial scholarship, according to an announcement made at New Haven Friday. The scholarship is for $500 and is awarded for students having achieved the distinction of possessing "not only intellectual ability but marked also by high character and fine personality such as to give promise to their leadership among men."

WILL RECEIVE PRIZE FOR CHURCH ESSAY

During the morning service Sunday at the Central Baptist church Miss Ruth Hamilton will be presented the prize of $100 offered some months ago for the best essay on the Programme of the Central Baptist Church for the Next Sixteen Years. The identity of the donor will become known at that time as it is expected that he or she as the case may be will present the prize to Miss Hamilton.

Then followed an open forum during which Rev. David A. Pitt, D. D., pastor of the church, spoke briefly on the Unified Budget. On recommendation of the nominating committee Mrs. Alyn L. Brown was elected chairman of the finance committee and Miss Alif Stevens chairman of the committee on social activities. The meeting voted to send a letter of sympathy to Mrs. Pitt. The evening came to a close about 9 o'clock with the singing of Blessed be the Tie That Binds. The flowers used in the table decorations were provided by Mrs. J. M. Young. Miss Alice M. Dean was chairman of the programme committee and Miss Belle Rathbun in charge of the banquet tickets.

JAMES L. CASE ON "Y" NATIONAL COUNCIL

A special meeting of the State Y. M. C. A. was held on Thursday at Dwight Hall, Yale Campus, New Haven. The Norwich representatives attending were President James C. Macpherson, James L. Case, Lewis R. Church and General Secretary Edwin Hill. The special business was the important matter of changing the by-laws in order to co-operate properly with the new arrangement and program of the international committee. A large number of business men and "Y" workers made up the meeting which was one of deep interest. The discussions were lively though pleasant and finally there was a unanimous agreement, and the indications are that the State Y. M. C. A. work will be much more efficient in the future than ever in the past.

Six Connecticut men were chosen as members of the new national council, and among these were Edward W. Hazen of Haddam and James L. Case of Norwich, who is one of the vice presidents of the Norwich Y. M. C. A. The state meeting was more largely attended than any in recent years, and there was an encouraging interest in all matters discussed and all present evidenced an optimism for the future of the "Y" work.

IS FINED $200 FOR DRIVING WHILE INTOXICATED

Charged with driving his automobile while under the influence of liquor, Frank Rogers, 32 of Dayville, presented in the city court before Judge Arthur F. Libby, Friday morning, was fined $200 and costs of $12.10 and given a 30 day jail sentence, the jail sentence being suspended for one year. Rogers made arrangements to pay his fine. His automobile collided with a trolley car on McKinley avenue, near Broad street, Thursday evening. James Lyndscot of Somersworth, N. H., who was riding in the machine with Rogers was fined $5 and costs of $10.75 for intoxication and being unable to pay went to jail.

Two other men fined $5 and costs on charges of intoxication, paid their bills and were allowed their freedom. Four others, fined $5 and costs for intoxication, could not pay and went to jail. A local man adjusted his case, violating the local traffic rules, by payment of $5.

ODD FELLOWS ACCEPT INVITATIONS TO PARADE

Announcement has been made that Uncas Lodge No. 11, I. O. O. F., and Palmyra Encampment, I. O. O. F., have accepted invitations to participate in the Armistice Day parade and celebration. These two organizations were omitted from the list recently published.

INVITATION TO VISIT BASE ON NAVAL DAY

Mayor Milo R. Waters and School Superintendent E. J. Graham were visited Friday by Lieut. Gresham from the submarine base in the interests of Navy Day, Oct. 27, which will be an "open house' day at the base, when it is hoped that thousands of the people of eastern Connecticut will accept the invitation to visit the base in the morning for the public inspection. In the afternoon there will be a programme of sports.

Invitations to visit the base, lunch there and witness the football game have been extended to the mayors of Norwich and New London and the first selectmen of Groton, Ledyard, Montville and Waterford, by Captain King, as well as to Senator McLean and Congressman Freeman. It is expected that Governor Templeton, who has been invited for the day, will issue a proclamation upon Navy Day.

Some time next week it is expected that an officer from the base will speak before the school children at the Broadway, Elizabeth street and Greeneville schools as it is desired that many school children should visit the base on Navy day.

Arrangements will probably be made to have many films shown in the motion picture theaters.

ECHOES FROM THE LODGE ROOMS

DEGREE OF POCOHONTAS

Mrs. Daisy Payne, of Norwalk, at the closing session of the 30th annual Great Sun Council of the Connecticut Degree of Pocahontas at Norwalk Wednesday, was elevated to the office of Great Pocahontas, the highest office in the state organization. The other officers elected were: Great Wenonah, May Savage, Stamford; Great Minnehaha, Sarah Hall, Bridgeport; Great Prophetess, Mary Champaigne, Rockville; Great Keeper, of records, Harriet Wright, Middletown; great keeper of wompum, Erna Eastwood, Middletown; great trustee, Ione Kenny, Wallingford.

The appointive offices were filled as follows: Great scouts, Annie Shepherd, Norwalk, and Arlaine Palmer, Danbury; great guard of wigwam, Elizabeth Steinwald Norwalk; great guard of forest, Agnes Gaelbrouer, New Britain.

The annual reports read showed 3556 members of the order in the state, a gain of 162 over the previous year. Two new councils were formed during the year, one in Greenwich and one in Derby, making a total of 38 in the state.

The treasurer's report showed a balance of $549 in the state treasury and a total of $37,564 in the wampum belts of the individual councils.

Mrs. Mary Champaigne, the retiring great Pocahontas, was presented the past Pocahontas jewel.

LALIES AUXILIARY, A. O. H.

The regular meeting of Division No 54, Ladies Auxiliary, A. O. H., was held, Wednesday evening at their rooms, No. 99 Main street with an unusually large sized attendance. Two candidates were initiated. Mrs. Charles O'Neill reported progress on the masquerade and dance which is to be held the last of the month.

It was voted to hold a food sale in the basement of the Boston store. The committee in charge of the food sale comprises Mrs. Bridget Williams, chairman, Miss Nellie Nagle, Miss Eva Hyde, Mrs. Rose Jackques, Mrs. Rose Dwyer, Mrs. Mary Cox and Miss Mary Fallon.

An invitation has been extended to the division to participate in the armstice day parade. It is expected the full division will take part. The division will hold its next meeting on November 5th.

PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY

The meeting of New London county Pomona, No. 6, with Salem grange No. 166, Thursday had an especially large attendance. Worthy Master J. P. Hollowell presided at the business session in the morning and a fine dinner was served at noon by the Salem grange members.

The lecturer's programme in the afternoon opened with instrumental numbers by the Guile orchestra of Norwich. A discussion of conference matters was followed by a solo by Mrs. F. N. Taylor of Lebanon and a talf by Mrs. Rose Anderson of New London upon Child Welfare and the Humane Institutions of Connecticut. The play, No Men Wanted, was given by Mrs. Hazel Murray, Mrs. Clothilde Worthington and Mrs. Ida Richardson of Norwich, and an interesting discussion was held on the subject, How Shall the Farmer Meet the Feeding Problem this winter. Selections by the Guile orchestra closed the afternoon, the entire meeting having been one of much enjoyment for those attending. It was the first time the Pomona has met with Salem grange.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS

Wauregan Lodge No. 6, Knights of Pythian, held their convention at their castle Hall on Monday evening, with the transaction of business that proved very interesting, to a large attendance.

The rank of page and esquire was conferred upon a large number of candidates, by the degree team in charge of Master of Work, George Schiller which was merritorious in performance.

The building fund committee consisting of M of W George Schiller, chairman, Vice Chancellor George Kaplan, Prelate Dr. S. M. Goldberg, Alex Pasnick and Abner Schwartz, are planning great activities during the coming months, which will bring about a considerable sum towards the purchase of a castle as the permanent home of the K of P.

Reports of the committee on the outing recently held at Schiller's Farm showed that Wauregan Lodge once more added laurels to their undertakings. The accounts in the Boston papers of the convention of the Knights of Pythias, which has been held recently with over 15,000 Pythians in line, and 20 bands with the most elaborate pageant of 52 floats which took 2 hours to review from a given point enthused every member and brought increased respect for the order which is spreading over the world.

MACCABEES

W. B. A. of Maccabees held a very successful Hallowe'en Party at the Buckingham Memorial Wednesday night with about 150 in attendance. Many pretty costumes were worn. Music was furnished by Maccabee orchestra for dancing also for vocal selections. Old and new dancing was enjoyed. Refreshments of doughnuts, cake, apples and cider were served by the committee. The hall was prettily decorated with orange black crepe paper, also pumpkins and cornstalks. The following served on the committee, Mrs. Eckstein, Mrs. Schling, Mrs. Gagnen, Mrs. King, Mrs. Farrell, Miss Waldowski, Miss Helen Fitzgerald, and Miss Gladys Hiscox.

ODD LADIES, M. U.

Loyal Victory Lodge, No. 4, held their meeting in Pythian Hall Thursday night with N. G. Dorothy McNulty in the chair. The ladies of the lodge are planning to have cake and apron sale and also other things. The social committee are making plans for a big time at the anniversary in December and is hoping to see all members present for the good time that is promised. Two visiting sisters from Baltic lodge were present, N. G. Elizabeth Hartley and V. G. Emma Hartley.

On Sunday the lodge will attend services at Taftville Congregational church.

MOOSE

The first pinochle tournament is to be held with the New London club and there is much interest in Mooseheart day which will be observed by Norwich lodge on Sunday, Oct. 26.

AUXILIARY, V. F. W.

A social meeting of Hourigan Auxiliary, Veterans of Foreign Wars, was held Wednesday evening at No. 2 Market street with a good attendance. The evening was spent in playing whist after which sandwiches, cake and ice cream were served. At whist first prize was won by Mrs. E. S. Peckham, second by Mrs. J. McNulty and the consolation by Mrs. S. Becker.

DAUGHTERS OF FOUNDERS

The Connecticut Chapter, Daughters of Founders and Patriots of America, will hold its historical meeting at the Hartford Golf club, Hartford, on Wednesday October 29th., with the President Miss Mary Swift Whittlesey of New Britain presiding.

A luncheon will precede the meeting to which members may bring friends. The program will consist of an address by Andrew B. Humphrey, secretary to The George Washington-Sulgrave Institution, illustrated with films by means of which his audience will pay a visit to the ancestral home of General George Washington.

The following Hartford members will act as hostesses; Miss Florence S. Marcy Crofut, Mrs. Edward J. Pearson, Mrs. Daniel A. Markham, and Mrs. Clarence W. Seymour.

FOREIGN WAR VETERANS.

The regular meeting of Richard E. Hourigan Post, No. 594, was held at the post room, No. 2 Market street, Tuesday evening. Commander A. J. Turner presided. There was a large attendance. After a short business meeting a smoker followed and sandwiches, cakes, coffee, cigars and cigarettes were served the members by the house committee. Many thanks are due the Ladies' Auxiliary of Heurigan Post who furnished the eats. During the business session of the post two recruits applied for membership, both being accepted and given the obligation. Chairman Lewis Hull Jr., of the amusement committee, is forming a bowling team for the post. Several names have been handed in and these members will be given a tryout soon to qualify for the team. The post votes to turn out in a body on Armistice day to take part in the big parade at which time every member of the post is expected to be present. Invitations have been sent to V. F. W. posts in Plainfield and New London to come to Norwich Armistice day. These posts will be the guests of E. Hourigan post during their stay in this city. Plans for a V. F. W. ninin the near future are already under way.

JUNIOR MECHANICS.

At the regular Wednesday meeting of Buckingham Council with Councilor E. Leseman in the chair, plans were talked over of participating in the Armistic day parade, and of inviting several other councils in the state to participate also.

A new entertainment committee was appointed as follows: James Allen, chairman, Howard Eddins, Fred B. Shippee. Two applications were received and referred to the membership committee.

On next Wednesday night a smoker will be held, followed by hot coffee and sandwiches. All members who are able are expected to attend this meeting at which some special business will be taken up.

ODD FELLOWS.

Past Grand John J. Parsons and suite worked the first degree Tuesday evening at the meeting of Shetucket lodge, No. 27, in Odd Fellows hall where there was a large attendance.

Noble Grand Louis M. Waters presided at the business session at which a report by the parade committee was accepted by the lodge. The third degree will be worked on the candidates at the meeting of Uncas lodge next Monday evening.

A special joint meeting of the Odd Fellow bodies is to be called to take action on participation in the Armistice day parade.

OBSERVANCE OF ROOSEVELT DAY APPROVED BY COOLIDGE

Congratulates Navy League or Its Plan to Observe This Year, Oct. 27, the Birthday of President Roosevelt, as Navy Day—Gives Assurance That Under the Terms of the Washington Agreement This Contry is Assured a Naval Rank Second to None—Hopes the Agreement Will Prove the Beginning of an International Program Involving the Continuance of Reduction of Armament by Land, By Sea and in the Air.

Washington, Oct. 19.—President Coolidge in a letter made public today to Commander Marion Eppley, national chairman of the Navy League of the United States, congratulated the organization on its plans to observe again this year Oct. 27, the birthday of President Roosevelt, as Navy Day.

"It is particularly fitting to observe Navy day," Mr. Coolidge wrote, "on the anniversary of the great president, who was so long devoted to the interests of the naval establishment, and I am therefore gratified to know that the same day is this year to be observed once more as a navy day."

Mr. Coolidge said that under the terms of the Washington arms conference treaty" we are assured of a naval rank, second to none," without engaging in a competition of maritime construction, and it "is the earnest hope of all who desire the abolition of war", that this step "will prove only the beginning of an international program involving the continuing reduction of armament by land, by sea and in the air."

The president, referring to the services of the navy "to peace and the arts and sciences of peace," said it "must be doubted that such services will continue to justify the maintenance of the full naval capacity" under the terms of the Washington conference."

The text of the president's letter follows:

"For several years past, under the auspices of the Navy League of the United States, Oct. 27th has been observed as Navy day. The day was selected, as I understood, because it is also the anniversary of the birth of President Theodore Roosevelt. It is particularly fitting to observe Navy day on the anniversary of the great president, who was so long devoted to the interests of the naval establishment. Some of the most interesting and valuable of his historical writings dealt with the proud record of our navy. Later he served as one of its civil administrators, and finally as president, and therefore its commander-in-chief, he made the navy a particularly potent force for the preservation of peace and the prosecution of many worthy purposes. I am, therefore, gratified to know that the same day is this year to be observed once more as navy day, for we shall thus do honor to the memory of a great American and a great president, and at the same time recall the glorious services of our navy from its earliest beginnings.

"We have recently entered upon an epoch in which, by international agreement, our navy assumes a new relationship to the problem of sea power in the world. Under the terms of the Washington conference, the leading sea powers have united in the agreement that the United States is entitled to maintain a navy equal to that of any other power. Thus we are assured of a naval rank second to none, while at the same time, under the provisions for limitation of naval armaments, this rank is assured to us without engaging in a competition of maritime construction, and at a far less cost than would have been possible under the old regime of competitive building. Thus to fix our security on the seas and at the same time to reduce greatly the expense of the navy, is an achievement of international faith and understanding which has been counted one of the notable accomplishments of diplomatic negotiations.

"It much be an occasion of pride to all friends of the navy, that this momentous step toward the perpetuation of peace was taken in the realm of naval policy. That it will prove only the beginning of an international program involving continuing reductions of armament by land, by sea and in the air, is the earnest hope of all who desire the abolition of war.

"Our American navy has been much more than an arm of wartime defense. Its contributions to the arts of peace have been manifold and of the utmost importance. The great steel industry of the country owes its initial modern developments to the requirements of the navy at a time when the special kinds of steel required in naval construction were not produced here. Likewise the navy has been at the front in developing aerial navigation, with all of its possibilities of usefulness to the civil community. The statement has been made, and I think effectively supported, that all money that has ever been spent on the navy has been returned to the community several times over in direct stimulus given to industrial development.

"In many departments of science and investigation the navy has taken a leading and highly important part. It has made possible much of the accomplishment in charting the seas and making them safe for commerce. It has assisted in those studies of weather and climate, of air and sea currents, which have produced results of the utmost practical value.

"During the recent flight of the army aviators around the world, the cruisers and destroyers of the navy patrolled the maritime courses over which the fliers passed. The great airship "Shenandoah" was constructed by the navy. Its success has kept us fully apace with other nations in the art of aereo transportation. The art is yet in its infancy and though we cannot conjecture what its ultimate developments may be, we all realize that they are certain to be of profound usefulness and significance. The depths of the oceans have been sounded, the floors of the seas have been mapped, by the scientific specialists of the navy. It is through such activities as these that the vast possibilities of the sea as a reservoir of food and other necessaries of mankind, will ultimately come to be fully realized and exploited.

"The navy has always taken a leading part and interest in explorations and in the studies of newly discovered regions, particularly in the Polar and Pacific areas. It has participated likewise in the study of astronomical phenomena, through which much valuable data have been added to the resources of the science.

"These are merely suggestions of a few of the services of the navy to peace and arts and sciences of peace. We may be sure that such services will continue to be multiplied in the future. We cannot doubt that they will continue to justify the maintenance of the full naval capacity to which we have agreed under the terms of the Washington conference. We may be very sure that in the future as in the past, the navy's services to industry and the arts of peace and science will continue completely to justify its maintenance in the highest efficiency."

TO SIMULATE EVENTS OF ACTUAL NAVAL WARFARE

Washington, Oct. 19—Representations of actual naval warfare are being included in events scheduled for the naval aerial maneuvers to be held over Chesapeake Bay, near Baltimore, Oct. 25.

A torpedo attack on a submarine chaser by six navy torpedo launching seaplanes is to be one of the feature events. The planes will launch dummy torpedoes.

The submarine chaser will be defended by other planes.

The navy's fast racing seaplanes which won the Schneider cup from British and French competitors a year ago, at Cowes, England, will attempt to better the world's record for naval planes for distances of 100, 200 and 500 kilometres. Two naval planes of the CR-3 type will race over a three kilometer course in an effort to boost the record for the highest possible speed of approximately 200 miles per hour. The world record for this distance is 174 miles per hour.

STATEMENT ISSUED BY THE DEM. NATIONAL COMMITTEE

Washington, Oct. 19—The democratic national committee issued a statement today signed by fifteen leaders or former leaders of veterans organizations criticizing the republican administration for the treatment given to former service men and urging support for John W. Davis for president.

"Only a definite, courageous and upright foreign policy," the statement said, "can secure and maintain the honorable world peace which our aims made possible, and to such a policy only one national party is at this time pledged, and to such accomplishment only one candidate for the presidency is committed."

The statement declared the republican party had "betrayed" its trust to the veterans, denounced the administration of former Director Charles R. Forbes, asserted Director Hines had kept "incompetent department chiefs in power," and that "these conditions in the bureau dealing with the very lives of disabled soldiers are intolerable and unforgiveable."

President Coolidge's attitude was described as "one of misunderstanding, coldness and indifference." In his message vetoing the adjusted compensation bill, it was set forth, "he questioned the motives and impugned the patriotism of the men who fought the war, at the same time claiming all manner of patriotic motives for himself."

SURVEY SHOWS HOSPITALS IN CONNECTICUT INADEQUATE

New Haven, Oct. 19.—After a survey of 28 hospitals made in Connecticut, the hospital conference of the clinical congress of the American College of Surgeons will announce tomorrow that 20, or 74.3 per cent., meet the requirements of the conference. The announcement of the survey, which has been nation wide and extending into Canada, will be made by Franklin H. Martl, M. D., director of the general college.

The report of the hsopitals is based on the findings of a detailed survey made through personal investigation, carried on by representatives college trained and qualified to do this work. The list of approved hospitals in Connecticut follows:

One hundred or more beds—Bridgeport hospital; Danbury hospital; Grace hospital, New Haven; Greenwich hospital; Hartford hospital; Hospital of St. Raphael, New Haven; Lawrence and Memorial Associated hospitals, New London; Meriden hospital, Middlesex hospital, Middletown; New Britain hospital; New Haven hospital; St. Francis hospital, Hartford; St. Mary's hospital, Waterbury; St. Vincent's hospital, Bridgeport; Stamford hospital; Waterbury hospital.

Fifty to one hundred beds—Charlotte Hungerford hospital, Torrington; Manchester Memorial hospital, South Manchester; Mt. Sinai hospital, Hartford; Municipal hospital, Hartford.

SHENANDOAH STARTS ON RETURN JOURNEY

Camp Lewis, Washn., Oct. 19 (By the A. P.)—The navy dirigible Shenandoah, left her mooring mast here at 12.10 p. m. today on her return journey across the continent. She had expected to leave at 9 a. m., but a dense fog delayed her. The airship's first stop is San Diego, Calif.

Democratic Vagary Cited by Col. Bingha

Refers to Plank Favoring Election of Utilities Commission by People.

New Milford, Oct. 19.—Speaking at a republican rally last night, Colonel Hiram Bingham, republican nominee for governor, expressed his opinion at some length of the plank in the democratic platform favoring the election by the people of the public utilities commission. He touched upon other matters pertinent to the campaign, but was particularly effective when he called the attention of his audience to the fact that for the past ten years the head of the utilities commission, appointed to office by a republican governor and retained in office by a republican governor is a democrat.

"It is, in fact, rather amusing" he said, "in view of the striking regularity with which Connecticut has elected state officials that the democrats should be clamoring for the popular election of a commission who quite conceivable under such election would be a republican, whereas under the present system of securing the best man whom the appointive power can find is a democrat."

Colonel Bingham expressed his belief that the people of Connecticut do not believe in choosing judges by popular election. He called the public utilities commission primarily judicial in its function.

"The democratic platform says 'We favor the election by the people of the public utilities commissioners'", he said. "This is not a new stand for the democratic party to take. During the last general assembly I recollect that on a roll-call vote in the senate all the republican members of the senate voted against a similar proposition and all the democratic members voted for it. This proposal strikes directly at the Connecticut idea that the judiciary should be kept free from the necessity of seeking popular approval in their decisions. The republicans of Connecticut do not believe in choosing the judges of our supreme, superior or common pleas courts by popular elections. We believe in putting the responsibility for their selection directly up to the chief executive of the state. His choice must be approved by the general assembly. As a result our courts are highly respected and have not been subjected to the criticism which one finds in some of our neighboring states, where a judge, in order to secure election or re-election, has got to submit to a popular verdict. We do not believe in carrying politics into courts of justice any more than we believe in carrying the trial of criminal cases into the legislature. We believe in having the courts absolutely independent and able to render even-handed justice without any regard to the popularity of their decisions.

"The public utilities commission is primarily judicial in its function. The commissioners are virtually judges whose business it is to see that the public is justly served by the public utility corporations. Their decisions must be based entirely on right and justice without regard to the popularity or unpopularity of the public utility concerned. It is significant that notwithstanding the fact that the republican party has been in power in Connecticut for the past ten years the chairman of the public utilities commission was appointed by a republican governor as chairman of the railroad commission, which commission, including the same personnel, was later changed by statute into the public utilities commission. He is a man who has given most distinguished service and has placed the public utilities commission upon a high plane and he is a democrat. It is, in fact, rather amusing, in view of the striking regularity with which Connecticut has elected republican state officials, that the democrats should be clamoring for the popular election of a commissioner who quite conceivably under such election would be a republican, whereas under the present system of securing the best man whom the appointive power can find is a democrat. Apart from all this, however, is the fundamental objection to the selection of judges by popular vote. History has shown that the type of man who makes the best judge is not necessarily the type who makes the best advocate or who can best secure victory in an election.

"This proposal in the democratic platform does not seem to me to be based on sound public policy, but is rather an appeal to the thoughtless voter to attempt to influence the impartiality of judicial' decisions by threatening the commissioner with loss of office if he displease the voters. Should such a law as is proposed by the democratic platform be put into effect it would be a distinct step backwards and would not be in accordance with our belief that government exists for the sake of securing justice more than for any other purpose."

James P. Glynn, republican candidate for congressman from the Fifth congressional district, addressed the rally, touching upon national matters and Miss Grace Murray, assistant director of the state speakers' bureau, was also a speaker, her topic being Organization.

CONGRESSMAN O'SULLIVAN HAD NARROW ESCAPE

Waterbury, Oct 19.—Congressman P. B. O'Sullivan, had a narrow escape from serious injury in Union City, Naugatuck, this afternoon at about four o'clock when his car was struck by an automobile owned by Phillip Becher, of 89 Easton avenue, Waterbury. The steering gear on Congressman O'Sullivan's car was put out of commission, but the congressman and his chauffeur escaped uninjured. No arrest was made, as Congressman O'Sullivan did not claim the other driver to be at fault.

25 KILLED IN STAMPEDE IN PICTURE HOUSE IN ATHENS

Athens, Oct. 19—(By the A. P.)—Twenty five persons were killed and eighteen injured in a stampede in a moving picture house in Athens this evening caused by a false alarm of fire. Most of the victims were children. It is believed the alarm was raised by pickpockets.

Riot Followed Klan Meeting in Worcester

Several Persons Were Injured, Score of Autos Damaged and Three Arrests Made.

Wormester, Mass., Oct. 19.—Police today began an investigation of the riotous outbreaks which followed the conclusion of the Ku Klux Klan klonvocation at the New England fair grounds at midnight last night in which several persons were injured, score of automobiles damaged and three persons arrested. Although police officials said they were not prepared to announce what action would be taken, it was indicated that several other arrests were impending.

The officials were unable to secure names of the young men who are said to have composed the crowd which gathered at Harrington corner in the heart of the business section, but intimated some of the persons who took part in the fracas would be reached through charges of violating automobile and traffic regulations.

Police had not definitely fixed responsibility for the outbreak this morning. The klonvocation, which is said to have been one of the largest ever held in New England, attracted about 15,000 members of the order and their sympathizers had met with no disturbance during the day. There was sporadic stone throwing late at night near the grounds where the meeting was held, but this was quickly squelched by the officers. A large crowd of young men gathered at Harrington corner after midnight and jeered automobilists believed to be coming from the klan meeting. There was no disturbance, however, police said, until one machine slowed down, and its occupants expressed resentment of the remarks.

Several jumped on the running board of the machine, smashed the windshield and assaulted the driver. In an instant the corner was in an uproar and several other automobile running boards were boarded and the occupants assaulted. Missiles were thrown at a few cars nad several owners reported to the police that their cars had been extensively damaged.

Mrs. Ethel Gardner, 40, of Providence, was treated at police headquarters for a cut over the left eye, caused by a stone thrown through the window of an automobile in which she was riding with her husband and son.

Mrs. Charles Sickles of Worcester, was struck in the foot by a stone when the automobile in which she was riding with her husband was showered with missiles after leaving the fair grounds.

Several others are known to have been injured but did not report the fact to the police.

Roy Salten, 18, fireman at Dummer Academy, South Byfield, Mass., was arrested charged with carry a revolver and assault and Richard Whitten, 37, also of South Byfield, was arrested, charged with carrying a revolver in his car. The arrests were made after Edward Kendall of of Worcester, complained to the police that Salten had threatened him with a gun.

Michael Burke, 16, of Worcester, was arrested on a charge of violating a city ordinance by throwing stones. It was charged he was moxed up in the stone throwing near the fair grounds.

CAMPAIGN STATEMENT BY WILLIAM G. McADOO

Washington, Oct. 19—William G. McAdoo, in his first extended statement since the democratic national convention, declared today that the only chance to "purify the government and to accomplish the reforms demanded by the people is to elect Davis and Bryan."

In a letter written from Johns Hopkins hospital, Baltimore, where Mr. McAdoo recently underwent an operation, he informed democratic national headquarters that he would be forced to abandon his plans for an extensive speech-making campaign, but that through letters and telegrams to friends in various states he was doing his "utmost to help the cause."

"It is a great pity," the letter said, "That the progressives, led by LaFollette and Wheeler and the democrats, led by Davis and Bryan, cannot present a united front against the common enemy."

Referring to the candidacy of Senators LaFollette and Wheeler, Mr. McAdoo declared that hite he was not in accord with "much that Senator LaFollette is advocating (as for instance his proposed court amendment to the constitution) nevertheless he deserves admiration and respect for the courageous fight he had made against entrenched privilege and the invisible forces of government and for the fight he is now making to drive the corrupt and incompetent republican administration out of power."

Middlebury, Vt., Oct. 19—Fire swept through the heart of the little town of Bristol, 11 miles from here, early today, cut telephone communication with the outside world and destroyed seven building, chiefly of wooden construction before it was checked. The loss is estimated at $100,000. One fireman was slightly hurt.

Tonight volunteer firemen were guarding a space about 500 feet long and 250 feet wide, fronting on Main street, where smouldering ruins marked the the spot where three business blocks, a bank, a mill and two barns stood. The upper portion of an eighth Building was badly damaged.

The fire originating in a barn in the rear of Main street, spread to the A. B. Milbourn grist mill and barn and from there, in succession to the Quinlan and Wright blocks, the W. W Wilson block, the First National bank and the Julus Dumas block. All of the buildings were destroyed or left with only shells standing.

The upper part of the N. F. Dunphee block was damaged. The Quinlan and Wright block, housing the New England Telephone company, was one of the first buildings to catch fire, the town being, as a result, cut off from communication with neighboring communities.

GIRL PARACHUTE JUMPER KILLED AT AMUSEMENT PARK

Houston, Texas., Oct. 19—Miss Monte Le May of St. Paul, Minn., parachute jumper, was killed here this afternoon when she leaped from a balloon over a local amusement park and her parachute failed to open.

MAY SHUT OUT FIVE STATES IN PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION

Such Might Result if the House is Called Upon to Elect the Next President—Charles D. Hilles, Vice-Chairman o the Republican National Committee, Has a Plan to Prevent Disfranchisement of Voters in Those States in the Matter of a Choice of President in the House—Would Have Representatives of Five States With Equal Representation in the House Agree, in Advance of the Election, to Vote in Accordance With the Election Results in Those States.

New York, Oct. 19.—Five states, having an equal number of republican and democratic representatives in the house, will be without a vote if the house is called upon to elect the next president, Charles D. Hilles, vice-chairman of the republican national committee, declared today.

The states, Mr. Hilles said, were New Hampshire, New Jersey, Maryland, Nebraska and Montana. He announced he had a plan, however, whereby it would not be necessary for them to become disfranchised in the matter of a choice of president in the house.

"Public opinion should be aroused to prevent an intolerable situation arising from the possible failure to elect a president on November 4th," he said. "The sitting members of the house from the five states should be induced to declare what course they will pursue.

"They should agree in advance of the election to vote for the candidate for president in accordance with the wishes of the electorate in their respective states, as those wishes may find expression at the polls on Nov. 4.

"I would welcome and applaud a declaration from the congressmen that they will agree to abide by such result. It must not be forgotten in this discussion that it is the state which casts the vote and not the individual representative. The latter are only the agents to voice of the state.

Mr. Hilles set forth that under the failure of a candidate to obtain a majority of votes in a presidential election threw the choice upon the house which was empowered to meet subsequent to February 9th and fill the office. Representatives may vote as individuals, however, but units with one vote for each state.

"The Constitution provides that there shall be no election of a candidate by the house unless the candidate should have the vote of a majority of the state," Mr. Hilles said. "As there are 48 states, the number necessary to a choice is 25.

"Fortunately, there are only five of these half-and-half states in congress today. By subtracting the number from 48 without reducing the minimum of 25 states required to elect an election, we may easily defeat the purpose of the Constitution.

"The absurdity of conducting an election in which a candidate, to be successful must have a clear majority of all the states, and of giving permanent effect to a temporary and accidental condition in which certain states are declared to be incapacitated but are still counted a part of the whole, is too obvious to require extended comment."

Mr. Hilles said it had been suggested that representatives from the 50 states be entitled to cast fractional votes in order that their state might not be considered without franchise in the choice of a president by the house.

"If this were done," he said, "it is evident that Coolidge would receive 2 1-2 votes and Davis 2 1-2 votes from these five states. But there is no provision in the Constitution authorizing the splitting of the vote of a state and there is no evidence that the framers of the Constitution contemplated any such rule.

"There is no precedent for any such action by the house, nor is there any expressed inhibition against such a rule."

1420 CANDIDATES NOMINATED FOR BRITISH ELECTIONS

London, Oct. 19 (By the A. P.)—The 1420 candidates nominated for parliament yesterday comprised the following party classifications: Conservatives 532; constitutionalists 7; liberals 341; laborites 501; co-operatives 9; communists 8; independents 12; republicans 7; Sinn Fein, nationalists and prohibitionists 1 each.

Because of the large number of liberal withdrawals there will be straight fights between conservatives and laborites in no less than two contests. Moreover, owing to last hour party activity in nominating extra candidates, chiefly by the labor party there will be more triangular fights than was expected—227.

Three-cornered fights are distributed over the whole kingdom and make the outcome of the elections very difficult to predict.

There are 41 women candidates, Labor supplying a majority of them, 22, while the conservatives have nominated 12; the liberals 6, and the independents 1. Lady Astor, the Duchess of Atholl, Lady Terrington and all the women members of the last parliament are seeking re-election.

SHIPPING STORMBOUND IN HARBOR OF HAVANA

Havana, Oct. 19.—Owing to a continuation of the tropical storm, with heavy winds and an unprecedented heavy rain fall. No vessels sailed from Havana today. The French trans-Atlantic liner Cuba, from French and Spanish ports, and the Dutch liner Maasdam, however, entered the harbor. Several other steamers are reported to be out in the gulf riding out the storm.

One man was killed here today by by coming in contact with fallen electric wire. Heavy property damage has occurred at Ella, a town in Camaguey province, where the Tana river overflowed its banks and inundated numerous houses, rendering many persons homeless. No lives were lost, but many of the inhabitants were forced to take refuge in the nearby sugar mill settlement, which is on high ground.

EXPLOSION ON BLIMP SET GRANDSTAND AFIRE

New York, Oct. 19—Explosion of hydrogen gas in a blimp sent aloft to advertise the candidacies of John W. Davis and of Governor Smith above the Polo Grounds, set fire to its gas bag and burned a small part of one of the grandstand roofs today. There was no one in the blimp, as it was controlled by a cable attached to a truck parked in the Manhattan football field, nearby.

The craft crashed into a grandstand as it was being pulled down and the explosion followed. A summons was issued to the manager of the advertising corporation owning the blimp, alleging that the lives of spectators on the football field were endangered by the accident.

CHILDREN PLAYING WITH MATCHES CAUSED FIRE

Wallingford, Conn., Oct. 19—Two children playing with matches in a barn at the farm of Samuel Howe on the Durham road beyond the fire limits north of Wallingford set fire to the hay this afternoon and the barn and the farm house nearby were destroyed before aid could reach the place. The children were rescued from the burning building. The loss was estimated at $3,000. Mr. Howe at first thought that a pocketbook containing $50 had been lost in the farm house but the money was found later in the road nearby.

OPINION EXPRESSED BY REV. DR. HARRY E. FOSDICK

New York, Oct. 19.—A congregation that packed the First Presbyterian church in Fifth avenue today heard the Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick a Baptist minister, preach what may have been his last sermon from that pulpit. Before the sermon it was announced that a meeting of the church congregation would be held on Wednesday night to act upon the resignation which Dr. Fosdick presented to the New York Presbyterian two weeks ago.

Dr. Fosdick in his sermon appealed to the members of the congregation to remain in the church regardless of what disposition might ultimately be made of his case, which has been a storm center within the denomination since 1922.

"Just now, in this church situation as a whole, how naturally indignant you are at the blindness of the ecclesiastical establishment," said the minister. "Many of you think that sectarian lines are not simply unChristian but they are anti-Christian and one of the chiefest obstacles of the progress of Christianity. Oftentimes you will find a spirit of sanity in the church and the spirit of Jesus outside.

"What a relief it would be to some of you to tell the church what you think of her. And perhaps some of you are thinking of leaving her.

"But I can hear Paul say, just as he wrote to Titus, 'You are right about the churches; they may be even worse than you describe; stay in them remain in the church.' That is the exact spirit.

"Whatever may happen that week to those relationships that have been so congenial to us, do not in the situation you may be in and let me in the situation I may be in, not talk about surrendering."

W. Z. FOSTER HAS DECLARED LAFOLLETTE UNSCRUPULOUS

New York, Oct. 19—William Z. Foster, speaking here today in behalf of his campaign as presidential candidate of the workers' party, declared that Robert M. LaFollette, independent presidential candidate, has in the present campaign been "guilty of the most unscrupulous political trading ever witnessed in American politics."

"Here in New York he (La Follette) is entering into a deal with Al Smith the Tammany candidate, with the socialist party in apparent agreement," said the workers' party candidate. "LaFollette is to hand over the progressive and socialists votes to Smith and in return Smith will knife Davis and throw his tammany following to the Wisconsin senator.

"The only way to fight war is to fight against capitalist rule," concluded the speaker. "This can only be accomplished by the building up of a strong mass communist party."

FACTORY DESTROYED BY FIRE AFTER EXPLOSION

Berlin, Conn., Oct. 19.—Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the factory of the Mildrum Jewelry company and the nearby residence of Mrs. Samuel McCrum in East Berlin this morning. An explosion, supposed to be the tanks of gas used in welding in the factory, aroused the neighbors, who found the flames spreading so rapidly that they had difficulty in rescuing Mrs. McCrum and her daughter from their burning hom.

The New Britain fire department responded to a call for help, but was unable to save any part of either building. The factory loss is estimated at about $20,000 and the McCrum residence about $15,000.

WILLIMANTIC

The police were led to believe that they had a serious case on their hands when a motorist reported that while driving over the highway from Windham Center to South Windham he heard the screams of a woman coming from a field, shortly after eleven o'clock Saturday night. The moon shone brightly and the informer stated that he saw what he believed to be the naked form of a woman apparently being roughly handled by a man who appeared fully clothed. Officers Larkwiewe and Arthur Hurley made a fast trip to the place in an automobile, but failed to discover any evidence of a disturbance.

William Richmond of this city will be charged with driving while under the influence of liquor and with reckless driving in police court this (Monday) morning as the result of a collision of his Overland sedan with a Buick sport touring car owned and operated by Costas Stamaton of Pleasant street. The accident took place at Hanna's Crossing just below the Willimantic Camp Ground entrance, on Windham Road shortly after 2.30 o'clock. Fred Dupree and other witnesses of the affair and Stamaton stated that Richmond zigzagged in a dangerous manner as he approached around the curve from the South Windham direction. After narrowly escaping plunging over the trolley tracks to the right of the road, Richmond drove over to the left, striking the front left fender of the Stamaton machine and following along the running board to the rear left fender, which was demolished. In an endeavor to avoid an accident Stamaton had turned nearly off the right of the highway and when struck, his machine occupied but one foot of the macadam, the remainder being over on the sand. A mail box prevented the Buick driver from going still further off the road. After the collision Richmond's machine made a sharp turn around the rear of the Buick and came to a stop against a stone wall. The front of the Overland was badly damaged. Officer Edward Leahy investigated the accident.

Eighty-three voters were made at the final session of the qualifying board held Saturday from 9 a. m. to 8 p. m. It is expected that the board will hold a special session the day before election. At the previous session of the board October 11, 269 voters were sworn in, which with the 83 made Saturday brings the total voting population of the town of Windham over the 6,000 mark. At Saturday's session, Town Clerk Frank P. Fenton administered the oath and Selectmen Russell A. Andrews, David A. Ahern and Charles Larrabee investigated the qualifications of the applicants. The registrars assisted in the work. Eugene J. Randall and Michael E. Sullivan were the clerks.

In a collision of automobiles, corner of North and Valley streets, Sunday afternoon, Szymon Staranczyk of 20 Carey Hill, a passenger on a Dodge car owned and driven by Joseph Sadeski, of the same address, sustained a painful cut on the jaw and he was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital where the wound was closed, requiring a number of stitches. The Sadeski machine was struck by a Buick car driven by F. W. Nichols, assistant sales manager of the Noyes-Buick Co., of Boston. Mr. Nichols informed the police that he would settle for all damages.

The organization meeting of the Windham County, Conn., Poultry, Pigeon and Small Stock Association was held at the Chamber of Commerce parlors last week and I. M. Johanson of Chaplin was elected president. Organizer D. D. Cavanaugh who opened the meeting was elected temporary chairman and as editor of "Poultry Success," he spoke of the proposed program for the association to include shows, lectures, entertainments and other activities. A well-known young man, employed as a traveling salesman and a resident of this city left his Ford car on Church street, Friday night, while calling on a young lady. Whatever his courting experience was is simply a matter of conjecture, but after leaving his Juliet, Romeo lost all thoughts of his machine and walked home. Saturday morning he looked for his car in the garage and for a few minutes believed it had been stolen. With the assistance of a little sleep his brain cleared and he remembered where he had left the car. When he found it the steering wheel was tagged because the car had been parked too far from the curb. Matters were finally explained at the police station and the young man went his way.

The remaining few members of Francis S. Long Post, No. 30, G. A. R., called on Commander A. P. Benner at his home one afternoon last week and assisted him in celebrating his 82nd birthday. BAD BREATH

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get at the Cause and Remove It

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels and positively do the work.

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, griping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without griping, pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 15c and 30c.

BULLET RIDDLED BODY WAS FOUND ON BANK OF A CANAL

Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 19—A bullet riddled body, weighed down with a heavy piece of iron, was found today on the bank of an abandoned canal near Long Branch, an onondaga Lake resort. The victim, who had been shot four times, was identified as Casimiro Bennato, 45, a factory worker.

Police investigation disclosed the man apparently had been attacked on a bridge and that after he had been shot the iron weight was attached and the victim thrown from the bridge into the water, about one foot deep at that point. The man had crawled from the canal to the bank and bled to death from his wounds.

Officials are at a loss to account for a motive for the murder. Mrs. Bennato told police that if her husband had any enemies she did not know of them and that he had never spoken to her of any threats.

ESCAPED PRISONERS AT LANCASTER, PA., SURROUNDED

Lancaster, Pa., Oct. 19—Clarke Herman and Edmond Cote, the two prisoners who escaped from the Lancaster county prison last night after shooting a guard, stealing the key to the automobile gate, and making a dash for liberty while pedestrians ambled aimlessly through the jail park, are tonight surrounded by a cordon of police, constables and detectives near the low grade line of the Pennsylvania railroad in southern Lancaster county.

Warden Harry L. Eitnier believes that he will have the men back in their cells before daybreak.

After dashing east along the Lincoln highway shortly after 9 o'clock last night, the fugitives followed the Lampeter road in the rear of Rocky Springs park. They held up David M. Huber of Pequea, commandeered his motor car and attempted to take his it had been abandoned. A blue denim clothing.

Near Meyeradale the posse surrounded the automobile to find that shirt belonging to Cote and beed discarded and cartridges fitting an automatic pistol were foun don the seat. The convicts escaped up the side of a steep hill on which officers this afternoon found a shoe worn by Herman, evidently thrown aside while the owner was attempting to remove pebbles and the chase became too hot.

Measenkop continues in a critical condition in the Lancaster General hospital with only a fair chance of recovery. He has a bullet wound directly above the heart and another in the neck.

SEVEN PERSONS INJURED IN NEW YORK TENEMENT FIRE

New York, Ont. 19—Seven persons, including five firemen, were injured and nineteen families were driven from their home in a St. Nicholas avenue tenement house today by a blaze which fire department officials said was started by a pyromaniac. Five children, hanging by their hands from window lodges on the fourth floor of the five story building, were rescued by firemen.

The pyromaniac responsible for the blaze poured kerosene on the clothing in a baby carriage left in the hallway of the building and then set the carriage on fire, according to Assistant Fire Chief Joseph R. Martin, who made an investigation. Two other carriages in the hallway also were found to be soaked with kerosene. Several other fires recently have been started in the same manner as the one today.

A notable group of officials, including President Coolidge and several members of the cabinet, gathered at the home of Secretary Hoover in Washington, Saturday, for the funeral of H. H. Kohlsaat, former Chicago publisher and intimate friend of many public men.

Breed Theater

An attempt at suicide starts Barbara La Marr to fame and success on the Paris stage in her latest screen vehicle, The White Moth, a Maurice Tourneur production, in which she is co-featured with Conway Tearle at the Breed Theater today and Tuesday.

Miss La Marr plays the role of a little Kansas choir singer who goes to Paris to study music. Failing to succeed with her music, she attempts to end her life in the Seine, but one Gonzales Montres, known as El Volcano on the stage, rescues her. El Volcano induces her to become his dancing partner and together they rise to undreamed of heights of success.

As a dancer she becomes known as The White Moth, and her male admirers become legion. It is while on the stage that she meets a young American millionaire who falls in love with her, but his brother marries her to put an end to this romance. From then on the complications pile up and make one of the most fascinating photodramas of a decade.

Conway Tearle as the brother who marries The White Moth gives the screen on of his finest characterizations, and Ben Lyon, as the one who lost out, contributes an able performance.

Other pictures on the bill include the Pathe news and a Pathe comedy.

Broadway Theatre

In addition to a masterpiece on the screen, which alone is well worth the price of admission the following Keith vaudeville acts will be on the same program.

Harry Philwin & Co., offer "Songs and Smiles," James H. Cullen "The Man From the West," is a real comedian; Shaw's Sporting Dog Revue closes the show. It is a congress of the greatest leaping and racing grey hounds in the world.

De Mille again!

Two words—but they mean much, and when you think of "Triumph," "The Ten Commandments" and other such successes, you may take them to signify that "Feet of Clay," Cecil B. DeMille's newest production for Paramount, which is the feature at the Broadway four days this week, is another big motion picture knockout. And that's just what we wanted to say.

Featuring Rod La Roque, Vera Reynolds, Victor Varconi, Ricardo Cortez, Julia Faye, Theodore Kosloff and Robert Edeson, "Feet of Clay" is just about one of the finest examples of grade-A motion picture entertainment that it has ever been our pleasure to review. There have been "super-productions" and "wonder pictures." But, rather than coin a raft of new superlatives to describe this one, we'll simply say that "Feet of Clay" pleased every one at the Broadway Theatre last night and will continue doing so for the remainder of its run. And, after all, that's just about all that one be expected of any picture.

"Feet of Clay," is typically DeMille—setting, cast, story, etc. You'll like it!

Kinograms will also be shown.

Palace Theatre

Occasionally Norwich has opportunity to view a photoplay with tremendous settings, an exceptional cast, superbly produced or dramatically brilliant, but last night at the Palace Theatre local film lovers had opportunity to view a photoplay which possessed all of these qualities.

For weeks local fans have looked forward to the presentation of Frank Lloyd's First National picture "The Sea Hawk" with lofty expectations. Last night opportunity to view the much heralded picture arrived.

"The Sea Hawk" is a master picture. There are many big scenes, many big settings and much action to hold one intently interested throughout its twelve reels.

Never have such scenes as those of the big Sixteenth Century ships engaged in actual combat with several hundred galley slaves and fighting men active in the fray, on each ship been reflected on the screen before Never have we seen so much appealing action in quaint Algerian settings before and never have we seen a production with so many large groups and so many tremendous settings maintain such a fast tempo throughout without a simple lax moment. "The Sea Hawk" is a long picture but it is so full of stirring action it seems hardly longer than the average seven reeler and what transpires on the screen is so realistically done that one is completely enveloped with the spirit of it.

Let us say that if you miss seeing "The Sea Hawk" you will owe yourself an apology.

Elly Ney, Pianiste, in Concert

From the purely artistic standpoint, the concert which Connecticut College presents at the New London state armory tonight is by far the most pretentious musical offering ever undertaken in eastern Connecticut. The New York Philharmonic Orchestra composed of 103 artist musicians with Elly Ney, pianiste appearing as soloist and Willem Van Hoogstraten conducting is a combination rarely, if ever, offered in a community as relatively small as this one. Generally speaking, if one would hear such a concert, one must bear the expense of travel to a distant city with the attendant inconvenience and loss of time.

In spite of the worth of the concert and its cost, which is always an item to be considered, prices have not been advanced, and it is possible to hear it at the regular scale of one to three dollars.

All seats are reserved and it will facilitate the problem of the ushers if people holding tickets for them will wherever practicable, plan to arrive at the armory early.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Half a hundred guests were at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Logee Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock to attend a reception in honor of the parents of Mrs. Logee, Mr. and Mrs. James E. Milner, of Reynolds street who were observing the golden anniversary of their wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Milner received under a bower of autumn foliage and flowers, in the parlor. In the receiving line with them were Mr. and Mrs. Logee and Mr. and Mrs. Percy Milner, of Worcester. Those in the receiving party had come in through the hall as Mrs. Harold E. Greene, at the piano, played a wedding march.

Prayer was offered by Rev. Leonard Richards, rector of St. Alban's church and a psalm was sung preceding the reception. Rev. Walter B. Williams, pastor of the Westfield congregational church, made a brief congratulatory address. Following the reception a lunch was served. A feature at the reception was vocal solos by Miss Marjorie Russell.

The home was attractively decorated with autumn foliage, chrysanthemums, roses and carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Milner, who were warmly felicitated, received many beautiful and valuable gifts, including a number of gold pieces.

Mr. and Mrs. Milner were married at Glenham, N. Y., near Newburgh, Oct. 15, 1874. Circumstances made it desirable to defer the observance of the wedding until Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Milner first came to Danielson to make their home about twenty-seven years ago, and with the exception of a few years, have since resided here. Mr. Milner, who is 71, is a native of Norwich. Mrs. Milner, who is near her 74th year, is a native of Astoria, L. I.

They are numbered among the many kindly people in whom Danielson takes so much pride. Mr. Milner enjoys average good health and is active. Mrs. Milner never has recovered from an injury received several years ago when she was struck by an automobile and so seriously injured that she has since been unable to walk.

Mr. and Mrs. Milner have two children, Mrs. Cora Logee of this place and Harold Milner, resident in Bernardsville, N. J., and a representative of the American Screw company. On account of pressing business engagements he was unable to come here Saturday, but from Portland, Me., sent congratulatory telegrams in which parents were given the earnest wishes of the sons that they may live to enjoy many more happy anniversaries of their wedding.

Announcement was made Sunday by the Lucia Reed company of Providence that a group of four cottages, all new homes are to be erected on East Pleasant street, just west of the Petrequin property. The cottages are to be built by the manufacturing concern for employes in its plant, with a view to giving them modern and comfortable homes at very reasonable rental. It is anticipated that the cottages will be completed and ready for occupancy by the first of the year.

Following prayer service at the home for funeral of Mrs. Sarah E. Potter was held in Brooklyn, Saturday afternoon, with public services at the Episcopal church at 2 o'clock. Rev. Leonard Richards of Danielson conducted the service, assisted by Rev. Richard D. Hatch of Brooklyn, rector of St. Philips church at Putnam, and Rev. John Hall of Leominster, Mass., formerly rector of St. Paul's church, Plainfield. Burial was in the South cemetery, Brooklyn. The bearers were S. Irving Frink, Sherwood E. Potter, Fred E. Miller, Charles H. Blake, Frank D. Spalding and D. H. Mather. A. F. Wood was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Following the custom established last winter, Putnam lodge of Elks, which numbers many members resident in Danielson and other communities in this vicinity, is to hold its annual charity ball at the state armory here on a date in January. Last winter the innovation of holding the ball in Danielson worked out so successfully and was so pleasing to the large number who attended that it was decided to repeat the arrangement during the coming winter. The lodge has appointed the following general committee of arrangements: W. W. Wheatley, Frank M. Bedard, Louis E. Kennedy, Sidney P. Marland, Aldei Lamothe, all of Danielson; Joseph Raymond, Jr., of Wauregan, Henry S. King of Moosup, Oscar Peterson of Pomfret and James E. Murray and John Lynch of Putnam.

Auction Notice: We will sell at public sale on the premises at No. 16 Mechanic street, Danielson, on Saturday, Oct. 25, at 1.30 o'clock p. m., the real estate known as the Phoebe Snow property; also a few choice household goods. For particulars apply to Witter Bros., auctioneers, office 42 Main street, Danielson, Conn. —adv.

The Fortnightly club is to meet Tuesday with Miss Annie Hutchins, of Main street.

Henry McDermott of Woonsocket spent Sunday at his home in Danielson.

Young Roberts, of this town, a participant in a boxing match here last week, sustained a splintered cheek bone, it has developed, in the course of his match with Young Robideau of Putnam. The injury is not a serious one.

A number from this town motored to Wauregan, Saturday evening, to witness the torchlight parade and flag raising by the republican organization of that village, the event be-

The water in the Quinebaug river is unusually low for this time of the year. The stream is about five feet below normal level and several mills have been handicapped for power.

The checker team of the Rhode Island Checker and Chess association, of Providence, is to come to Putnam, Saturday evening, Nov. 1 for a match game with the Putnam Checker club. Last year Putnam played in Providence. There will be 12 men on a team, pairing by lot. Two games will be played at each board and two move restrictions will be used, with the barred openings excluded. The contest will be held in Odd Fellows' hall, Pomfret street.

Automobiles driven by Harold Thompson and Frank Jacques, both of Putnam, were in collision at the intersection of Providence and School streets, Friday night. The Jacques car, a Ford sedan, was bowled over on its side, but the driver was not injured. The running gear and mud guards were damaged. The Thompson car was also slightly damaged.

Although it clouded up Saturday afternoon it did not keep a large list of entrants from the links of the Pomfret Country club where the open amateur handicap match for the president's cup was played during the afternoon. It was nearly dark before the last twosome arrived at the ninth green on their second round in the 18-hole match. Cards were handed in and will have to be made up by the committee before the cup winner is known. The match was open to all members of golf clubs in Windham county and has become an important annual event among county golfers.

With the arrest of three young men ranging in age from 17 to 21 years, Friday evening, a long list of petty thefts from automobiles in Putnam was cleared up by the police. All three of the defendants plead guilty in the city court Saturday morning. As none of them had previous bad records they were given a chance and their cases were continued for six months and they were ordered to the custody of the probation officer, Peter A. Gardner. As the boys are to be given an opportunity to straighten out their names are withheld.

The prosecutor's desk in the city court room was covered with automobile tools, curtains, a spot light, a blanket, bulbs, and even a storage battery, being exhibits of the kind of property that the young fellows were collecting. It was admitted that there was still more of such merchandise in the possession of one of the boys and this he promised to return.

Judge Geissler told the young men that he did not believe in discouraging them by sending them to the state reformatory, if they could be set on the right path, but warned them that the case would still be open and if they did not go straight that they would have to be punished and that it was up to them as to what their future would be.

MRS. REYNOLDS WENT WEST IN COVERED WAGON DAYS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Putnam, Oct. 19.—During the showing of the moving picture, The Covered Wagon, in Putnam, there will be one person in the audience to criticize the picture from the viewpoint of one who has actual experience in crossing the plains with a covered wagon train. Mrs. Mary Reynolds, of Fremont street, is no movie fan, hasn't seen a picture in ten years, but she is going to see this one and to see if it runs true to form, or true to facts.

In the early days of the Civil war Mrs. Reynolds, a girl of fourteen, left with her parents from their Illinois farm for California. The trip was made in a prairie schooner and there were several covered wagons, some horse-drawn and some drawn by four yoke of oxen, to take the family and their household effects and possessions across the sparsely settled and dangerous country.

From Springfield, the wagon train made about 15 miles a day and finally arrived in St. "Joe," Mo. This was in those days the end of the railroad and beyond was the real wild west. Wagon trains were leaving St. Joe daily for the overland route to the Golden Gate and the promised land of California. The Reynolds family joined one of these trains. Besides household goods the family took along two cows to provide fresh milk, also had two extra horses.

The route taken was along the government highway and there were government stations about every 12 miles where stops were made. Soldiers were stationed here. Meat, provisions and apparel could be purchased at these outposts. After a tedious journey of four months the outfit arrived without any mishap. Mrs. Reynolds married shortly after the family reached California. She and her family returned east in 1869, but this trip was made by train, not however the luxurious traing that carry one across the continent today.

SPRING HILL

There were about 450 at the republican caucus Tuesday evening, many more than the town hall would accommodate. Andrew M. Grant was chairman and S. P. Hollister, clerk. There were four in the race but the vote showed that Judge Llewellyn J. Storrs and Mrs. Annie E. Vinton had won, and they were declared nominated for representatives of the republican party for the town of Mansfield. The caucus made choice of the following names for justices of the peace: Addie C. Hopkins, Alexander D. Telfer, Andrew M. Grant, Henry E. Knowlton, Byron D. Houston, John N. Fitts, T. Arthur Barrows, Joe C. Snow.

Wayne Storrs and family, Mr. and Mrs. Flaherty and Miss Ebba Smith made the trip over the Mohawk Trail Sunday the 12th, a distance of about 250 miles. They stopped at Northampton for supper.

CITY TRAFFIC REGULATIONS.

Tonight is the date fixed for the adjourned meeting of the court of common council at which a hearing is to be given on the proposed traffic regulations. It is provided for the purpose of learning if there have been any oversights, any gross injustices or any failure to relieve bad conditions.

From the time when it became necessary to establish traffic regulations the demand for changes and increased restrictions have steadily increased. It has become more and more manifest that if the streets are going to accommodate the traffic that wants to move through them there must be less of them occupied by parked cars.

Whatever can be done for the betterment of traffic condition means safer streets and much less congestion. The minor disadvantages of the one way streets are offset by the better movement of traffic in general and the less likelihood of accidents.

Traffic regulations are constantly changing because of the steadily increasing traffic, and traffic is something which will not take care of itself without regulation, but in spite of the increased traffic it cannot fail to be realized that it is the standing car rather than the car in motion that invariably causes the congestion.

Probably those who presented them do not consider the proposed traffic regulations perfect. There are nevertheless reasons for increasing the restrictions, but if it can be shown that the conditions can be met, the use of the streets permitted and cars kept in motion in other ways than those suggested, or something still better can be offered, the council will doubtless be glad to hear them. The time to hear them is set for tonight.

A GOOD START.

American judgment regarding the loan to Germany wasn't so different from that of other countries, or it might be said that the countries of Europe displayed the same keen interest, desire and appreciation concerning the German loan that the United States did.

Oversubscribed several times in this country, that same sentiment was manifested by European countries. In no instance has it been possible for an outsider to have his bid recognized when endeavoring to get any part of the loan that was not subscribed for in countries other than his own.

All this indicates the light in which the loan is regarded. Here is a general recognition of the need of giving this support to the carrying out of the Dawes plan, and there is confidence that it will be devoted to the purposes intended and that it will be the means of giving stability to conditions in Germany.

The appraisal of the German situation disclosed the need of providing a way whereby Germany can do what is required of it. With the loan is one of the important features of that plan the enthusiastic manner in which the nations participating therein have responded is indicative of a successful outcome of the whole undertaking if an auspicious start and general cooperation mean anything.

BAD POLITICAL STRATEGY.

Since Miss Marbury, one of the foremost women democrats in the country, took her snobbish stand and indulged in a criticism of Mrs. Coolidge because the latter had the ability and the disposition at some time or other to make shirtwaists and to make biscuit, she has been hearing from it in a different way than she expected.

The speech is proving the very boomerang that was predicted. Miss Marbury, who is a woman of wealth, with a chateau in France and an inclination to entertain nobility and royalty, has been hearing in many ways from her sneering remarks. She hasn't done the cause of the democratic party any good. Possibly she has decreased the chance of Mrs. Davis getting an opportunity of getting to the white house to do those things which Miss Marbury of the democratic national committee calls "milkpail stuff."

Criticisms have come from democratic as well as other circles. There is general condemnation of any such attitude when Mrs. M. S. Rockwell writes, "Can it be possible that our democratic party is so short of political ammunition that it must stoop to criticism of the first lady of the land, for the making of a blouse and having knowledge of cooking and making use of that knowledge? Both of these accomplishments appeal to the truest type of Americanism. The pity is that there are not more to follow Mrs. Coolidge's example."

What efforts Miss Marbury has made to minimise her serious error of judgment, her bad political statement, only serve to increase the attention given to it and to pile up the indignant denunciations. Unintentionally she has helped rather than hurt the cause which she aimed at.

KEEP ELECTION FROM CONGRESS.

Much consideration has been given to the possibility of the election being thrown into congress, and now Charles D. Hilles directs new attention to the manner in which five states would have their hands tied in taking action should that unfortunate situation develop.

Mr. Hilles considers the time is ripe for forestalling such a situation. He believes it can be overcome. He advances the idea that the delegations of these five states should be impressed with the necessity of dealing with this matter in keeping with the expression of their respective states during the coming election. That would mean that even though the delegation is divided the state's vote in case the election goes to congress would be in accord with the sentiment of the voters of the state as expressed November 4.

That is a plan for meeting a situation in case it develops. It is a plan that may encounter some difficulties, and yet when it is realized that the vote of the state can be regarded as a referendum on this very question there isn't anything so very unreasonable about it.

Such a matter will no doubt be the subject of much interest in the five states with tied delegations. What should be of greater interest in those states and the country at large is the prevention of the election going to congress. It will make no difference whether the delegation is tied or not if there are more than 266 votes in the electoral college for President Coolidge.

It is therefore time to appreciate the need of upsetting any scheme for the sending of the election to congress, for nullifying any combination that has been or may be made between the democrats and third party ites and for piling up a vote for the president that will show effectually where the nation stands.

The need of the voters acting while it rests with them cannot be too strongly emphasized. Keep the election out of congress.

DEALING WITH IMMIGRANTS.

When President Coolidge spoke to a gathering of foreign born citizens on the subject of immigration he pointed out the change in conditions within his country since the days when there were no restrictions placed upon worthy applicants for admission and those which exist today.

We have continued to accept those from other countries until the time has come for us to realize that we are getting to the point of saturation. We have gotten to the point where we must give greater consideration to those within our borders before we admit any great number in addition. It is not an attempt to discriminate between nations, races and crowds, but a response to a duty to ourselves.

Packing in the aliens without regard for their development and without regard for their understanding and support of our institutions and national life doesn't insure that betterment which the United States as a nation must insist upon. We are seeking those who are interested in becoming loyal American citizens and when that is done, contributing as it does to national harmony, there will be a most important contribution to a better relationship between nations and a stimulant for that much desired worldwide peace.

The statement by the president made it clear that the aim was for improved home conditions under American standards. It was a clear and illuminating statement.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The man on the corner says: How would you alter these bright and colorful October days?

Isn't it about time to be getting a preliminary report on the probable cider production this fall?

Those taking in the rallies by radio are covering much ground in a short time at the minimum of effort.

Trade and Industry Quicken," says a headline, and it's for the same reason that such big odds are being offered on a Coolidge victory.

Railroads are giving up leased lines and abandoning branch runs, but there are those who still cling to the idea that the Grand Trunk will build from Palmer to Providence.

Those who go to fires in autos and block the road or impede the firemen should consider how they would feel if the fire happened to be in their house and other autoists followed their example.

Eugene V. Debs says: "I am a revolutionist. I am law abiding under protest—not from scruples," and he is convinced that the best prospects of putting his revolutionary policies into operation lies in the election of La Follette.

The Holyoke trolley line has sold its power plant and is to buy current of a large producer, which again proves the contention that both private and public enterprises must depend upon large producers for current under good business practices.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Use dry silver polish to brighten up the brass bed.

The next cool day air your pillows and bolsters. They will need it after the hot summer weather.

A small towel rack will make an excellent necktie holder and can be nailed inside a closet door out of sight.

Linseed oil will clean black walnut frames and give them a lovely lustre.

A clean cloth dampened with kerosene will remove sooty marks from woodwork.

A silk slip that has become a little shabby can finish its career as a "nightie."

Make the most of the green vegetables and fruits while they are in season and not so expensive.

Apples that are to be baked should be pricked with a fork before being placed in the oven. If you do this you will find they will not break while cooking.

Sieves never should be washed with soap, but cleansed with a brush, using a little soda if necessary.

A tasteless sandwich will be greatly improved with a dash of horseradish or of Worcestershire sauce.

A cloth dipped in hot vinegar will remove paint from window glass.

If new enameled saucepans are placed in a pan of warm water and allowed to come to a boil they will last much longer, without cracking or burning, than if they are used immediately.

When washing oilcloth very little water should be used, as it is apt to soak through the cloth and rot it. Use a flannel well wrung out and wipe the floor until it is as dry as you can get it.

Be certain that the fireless cooker is absolutely dry as soon as you have finished using it. The cover should be left slightly ajar until ready to use again so the air can circulate through the compartments.

ICE SAVERS

Don't slam the refrigerator door.

Be sure the refrigerator is air tight and the door has a good catch on it.

Allow cooked foods to cool thoroughly before putting them in the refrigerator.

The refrigerator should never to kept in the cellar. The damp air would ruin the box in no time.

Collect all foods to be put away and put them away at one time, avoiding continual opening and shutting of the refrigerator door.

SAVE TIME PREPARING PUMPKIN

The slow and rather difficult process of cutting, paring and cooking pumpkin may be greatly shortened by baking the pumpkin rather than stewing it. Wash the pumpkin, cut it in halves, remove the seeds and pulp and then place it in a moderate oven. In an hour or two the pumpkin is done, can be scraped from the shell, put through the colander and made ready for pies. This is a time saving method compared with the old way of stirring the pumpkin constantly to prevent it from burning.—From the Delineator.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

Warmth is essential to comfort, especially if the rheumatism is in the joints of the feet or knees and often gentle rubbing with oil of wintergreen and the application of soft flannel bandages will relieve the twinges of pain.

It is a commonplace among beauty specialists that a large percentage of facial wrinkles might be avoided if the feet were always comfortable. In other words, cramped, aching, swollen feet inevitably cause lines upon the face.

Of a sudden many smart women have discarded rouge and are going in for olive complexions. The olive complexion is achieved by a special olive-tinted powder and in some cases it is remarkably becoming.

A dry sallow skin needs massage with a grease cream. This may be plain cold cream or an almond cream. Mix a drop of peroxide with about a half-teaspoon of the cream and use this to massage gently the discolored skin under the eyes. A good lotion for removing the fine wrinkles in this part of the face and elsewhere, may be made by dissolving 65 grains of alum in six ounces of rosewater, then adding slowly one and one-half ounces of milk of almonds. Apply at bedtime being careful not to get any into the eyes. Wash off next morning.

TROUSSEAU LINGERIE FOR THE FALL BRIDE

Much of the lingerie introduced for the fall bride is profusely trimmed with fine lace. Row upon row of tiny Valenciennes edging is used in the form of panels on dainty garments. An exquisite set of Parisian designing was composed of rose-colored georgette ornamented with countless rows of coffee-tinted narrow lace, which formed panels down the sides of the knickers, across the front of the camisole and over the shoulders of the nightdress in the form of epaulettes in place of sleeves.

For white lingerie lace is used with the pattern pattern worked in colored silks. Yellow lace is used considerably on white undergarments.

A fashionable color for trousseau lingeries is a lovely shade of pinkish orange. Garments made of silk in this shade are very simply trimmed—usually with plain borders of white net.

Hand embroidery is used more now than formerly on underwear, in the shape of hemstitched motifs and panels.

Vandykes are a feature of the latest designs. The lower edges of the garments are cut in vandykes and the same pattern is repeated above by lace laid on with a handwork beading.

FLAKY PIE CRUST

Spread a little rich cream over the top crust of a pie just before it is put into the oven and it will make it brown and flaky.

DICTATES OF FASHION

Plaid taffeta dresses that are very youthful and charming have coatees and bolero effects of black velvet.

The two strap pump with moderate heel and round toe is the accepted model for street and fall.

Ottoman weaves in both silk and wool are very prominent in winter style collections.

The daytime dress remains straight and unbelted and more and more buttons are being used for trimming.

Long coats and cape capes of knitted wool, with collars of soft, light fur are making their appearance at the smartest resorts.

Fringe is more than ever popular today. With fur, it is high among the season's chic trimmings. Many costumes employ both fur and fringe.

With a slip of black satin and several tunics of different colors and fabrics one may give quite a varied appearance to one's wardrobe.

Long sleeves are being featured on gowns for semi-formal wear, no matter how low the frock may be at the shoulder line or in the back.

Brilliantly colored hats with shiny fruit are very much liked to give pep to black or dark blue hats.

Very wide Pierrot collars of velvet or satin are used instead of fur on some of the smartest evening capes.

Very large buckles of last season are rarely seen on pumps this year, but small buckles or ornaments are used to fasten the strapped models.

Dead white has given away to ivory tones as the smart tone for evening gowns and trimmings on black.

Particularly suitable for the new dress tunics are brocaded chiffon velvets in the most beautiful shades. The bckgrounds is of chiffon and the floral designs are of velvet.

TUNICS

There is no escaping the tunic. It is omnipresent, but so varied in style are its many interpretations that one has not the feeling that it is a monotonous fashion. And its vogue has brought about the introduction of other new features. There is, for instance, the tunic-slip designed to have just the amount of fullness at the hem, but not so much as an extra wrinkle around the hips and waistline.

Tunics of metal lace are posed over slips of cloth of silver or gold and make the most attractive evening frocks. One lovely model shows a Russian cloth of gold banded with bright-colored bead embroidery and worn with a plaited skirt of the same material.

TO RENOVATE VELVET

Shabby Velvet can be improved as follows: First brush thoroughly so as to remove all dust then spread a damp cloth on a hot iron and over this draw the wrong side of the velvet. As soon as the steam from the velvet ceases it must be removed or it will scorch.

LAUNDRY HINTS

A too hot iron will fade materials.

Forgetting the electric iron and letting it overheat frequently will soon wear it out.

Put dirty clothes pins in a boiler of soapy water and boil for twenty minutes.

The towels dried in the sun are sweeter and more sanitary.

After washing a tam o'shanter hat dry over a dinner plate to prevent shrinking.

Soak handkerchiefs in a pail of salt and water before putting them into the ordinary wash water.

When it is necessary to put up a clothes line indoors, use staples to lace it through, instead of nails. It will not become dislodged.

Cut off the leather top of an old soft shoe and sew between several thicknesses of cloth. Then you can iron with prefect comfort without burning the hands.

HASTY LUNCHEON DISH

For a luncheon dish that is a clever combination of leftovers and yet substantial and economical, consider vegetable chowder. Perhaps there was a bit of bacon left from breakfast and a bowl of carrots from the night before. There may even be some sweet corn or a can of it on the shelf and a can of evaporated milk. Cut the bacon fine and brown slowly with two slices of onion cut fine. Add two cups of carrots and corn and cook with one tall can of evaporated milk diluted with one cup water. Season with salt add pepper, let come to a boil and then stir in two well-beaten eggs. Remove from the fire and serve with toast, muffins or raisin bread. Lima beans may also be combined with carots and bacon to make a vegetable chowder. Children who are especially fond of carrots will enjoy this combination. Bacon gives a good flavor and furnishes a fat easily digested by school children.

MOUSE TRAPS

Mice are canny things and unless the trap is clean they will avoid it. After a mouse has been caught, the tray should be thoroughly scalded and aired. Then all scent will be gone except the smell of the bait. Incidentally try using a piece of bacon for bait instead of the usual cheese and see if you do not have better success.

SAVING NEWSPEPERS

A neat and orderly way to keep old newspapers and magazines so they are ready for your particular junk man is to have boxes a little larger than the papers and magazines. Keep two strings crossed at right angles in the box. Lay the accumulated papers in on the strings and when the pile is large enough the strings may be tied. The piles of newspapers will never be disorderly if this method is employed.

WHITENING IVORY

When ivory becomes yellow or dusty wash it well in soap and water. Use a small brush to clean the carvings and then put, while wet, in the sunshine. Wet it with soapy water for two or three days several times a day, still keeping it in the sunshine. Then wash again and it will be quite white.

CONCERNING WOMEN

Miss Frances Mead is a police sergeant in Topeka, Kas.

Women are now eligible to membership in the Journeymen Barbers International Union.

Constantinople has a weekly newspaper of large circulation published by and for women.

Thirty-three widows of soldiers of the war of 1812 are still on the Government pension rolls.

Out of 750 divorce cases heard in Baltimore 80 percent of the female litigants were brunettes.

Mrs. Jane Williams of Gallipolis, O., celebrated her 102d birthday by having her hair bobbed.

A wonderful opera cloak made entirely of ostrich plumes has been added to the wardrobe of Queen Mary of England.

CLEAN PANS

To clean pans that have been scorched, foods adhering to them, sprinkle dry baking soda in them, and let them stand for a while. They then can be quickly and readily cleaned.

DUST LINES

To prevent ugly dust lines on the paper behind the pictures drive a small brass headed tack in each lower corner of the frame to hold it out from the wall so air can circulate behind it.

RECIPES

Peach and Raisin Conserve: Four ponds of peaches, skimmed and stoned, three pounds of sugar, three cups of water, two cups of raisins, seeded, one and a half cups of shredded blanched almonds.

Cook the peaches, water and sugar about fifteen minutes, add the raisins and cook until the mixture thickens, then add the almonds and cook five minutes longer.

Pour into glass containers.

Peach Freeze: Three cups of peaches (fresh or dried ones that have been soaked until soft,) water, sugar, to taste, the whites of four eggs. Chop the peaches very fine, measure the liquor and add an equal quantity of sweeten to taste.

When the sugar is dissolved stir in the unbeaten whites of eggs, put into freezer and turn until stiff.

The result is a delicious frozen froth.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

A Suggestion.

Mr. Editor: An idea came into the head of this writer. Some of your readers may consider this a novelty, but the same may have arisen in other minds as well.

It is the thought that each week Monday's paper would give a review of the Norwich pulpits.

There is surely as much need for a brief department on the religious wor kof our pastors as of our athletics. We have also echoes from the lodge rooms. Why not echoes of what is the best brain-thought of our pulpits?

This might also have a reactive as well as an instructive effect. The idea came to the writer after listening to a very thoughtful and pointed discourse. It will not be proper to say from which pulpit the lesson is what we wish to enforce.

The subject of "salvation" which the speaker defined as the surrender of the complete personality of the saved one. That is, that a Christian should be 100 per cent. efficient. Indeed though seemingly new, this is really the standard expessed in Bible terms, as the "whole man."

In fact this is what civilization is, and should be aiming to attain. In the practical world as well as in the religious the ideal is 100 per cent. and not 55 per cent. efficiency.

A piece of mechanism that only operates perfectly in one part but fails in several others, will produce defective results and what the inventor and the mechanician aims at is perfection, however far he may fall short of it.

The analogy here is exact. If we take the types and shadows of the old dispensation we see that wholeness and cleanness was required in every sacrifice. The lame or the defective was barred by the most vigilent scrutiny, and yet these were only the symbols of the higher things real, which they were preparing the people to expect, and to receive in "the fulness of time."

It is remarkable, however, how long an incomplete machine will function and how it will continue to give results that pass and "get by" as we say. We are told that an automobile of six cylinders will speed, only with one or two of its cylinders ineffective. And it is true in machinery that gears will run for a time with one or two cogs or teeth broken out.

However, it was our intention to enforce, not to enlarge the thought of the speaker's theme, which in very many ways was wonderfully suggestive in thought and conclusive in argument.

Keith Penniless Far From Home

Minor C. Keith, the clerk wanted to do something bigger. Born in Brooklyn, he had attended private schools, and after eight months in a men's furnishing store on Broadway, in New York, he was earning only $3 a week when he was 16 years old.

Becoming a lumber surveyor, he made $300 the first year, but desired to get into business for himself. On an uninhabited island in the Rio Grande, in Texas, he started to raise cattle and hogs. At the end of two years he owned 400 head of cattle and 2,000 hogs. But now he longed to be a railroad man.

Urged by his brother to join him in Costa Rica and build a railway, he sold out and at 23 went to the then unexplored jungle of Costa Rica to link the deadly and unpopulated Caribbean Sea coast with San Jose, the plateau capital city. When it became known that he, with his slight knowledge of railroading and his limited capital, was planning to span the 60 miles of jungles and lofty mountain peaks he was called "a crazy dreamer."

Building the road cost the lives of 4000 men and among them his three brothers. One bridge was washed away 31 times before it was completed. Keith was shipwrecked three times and contracted tropical fevers several times.

When the Costa Rican Government could not supply more funds or men, he went to London and arranged for the needed $6,000,000. At another time he persuaded the 1,500 Jamaica negro laborers to work six months without pay until he could raise the money. After 19 years of hardships and disappointments, he completed the railroad.

Soon after starting construction of the railroad he planted the first marketable bananas in that country, then developed a world business and a fleet of ships to handle it. In 1899 he organized the United Fruit Company, which today has nearly 50 steamships and 1,200,000 acres of plantations.

Keith built railroads in other Central American republics and became interested in gold mining and lumber. He married the daughter of an ex-president of Costa Rica and today, at 78, is living in New York.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Thomas Nelson Perkins, who has been selected to assist in carrying out the Dawes Reparation Plan, is a descendent of one of the historic families of Boston, identified for many generations with its commercial and financial life, and having in him a representative who, to a fine legal training and experience, adds capacity to deal with large problems of business and finance. And this because to a very unusual degree his practice has been with banks and corporations that carry on large constructive tasks in engineering, construction of railways, and similar enterprises. It so happened that Mr. Perkins was in Russia at the beginning of the war and his experiences there gave him opportunity to learn at first hand the conditions that war brings. Later he was legal adviser to the United States War Industries Board and was sent to Europe as a member of the mission

CHILD TRAINING

Don't Enter Into Childrens Quarrels and Arguments

Helen Gregg Green

"I don't like Dick's mother." Bud confided one day when he, Aunt Emmy-Lou and I were having a little heart-to-heart talk.

"And why not, Bud?" we wanted to know.

"Well, every time us fellows get into an argument, she's always poking her head out of the window and asking, 'Now what's wrong? Can't you play without quarreling? And then she comes out to settle matters. Seems pretty nibby to me. She's always spying on what we're doing. I tell you, we don't go to Dick's—not any more'n we can help."

After Bud left, Aunt Emmy-Lou whom all children love, scolded, "Why will mothers alienate the affections of their children's friends! When Dick is older, and Margaret wanting him to bring his friends home, she'll be wondering why they won't come. I dislike these mothers who are always taking part in children's arguments and little quarrels. Children should have a little privacy of their own, and we grown-ups should respect it, the same as we expect them to respect ours."

"Well, you're right. Aunt Emmy-Lou," I admitted, surprised as always at her wisdom.

"Margaret will make Dick unpopular all his life if she keeps this up," she continued, "I was there one day when Dick came home with a torn shirt grimy hands and all the earmarks of a scuffle. After she had fairly forced the child to tell his tale of woe, she started toward the door. 'Where are you going, Mother?' Dick asked. 'I'm going to see that rough Dowds boy!' she snapped. 'Oh, Mother, please don't do that!' Dick pleaded. Margaret was determined. But I was determined she shouldn't go. And she didn't. I gave her some good straight-from-the-shoulder advice, but I guess she didn't heed it."

After Aunt Emmy Lou left, I thought, "Well, I know one thing, I'm never going to have my boy's friends dislike me. If I can help it." And I deliberately walked into the house and closed the door, leaving a crowd of youngsters in our front yard having a most heated argument.

When Sonny hopped in a while later with, "Gee, Mother, you're a brick!" I only smiled for I knew why he thought Mother a "brick."

Stories That Recall Others

A Case For the Doctor.

In wondering why so many physicians spend so much time on the golf links the answer might be found in the case of a certain neurotic woman who beset her physician at the least provocation with recitals of the many symptoms and sufferings that had been brought on by the most recent of her imaginary ills.

This time the day was boiling hot. The woman, wearing her longest face and perspiring freely dragged herself into the doctor's office and wilted in a wicker chair until he called her. At last it was her turn and she was asked to enter the private room. But no she must speak——

"Doctor, I'm having one of my spells. I'm so hot!"

"Well, well," he said soothingly, "that's nothing. Everyone surely is hot today with the temperature at 97 degrees. I——"

"I know, doctor," she said, "but everyone is not suffering as I do. I have asked them—several of my friends—and they all said, "No, we don't suffer as you do.'"

Phonetic Spelling

Nine year old Ellen came in hurriedly calling "Mother, can you do this? It's a riddle. "Nebuchadnezzar, king of the Jews, sat on his pulpit and put on his shoes." Spell that with four letters."

After a time her mother did.

Later in the day Ellen came again to her mother, this time with a letter she had written. It read thus:

"Dear—My thumb's better. I'm writing with it. Can you answer this riddle. "Neper-ca-neeur, king of the Jews, sat on his pulpit and put on his shoes.' Spell that with four letters. T-h-a-t. Love, Ellen."

WEDDINGS.

Hanauer—Stetson.

Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Vine S. Stetson, No. 129 West Thames street, her daughter, Miss Vera Stetson, was united in marriage with Frederick L. Hanauer of Trenton, N. J. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Edward C. Dunbar, pastor of the First Baptist church, the double ring service being used. Preceding the ceremony O Promise Me was rendered by Mrs. Thomas Grieve. The bridal party descended the stairs to the music of The Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin.

The ceremony was performed before a large arched window banked with palms and baskets of flowers. The maid of honor was Miss Grace Stetson, a sister of the bride, and the best man was Ferdinand Hanauer. The bride was charmingly gowned in white flat crepe with pearl trimmings, and wore a caronet of duchess lace and orange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses. The maid of honor was gowned in wisteria crepe de chine and carried a silver basket of pink roses. The bridesmaids were Miss Evalene L. Smith of Hazardville, Conn., who wore poudre blue satin crepe in basque effect with hat to match and Miss Isabelle Hanauer, sister of the groom who wore pink satin with hat to match. Both carried silver baskets of pink roses. The flower girl was Claire Louise Grieve who was prettily gowned and wore a dainty yellow bonnet and carried a basket of roses. The best man officiated as ushers were Morrison, the florist.

Following the ceremony there was a reception with a buffet luncheon. Mrs. Stetson wore cocoa brocaded canton crepe with bead trimmings. Mrs. J. H. Hanauer, mother of the groom, wore black satin with black overlace. Miss Jane Deering, who assisted in receiving the guests, wore peach colored crepe de chine with silver trimmings and hat to match.

The bride received many beautiful gifts of silver, glass, furniture and there were also gifts of money. She is the daughter of the late Vine S. and Mrs. Vine S. Stetson and is a graduate of the Norwich Free Academy, Willimantic Normal Training School, and taught at the Elizabeth Street school.

Mr. Hanauer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Hanauer, of Trenton, N. J., is a graduate of the Trenton Art school, and is associated with Carr and Schulz Electrical Co., of Trenton, N. J. During the day the bride and groom left for a wedding trip and after December 1st they will be at home in a newly completed bungalow on Homecrest avenue, Trenton, N. J.

The guests included the following from out of town: Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Hanauer and family of Trenton, N. J.; Miss Susan Taft, Miss Georgia Ingerman, Trenton, N. J.; Miss Louise Jacob of Jersey City, N. J.; Miss Maybelle Norton of Rome, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. A. Vail Smith, Sr., Miss Evalene Smith of Hazardville, Conn.; Mr. and Mrs. A. Vail Smith, Jr., of Springfield, Mass.

SHOT INTO HOUSE; THEN REVOLVER JAMMED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Westerly, R. I., Oct. 19.—The jamming of his German Mauser automatic revolver prevented George Galucci of Central Park, Westerly, while drunk, tonight, from committing murder when he fired into the house occupied by George Lopriore and his son-in-law, who also resides in Central Park. After two shots went through a window the revolver refused to work and Lopriore communicated with the Westerly police.

Officer Michael Curtin went to Central Park and finding Galucci, secured the revolver with the jammed chamber, and took it to the station house. Afterwards Lopriore declined to make a complaint.

FIGHTING AND LOOTING IS GOING ON IN CANTON

Canton, Oct. 19—(By the A. P.)—Further fighting occurred in the city Friday night between the rival Yunnan and Cantonese troops, who had a dispute over the allotment of loot and the arms seized from the members of the Merchants volunteer corps.

Looting is still going on, while the troops are robbing the refugees. Business is almost at a standstill.

KING OF ENGLAND DECORATED ONE OF THE MISSION FATHERS

Of the thousands of men and women who have assisted at the two weeks' mission given in St. Patrick's church by three Fathers of the Congregation of the Holy Ghost, with headquarters at Philadelphia, not one suspected the distinguished service of one o them, ARev. David O'Brien, Early and late Father O'Brien has been engaged in his mission of aiding people to save their souls, going about "his Father's business" modestly and unobtrusively. Now it turns out that what Norwich Catholics supposed the result of some severe illness in his case, which keeps him looking both pale and frail, is the effect of gassing.

A native of Ireland, Father O'Brien went out as a chaplain of the famous Colonial Regiment honored as "The B. W. I." (British West Indies). The Holy Ghost Fathers have a mission station at Trinidad, West Indies, and when war broke out, Father O'Brien chanced to be stationed there. Like every other loyal son of the United British Kingdom—it is recalled here that Father Watt, another British chaplain when speaking at Slater hall stated that the loss of England and her dominions in the World war was over 7,000,000, all young men—Father O'Brien was keen to go to the front, serving in France and Turkey, being in the latter country at the time of the celebrated blowing-up in the Dardanelles.

Hardships, gassing, everything, he shared with the brave soldiers for whose spiritual welfare he was laboring. When finally there came the great round-up of the record of British patriitism and achievements, the devoted Irish chaplain was among the bravest of the kingdom's brave, and in Buckingham Palace had pinned upon his breast by the king himself the medal for distinguished service. Perhaps his experience among the troops in the trenches and field and aboard ship accounts for his great hold upon the hearts of the young Catholic men of Norwich who have sought his counsel, in or out of the confessional, during the past week. Certainly, the ardent and zealous exchaplain has brought back to God scores of the careless and indiffeent, while renewing the spark of faith in the souls of others hard used by the world, but given new cheer and strength by the encouragement of this modest and humble follower of The Great Teacher.

From Norwich the Fathers go today (Monday) to their mission house at Philadelphia, merely to report to their superior, before starting in at once to preach a big mission at Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Their labors all day Sunday were stupendous. Beginning with the mass at 7.30 when the galleries had to be opened to accommodate the overflow congregation, and when four priests were kept busy administering holy communion, following the hundreds of confessions heard during Saturday afternoon and evening, there was a second great congregation to fill the auditory and galleries at 9 o'clock. This is the regular Sunday children's mass; and was offered by Rev. Richard A. Harnett, acting superior of the mission band. Father Harnett spoke directly to the children, warning them especially against the sin of impurity and giving them the simple rule which would keep them from remorse and bitterness of a despairing old age, following a sinful youth. He urged them to put themselves under the protection of the Immaculate Mother of the Christ-Child; to start each day by repeating with love and confidence the favorite prayer of Catholics in every part of the world—the angel's salutation (Luke I 26-38) beginning "Hail Mary, full of grace, the Lord is with thee; blessed art thou among women;" and he told them a little legend of a careless boy lost in a forest, to accentuate his parting advice.

At the high mass there were the same earnest manifestations of the effects of the mission; and at 3.30 in the afternoon, the Fathers spoke to hundreds of mothers who had brought their younger children and babies to be blessed. This was a most inspiring sight, as 500 daintily frocked little girls and the interested little boys congregated to have their special share in the mission exercises.

Sunday evening, before a crowded church, as the men's week ended, Father Nicholas O'Loughlin was the preacher, his theme the practices which will insure the continuance of the mission spirit in every man's heart and life and conduct. As each man held a lighted taper, the vast assemblage renewed aloud those promises made in baptism by the sponsers of each during his infancy. The Fathers gave the Papal Benediction, also the blessing of the missionaries, and there was Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament as a culmination of a week which has meant effort on the part of every man in the parish, but which all, on the final day, were agreed had been a week of true spiritual joy. Five o'clock each morning or at night, then in great crowds every evening, the Catholic townsmen have filled the pews, so that the missionaries have expressed genuine astonishment at their fidelity and pactical Catholicity. Organist Frank L. Farrell and his chorus choir have aided greatly toward the success of the fortnight. The ushers have been Alexander Kilroy, William J. McKnight, John P. Corcoran, Thaddeus Leahy, John R. Wozniak, John R. Tarrant, and George H. Dolan.

The distribution of religious articles, prayer books, etc., has been supervised by Miss McGrory, as in former years, a number of the young women and young men assisting her.

Sunday evening, there was a beautiful solo, "Veni, Creator," by Frank R. Murdy. Father Harnett, in expressing appreciation for all the co-operation of the mission weeks, especially praised the gifted organist and director of St. Patrick's, Frank L. Farrell, whose fine music he pronounced a real inspiration. The rector of the parish, Rev. M. H. May, considers this the greatest mission in all his experience as a priest.

ESSAY PRIZE DONORS KEEPS IDENTITY HID

The prize of $100 which was offered for the best essay upon a programme for the Central Baptist church for the next 16 years to span the time until the 200th anniversary of the church is reached was presented to Miss Ruth Hamilton at the church service Sunday morning, but without the donor of the prize becoming known.

It had been expected that the donor, who has remained unknown, would make the presentation, but at almost the last minute he changed his mind about letting his name be known and the pastor, Rev. David A. Pitt, D. D., made the presentation with the announcement that the donor preferred to keep his identity hid.

The prize offer was $50 to the writer of the essay which was adjudged the best and $50 if the plan were adopted by the church. Miss Hamilton receives the full amount of the prize as the vote of over 100 members of the church showed a large majority in favor of the plan as feasible.

ARMY AIRPLANE DROPS IN NORTH FRANKLIN

The army airplane A. S. 24105, piloted by an army lieutenant and his mechanic, was considerably damaged Saturday afternoon at 4.15 o'clock while making a forced landing at North Franklin when the plane ran out of gas. The pilot was on his way from Hartford to Boston after taking part in the meeting at Hartford.

Discovering the gasoline supply exhausted as he was passing over North Franklin the pilot circled and found a field on which to land. The machine evidently came down sideways and then tipped completely over but neither the army officer nor his mechanic was injured, although the plane was quite badly damaged.

John Ledoux, a driver for the Plaut Cadden Company, assisted the army men after the accident. The field on which the plane landed is owned by Mrs. L. M. Browning of North Franklin.

DENIES HIS MACHINE WAS AT KLAN MEETING

With reference to an article published in a state paper Sunday listing him as among those who attended a meeting of the Ku Klux Klan near Bristol, October 11th, Herbert M. Leron issued the following statement over his signature Sunday evening:

"It has been called to my attention that my name, also the number of my car, has been mentioned in a scurrilous sheet, as attending a Klan meeting held near Bristol, on Saturday October 11th. I hereby contradict this statement. I was not present at this Klan meeting, my car was in my garage and the keys to the same were in the hands of my clerk at my store on that date. I have never been affiliated with the Klan in any way whatsoever."

Bridge And Mah Jongg Party

The Delta Upsilon Phi sorority of the Norwich Free Academy held a bridge whist and mah jongg party Friday evening at the home of Miss Phyllis Brewer on West Thames street. There were twelve tables in play and at bridge the prize went to Miss Catherine Battersby, the whist prize going to Miss Eleanor Counihan.

This was the first of a series of similar entertainments planned for the school year by the sorority.

Many Parked Cars.

By actual count, there were 90 cars parked outside St. Patrick's church Sunday afternoon, during the blessing of babies. In the evening, cars lined up for the close of the men's mission totalled 162.

The way of the transgressor is hard on shoe leather.

FOUR ARE HURT IN NORTH MAIN ST. CRASH

Four occupants of the automobile of Harold C. Jeffers of Jewett City, which he was driving on North Main street Sunday about 3.30 o'clock were injured, principally through cuts from the broken windshield when the Jeffers car, a Ford touring, was struck by a Chevrolet touring car driven by its owner, John Sullivan of Taftville.

Mr. Jeffers had his knuckle cut, his father, William C. Jeffers, had his wrist badly gashed, his mother received severe cuts and his aunt, Miss Clara Wood, who was thrown out of the car, received severe bruises. The Jeffers' little daughter, a baby, was not hurt.

J. W. Callahan and Dr. Clarence Thompson were summoned to attend the injured persons.

Mr. Sullivan was driving towards Taftville on North Main street and was the last one in a string of three cars as they proceeded along North Main street above the car barn. The car ahead of him stopped unexpectedly and in order to avoid running into that one he pulled out to the left in time to hit the Jeffers car which was coming in the opposite direction.

The Sullivan car struck the other in the side twoards the rear and made an almost complete wreck of the Jewett City machine. The Taftville mans car lost the tire on the left front wheel and had the mudguard bent.

Capt. D. J. Twomey sent an officer to the wreck as soon as he heard of the accident.

POLICE GET EVIDENCE ON LIQUOR ACCUSATION

Evidence in the shape of a pint bottle of what is alleged to be liquor, which was bought for $1.50 at the grocery store of Nicholas Lombarella, 24, at 153 Franklin street is in the hands of the police, with a quart bottle containing some liquor and two glasses of liquor which patrons of the place were about to drink. Lombarella will be presented in the city court this (Monday) morning charged with violation of the liquor law in selling and keeping with intent to sell.

He was arrested Saturday night after the sale evidence was in the hands of the police and after Sergeant Thomas Murphy with Officer Delaney burst into the place just in time to grab a glass of liquor that a patron was raising to his lips.

RICHARD MANSFIELD PLACE SOLD TO JOHN K. FORAN

"The Grange," the residence on Ocean avenue, New London, of Richard Mansfield, the actor, has been bought by John K. Foran, for a home. Mr. Foran married Valerie Shannon, of Norwich daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James B. Shannon. They have three children. Their present home is in Faire Harbour place, New London.

For a number of years the widow of Richard Mansfield (Beatrice Cameron) has been endeavoring to dispose of this estate, which will need much renovation. About a year ago, after her return from post-war work in Europe, Mrs. Mansfield made an effort to have the house utilized as a theatre for the production of her husband's famous plays, but the project failed to receive financial backing.

Towed Car Struck Another

While he had parked his Franklin touring car along North Main street near the car barn to take a look at an automobile accident that had happened just before then, Joseph S. Perry of 52 Denison avenue, New London, had his own car run into. It had the taillight smashed and the left rear fender dented in when it was struck by a machine that was being towed by the owner of the Hilltop garage, Montville. A tire came off the towed machine, causing it to veer into the Perry car alongside the road.

HENRY F. PALMER DIES SITTING IN CHAIR

Henry F. Palmer, for years senior member of the old firm of Palmer & Rogers, real estate and fire insurance agents of Norwich, died suddenly Saturday night about 10 o'clock while sitting in a chair at his home, No. 36 Otis street. Mr. Palmer, who for some time had led a retired life, and who was well advanced in years, being 85 years old, had been in his usual good health Saturday, although he had not been strong for some time. He was about the yard Saturday. About 10 o'clock he became suddenly faint. A doctor was hurriedly summoned but he expired within a few minutes. Dr. C. C. Gildersleeve, medical examiner, pronounced death due to heart trouble.

Mr. Palmer was a man who was entirely self made. From early boyhood he learned to work hard for every advantage. He was born Sept. 19, 1839, in Exeter, R. I., and was of the eighth generation from Walter Palmer, a Puritan, who came from Nottingham, England, in 1629, first settling in Charlestown, Mass., and who later, in 1639, settled at Stonington.

When Henry F. Palmer was five years old his parents removed to Griswold. He was brought up to hard work on a large farm and there began his career of usefulness in the spring of 1845, at the age of five, driving oxen at the plow. He first drove one yoke and after a few weeks' experience was considered competent to handle two yoke from early morn until night. His opportunities to secure an education were few and mostly through his own efforts.

During the winter of 1845-46 nine of the family atended the district school across the road from the house, known as Burton's schoolhouse. When he was 12 years of age his father died, leaving a widowed mother with 11 children, one son having died a month previous. The eldest son, then being 21 years old, was put in charge of the farming and Henry F. went to live in the home of his brother-in-law, Nathaniel B. Wilcox, a farmer at Canterbury, to earn his way under a yearly contract of $25, being also furnished with board and clothes and having the privilege of attending the district school in the winter.

A year later he found ready employment with another brother-in-law, George N. Holmes, who was a farmer in Griswold, remaining two years. Thus he continued at farm work under various employers up to the age of 16, his ability becoming well known among the farmers and his services valuable, especially during the spring and summer months. In this way he was enabled to take preparatory schooling for a few weeks in autumn and winter, with a view to becoming a teacher of country schools during the winter, doing chores for his board. Returning to the home farm, which at this time was being operated by his elder brother, James B. Palmer, he remained there four years, and then went to North Stonington, where he was employed at farm work by Robert Billings, continuing with the latter for two years.

During these two years he fitted himself to become a teacher. In November 1860, he cast his first vote for Abraham Lincoln and the next day opened his first school. His salary was $16 a month, in addition to his board, which he secured by boarding out among his patrons. The school was held in a house standing on the line between the towns of Colchester and Salem, his pupils coming from both towns. Some were as old and fully as large as he, so that the young teacher had his hands full maintaining order and sustaining his dignity. He was highly successful, taking highest honors in the town for thoroughness and advancement in studies.

He taught in Griswold and Sprague and then came to Norwich as a teacher in the junior department of the Greeneville school. The next year, 1865, he resigned and with a former schoolmate, James L. Johnson, purchased a grocery store on lower Broadway. A short time later Mr. Johnson disposed of his interest to a half brother of Mr. Palmer, John B. Palmer, and the firm then became known as Palmer Bros. Two years later William Avery Cook purchased the interest of J. B. Palmer and the firm name was changed to Palmer & Cook. In 1869 Mr. Cook became the sole proprietor, Mr. Palmer selling his interest to accept an agency in a large life insurance company.

In November, 1870, Mr. Palmer went with the firm of J. B. Palmer & Co., at Millstone Point, Waterford, operating a large granite quarry. In the spring of 1880 he returned to Norwich to take charge of a large amount of real estate for the Norwich Savings Society. In 1890 Mr. Palmer branched out so as to embrace the placing of fire insurance. He took Henry M. Yerrington into partnership under the firm name of Palmer & Yerrington. Mr. Yerrington withdrew and was replaced by Woodbury O. Rogers, two years later, the firm name becoming Palmer & Rogers. Mr. Palmer continued in this business until a few years ago when he retired from active business.

In politics Mr. Palmer was a staunch republican. During the Civil war he was a member of the Union League. In 1864 he united with the Newent Congregational church at Lisbon and later transferred his membership to the old Second Congregational church. He served in 1904 as secretary of the Second Church Society committee. For some years he served as auditor for that church.

On May 14, 1868, Mr. Palmer was married to Emma V. Ward, daughter of Henry Ward. Mrs. Palmer died July 27, 1886, and on Dec. 8, 1902, Mr. Palmer was married to Mrs. Jennie (Shepard) Bushnell, daughter of Joshua and Emeline Shepard. Although he never had any children of his own, Mr. Palmer adopted two. One, Miss Annabelle Palmer, was born Sept. 17, 1878, in New York city and was graduated from the Norwich Free Academy in 1897, the Willimantic Normal, in 1901, and the Morse Business College, Hartford, 1903. The other, Louis Marsh, was born Sept. 16, 1888, and was graduated from the Free Academy.

Mr. Palmer was regarded as a real estate expert and his advice was eagerly sought upon all matters in his line of business. He took a very active part in the realty transactions of the city and town for years. He was widely known, popular and highly respected by his many friends and the news of his sudden death is a source of regret to all who knew him. He leaves no near relatives but there are a number of nieces and nephews.

SUMMONED TO COURT AFTER MOTOR CRASH

Victor Davis of Taftville was summoned to appear in the city court Tuesday morning on a reckless driving charge after a collision Friday night in Taftville with the machine owned and driven by Mrs. Isadore C. Barton of 277 Laurel Hill avenue. The Dodge car of Mr. Davis had the wheels and mudguards damaged. Mrs. Barton's Ford had all four wheels damaged wishbone bent, front spring broken, besides minor damages.

ORGAN CONCERT PROGRAM DELIGHTED CONGREGATION

A congregation of good numbers heard with the keenest pleasure and appreciation Sunday evening at the Central Baptist church the concert programme on the Gale memorial organ by Charles Leech Gulick, America's concert organist, whose rendering of his fine programme was a part of "the ministry of music in this community" to which the organ was dedicated as well as to the service of God.

Mr. Gulick revealed the master mind and hand that displayed the fine qualities of the organ and his playing was marked with great technical ability, as well as sympathy and facility in interpretation. The concert, which is one of ten that he is to give, was an opportunity to hear one of the great organists that his audience fully appreciated. The numbers were as follows:

Concert Overture — Faulkes
Romance — Lemare
Minuetto from Suite, "L'Arlesienne." — Mendelssohn
(a) Grave.
(b) Adagio
(c) Allegro maestoso vivace
(d) Fuga (with pedal cadenza)
Marche — Lefebure-Wely
Les Heures Bourguignonnes — Georges Jacob
(a) La Chanson du Berger
(b) En Revenant des Vignes
(c) La Ronde
Sonata Appassionata in D Minor — Mauro-Cottone
(First movement, manuscript)
Serenade — Moskowski
Overture — Rossini

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

Francis N. Bidwell was home from Boston over the week end.

Mrs. Calvin L. Swan, of Norwich, has been the guest of Mrs. F. A. Browne, of Greene, R. I.

Mrs. Robert Williams (Mary Bard) of the Mohican hotel, New London, formerly of Norwich, has been informing friends in local society of the coming visit of Mrs. Harris T. Baldwin, who is to address New London League of Women Voters at a public assembly in Hotel Mohican ball room, Friday next, at 4 o'clock. Men, as well as women, are privileged to hear Mrs. Baldwin, who is president of the College Women's Club, of Washington, also chairman of the living costs committee of the National League of Women Voters. A number of friends of Mrs. Williams plan to go down to attend the meeting.

MA FERGUSON CONGRATULATES MRS. NELLIE TAYLOR ROSS

Temple, Tex., Oct. 19—Mrs. Miriam Ferguson, democratic nominee for governor of Texas and first woman to achieve that distinction, has sent the following message of congratulations to Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross, Cheyenne, democratic gubernational nominee for Wyoming.

"Illness prevented me sending you my sincere congratulations upon your nomination for governor. I sympathize with you in the loss of your good husband and I rejoice with you in the resignation of your talents and ambition to take his place in the service of the people of Wyoming. With every wish for your success, I am, with much esteem, Miriam A. Ferguson."

FATALITY IN COLLISION OF TRAINS NEAR NIAGARA FALLS

Tonowanda, N. Y., Oct. 19—High speed trolley trains en route to Buffalo, carrying Philadelphia and New Jersey excursionists to Niagara Falls were wrecked at the Ellicott Creek crossing just inside of the city of Tonowanda this afternoon. One passenger was killed and approximately 45 injured.

The dead person is Florence Devery, 4416 North Third street, Philadelphia. Five other passengers are reported fatally injured. Reports from hospitals indicated that 20 per sons were seriously hurt and a score or more less severely injured.

There is no excuse for failing to pay your respects when talk is cheap.

MORE EASTERN ELEVENS FALL BY THE WAYSIDE IN SATURDAY'S GRID BATTLES

New York, Oct. 19—(By the A. P.)—The path of glory has already led most of the important football elevens of the east to early graves.

Only Harvard, Pennsylvania, Syracuse, Rutgers, W and J., Lafayette and Williams remain neither tied nor defeated. Yale, Dartmouth, Princeton and Lehigh, tied but not beaten, rest in a gridiron limbo, awaiting the possible coming of their undefeated rivals, all of whom have most of their important games yet to play.

Army, Columbia, Colgate Boston college, Carnegie Tech, Holy Cross and Bucknell were crowded from the consistly narrowing highway Saturday.

The cadets surrendered to the skill and the speed of Knute Rockne's stylists from Notre Dame. The score, 13 to 7, does not represent the margin of the Westerners' victory, the eighth of the series. Crowley, Miller and Layden, of the flying backfield, ran the ends and punched the line for sustained advances which almost added two touchdowns to their total. Army's only penetration of the Hoosier 35-yard line was capitalized by its score.

Rockne will return next week-end to meet the Princeton Tigers, who gave evidence against the Navy of developing into a typical fighting eleven which might capture the big three championship in a season that has not indicated an outstanding eleven at Yale or Harvard, both of whom were pressed hard again on Saturday.

The Tigers, after being pushed around consistently in the first half unleashed a forward pass attack in the second half which not only tied the score but permitted Saw Ewing, a substitute, to kick a field goal in the last quarter for a 17 to 14 victory.

Yale, also an underdog throughout the contest, fought to a 14-14 tie with the sturdy Dartmouth eleven. Green fumbles were converted by the Blue Ball Hawks into scores. Oberlander led a powerful Dartmouth attack that nearly earned two touchdowns and in the final quarter advanced another attempt to the two yard line, where a stiffened Yale line made a splendid stand. The blue then swept into position for an attempt at field goal which was missed.

Harvard, with Gehrke and Daley out of the lineup, made two touchdowns in the last quarter against a tiring Holy Cross team to win a 12-6 victory. Miller's fumble permitted the Holy Cross tally in the first period but his run in the final quarter won the game.

Rutgers loomed more impressive as its veteran team beat Cornell 10 to 0, the first shutout experienced by the big red and its second defeat, in four seasons. Benkert and Hazel starred for the boys from the Raritan. Cornell again lacked punch in the pinch.

MaBride scored all of the Syracuse points in its 10 to 0 victory over Boston college. He ran 60 yards for a score in the first quarter, made the point, and kicked a goal from placement in the third period. It was a hard-fought and rough game.

The new Columbia team promised a momentary leap to the first division when Pease ran 90 yards for a touchdown in returning the kickoff but hereafter the Penn line was so superior that Koppisch and Pease never had a chance to get beyond the scrimmage line. Thomas made a touchdown and Kruez kicked a field goal. Penn won 10 to 7.

W. and J. beat Carnegie Tech 10-0. Lafayette humbled Bucknell 21 to 3 and Williams continued its winning streak with a 21 to 6 win over R. P. I. Pitt and West Virginia had easy time with Johns Hopkins and Geneva. Lehigh defeated Dickinson 21 to 6.

FABER'S ALL-STARS FAIL TO LIVE UP TO THEIR NAME

They called themselves the All-Stars but it is beyond imagination how "they get that way," the Has-Beens or the Would-Bees would be more appropriate. By All-Stars it is meant the team that Joey Faber, the Baltimore Oriole shortstop, collected to play against the Riverview team Saturday afternoon. The game was a weird affair that reeked with errors on the part of the All-Stars and a terrible slaughter on the part of the Riverview batsmen who pounded out a 13 to 4 victory over the All-Stars. Faber's team a week ago played a 16-inning scoreless tie with the Riverview club and were so puffed up over this splendid showing that they would have been willing to gamble the Washington Senators for fun, money or marbles. As the old saying goes "Pride goeth before a fall" and to go on quoting "Great was the fall thereof." Faber, not satisfied with the outcome of the scoreless game was not satisfied to let well enough alone but insisted on another game. From all reports Joey is more than satisfied and baseball will be a distasteful topic with him during the coming winter.

To describe the game and give a box score would be a difficult task and waste of space, other than to say that it was terrible. Errors played an important part in the scoring and for the last two innings Riverview threw in all the subs that they could rake and scrape together and still the All-Stars failed to star. However, in justice to Joe Faber, it must be said that Riverview had a much stronger team than the one they sent against the stars the week before. In Saturday's lineup was Dinty Moore, Lefty Harrell, Jack Clabby, Jack Sank, West, Mills, Couillard, Belair and Burns. In fact it was the strongest team yet.

MOOSUP WINDS UP SEASON WITH VICTORY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Moosup, Oct. 19.—The Moosup town team officially closed its 1924 season here today with a 5 to 3 victory over the fast Webster team. With the exception of the first inning Moosup played brilliant baseball and Toney West let the hard hitting visitors down with two scattered hits. In the first inning West was wild and passed two men and then Joey Faber mussed up a ground ball which was followed by a hit that netted the visitors their three tallies.

Moosup came back in their half of the first inning with one run when Faber singled and stole second and scored on Clabby's single. Moosup scored again in the fourth inning when Couillard was passed and Harry Mills poled out a double that sent Couillard around the sacks. Moosup won the game in the fifth inning when Kendricks was safe and Faber was passed, Clabby then poled out a triple that drove in Kendricks with the tying run and Faber with the winning run, but was left stranded on the bags. The final tally came in the eighth inning when Mills singled and was brought home on Liberte's double.

The game was of the same good quality of fast baseball that has featured the games at the Carpet Grounds this season and the crowd, which was large, thoroughly enjoyed it. There has been urgent requests that another game be played at the Carpet Grounds before the weather gets too cold and Manager Loughran is considering playing another game next Sunday.

The score:

Brady and Harmon Win.

Waterbury, Oct. 19.—Mike Brady, Metropolitan open champion and Tommy Harmon, professional at St. Albans, N. Y., defeated Johnny Farrell, medalist in the professional golfers' tourney this year, and Tommy Kerrigan, runner-up in the English open in 1922, three up and two to play, in 36 holes of exhibition golf at the Waterbury Country club today. Harmon had a card of 146, Farrell 147; Brady 148, and Kerrigan 154. The high wind kept the morning scores high.

EPINARD TO BE SHIPPED BACK TO NATIVE LAND

Washington, Oct. 19.—Epinard, noted French race horse that ended defeats in three international specials on American tracks by faring badly at Laurel, Md., on Saturday, will be shipped to New York during the coming week to sail for France within a fortnight. In making this announcement tonight, Eugene Leigh, his trainer, explained that Epinard came out of the Laurel race with a cracked quarter that precludes him from going to the post again this year.

Wheather the famous race horse incurred the injury before or during the race is a matter for controversy here. Clarence Kummer, the jockey, and Leigh, said the horse was maimed in the race. Some who watched him saddled for the event said he went in with the injury.

WALSH INJURED IN GAME WITH ARMY

New York, Oct. 19.—Adam Walsh, Notre Dame captain and star center, will not be able to play against Princeton next Saturday nor against Georgia Tech on the following week end, it was learned tonight.

Walsh went into the Army game yesterday despite the handicap of a broken bone in his left hand. In the second period his right hand was similarly injured but he continued in the battle as the mainstay of the line and in the closing minutes of the contest broke up an Army assault by intercepting a forward pass.

Walsh's home is in Hollywood, Cal.

Gibbons and Conroy Matched.

Dayton, Ohio, Oct. 19.—Tommy Gibbons, St. Paul heavyweight and Mike Conroy, Rochester, New York, will meet in a 12 round decision here Oct. 29. Conroy holds a knockout over Siki.

The British amateur golf championship was first played in 1886.

BULKELEY RUNS ROUGH-SHOD OVER THE HUSKEY TEAM FROM NAUGATUCK

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, Oct. 19.—Without any possible invulnerable qualities, a potent Bulkeley football machine ran rough shod over the excellent drilled Naugatuck High school eleven at Morgan park Saturday afternoon to the extent of two touch downs and a field goal. Presenting a varied attack that had the visitors bewildered from the first whistle, Bulkeley made and carried out definite plans that ultimately drove the visitors to submission—and that by a 16 to 0 score.

For the second time in two weeks, local football fans saw a Bulkeley football machine that without doubt is the greatest ever turned out at the local institution play rings around their "Naugy" rivals. An eleven that except for the final few minutes of play, carried force behind its offensive attack and a strong defense game, that gave local admirers and cohorts of the eleven little room for choice of a better functioning eleven. The faults which were very few in comparison to the last minute substitutions made because of injuries to the regular team members, found the Bulkeley team as a whole losing none of its effectiveness.

A field general of the highest order, picking his plays like a diner with a discriminating taste to pick only the best edibles which tickled his palate best was the diminutive Henkle. And working with Henkle, were two halfbacks that have yet to be duplicated on local soil, Walter Rice and Captain Sheflott. Squirming and reversing their field for continued long gains, which put the ball in position for a final assault upon the visitors' goal line, both Rice and Sheflott were almost impossible to stop.

But here we pause for a minute before continuing on with the story to city a few of the brilliant runs made by Rice. The blond haired Orange and Black halfback was the only consistent gainer, and it was a sure gain when he took the ball. His end runs and off tackle slants with the art of dodging wouldbe tacklers, provided the thrill of the afternoon's program which was so very favorable to Bulkeley's chances for the State High school championship. Rice is Bulkeley's best bet as a broken field runner, in this department he can not be excelled, and then his punting and forward passing were the most important factors in the entire Bulkeley victory. His 30-yard pass to Sheflott in the initial quarter netted Bulkeley its first score, and then to top it off he booted a pretty drop kick from the 37½ yard line with no apparent effort whatsoever. His punting in exchanges netted Bulkeley gains from 15 to 25 yards each time. But then here was where Henkle's run back of punts featured.

To keep Bulkeley's slate clean for the season thus far a defense to cope with the opposing teams play must be had, and this Bulkeley had in the forward line of the team. The entire line must be commended for the truly brilliant manner in which they smothered all Naugatuck's attempts to advance the ball. There was no individual line star, but all seven forwards played hard throughout.

Naugatuck kicked off to Bulkeley to start the game. It was a confident Naugatuck team, with nearly 100 or more rooters on the side lines. But their cheers did not compete with the hoarseness of nearly 2,000 odd local fans who never failed to applaud or cheer a good play. Bulkeley received the ball, but after Rice had kicked the offensive drive of the locals began to assert itself. Naugatuck punted back, and nearly fifteen yards were gained by the exchange of punts. The ball rested on Bulkeley's own 42 yard line and then the Orange and Black backfield began a hard drive to the Naugatuck goal. It was Rice 8, Sheflott 4, Henkle 2, and so forth with the ball resting on the enemy's 20-yard line in a short time. It was third down with nearly nine yards to go, and the first forward pass tried by the Bulkeley quarterback came in the next play. It was beautifully executed, Rice to Sheflott, who after receiving it dodged two Naugatuck men for the first goal of the game. The try for extra point was missed by Sheflott.

Rice's punts were averaging a good 46 yards, and the Bulkeley ends were doing deadly work with the receivers, nailing their men in their tracks. The second quarter found the offensive of both teams equally on the decline and a break was only awaited. But the punting duel and the ability to run back gave Bulkeley a decided advantage in this warfare. It was after the ball had been brought to the Naugatuck 31-yard stripe when Rice was elected to drop the ball between the goal posts. He did so and three points more were added to the Bulkeley total. The half ended and the score stood Bulkeley 9 Naugatuck 0.

As pointed out by the coaches of the "Big Three" triumvirate College teams, Yale, Harvard and Princeton, follow the ball. The Bulkeley ends have been doing this in the previous games, and Saturday a slight reward for their vigilance was made. Hutchison going down under one of Rice's punts, followed the ball so closely that as soon as the Naugatuck quarterback fumbled the pigskin he was Johnny on the spot and recovered not by falling on the loose spheriod, but scooping the ball up and continuing on to the goal line unmolested. It was smart work and alertness won Bulkeley its third score of the afternoon. Rice kicked the goal after touchdown and the final score read 16 to 0 in Bulkeley's favor.

Naugatuck left the Whaling town a badly defeated outfit, for they expected little opposition from the light Orange and Black team. Whatever visions they had for the state title went up in blue smoke, and they are not forever out of the mixup which will follow in the following Saturday's.

The lineup:

Bulkeley		Naugatuck
Daniels	Right End	Lyenel
Watterson	Right Tackle	Kazewkas
Brown	Right Guard	Hermanat
Dillon	Center	Quinn
Davis	Left Guard	Keating
Gavitt	Left Tackle	Phillips

CHAPMAN TECH WINS EASILY OVER KILLINGLY

(Special to The Bulletin)

Killingly, Oct. 19.—Continuing their unbeatable football of the past two weeks, Chapman Tech added Killingly High to its list of conquested elevens, by taking the up river team into camp by a 20 to 0 score on Saturday. Victory came Tech's way as expected, but the Red and Black machine for a time took the aspect of a stage fright eleven and let the home players get the ball to their 20-yard line. But here a fumble intervened the Killingly progress towards the Tech goal and it was scooped up by Cruise the Tech tackle who ran nearly eighty yards for a touchdown.

The remainder of the game was all Tech's. The Killingly outfit seemingly lost all of its effectiveness in both defense and offense. The backfield of the Killingly eleven was especially lax in watching the opposing backs, and two long runs by Tech's backfield men netted two more touchdowns and brought the score up to 20 points, after Brown had kicked the two extra points after the touchdowns.

The second quarter with Tech leading by a 6 to 0 score, Tech began to get to work in an ernest manner. A series of plays brought the ball to the center of the field after Tech had received, and immediately Kannenberg slipped through an opeging in the center of the line and before his hulk had been raised much above the ground he was clear of all of the Killingly forwards and secondary defense players. He scored the second Tech touchdown, but this was not enough and Johnny Brown soon inserted one of his weekly runs. The ball rested on the 41-yard line and was in Killingly's territory when Brown with fine broken field running never stopped until he had traversed the final chalk mark for Tech's third and last touchdown.

All this time while the Eastern Connecticut league leaders had been busy corralling points for themselves, Killingly was helpless both in advancing the ball and attempting to stop the Tech backs. Little ground was gained outside of that by Haveles at quarterback, who did essay the role of a football back.

The game throughout was mostly straight football, and only one pass tried by Chapman Tech was completed and would have netted a fourth touchdown, but it was called void when a Tech player was called off side. A complete second team entered the game for Tech in the third period and they seemed to hold the Killingly players without much trouble.

The lineup:

Chapman Tech		Killingly
Aquillo	Right End	Fulton
Cruise	Right Tackle	Gallop
Carron	Right Guard	Bowlers
Martin	Center	Jaworski
Pongetti	Left Guard	Ashworth
B. Hewitt	Left Tackle	Walker
Everts	Quarterback	Haveles
J. Brown	Left Halfback	Armington
Williams	Right Halfback	Neilson
Kannenberg	Fullback	Crosby

Score by quarters:

Touchdowns, Kannenberg, Cruise, J. Brown. Points after touchdowns, J. Brown (2) by drop kick. Referee, Zimmerman. Umpire Littleworth. Head linesman, MacDougal. Time of quarters, 2 10's, 2 12's. Substitutions, Chapman Tech, Courbois for Everts, Zaparaniok for Williams, Sachatello for Caruso, L. Hewitt for Cruise, M. Brown for Courbois, Davey for Pongetti, White for Carron, Seagraves for J. Brown, Miller for Kannenberg, Kopp for Martin, Rowland for Aquillo, Knox for B. Hewitt, Kalil for Everts.

WINDHAM HIGH HAS TOUGH TIME BEATING MIDDLETOWN

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, Oct. 19.—Rushing the ball upfield, Windham High's undefeated football aggregation registered a touchdown in the third period at Recreation Park Saturday, which proved to be the margin of victory over the Middletown High eleven. The score was 6 to 0. "Tommy" Meikle, in his attempt for the extra point with a dropkick, was unsuccessful.

The two teams battled without either getting an advantage in the first half, Wilkinson crossed the opposing goal line for a five yard gain.

Windham was without the services of her star end, Arnold Storrs, and his absence affected the team play considerably although "Chick" Lariviere showed up well.

The invaders out-weighed Windham by a wide margin. The result was that Windham's representatives did not show up to so good advantage as on their last exhibition.

This coming Saturday afternoon Weaver High will appear in this city. The summary:

Windham		Middletown
Usher	R. E.	Dunn
Tomasko	R. T.	(Capt.) Powers
Cohen	R. G.	Johnson
Hernberg	C.	McCarthy
Sawicki	L. G.	Uhlberg
Burton (Capt.)	L. T.	Goff
Lariviere	L. T.	McAllister
I. Prater	Q. B.	Pratt
Wilkinson	F. B.	Fitzpatrick
Nichols	R. H. B.	Witkowski
Meikle	L. H. B.	Newberg

The score by periods:

Windham	0	0	6	0	—6

100 PERSONS INJURED WHEN A GRANDSTAND COLLAPSED

Chicago, Oct. 19—More than 100 persons were injured today when a grandstand holding a thousand spectators at a football game collapsed.

Immediately after the accident the management of the park ordered the gates closed and it was two hours later before police and ambulances could gain entrance to move the injured. No explanation for the action was given by the management.

A professional football game was scheduled to start at 2.30 o'clock. A few minutes before that time the stand, packed with rooters, began to settle. In a minute it was on the ground, the spectators buried in the debris.

Shouts of the spectators and groans from those hurt prompted persons outside the park to call the police, who, upon arriving, found the gates barred. An attendant was questioned as to the report that there had been an accident but he replied that nothing had happened. Two hours later relatives and friends began arriving at the Pullman hospital with the injured, and the police were rushed to the park again. Three investigations were immediately started.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE RESTED OVER SUNDAY

Washington, Oct 19—President Coolidge spent today resting after a rather strenuous week.

The president and Mrs. Coolidge attended services this morning at the First Congregational church. They were accompanied by Mrs. Frank W. Stearns, of Boston, and Charles A. Littlefield of Lynn, Mass., white house guests.

Two speeches are on the program of Mr. Coolidge for this week. Thursday night he will address the eastern division of the chamber of commerce of the United States meeting here and Saturday he will deliver a talk by radio to the meeting of the federated societies of Jewish charities in New York. The Thursday night address also will be broadcast.

Commander Evangeline Booth, national leader of the Salvation Army, preached at the First Congregational church service. After the sermon she was escorted by the president down the aisle to the sidewalk.

WARDEN SAYS CAPITAL PUNISHMENT A FAILURE

Ossining, N. Y., Oct. 19—In an address at the Summerfield Methodist church in Port Chester today, Warden Lewis E. Lawes of Sing Sing prison characterized capital punishment as "a signal failure." "The very elements which make it unenforceable," he said, "are its human ones which cannot be overcome."

Warden Lawes declared that during a recent six year period death sentences were imposed for only three per cent. of 1,800 homicides in New York City.

Low educational standards are among the principal causes of lawlessness, in his opinion. "Sixty five per cent of the inmates of Sing Sing during the fiscal year just ended were below the eighth grade of grammar school in training," he said.

Warden Lawes closed his address, however, by saying:

"I don't believe crime in general is as rampant as it is popularly supposed to be."

HALL IN TOMPSONVILLE DAMAGED $15,000 BY FIRE

Thompsonville, Conn., Oct. 19—St. Joseph's Hall, a large farme structure in Pearl street, was damaged by fire tonight, the loss being estimated at $15,000. The fire was first discovered in the basemetn of the hall at six o'clock and is supposed to have been started by a cigarette thrown into some leaves in an outside cellar way. This fire supposedly was extinguished but at 10 o'clock it was found that the building again was on fire, presumably from sparks from the previous blaze. The fire worked up through the partitions the entire length of the building.

The building was erected 16 years ago as St. Patrick's church and was used as a church until 1904. Since then it has been used as a parochial school and for club rooms for the various church organizations.

SEARCHING FOR HUNTER IN WOODS NEAR SARANAC LAKE

Saranac Lake, N. Y., Oct. 19—After a week's futile search, hope for the life of Leighton Goodell, 64 years old hunter, who was lost in the forest last Sunday, has been abandoned and extreme doubts are expressed by leaders of the searching parties that his body ever will be discovered.

NEW LONDON POLICE ACTIVE IN WEEK END RAIDING

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, Oct. 19.—New London's raiding force, County Detective Willian Lewis, Prohibition Enforcement Agents Joseph Fitzpatrick and Harry W. Avery, Sergeants Samuel Hick and John Cavanaugh and Patrolman John Sullivan resumed activities Saturday night in a further attempt to put a stop to the bootlegging and selling of liquor in the city. As a result aided by information supplied by two stool pigeons, four arrests were made, it being claimed by the stool pigeons that they obtained liquor at each of the places where the proprietors were taken into custody. But little evidence of the existence of liquor for sale was found at any of the places.

The accused were Teafil Heberck, 300 Main St.; George Kupidlowoski, 65 Mountain Ave., Geo. Sabagh, proprietor of a pool room, 137 Main street, and Angelo Gardena, Mitchell court. All were held in bonds of $750 and obtained sureties for their appearance in the police court Monday morning.

The stool pigeons have been at work seeking evidence about the city for a week and upon their information Prosecuting Attorney Daniel Cronin issued warrents for the arrests. In each instance it is claimed that the stool pigeons purchased liquor between the 14th and 19th insts.

At the Gardena place, the officers seized about six gallons of alcohol hidden beneath a stairway. At the Kupidlowoski house, a quantity of homemade wine was found and samples of it was taken. At the Heberck and Sabagh places but little evidence other than empty whiskey bottles was found.

The police of this city with Prohibition Agents Fitzpatrick and Avery, Detective Lewis started out Friday evening to stop some of the liquor selling in this city. They haled three accused before the police court Saturday. The officers landed Amelia Delpra of Smith street, and Edward Khiki of North Bank street, in court, where they were fined, the former $400 and the latter $200. Both paid and settled the costs of getting them up to the bar of justice, instead of behind the bar

Peter Mross stepped up and answered when charged with selling liquor. He was represented by an attorney and demurred to the complaint. Peter reckoned on his cunning to escape arrest. He had arranged a place for a jug of liquor in a stairway that led to his poolroom, corner of North Bank and John street. His patronage was from men of his own nationality largely and he felt reasonably sure they would not squeal on him.

The police were convinced that Peter was selling liquor, thy obtained a search warrant and made the discovery of the hidden jug. Judge Crandall, who was on the bench, fined Peter $400. He had a roll of bills with which he settled. He has before had experience with the courts for the same offense and paid dearly for it. Judge Allyn L. Brown fined him heavily and sent him to jail for six months. He is said to have paid then some $700 to the lawyer who defended him unsuccessfull. That didn't teach him wisdom for he conceived a scheme that he thought was proof against arrest—the plan that has now cost him some $500.

John Gentilella was also accused by the raiders with selling liquor, but the case did not get to a trial. John is alleged to have sold to the young rowdies who bought at the Delpra house. He says he is wrongfully accused. Next Wednesday the case will come to trial.

The officers in making a tour of Main street, came upon a suspicious looking truck between Hill and Richards streets, which had come to a stop beside the curb. An inspection of the truck was made, but no trace of liquor was found. The truck was laden with furniture and was en route from Massachusetts to New York.

James Mascicci, Miss Theresa Spinato and James and William Colbert, of Westerly, and Miss Rose Capane, of Groton, patients at Lawrence hospital, were discharged Saturday.

An unidentified youth was struck by an automobile owned and operated by Theodore N. Hansen, 25 Learned street, Saturday afternoon on Main street, near the corner of John street. The boy regained his feet and disappeared through John street before his identity could be established.

James Davis, about 40, a wayfarer, who claims to reside in Worcester, Mass., is a patient at Lawrence hospital suffering from a fractured left leg and injuries to his right wrist, sustained by falling from a freight train of the New Haven railroad Friday night. Davis was found by railroad employes at the Midway yard lying beside the rails and declared that he had fallen from a train the night before and had been there the greater part of the night. Davis was brought to New London and after having been treated by a physician at Union station, he was transferred to the hospital.

George Sheehan, familiarly known as "Cowboy" Sheehan, who at one time had aspirations to become a boxer, was arrested Saturday night at the hotel Monohan, charked with intoxication. He was released today when his father, William Sheehan, qualified as surety on his bonds of $25 for appearance in the police court tomorrow morning.

Sheehan went to the hotel intoxicated and became so annoying to the guests and hotel employes that the police were complained to. Patrolman Augustus Ray placed Sheehan under arrest.

An automobile owned by the city of New London and operated by Leslie Williams, employed by the water and sewer department, and a machine owned and driven by Mrs. Fred Ahearn, 21 Elm street, Westerly, collided Saturday night, corner of Ocean and Lee avenues. The city's car sustained the greater amount of damage.

Edward Keefe and C. A. Stanley, sailors aboard the U. S. S. Savannah, at anchor in the harbor, were arrested Saturday evening, by Traffic Officer William Corcoran and Patrolman Patrick Sheehan and Michael Dorsey charged with intoxication. The sailors were later turned over to a naval guard and taken back to their ship.

Edward Hickey and John McDonough were arrested on Mill street, near Winthrop school Saturday evening, by Patrolmen Patrick Sheehan and Michael Dorsey and Traffic Officer William Corcoran, charged with intoxication. Hickey and McDonough are old offenders and were creating a disturbance.

Edward Spinner was taken into custody, Saturday night, by Patrolman Augustus Ray when Spinner was found helplessly drunk on North Bank street.

Edward Morley of Hartford, brother of Mike Morley, well known welterweight fighter, put a scheme into operation in New London by which he intended to secure funds without working, but he was unsuccessful, although from advices received by officials of Lawrence hospital from institutions about the state Morley has been highly successful. Morley went to Williams Memorial park last evening and when pedestrians appeared along Hempstead street he lay on the grass and began to moan. His groaning was heard by pedestrians, who went to his aid and believing Morley ill, the police were notified. Patrolman Augustus Ray responded and Morley was brought to the police station where City Physician George P. Cheney examined Morley, but could not detect any organic trouble. However, as a precautionary measure, Morley was taken to the hospital where he remained under observation during the night. With no symptoms of ailment visible this forenoon the hospital authorities communicated with hospitals in Hartford where inquiry was made of Morley and it then developed that Morley had made a practice to go to cities about the state and feign illness on the street and after being removed to a hospital for treatment he would secure loans from hospital employes and then go to another city and put his scheme into operation again.

Mrs. Orville E. Clark, of West Pleasant street, is visiting friends in Hartford.

Miss Dorothy Little, daughter of the late Joseph Little, was injured Saturday evening as she stepped from a street car at Pacific street when she was returning to her home. As she stepped to the ground an automobile passed and struck her, hurling her to the street, bruised and shaken. She got to her home where it is expected she must remain for a week or more. Murray Cascio, 440 Ocean avenue, was arrested later, upon complaint of Motorman John B. Bates, Cascio is proprietor of two taxicabs that operate from the Union station.

The new First district school in Groton will be dedicated Wednesday, the 22nd inst. The building is of eight rooms, but only six of them will be made use of at present, the others being held in reserve. The school building supercedes the Groton Heights school which was inadequate for the requirements of the district.

Billings Avery, for 17 years a member of Ledyard Grange, P. of H., had a birthday Friday and was presented a fountain pen and other gifts by members of the grange, at the time of the working of the third and fourth degrees upon a class of twelve candidates. Mr. Avery has missed but three meetings in his 17 years of membership.

The funeral of Nora, widow of William T. Curtin, was held Saturday morning at 9 o'clock at St. John's church, Montville, and was attended by a large assemblage of mourners. A mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. James A. O'Meara, the pastor. The bearers were William Smiddy, John Doyle, Daniel Devine and Thomas Doyle, all of Montville. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, this city.

Funeral services for Irene Phillips, wife of George Nelson Smith, of New Haven, formerly of New London, were held Saturday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Smith's sister, Mrs. Frank R. Payne, 161 Howard street, this city. Rev. Joseph R. Elder, pastor of Huntington street Baptist church, officiated. Relatives of Mrs. Smith acted as bearers. Burial was in the family plot in Jordan cemetery.

Alfred White, 19, is being sought by the state police of the Centerbrook and Groton barracks and by the New London police, for a burglary. White is alleged to have perpetrated in Guilford, earlier in the day. It is alleged that White, who is described as being about five feet, eight inches in height, stole a black broadcloth suit, two gold watches, a chain and $46.50 from his employer. When last seen, White was headed toward New London, but no trace of him was found in this city.

City Manager William A. Holt has suggested to Captain of Police C. A. Pinney that the registration of all cars, whose owners fail to comply with the law regarding the display of lights be filed at the police station. As a result of the suggestion the many patrolmen have deposited at the police station a list of numbers of car owners, who have been operating their machines without tail lights and with but one headlight showing.

Louis Burnett and Girolami Giri, both of Smith street, engaged in a row near their home this evening. Both were arrested, charged with breach of the peace, Burnet and Giri furnished a cash bond for their appearance in the police court tomorrow morning.

COLUMBIA

Miss Rachel Emily Hutchins of Columbia and Howard Arthur Stanley of Andover, surrounded by many friends and amidst beautiful floral decorations were united in marriage at the Columbia Congregational church on Saturday October 18th at 2 p. m. by the pastor Rev. C. C. Haun.

Prior to the wedding ceremony instrumental music was furnished by Mrs. F. A. Abel, pianist, A. E. Lyman cornetist and Mr. Boucar violinist. The following selections were rendered—Melody Sweet Recollections; Reverie Garden of Flowers; Andante Violin Solo; Duet, Violin and Horn; Nocturne followed by the solo O Promise Me by Mrs. Philip Isham.

The bride entered the church walking with her father as the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin was played.

She wore a gown of white georgette. Her tulle veil was caught in a coronet of lace held by a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of bride roses.

She was preceded by the ushers, Lawrence A. Hutchins brother of the bride and John H. Yeomans of Andover cousin of the bride, the bridesmaids Miss Inez Little of Framingham Center, Mass., cousin of the bride and Miss Dorothy Lathrop of Simsbury, Conn., the groom's cousin. They wore frocks of almond green canton crepe, with black picture hats and carried yellow roses. The maid of honor the bride's sister, Miss Margaret E. Hutchins was gowned in canary canton crepe, wore a hat to match and carried Orphelia roses.

The bride was met in the church by the groom accompanied by his best man, his brother, Lawrence C. Stanley.

At the conclusion of the marriage service the bridal party left the church during the playing of Mendelssohn's wedding march. At the home of the bride's parents on Chestnut Hill a reception was held attended by about 90 guests, many of whom came from Meriden, East Hampton, Framingham Center, Mass., New York, Hartford, Norwich, Boston, Simsbury, South Coventry, Woodbury, Rockville, Cromwell and Andover.

The bride is a daughter of former State Representative and Mrs. Henry B. Hutchins. She was educated in the local school, Windham High and Willimantic State Normal schools and until this fall has been a teacher in the Nathaniel White school, Cromwell, Conn.

The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Stanley of Andover and is engaged in the lumber business with his father.

The decorations at the church were in charge of six young friends of the bride, the color scheme being green, yellow and white. The house was decorated with autumn leaves and fall flowers.

The bride received many handsome gifts including silver, cut glass, linen, china, money etc. Her gifts to the maid of honor and bridesmaids were bracelets.

After their honeymoon trip, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley who are motoring for a week will be at home Nov. 1st and will occupy a newly furnished residence in Andover, recently purchased by the groom.

One mag was wounded and another shot at by two armed bandits who held up two payroll clerks of the Schmidt Musical Instrument company, Jersey City, N. POETRY FOR THE WIDE AWAKES

Seven Times Two

You bells in the steeple, ring, ring, ring, out your changes,
How many soever they be,
And let the brown meadow-lark's note
as he ranges
Come over, come over to me.

Yet birds' clearest carol by fall or by swelling
No magical sense conveys,
And bells have forgotten their old art of telling
The fortune of future days.

"Turn again, turn again," once they rang cheerily
While a boy listened alone:
Made his heart yearn again, musing so wearily
All by himself on a stone.

Poor bells! I forgive you; your good days are over,
And mine, they are yet to be.
No listening, no longing, shall aught discover,
You leave the story to me.

The foxglove shoots out of the green matted heather,
Preparing her hoods of snow;
She was idle and slept till the sunshiny weather:
O, children take long to grow.

I wish, and I wish that the Spring would go faster,
Nor long Summer bide so late;
And I could grow on like foxglove and aster,
For some things are ill to wait.

I wait for the day when dear hearts shall discover,
While dear hands are laid on my head:
"The child is a woman, the book may close over,
For all the lessons are said."

I wait for my story—the birds cannot sing it,
Not one, as he sits on the tree;
The bells cannot ring it, but long years, O, bring it!
Such as I wish it to be.

—Jean Ingelow.

Columbus

Behind him lay the gray Azores,
Behind the gates of Hercules;
Before him not the ghost of shores,
Before him only shoreless seas.
The good mate said: "Now must we pray,
For, lo! the very stars are gone.
Brave Admiral, speak; what shall I say?"
"Why, say: 'Sail on, sail on, and on!'"

They sailed. They sailed. Then spake the mate:
"This mad sea shows his teeth tonight:
He curls his lip, he lies in wait,
With lifted teeth, as if to bite;
Brave Admiral, say but one good word:
What shall we do when hope is gone?"
The words leapt as a leaping sword:
"Why, say: 'Sail on, sail on, and on!'"

Then, pale and worn, he kept his deck
And peered through darkness. Ah, that night
Of all dark nights! And then a speck—
A light! A light! A light! A light!
It grew, a starlight flag unfurled!
It grew to be Time's burst of dawn.
He gained a world; he gave that world
Its greatest lesson: "On! Sail on!"

—Joaquin Miller.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE AWAKES

All of us at some time or other are afflicted with colds. With a great many people colds are periodic, that is, they put in an appearance at more or less regular intehvals and people take them as a matter of course, as something that cannot be avoided and must be borne patiently until they disappear.

Perhaps many of the Wide Awakes, especially the older members of the club, know how people catch cold but for the benefit of those who don't know how to avoid colds it may be well to explain some of the causes of a cold.

In the first place colds are caused not so much by the chilling of the body as to living in stuffy rooms, where there is little fresh air and sunlight. People who live open air lives are for the most part free from colds, whatever exposure to extremes of weather they have to undergo.

It is also true that people who bathe regularly in the open are generally free from colds. The immersion of the head under water thoroughly washes the mucous membrane of the nose and throat clearing the breathing apparatus. It is a known fact that chilly people are thin and have poor flabby muscles.

There is little harm in the practice of going out and feeling cold until warmed by exercise. We should wear the lightest clothing that can be borne without the wearer being pinched and shivering with the cold. Only the old people and feeble people who require very warm clothing, this being due to the fact that it is difficult for them to become warm by exercise.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE AWAKES

GOING TO THE WOODS

Dear Uncle Jed: One bright morning we went in the woods. It was a very beautiful day to go. Mildred, Helen, Rosa and I went to the woods. As we were walking along we saw many kinds of birds. We saw two squirrels. We found some nuts, and we sat down in the leaves. For a while we put some nuts by the tree for the little squirrel. The squirrel came down and took the nuts and ran up the tree. She was very glad to get some nuts. It was twelve o'clock. We found some apple trees. We could not get some, so Mildred shook the tree. The apples fell. Each of us had two. We went home. Thomas and I went to the garden. We took a basket and our dog, and we took a hoe. We dug up some carrots, beets, celery, and on the way we picked some apples, grapes and tomatoes.

It was two oclock. We went out in our play meadows, the dog played with us. I jumped rope and Thomas played bat and ball. By six o'clock we ate our supper. Before we went to bed we brushed our teeth and drank one glass of milk. We went to bed at eight o'clock. We opened our windows before we went to bed. In the morning we got up at seven o'clock. It was beautiful outdoors. We had an excellent time that day.

ANNIE SHIRSHAC, Age 11.

IN NEW YORK

Dear Uncle Jed: When I was living in New York, one day my friend and I went to the city. We took some rides on the merry-go-round and then we bought a bag of peanuts, some ice cream, and candy, and then we went for a ride in an airplane. I won a doll which I gave a friend.

Now I live on a large farm near Preston City and I do not have a chance to ride any more, but I expect to go back to New York again.

MORRIS HELLER, Age 9.
Preston.

OUR PICNIC

Dear Uncle Jed: My mother, father some others and myself went on a picnic. We carried our dinner. For dinner we had sandwiches, cake cookies, pie, orange crush, birchbeer and watermelon. We didn't drink all the orange crush and birch beer, so we took the rest home. We saved the watermelon till later in the day. Some of us went out fishing. I caught three pumpkin seeds. When we took the boat back we got some pond lilies. Then we had to come home.

RUTH LATIMER, Age 9.
South Coventry.

A GOOD TIME

Dear Uncle Jed: One day our family went to the beach. On the way the tire blew out. It took a long time to put a new one on. We got there about nine o'clock. First we played in the sand. Then we had our dinner. The sand was hot in the sun. We all got sunburned. After we had our dinner we went in bathing. We stayed in until we went home. We put on our coats and started for home. On the way home we stopped and had our supper and got dressed. We got home at about eight o'clock. We were all tired. We took the things out of the auto and took them into the house. Then we went to bed. We didn't get up very early the next morning.

MARION WHITE.
South Coventry.

A LETTER FROM THE FARM

Dear Uncle Jed: I live on a farm about four miles from Plainfield. I have a nice collie dog whose name is Rex and a cat named Tom. I have no brothers nor sisters. I go to Plainfield every Saturday afternoon. I have never written to you before but as I have seen others letters in this paper I have made up my mind to write you a letter and be a Wide Awake. I go to school every day and like to study very much. It is a mile from my house to school. Maybe I will write to you next week.

FLORENCE BENJAMIN, Age 11
Plainfield.

OUR SCHOOLROOM

Dear Uncle Jed: Our school is called Newent. We have two rooms in our school, the hall and the school room. We started our school, Sept 21, 1924. I like my teacher very much. We had new books this year. There are eight grades in our school. One teacher teaches all the grades. There are twenty-six boys and girls in our school.

HOW I EARNED SOME MONEY

Uncle Jed: One morning when I went to the store for my mother. The store man asked me if I could pack some potatoes, when I packed enough I brought them up and he weighed them. Then when I went home that night he called me back so when I went back he game me a dollar.

MAKING CAKE

Dear Uncle Jed: As I have nothing else to do just now I thought I would write to tell about my experience in making cake. One day my mother said, I could make a cake. I said all right. The recipe which I used was: 1-2 cup of butter, 1 cup of sugar, 2 eggs, 1-2 level teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon lemon or vanilla extract, 2 scant cups of flour, and 2 level teaspoons baking powder. Cook 25 minutes. I hope some of the other Wide Awakes can do the same.

MY DOG

Dear Uncle Jed: This is my first letter. My dog is brown and white. Her name is Goldie. She runs away from home so my father ties her up. She can chase the cows. She is very old. She barks when she sees anyone coming.

ON A CAMPING TRIP

Dear Uncle Jed: When we arrived in Bennington, Vermont, we hunted around for a camping ground. We had to hunt all around but at last we found one. It was a very nice camp and we found everything we would need. When we first arrived we saw a sign. It said, "Entering the town of Kiddie Kar." Then we saw a church and a few houses.

Our next stop was in New Hampshire before we entered the White Mountains. Then we entered the White Mountains. Our next stop was at Indian Head. There were two great big bears

AT THE LAKE

Dear Uncle Jed: On the fourth of July we had a picnic over at Sandy slope. We had cake, sandwiches, fudge, ice cream, soda, lemonade, pickles, olives and cookies. We played bean bag, baseball, went swimming and we had some races. There was a little squirrel went under the wall. He had taken a piece of cake off from the plate. We had a nice time that day.

A TRIP INTO THE WOODS

Dear Uncle Jed: One bright June morning as my friends and I were taking a walk, we went into the woods. There we saw many beautiful birds and flowers. While we were there we watched a squirrel getting nuts. We put a basket at the foot of a tree. When the squirrel would go and get a nut he put it in the hole and it would roll down in the basket. He kept bringing them until the basket was full. The squirrel disappeared for a short time, but after a while the squirrel came back with another squirrel. When the squirrels went to get them they could not find them. Then they both started to get more nuts. They put them in another tree where we could not get them, and after awhile we went home.

AT THE LAKE

Dear Uncle Jed: One bright summer morning Bertha and I went to the lake. We had our lunch with us and we were going to stay all day.

About one o'clock we went over to Mr. Wolfe's store and hired a boat. Bertha rowed up to the other end of the lake to fish. I caught three pumpkin seeds, two perch and four bass. Altogether we caught thirty-two fish.

About half past one we went in swimming. We dove off of the raft many times. We stayed in swimming about one hour.

After we sat down to eat our lunch. We had sandwiches, cake, soda, fudge, ice cream and candy. That day we didn't get home until nine o'clock.

HELPING FATHER

Dear Uncle Jed: Mary was six. One day she asked him if she could help him. He said, "Do you want to shell the beans?"

"No, no, something else, I hate to shell beans," exclaimed Mary.

"Then do you want to feed the chickens?" asked father.

"Oh, no, something easier like sweeping the floor or dusting or something like that," answered Mary.

"Then, go in and ask mother if she want you to do anything," exclaimed father.

Mary went in and asked of her mother, "Do you want me to do anything?"

"You may go in and dust the parlor if you wish," answered mother.

So Mary got the duster and began dusting the parlor.

When she had finished she went out and said, "I never thought work was so hard."

Mother came in to see what she had done, and then said, "She was more a hother than she was worth, because I will have to do the dusting all over again."

WENT TO MASSACHUSETTS

Dear Uncle Jed: One Sunday morning my aunt and uncle from Massachusetts were going to take a ride. They kept on going and going until at last they got to Jewett City. They said they had gone so far that they would come to Preston. My mother was surprised to see them. They asked me why I didn't come up and stay with my grandmother. So my mother asked me if I wanted to go and I said, "Yes."

Then I showed them how to get to my other grandmother's house in Voluntown. Then we started for Massachusetts. On the way there we stopped and got some ice cream and tonic. We stopped again to have a little lunch, and at still another time to get some popcorn.

Three weeks afterward my mother and sister came up from Connecticut and stayed for a week.

My father met us at the depot in Norwich and brought us home. I was glad to get home.

OUR PICNIC

Dear Uncle Jed: One day my cousin and I went down to the lake swimming. We stayed there all day. At dinner time my mother, father and my grandfather went to the lake. We had our lunch. The best thing I liked was candy. About an hour afterward we went in swimming.

STANLEY WOOD, Age 11.

WHAT I SAW IN THE WOODS

Dear Uncle Jed: One day as I was going through the woods I saw something ahead of me in the bushes. At first it made me scared but when I stopped, to see what it was, it was nothing but a deer. It was so large it looked like a cow. I went on a little farther and saw a snake. When I got home I told my mother what I had seen and she said I was a brave girl.

A few days later I took another walk in the forest and saw another snake.

THE PACHAUG GRANGE FAIR

Dear Uncle Jed: As I have not written to the Wide Awakes in a long time, I thought I would write and tell you about the Pachaug grange fair. It was on Sept. 11, 12, 13. I went two days and the first evening. I entered some vegetables in the junior department and I was awarded first prize on almost everything. It was a very nice fair and I enjoyed it very much. They had something for the kiddies that was hobby horses, and little ponies. I enjoyed the ponies the best. They also had three goats. I rode on the horses and the ponies, most of the time on the ponies as I liked those the best. There was not much of a crowd there in the forenoon but more afternoon.

There was quite a crowd Saturday afternoon to see the tractors work also see the horse pulling contest. My grandfather had his pair of horses there and won the first prize on the double and single team. There were about 15 nice cows from the Round Hill farm. There were cattle from other places. They also had stands of Kewpie dolls, and quite a number of different things. I enjoyed the fair very much and if any other Wide Awakes were there I hope they enjoyed it too.

CLIFTON T. BITGOOD, Age 11.
Voluntown.

HOW TO BE HEALTHY

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you what the Wide Awakes should do if they wish to be healthy. They should take a bath more than once a week. Brush the teeth at least once a day. Drink at least four glasses of water a day.

Drink milk every day but no coffee or tea. Eat some vegetables or fruit every day. Play part of every day out of doors and sleep long hours with windows open. These are health rules and I wish that the Wide Awakes would follow these rules.

HELEN HURD, Age 12.

A VISIT TO HARTFORD

Dear Uncle Jed: I thought I would write to you and tell you about my first trip to Hartford. Going through the busy street I heard a buzzing noise and wondered what was going on. All traffic ceased and a policeman ordered our car to the curb. Very soon the apparatus came thundering down the street and it came to my mind the great things they do to make traffic safe for little boys and girls. After the fire company had passed we continued our journey on to the park where my sister took snap shots. Then we played on the see saws and swings. At six o'clock we started on our journey home.

CATHERINE DREW, Age 11.
Norwich.

LOST IN PROVIDENCE

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about my first visit away from home. One morning very early my grandmother and I took the train at Baltic for Providence. It was a beautiful day. The ride was so long that I grew tired and fell asleep when all at once the train stopped with a jerk. I awoke at once because I almost fell off of my seat. When we arrived we went to my uncle's house. After we were there a while my uncle thought he would send me to the store for milk. I took the wrong street and was soon lost. I didn't know what to do but I saw the mail man coming so I asked him if he knew where my uncle lived. He said he didn't know. A few minutes later I saw my uncle coming. I was so glad to see him. He took me home with him and we had a nice dinner.

ABOUT COTTON

Dear Uncle Jed: I am a pupil in the fourth grade. This month we are learning about cotton. We found on our maps, that the best cotton came from Texas, Georgia, Alabama, South Carolina and Mississippi. The plant has dark green heart shaped leaves. The plant has many colors yellow pink, purple, brownish red and rose color.

FIRE PREVENTION

Dear Uncle Jed: I am writing a story about fire prevention as this week is fire prevention week.

It was a beautiful sunny morning in October. Joseph was sitting on the porch reading. Looking up from his book to rest his eyes his thoughts wondered to the mountains nearby. They seemed to be inviting him to come and roam about to see the pretty arts of nature.

This invitation was so great that Joseph put his book away and went to the garage to get his auto.

Starting out he took the mountain road enjoying the beauty as he went. He longed for a cigar to smoke but only had a cigarett so made himself content with smokingthat.

After he had finished smoking he threw his cigarett stub aside thinking no more about it. But the stub was still burning and it fell among dry leaves consequently the leaves caught on fire. At first it was small but it grew larger and resulted in burning many acres of forest.

Boys and men should be sure that their cigar or cigarette stubs are not burning when they throw them away.

VERA BUSHNELL.
North Franklin.

IS STUDYING GREEK HISTORY

Dear Uncle Jed: I am studying about the ancient Greeks in school, and so I thought I would write to you about the Greek poet Homer.

Homer is the so called writer of the Iliad and Odyssey. It is not known when or where he was born, but it is said that he was born between the 11th and 7th centuries, B. C. Several cities and islands have striven for the honor of being the birthplace of Homer, but it cannot be said for certain that any one of these places was his birthplace.

Homer was supposed to have been a blind harper who traveled around singing his poems.

It is now thought by most scholars that the Iliad and Oddessey were not written by one man, but are collections of songs handed down by minstrels of long ago; and that they were first made into one poem by Pisistratus about 600 B. C.

VIVIAN C. BUSHNELL, Age 13.

HER FIRST LETTER

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have ever written to you. I am only six years old but I am in the second grade.

I have a dog. He is white with brown ears. I have two kittens. One is black and white. I call him snoop. The other one is black and white and orange. He has double paws so I call him mitten.

My sister is writing to you too.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

Uncle Lucky Still Missing

As the Old Grandfather Clock finished its last tick tock in the dim hallway of Uncle Lucky's little white house on the corner of Lettuce avenue and Carrot street, there came the sound of wheels on the roadway.

"There's Uncle Lucky," cried Daddy Long Legs, and running through the hall, he opened the door to the little front porch. Notwithstanding his many legs, Little Miss Mousie had reached the front gate even sooner, having scampered out of the kitchen and around the house. But dearest me, and Oh dear you! Instead of the Luckymobile with dear Uncle Lucky and his old wedding stovepipe hat, there stood the Billy Goat Stage Coach, with the Old Dog Driver on the front seat, a corncob pipe in his mouth and a long whip in his right paw.

"Uncle Lucky home?" he enquired, snapping his whip at a big horsefly that had settled on one of the billy goats.

"No, no, no," cried poor, disappointed little Miss Mousie. "We're been waiting tea ever so long. Have you seen him?"

"Only this afternoon 'bout four o'clock," answered the Old Dog Driver. "He and Little Jack Rabbit were on their way to Turnip City to get a hairpin for Mrs. Cow."

"He must have lost his way or had an accident," said Daddy Longlegs, hopping down to the gate.

"Thought mebbe you'd want to ride home by now," exclaimed the Old Dog Driver. "Had your supper?"

"Couldn't eat it without dear Uncle Lucky, answered kind hearted Daddy Long Legs. "Dear me, I imagine Lady Love the little rabbit's pretty bunny mother, is worried over his absence." Just then the telephone rang, tinkle, tinkle! just like that, ringle, jingle, jink!

"Who is calling little me?
Everybody's late for tea.
Have you heard by mouth or pen
Or the little rabbit men?"

answered Little Miss Mousis, scampering into the house and taking off the receiver.

"Oh, dear, now I'm frightened," answered poor little Lady Love. "What can be the matter. My cunning little bunny boy and my dear Uncle Lucky," and if Little Miss Mousie could have looked into the tiny white bungalow in the dear Old Bramble Patch, she would have seen a teary-eyed little rabbit mother standing tip-toe at the "phone on the side table in the corner of the sitting room.

All of a sudden, out of the depths of the Shady Forest came a mournful cry. It was the voice of Hooty Tooty Owl, that old night bird who prowls on silent wing through the shadows after little mice and rabbits.

"Eeny, meeny, miny, mo,
Catch a rabbit by the toe,
If you catch him,
Don't let go,
Eeny, meeny, miny, mo."

"Oh, oh, oh," sobbed Little Miss Mousie, "Won't somebody help us find dear Uncle Lucky and Little Jack Rabbit."

HELPS ABOUT HOUSE LIGHTING

LIGHTING THE BATH ROOM

Have you ever watched your father shave? Does he try to keep shadows away by turning his face this way and that? Or can he shave comfortably and easily with a smile on his face like the man in the second picture? Shaving is really the best test of lighting in bathrooms. A man shaves each side of his face and under his chin, and if he is to see well, he needs a light on each side down low enough to light underneath the chin.

Lighting the mirror in the bathroom is exactly the same problem as lighting the mirror in the bedroom, and two bracket fixtures are needed for good lighting—one at either side of the mirror at eye level or a little above. The fixtures should point upward and should have long dense milk-white shades open at the top to conceal the 50-watt "bulbs" inside.

If the bathroom is large, you may have a fixture in the center of the ceiling just like the fixture used in the kitchen. If this is properly put in and equipped with a bulb of 75-watts or more, it will furnish good general lighting all over the room on occasions when the mirror is not being used.

When sister goes to curl her hair in front of the mirror, does she find it necessary to take the bulb out of the light to connect her electric iron?

If she does, she probably does not curl her hair in the evening, because many bathrooms are lighted by only one fixture. And if your bathroom has two fixtures, and sister uses one for a curling iron, then she must twist and turn her head because she cannot see well when only one is used for lighting.

That curling iron of sister's is just one of the handy little electric appliances which should be provided with an outlet of their own—a convenience outlet 36 inches or more above the floor, so that good lighting is always ready when it is most needed.

LIGHTING THE SUN ROOM

In the sun room we usually want a ceiling fixture to give us general lighting and to flood the whole room with warm, soft light and an atmosphere of cheerfulness; we also need lighting from portable lamps for reading or sewing, or as decorative spots of light and color around the room. Do you remember the lesson which told how to light the living room? It was much the same as this, for the sun room or sun porch is really another living room in most homes.

In the sun room, however, the furniture and decorations usually require lighting fixtures which will look well with wicker and cretonne and which will make the sun room feel like a sun room even after dark.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

WEEKLY MARKET REVIEW

New York, Oct. 19—(By the A. P.)—With the German loan a great success in both the American and European markets much interest was displayed in financial and business quarters last week in the talk of additional foreign financing and the effects of European revival on American business.

Opinions on the effect which European revival will have on American industry were divergent. That our producers of raw materials and foodstuffs will benefit was generally conceded. In manufacturing however, some observers expect severe European competition. Others believe that a higher level of world purchasing power and an increased demand for our raw materials will, in the long run, stimulate the demand for our manufacturers and that American methods and resources will continue to maintain a strong position for the United States in the markets of the world.

Little change was apparent in industrial news. Steel production continued to run close to 65 per cent. of capacity. Buying in some lines contracted and the change in the method of basing prices led to some price cutting. Taken as a whole however, the steel situation was little changed.

The latest reports on railroad car loadings, those for the week ended October 4, revealed a small decrease from the high record of the previous week but showed a total of 1,077,000 cars. This figure was within 3,000 cars of the total for the corresponding week of last year, which set a new record for all time for that particular week. Loadings of grain and general merchandise were the largest in history.

A reflection of the improvement in the textile industry was furnished by the census bureau's report on cotton consumption in September. Although the takings of the country's mills amounted to only 435,000 bales, which is less than was consumed in the same month of any of the last three years, they were approximately 100,000 bales larger than those of the previous month. Consumption has now increased for two consecutive months. September's exports were very large, amounting to 737,000 bales.

Favorable weather in the cotton belt meanwhile led to some upward revision of crop estimates. As a result, prices sagged off about one cent. Approximately four cents of the five-cent rally that occurred in September have been lost. With the staple selling around 23 cents, the chances for better cloth buying were considered to be improved.

Grain prices fluctuated rather widely but in general held close to the best prices of the year. Wheat exports remained heavy.

TAFTVILLE

The members of the Hugh Henry Osgood Lodge, I. O. O. F., M. U. of Norwich attended the morning service at the Taftville Congregational church Sunday in a body. In the evening the meeting of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor was led by Mrs. Eugene N. Monty.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Heap of South Second Avenue and Mr. and Mrs. Neil Finlayson of Norwich have returned from a motor trip over the Mohawk Trail to Adams, Mass., where they visited Mr. and Mrs. Heap's son, Harold Heap.

Miss Dorothy Wood and Miss Helen C. Aberg have resumed their studies at the Willimantic State Normal school after spending the past few days with their parents in town.

Curtis Hedler of Terrace Avenue has returned from Baltic where he spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Ira Hedler.

Mrs. Israel Chaput and children of Norwich have been recent guests of Mrs. Chaput's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. George P. Kean of South Second Avenue.

The Oeowasin Camp Fire Girls held their weekly meeting Friday evening at the Taftville Congregational church with the guardian, Mrs. Edwin H. Crowdis in charge.

The annual meeting of the Taftville Chapter, American Red Cross, will be held in Danmah Hall at 7.45, Wednesday evening, October 22nd.—adv.

Hearing on Traffic Ordinances.

The new traffic ordinances which were recently proposed by a committee of the city council are due to have a hearing this (Monday) evening when the council will have a special session for that purpose.

NORWICH BOARD MADE 1,125 NEW VOTERS; TOWN HAS 11,000 VOTERS

Registrars of Voters T. D. Guy and C. J. Downes at the close of the session for making voters Saturday night found that 1125 had been made voters out of a total of 1939 applications received. This is an average of about 60 per cent., if the nine left to be made Nov. 3rd pass the test at the town clerk's office at 10 a. m. on that day. These are only persons whose time matures between Oct. 18th and election day.

The number of new voters will make a total of approximately 11,000 voters in the town of Norwich.

The nonsensical idea of the "To Be Made" list which allows only those to be made, whose names appear thereon was again proven when exactly 74 people who came to be made voters of their own free will, were turned down because their names were not on the list, while others on the list who received post cards, and were solicited, did not show up.

Five men were put back for another year and advised to attend night school.

The following gives the figures by districts of those to be made and those actually made voters.

Men

District	To be Made	Made
1	399	206
2	168	99
3	130	76
4	84	53
5	93	62
6	57	44
	931	540

Women

District	To be Made	Made
1	466	248
2	177	96
3	137	61
4	96	67
5	76	70
6	56	43
	1008	585
Total to be made		1939
Total made		1125

The voters especially those who have moved to a different district from that in which they have been voting, are again urgently requested by the registrars to notify the registrars or deputy registrars of the change, as the new lists must remain unchanged for a period of two years. The change if any, should be made now and save confusion on Election day for all concerned.

The perfected lists with new voters added will show approximately the following number of voters in each district of the town:

Men

	1st	2nd	3rd	4th	5th	6th
	2240	1082	844	543	739	407
Added	206	99	76	53	62	44
Total	2446	1181	920	596	861	451

Women

	1st	2nd	3rd	4th	5th	6th
	1735	644	635	435	278	250
Added	248	96	61	67	70	43
Total	1983	740	696	502	348	293

Total Men	6455
Total Women	4562
Grand total	11017

Many questions regarding naturalization come up at the time of making new voters. The law makers have yet to show where women are given equal rights with men; for instance: an American born man having married an alien does not lose his citizenship but a woman does if she married previous to September 22nd 1922. It looks ridiculous to see foreign born women being made voters by having married an American. And then see an American born woman shut out of being made a voter until she gets naturalization papers for having married an alien prior to Sept. 22 1922. Such is actually the case.

A woman marrying after Sept. 1922 does not lose her citizenship by marrying an alien. Also a woman who married an alien and lost citizenship thereby regains citizenship if the husband dies or is divorced.

$7,000,000 TRANSACTION BY C. F. NOYES COMPANY

The eighteen-story Aeolian building on West Forty-second street, opposite Bryant Park, was resold yesterday by the Schulte Retail Stores Corporation at a profit close to $1,000,000 after an ownership of less than three months, says the New York Times of Saturday under a two column heading on the front page.

The buyer is Samuel Keller Jacobs, one of the largest real estate operators in the city, and, according to the Charles F. Noyes company, which represented him, the transaction involved about $7,000,000.

The Aeolian Building, which is known as 29 and 33 West Forty-second street, runs through the block to 32, 34 and 36 West Forty-third street, occupying a plot front of 73 feet on both streets and having a depth of 200 feet through the block.

It was sold about three months ago by the Aeolian Company to the Schulte Retail Stores Corporation, controlled by D. A. Schulte and the Schulte Cigar Stores interests.

In selling the property the Aeolian Company took back a lease for at least five years on the space which it now occupies in the building.

Following close upon the sale of the property came the announcement that the Schulte interests had leased the entire building to the F. W. Woolworth Company as a location for a new five and ten cent store.

This lease, which is one of the largest and most important of the year involving Forty-second street property, is for a period of sixty-three years at $400,000 a year for the first twenty-one years and $450,000 a year for the balance of the lease, forty-two years.

The aggregate rental runs into many millions of dollars, not including taxes or operating charges.

The street floor of the building will be occupied by the Woolworth Company as a branch store as soon as the Aeolian Company vacates the premises, which it may not do for several years to come.

The Aeolian Company is reported to have several new sites under consideration in the new music center on Fifty-seventh street adjacent to Carnegie hall.

MRS. LOUIS MABREY LEAVES FOR WISCONSIN

Saturday morning, Mrs. Louis Mabey left New London with her brother for the family home at Elkhart, Wis. She was accompanied also by her step-son, Prof. Fred D. Mabrey, of Englewood, N. J., and by the wife of her younger stepson, Mrs. Nelson Lee Mabrey, of Milton, Penn. All had been busy last week since the sudden death of Mr. Mabrey, Saturday, the 11th, in closing Mabrey's hotel, at Ocean Beach.

During the winter the place will be in care of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Wetmore, who are occupying Osprey cottage at Ocean Beach. Their car, a Willis-Knight, has been stored in the garage of friends in New London. As far as Mrs. Mabrey has made plans, she will not return to New London until April, 1925.

Universal sympathy was expressed for her in her sudden bereavement. Not only has Mrs. Mabrey proved herself exceptionally efficient in aiding her husband in carrying on their summer hotel, but she has grown very popular with the residents at the beach both permanent and those there for each season. The five years of their married life had been singularly happy and Mr. and Mrs. Mabrey filled a large place in the social as well as business life at the shore, while making many friends in New London.

AUTOMOBILE DRIVERS ARE TO BE GIVEN HEARING

Ten cases are included in the list of automobile hearings to be held at 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the county court house in New London, according to a list made public by Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel.

They include one fatal accident case, that of Adrien Zercie, Church street, Moosup; six cases of operating motor vehicles while under the influence of liquor, Walter Petka, No. 8, R. F. D., Norwich, Kiril Laputz, East Lyme, Tony Lynch, Groton, Norton Pierce, Norwich Town and Fred S. Mitchell of Clarks Falls; two cases of reckless driving, William E. Frank of the New London Ship and Engine Co., Groton and Raymond E. Cassidy of 112 Howard street, New London; and the case of John T. Barry of Jewett City, who was involved in two accidents.

SUNDAY SERVICE WITH PICTURES AT Y. M. C. A.

At the Sunday afternoon meeting of the local Y. M. C. A. the program was one of real interest. The opening exercises consisted of well known hymns, scripture and prayer, also pleasing vocal solos by Hugh Kinder.

Moving pictures of ocean scenery, the Amazon trail and a reel of the New York aquarium were shown all of which were most interesting to the audience of men and older boys. Between the reels Secretary Edwin Hill gave a brief talk, and he spoke in part as follows: "The great ocean is terrific in its power and there are many dangers on the great deep, making it absolutely necessary that the mariner have a chart, a compass, a rudder or helm, and having these the ships usually reach their desired haven. It is surprising how very few wrecks there are at sea, with all the dangers encountered, though at times the captain sights a direlect which is a very sad sight with sails torn to shreads, masts broken, and the whole craft forsaken and failing to pieces; formerly a thing of beauty and a useful craft, now an awful direlect. It is so with human beings as they launch out on the ocean of life. The strongest man is very frail and like the physical ship on the physical ocean, he must have a chart, a compass and a helm or a guide. His chart is the great book of God, the Bible, whose admonitions are wonderful and whose promises are verily sure of fulfillment if only we meet the conditions. The compass may be said to be the conscience and the guide of the journey over life's ocean is the great Christ of God. There are many human direlects drifting helplessly along on life's ocean and it is surely sad to see these human direlects helpless and hopeless. I have seen some of these in Norwich and so have you; they need our help and should have it. Let us all make sure that we ourselves have the chart, the compass and the guide or helmsman on our lifes bark, and then let us do all in our power to rescue these human direlects on the right hand and on the left. Let us enthrone Jesus Christ fully in our own lives and then do all we can to lead others to take Him as their Saviour who will lead them at last into the harbor of rest.

SHEEP KILLING DOGS PAY FOR THEIR ACTS

An epidemic of sheep killing by dogs in eastern and southern Connecticut has been effectively brought to an end, it was made known at the office of the commissioner on domestic animals at Hartford. Damage of approximately $700 was done by a number of vicious dogs in several towns during the last week, and in killing the dogs responsible for the attack on the sheep in pasture, it is believed that one of the most serious outbreaks of sheep-killing in the state in several years has been squelched.

The towns concerned were Woodstock, Lyme and Old Lyme. Under the direction of Commissioner James M. Whittlesey, Chief Special Deputy Howard A. Elliott, co-operating with local officials in each case, destroyed seven dogs found to be killing the sheep.

In Woodstock, seven sheep owned by George Sumner were found dead and mutilated and investigation led to the killing of two dogs owned by Ashley Hibbard and Robert W. Johnson. Johnson was prosecuted before Justice Charles M. Perrin for violation of the dog laws and fined $19.25.

In Lyme, M. Marvin reported that out of a flock of 95 sheep 18 were found dead, 47 alive and 30 missing. J. J. Tiffany found two sheep killed in a flock of 50, while 13 were found to be seriously bitten. Martin Banning lost three in a flock of 55 and William F. Coult found two killed, two bitten and that two were missing out of a flock of 46.

Owners of the dogs in each case are required by law to pay owners of the sheep for the damages inflicted. Appraisals are made by the domestic animals department.

Commissioner Whittlesey said that the cleaning up of the situation, which threatened to prove very serious, was a relief to his department as well as to the many sheep raisers in that section.

More than 500 stray dogs were killed by special deputies during September. Out of a total of 606 captured, seventy-one were redeemed by owners. The state was free of rabies during the month. Deputies traveled 3622 miles during the period, investigating 513 complaints, which resulted in 29 prosecutions.

CHURCH DEFERS PLAN FOR RELIGIOUS DIRECTOR

At the Sunday morning service at the United Congregational church, the pastor, Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, made a report to the church as chairman of the special committee appointed in the spring to secure a religious director, a new officer in the work of the church who should take up an important work among the young people and in the Sunday school and in other ways that were outlined.

The report of the committee, which was accepted by the church, was that it was inadvisable at present to secure the worker for either full time or part time, both of which plans had been considered. It was found impossible to secure a full-time worker for what the church had appropriated towards this office, and when consideration of a part-time worker was taken up, although a candidate was found who pleased the committee, it was the personal recommendation of the pastor that he could not endorse this plan because of the small time which would be given to the church in return for what it was paying and he himself expressed his willingness to take up some phases of the plan in order that the work might be carried out.

The special committee consisted of Rev. Mr. Abbott, Herbert W. Gallup and Miss Eunice Gulliver.

BELIEVE TWO COLCHESTER FIRES WERE INCENDIARY

Colchester, Oct. 19.—The police are investigating two fires which destroyed farm houses in this vicinity last night and early this morning. The first fire, last night, was at what was formerly known as the William Harvey place, five miles from Colchester in the southern part of the town. The place is now owned by Frank Washneski. The barn contained 40 tons of hay was destroyed. Two heifers and three horses were burned to death. The loss is estimated at $9,000. The origin of the fire has not been determined.

Early this morning, Jacob Maroon, who owns a farm a mile from the village on the New London turnpike awoke to find his barn afire. The blaze spread to another barn and both buildings were destroyed, together with their contents. The stock was rescued. The Colchester apparatus responded to an alarm but as there was no water, the firemen were unable to save the barns. The loss there is estimated at $9,000.

Mr. Maroon could not give any cause for the fire but said that he was certain that it started on the outside of the building. The scenes of the fires are about two miles apart.

Coon Dog Making Record

The claim that Dixon's coon dog Red, which captured a 5 pound coon, is the champion of Connecticut, is disputed by John Chapman, Lloyd Abel and Bill Long of Fitchville who cite the performance of Roy Basshaw's dog, Rock.

This dog which the three men named hunt with has already bagged 6 coons this season, ranging from 22 to 8 pounds. Any dog that claims the championship ought to beat Rock's record.

Landscape Painting on Fungus

In one of the show windows at Cranston's store, Broadway, is shown a remarkable landscape painting, on a huge fungus growth. The artist, Mrs. Melvina Carter of Greeneville, displays unusual talent in coloring and effect. The back and sides of the fungus growth are gilded. The painting is a curiosity well worth seeing.

PUSHING CAMPAIGN FOR BETTER HEADLIGHT CARE

Upwards of 40 out of 600 automobiles recently checked up by the motor vehicle department as they passed along a certain highway in the state at night proved to have insufficient driving light, according to the current issue of the department bulletin. The headlights on 34 of the cars glared, "all of which cases were probably due to the fact that the bulbs were out of focus," and 17 were equipped with only one headlight in working order.

General lighting conditions throughout Connecticut are not much better or worse than they were a year ago, the bulletin says, and depend for their improvement upon car owners giving as much attention to their lights as to other essentials of their cars. "However, the department's accident statistics do not show any excessive number of accidents due to poor lighting; indeed the glaring headlight is said to have had the reaction of slowing up opposing traffic at night.

"A man will wash his car, will adjust his brakes, will see that his tires are in good order and well inflated and will be sure his steering apparatus is right," it is pointed out, "but when it comes to focusing and aiming of headlights he seems to feel that these functions will be performed automatically, once he has adopted an approved device. On the contrary, constant vigilance is required that the proper adjustment may be maintained."

The following is given as a simple and feasible method for adjustment of headlights:

"Place your car on a level space, preferably a floor, facing a wall or screen, the car lamps being 25 feet distant from the wall. Mark a horizontal line on the wall, which line shall be the same height from the ground as the centers of the lamps on the car. Call this line the "Lamp Level Line." With lights on and both lenses installed, cover one lamp to shut off the light and move the screw or device in the other lamp which regulates the position of the bulb, until you get the narrowest horizontal (left to right) beam of light on the wall. Then perform the same operation with the other lamp. Having thus focused the lamps, tilt or bend each lamp until the top of the beam is no higher than the Lamp Level Line on the wall, being sure that the car is fully loaded at the time. The wall will then be illuminated below and up to the "Lamp Level Line," which is the result desired. If the light spreads on the wall above the "Lamp Level Line," it proves that the lamps are not properly aimed and focused."

Dimming of headlights while the automobile is in motion is not legal in Connecticut, owing to the fact that the statutes require sufficient light to enable the driver to see 200 feet ahead at all times. While parking lights are not required where there is sufficient light from other sources to make the car discernible from a distance of 200 feet in every direction, this does not mean that a car that is parked within 200 feet of a light does not require parking lights.

"Operation of automobiles with only one headlight working cannot be longer tolerated," the bulletin says. The suggestion is made that policemen who stop cars with equipment defective in this respect order the drivers to have the lights fixed at the next garage, and forward the numbers of such cars to the motor vehicle department so that the department may "forthwith demand from each person complained of a statement that correction has been made."

The same applies to tail lights, to the absence of which, the department records show, many accidents, some fatal, have been attributed. Within a short time, it is said, laws and regulations will be calling for lights which indicate the width of a commercial motor vehicle. All extra wide trucks probably will be compelled soon to carry specified color lights to indicate the width. In the meantime, it is recommended that white width lights be attached to unusually wide commercial motor vehicles.

Camp Fire Girls Met.

On Friday evening the Oneco Camp Fire Girls held a meeting at th home of Miss Dorothea Simpson, Elmwood avenue, and made some very attractive posters to announce a Hallowe'en food sale, which is expected to be one of the most successful events of its kind the girls have ever held. The meeting on the previous week was a dog roast at which Miss Dorothy Dewing and Miss Geraldine Spaulding were hostesses.

Your Week—Your Laundry—You're Invited

Of course we would be glad to have you inspect our plant any day, but this is a special invitation for you to drop in and meet us—see who we are and what sort of a place a modern laundry really is. We'll go right through our regular schedule for you—take you through our plant from top to bottom and answer every question. We will show you just what soap and materials we use in washing. See the work done—examine finished work—and meet the folks who serve you.

DO YOU KNOW—

Our customers' goods are insured while in our custody, against FIRE, although laundries are not legally responsible for them. Your clothes are safe with us.

We are members of the NATIONAL LAUNDRY ASSOCIATION which maintains a $1,000,000.00 laundry at Joliet, Ill., solely for experimental purposes, and also maintains a fellowship at the Mellon Institute in Pittsburg. The scientists in these laboratories give us our washing formulas and we are privileged to submit any of our problems to them.

A DAINTY APRON FREE!

We are so anxious to have the housewives of Norwich and vicinity inspect our sanitary and up-to-date plant that we are going to give to each woman who GOES THROUGH our laundry, a very attractive Apron, FREE OF CHARGE!

Prayerful Prayers

Out of the depths to thee my soul has cried,
O Father, God! With tears I've sought thy face,
From sin and woe thou are my Hiding Place;
As mothers comfort, thou dost comfort me.
It is thy gracious will my griefs should be Cast on thy love who careth for thine own.
My need is great, and daily at thy throne
For help and blessing do I make my plea.
Lord, shall I ask and take, yet never praise,
Seeking Thee only in my pain and loss?
Joy let me bring as garland for the Cross,
Singing before it songs of love-blessed days.
Spirit of light, descend and teach me more
Of happy, prayerful prayers that heavenward soar.

—Maud F. Jackson in Sunday School Times.

"There is No Knowledge in the Grave"

When the aftermath in the fields grows brown,
Where in sceptered beauty waved the wheat;
And the rose of summer has lost her crown.
When the leaves of the maple turn to gold,
And are tossed about by winds at play;
Then we know the story of summer is told.
As the last sweet echoes die away,
We hear the low winds as they wander by
And see the barred sunsets burning red;
We know by the signs of earth and sky,
But how will we know that we are dead!

Where the eye of love once lingered long,
There is now a half-averted glance;
And a minor chord is in love's sweet song,
A turned-down leaf in the fine romance;
And the cloud, at first, no larger than
A babe's hand, darkens the midday sun;
And then, as when first the world began,
We know that the story is over and done.

We know by the signs that meet the eye,
We know by the sounds that greet the ear,
Sweet scents on the breezes floating by,
And the loving touch of a hand sincere;
But "there is no knowledge in the grave,"
"Death hath the key to that confine cold!"
Each scene is sealed; there is nothing save
A silence unbroken, of depth untold:
Not a dream can come with its airy woof
To illumine the sleep of that lowly bed;
No star-ray will pierce the clayey roof,
And how will we know that we are dead!

Spider webs are reported to have been prepared successfully by a European collector for trimmings for women's hats, handbags, cushions and other articles. The webs, says Popular Mechanics, are first transferred to gummed cards and then treated with chemicals to give them strength and to make them waterproof. They are then placed on the cloth background like silken threads. As a full grown spider can spin a new web in about an hour, a constant supply of the material is easily obtained.

The last records of an explorer lost in the desert in Africa forty five years ago have recently been discovered. In 1878 Friedrich Rolf undertook to cross the Lyblan desert, one of the most barren and pitiless wastes in the world. He never was heard of again. This year an expedition sent out by Prince Kemal ed Din, found a cairn of stones, and when they took it apart discovered within it a sealed bottle containing manuscripts. The latter proved to be the records of the lost explorer. These were forwarded to Germany, and were found to contain scientific data of considerable interest and value.

Ancient Indian burial customs are preserved near Taku Harbor, Alaska, at Graves island, so named because it was used as an Indian burial ground by Taku and Sumdum tribes during a period of 20 years, up to about two generations ago. Some of the Indian remains are housed in queer looking miniature sheds built of split cedar wood, others are in simple wooden boxes. A popular mausoleum was a platform erected close up under the leafy boughs of evergreen trees with boards for covering. All about islands are used as fox farms or salmon canneries, but for sentimental reasons, perhaps, no plan has been made to commercialize this bit of rocky land.

UNTERMYER RETAINED IN THE CAMPAIGN FUND PROBE

To Enter Investigation Because He Considers It His Public Duty—Prominent New York Lawyer Reached That Conclusion After Several Hours' Conference With Frank P. Walsh, Personal Attorney For Robert M. Lafollette—Indications Are That The Investigation Will Be Continued Right Up to Election Day.

New York, Oct. 20.—Samuel Untermyer, prominent lawyer, announced today that he would take charge of the campaign expenditure investigation being made by the senate committee of which Senator Borah is chairman.

Mr. Untermyer made his announcement after he had had several hours' conference with Frank P. Walsh, personal attorney for Senator Robert M. La Follette. The lawyer said he was undertaking the investigation because he considered it a public duty to assist in having bare all possible details of campaign expenditures.

Mr. Untermyer in announcing his decision gave out the following statement:

"As the result of my conference with Mr. Walsh I have become convinced that I owe it as a public duty to comply with the request to render professional aid in the Borah investigation as a result of tomorrow's conference of the committee, it is expected to obtain access to the books, witnesses and to the fullest information on all direct and collateral and state contributions from every source whether to the Republican or Democratic committee.

"From what can be learned I have no doubt of this cooperation from the committee. Without it I would not undertake any part in the investigation as it would be worse than useless and would not justify the inconvenience and professional sacrifices involved.

"The only way to uncover the facts is by boring deeply beneath the surface of apparently innocent transactions, and almost, if not quite, to the day of the election. That takes time and involves much labor and patience.

"These things are not shouted from the housetops. They are about as secretive as anything that can well be imagined but with proper support on the committee the truth can be unearthed. There is nothing spectacular about such an undertaking.

"Although a lifelong democrat and ardent supporter of Mr. Davis, I am not interested in the political aspects of the subject. It should be pursued, at all, from an entirely non-political and non-partisan point of view and will be so treated so far as I am concerned.

"The existing laws as to political contributions are entirely inadequate to meet present conditions. The Committee of the Borah committee and the work it has laid out for itself in exposing the facts, will go far toward curing these defects in the law."

PROBE WILL BE CONTINUED RIGHT UP TO ELECTION DAY

Washington, Oct. 21.—With a rather formidable array of witnesses already summoned and still others to be called, members of the special senate committee expressed the opinion today that the investigation of campaign expenditures by the three major parties, begun last week at Chicago, will be continued right up to election day, November 4th.

The inquiry will be resumed here tomorrow with the examination of officials of the Democratic national committee as to contributions to and expenditures by that organization. Clem Shaver, chairman, and James W. Gerard, treasurer, will be the witnesses and they will be asked to consent to an arrangement of publications to submit sworn records as to their financial affairs as of October 20 October 25 and November 1.

The committee had intended to go into fact thrown with the inquiry into the charges of Senator Robert M. La Follette, that a huge "slush" fund is being raised by the republican national committee, the banks and the business interests generally for use in behalf of the Coolidge Dawes ticket. Upon his arrival here from Chicago today, however, Chairman Borah was advised by Joseph L. Grundy, who had been subpoenaed as a witness from Philadelphia, that he could not come here before Wednesday.

Grundy who is chairman of the finance committee of the republican national committee, and who has written appeals to the "citizens of Pennsylvania," asking for "largest possible contributions," will be a special witness. Senator Caraway, democrat, Arkansas, said today it was his purpose to ascertain by cross-examination of Grundy's business interests and also as to the truth of reports that he was one of the authors of th efamous Schedule K, of the Payne-Aldrich tariff act.

Edward T. Stotesbury, Philadelphia banker, and Samuel M. Vauclain, president of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, are other Philadelphia witnesses. Senator Borah said subpoenas had been issued for them. Nathan T. Folwell, treasurer of the Manufacturers' club, Philadelphia, also is to be questioned on the basis of a letter sent by the finance committee of that club to its members soliciting funds for the republican campaign, and emphasizing what was declared to be the importance of keeping a protective tariff act on the statute books.

Chairman Borah's purpose is to keep the investigation to the purpose of developing the course of campaign funds and the purposes for which they are expended. He is determined, he said, to follow every lead in this direction: to get at all the facts and, once having established that a man made a large contribution ,to develop whether he had a selfish interest in so doing.

Grundy in one of his letters stated that he was authorized by the republican national committee to make collections in Pennsylvania "outside of the Pittsburgh district." Senator Borah said he would seek to find out who was charged with the collection in that district.

During the inquiry into the alleged republican "slush" fund, Frank P. Walsh, of Kansas City, personal counsel for Senator LaFollette, probaly will be given the right to cross-examine witnesses. Mr. Walsh will have associated with him Samuel Untermyer, of New York, whom he has described as a surporter of John W. Davis, and the democratic ticket.

After the LaFollette charges are disposed of, it is the intention of the committee, as expressed by Senator Borah to go into the question of the source and the amount of funds which have been expended by the American Federation of Labor on behalf of the LaFollette-Wheeler ticket.

Chairman Borah said also that he would telegraph to Governor John J. Blaine, of Wisconsin, for the facts as to the charge of Chairman Butler, of the republican national committee, that the LaFollette forces in that state are seeking to raise a fund of $500,000 for use in the congressional election in Wisconsin.

CANDIDATE MORRIS GAVE TALK ON STATE FINANCES

Naugatuck, Oct. 20—Charles G. Morris, democratic candidate for governor speaking at a democratic rally here tonight, chose state finances as the subject of his attack on the republican administration, declaring "we are not waiting until the last moment of the campaign to present our evidence of inefficient and dishonest management of the state's affairs to the voters. We are giving the republican spokesmen two weeks in which to reply."

Taking up the subject of deficiency appropriations, "made wherever appointed officers of the state have expended more money than the preceding legislature allotted to them," Mr. Morris said that it was difficult to trace these appropriations in the special acts of the legislature. He declared, however, that "a few minutes spent with the special acts of the last three sessions of the legislature has quite readily developed the following items:

"Chapter 51 and chapter 322 of the special laws of 1919 show $2,066,699.45 of moneys raised by taxation and expended by republican office holders without waiting for authority from your elected representatives. Chapter 3, chapter 324 and chapter 459 of the special laws of 1921 show similar expenditures of $2,370,000. The indexing of the special acts of 1923 is peculiarly blind and in the short time at my disposal I unearthed only $887,397.75 appropriated to cover such deficiencies as shown in chapters 240, 359, 2 and 186."

TUMULTY ASKS PROOF OF GOV. WALKER OF GEORGIA

New York, Oct. 20—Joseph P. Tumulty, secretary to Woodrow Wilson, today sent a telegram to the Atlanta Constitution, calling upon Governor Walker of Georgia to offer proof of a statement the governor is reported to have made before the Ku Klux Klan meeting last month at Kansas City, that the secretary to President Wilson has used his influence as a Catholic to place in every national war camp a Catholic church and drive out the churches of every Protestant denomination. Mr. Tumulty, in his telegram, made public today, said in part:

"The statement of Governor Walker regarding my alleged war activities in behalf of the Catholic church is an unqualified falsehood No member of that church, neither a private in its ranks nor a member of its priesthood nor its hierarchy ever by the slightest suggestion sought to control me in this or any other matter."

Mr. Tumulty called upon Governor Walker to produce before a tribunal made up of the Protestant ministry which the governor may see fit to designate, any evidence he may have to substantiate his alleged charges.

SHENANDOAH IN FLIGHT PASSED OVER SAN FRANCISCO

San Francisco, Oct. 20—The navy dirigible Shenandoah looped over San Francisco on her way from the north today. A mosquito fleet of airplanes from Crissy Field and a flock of inquiry sea gulls following in her airy wake.

As far as the city was concerned, she was first spoken off Point Bonita, six miles to the north, at 2.40 p. m., for an hour more before this her great envelope, steel grey against the western sky, could be seen by the thousands of eager watches on the roofs of buildings and in the streets.

Off the Golden Gate she bent inland and maneuvered for altitude. Over the city proper she flew at a height of 1,000 feet or more, described a wide semi-circle and then slipped into the gathering clouds again, to be quickly lost to view. She seemed to be making slow, progress, particularly when she was in the off-shore winds that trust straight at her.

She left radio greetings for Mayor James Rolph, Jr., while flying over the city, but gave no indication as to the exact route she would follow out of San Francisco. It was believed that she would continue along the coat.

ONE DEATH, 20 INJURED DURING FIRE PANIC IN MOVIE HOUSE

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 20—One person was trampled to death and twenty others were injured, five possibly fatally, in a panic which followed discovery of fire in a moving picture theatre in New Castle, Ky., tonight, says a special dispatch to the Courier-Journal.

Count Zebrowsky was killed in Milan when the car he was driving in an automobile overturned. His mechanic was injured.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

NEW AMERICAN INTEREST IN LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Geneva, Oct. 20.—(By The A. P.)—A new American interest has been given to the league of nations handling of the system of mandates over former German and Turkish colonies by the appointment of Huntington Gilchrist of Auburn, N. Y., as assistant director of the mandate section of the league secretarit.

Prof. William Rappart of Switzerland, who has been director of this section and who was formerly professor of economics at Harvard, will retire to become vice-rector of the University of Geneva. V. Catastini of Italy will become the director with Mr. Gilchirts as assistant. The latter has been connected with the administrative commission of the league which is supervising questions such as those of Danzig and the Saare Valley.

Owing to the American interest in mandated territories, which developed with the negotiation of special American treaties with the mandate powers guaranteeing the United States equality of treatment, it was originally planned to give an American a leading position in mandate activities. In 1919 George L. Beer of New York was appointed head of the mandate section, but Beer died before he was able to take up his duties.

ASSAILED REPUBLICAN AND DEMOCRATIC CANDDIATES

New Haven, Oct. 20—Congressman F. H. La Guardia, of New York, speaking at a La Follette-Wheeler rally here tonight, assailed the republican and democratic candidates and urged the election of Senator LaFollette to the presidency.

Declaring that whether he was elected or not, Congressman La Guardia said "my victory was won when I told the republican party it could keep its nomination because it had not kept faith with the working men and women of America." He criticized the republican convention for "adopting a platform which only a constitutional lawyer could interpret and a ticket as chilly as the temperature tonight."

The democratic party, he argued, was controlled by exactly the same interests. They are two wings of the same bird of prey." The speaker predicted that if an investigation of the shipping board is made, "the people will be faced with another scandal as shameful as that in the department of justice, which we have seen dispensing justice to the highest bidder."

"We believe," he said, "that no great monopoly should be allowed to dictate the prices of the necessities of life. We believe that representative government should be restored by direct nomination and election of presidents, and direct election of federal judges. Why should we trust a president who appoints Fall, Denby and Daugherty to his cabinet to choose better judges than the people can elect."

NORTHAMPTON MAYOR MAKES APOLOGY FOR LIQUOR RAID

Northampton, Mass., Oct. 20—Mayor Edward J. Woodhouse, a professor at Smith College, today issued a statement publicly opologizing to Mr. and Mrs. Felix Borowski of this city for a raid which the Northampton police recently made in search of liquor. Mr. Borowski was discharged in district court recently on charges of keeping and sale of intoxicating liquor.

The mayor in his statement blames the police department and remarks that "such things must never be allowed to occur again."

"The police were clearly to blame," the statement said, "for not investigating more carefully before acting on such evidence and they have been instructed by the mayor that such things must never be allowed to happen again. The house of such worthy citizens as Mr. and Mrs. Borowski should never be searched."

DAVIS CONCLUDES HIS CAMPAIGN IN TENNESSEE

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 20—(By the A. P.)—John W. Davis, today concluded his campaign in Tennessee by declaring in speeches dentvered in Nashville that he partly approved the results brought about by the Washington armament conference but was "equally determined that the American people shall not be misled as to its scope or believe 'that it stands among the revolutionary and sublime achievements of the human race.'

The democratic nominee went into the subject of the conference with the statement that he had been criticized for "disparaging the purpose and results of the Washington conference," he read from President Coolidge's letter regarding navy day and declared that the chief executive had in that communication been more disparaging of the conference than "anything I would have dared to say."

NANTUCKET FISHERMEN FOUND MISSING MAN'S BODY

Nantucket, Mass., Oct. 20—The body of Charles E. Murray of Brockton, who has been missing since October 13 when he and a hunting companion, Henry W. Marston, also of Brockton, were thrown into the sea by the capsizing of their boat, was found by fishermen today five miles off shore from here. The body of Marston has not yet been recovered.

The two men, members of a duck-shooting party, went out to sea in a small boat, which was seen to overturn when they were some distance out from shore. George E. Boiling, their host, through a pair of field glasses, saw both the men and the boat disappear.

BALL PLAYERS ARRESTED FOR ASSAULTING BELL BOY

Wenatchee, Washn., Oct. 20.—Edward Brown, Milton Steck, J. Mitchell and Eernie Neis, members of the Brooklyn National League baseball team, which played here Sunday, were arrested last night at a hotel, charged with assaulting William Weaver, 15 year old bellboy. Weaver is in a hospital with a broken jaw and two teeth knocked out.

SENDING HELIUM FROM FORT WORTH TO LAKEHURST

Fort Worth, Texas, Oct. 20.—Four cars of helium, first to go to the ZR-3 left here this afternoon for Lakehurst. Twenty more cars will follow this week, it was stated. Orders to ship helium for re-filling th ebig dirigible were received today from Washington.

German Reichstag Has Been Dissolved

Action Taken Upon Failure to Construct a Bourgeoise Bloc With Definite Control.

Berlin, Oct. 21.—(By The A. P.)—The reichstag was dissolved by President Ebert this evening. After fitful efforts to construct a bourgeoise bloc which would definitely control a safe majority in the reichstag, Chancellor Marx appealed to President Ebert for a decree of dissolution and writs for new elections.

The refusal by the democrats to participate in a ministry which extended only in the direction of the nationalists proved the deciding factor in the chancellor's decision to abandon his negotiations, especially as his own party also was in open revolt against any pact which would drive the socialists into opposition.

As was the case in the spring campaign, the Dawes report will again be the outstanding issue in the forthcoming elections, in that the democrats and clericals will demand the continuation of Germany's foreign policies along the lines enunciated by the retiring cabinet and which were wholly dictated and shaped by the issues revolving around Germany's acceptance and fulfillment of the Dawes plan. In this bourgeoise parties have the active support of the socialists.

Just what will be the slogan of Stresemann's peoples party and the Hergt-Von Tirpitz party cannot be foreshadowed. It is plain from the progress of the inter-party negotiations conducted by Chancellor Marx during the past six weeks that both democrats and clericals bitterly resent the double dealing with which they charge the leaders of the peoples party and which is said to consist of a secret promise to Hergt that the nationalists would be definitely received into the government and given leading cabinet posts as a reward for their partial support of the Dawes plan when it cam eup for final acceptance late in August.

The chancellor exhausted every expedient at his command in order to avoid new elections, but the confusion thrown into the situation by Stresemann's party through its espousal of the nationalists and its open affront to the socialists made further parleys impossible.

Up to a late hour Chancellor Marx and his party colleagues in the cabinet, as well as the democrats, sought to effect a truce whereby the present minority cabinet would be permitted to continue in office through the sufferance of the nationalists and the socialists, on condition that it would pursue the course already laid out. This solution of the existing inter-party crisis was suggested by the feeling that new elections at the time of the German reconstruction loan and the foreign credits floated would meet with an inimical reaction board. It failed to impress Dr. Stresemann and the other leaders of the peoples party, and the cabinet therefore lost no time in voting for dissolution.

The present situation does not resolve itself into a cabinet crisis and is altogether the result of the existing party lineup in the reichstag, which precludes the formation of a workable majority government.

ANOTHER STATEMENT BY DEM. NATIONAL COMMITTEE

Washington, Oct. 20—The democratic national committee issued a statement here tonight by Senator Jones, of New Mexico, chairman of the democratic senatorial campaign committee declaring the "Coolidge-Dawes board of strategy," has lost hope of the election of a "pro-Coolidge republican congress."

Republican leaders also, the statement said, have "lost their professed cock-suredness of the election of President Coolidge on November 4, and are now trying to hatch plans to bring about his election in the house of representatives.

"That the Coolidge board of strategy has surrendered hope of gaining a republican majority in the sixty ninth congress is plainly to be seen," the statement continued.

PRODUCING MANAGERS' ASSOCIATION TO DISSOLVE

New York, Oct. 20—Holding there is no longer any reason for their existence the Producing Managers' Association, an organization of theatrical manager, today voted to dissolve a resolution was passed directing the board of directors to petition the supreme court for a legal dissolution of their organization.

Until its fight with the Actors' Equity Association last spring the Protective Managers' Association was an all powerful factor in the theatrical world.

Action of the association means that the theatrical business will be without a "czar." Augustus Thomas, the playwright, who was appointed to that position a year ago has a contract which runs until Aug. 1, 1925. It was decided to fulfill the terms of the contract, but the affairs of the M. P. A. will be closed up within a month, it is believed.

GOMPERS' POLITICAL MESSAGE TO ORGANIZED LABOR MEMBERS

Washington, Oct. 20—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, addressed a message tonight to organized labor defining the issues upon which he urged its support of the LaFollette-Wheeler ticket and declaring it was the first time in the country's history that "such a tremendous and determined opposition has arisen against the sinister influences that have controlled our government."

The message, issued on Mr. Gompers return to the labor federation headquarters here after an absence of more than six months, will be read, it was said, at every trade union meeting in the country and at all political rallies conducted by organized labor in this week.

Damage by Storm In Punta Gorda, Fla.

Streets Overflowed and City in Darkness—Citrous Crop Reported Seriously Damaged.

Punta Gorda, Fla., Oct. 20—The tropical storm which struck this city earlier in the afternoon was wreaking havoc here at 6 o'clock tonight. Heavy rains overflowed the streets and the city is in darkness, all electric lines being down. Maritime interests and fishing industry were said to be suffering damages. The citrus crop is reported to be seriously damaged.

Many citrus trees are said to be uprooted. Trees along the streets have been torn down. Vegetable plantings were thought to be a total loss.

All business was suspended this afternoon. The courts adjourned and schools were closed. Telegraph wires were holding up despite the high winds, but no mail was being received as trains were delayed. No loss of life has been reported.

REPUBLICAN RALLY HELD AT YALE UNIVERSITY

New Haven, Oct. 20—Senator James W. Wadsworth of New York and Hiram Bingham, republican nominee for governor, were the speakers at a republican rally held at Yale university tonight under the direction of the Yale republican club.

Senator Wadsworth reviewed the record of the republican administration for the past four years and warned his audience that the "hope of the radical, of the socialist and of the red is that the country will fail to elect a president on November 4."

Mr. Bingham devoted his address to the question of state finances, declaring that a state debt of $11,000,000 left by the democrats when they retired from office in 1915 had been entirely wiped out under the republican administration.

"During the past three days," Senator Wadsworth said, "I have seen indications that the democrats have given up their hopes in three or four states and are extending their support to LaFollette. But I don't believe the American people will permit the presidency to be juggled about. I have no doubt about the result."

Senator Wadsworth outlined the conditions that existed when President Harding entered the White House and told how the country was technically at war although hostilities had ended two and a half years before. He called the first great accomplishment of the Harding administration the making of peace with Germany.

"At that time," he said, "there were four million men out of work and the federal government was spending $5,500,000,000 a year. Taxes are a part of the expense of doing business and yet in 1921 the American people paid taxes totalling $91 for every human being in the United States. The long arm of the government stretching out, taking the earnings of the hard working people, and spending it recklessly—that was what was going on in 1920.

"That was the condition that had to be cured. There was not a man connected with the government from the president down who could tell whether there would be a deficit or not.

"Over 70,000 employes had to be cut off the payroll and the budget system was passed by a republican congress. Charles Dawes was picked as the man to direct the budget. He called a meeting of the men in all of the departments and told the money-spenders that it had to stop. In three years a reduction of $1,250,000,000 was made which means that much is left in your pocket each year to do with as you please. And the burden of taxation should be further lightened."

Referring to President Coolidge, Senator Wadsowrth, said,

"There are still some people disturbed because the man in the white house does not speak all the time. But I call it refreshing. There is a vast reassurance in the feeling that the government is being administered by New England methods and I don't say it to flatter a New England audience although I can boast of Connecticut ancestry."

WIFE MAY TALK THREE DAYS, HUSBAND THREE

Chicago, Oct. 20—On Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays of each week, Mrs. Rose Kopoun will do all the talking the Kopoun household and there will be no "back talk" from her husband George Kopoun.

Superior Judge Harry Lewis so ruled today after hearing evidence in Mrs. Kopoun's suit for separate maintenance. On Tuesdays, Thursday and Saturdays, the husband can talk and on Sunday the couple are not to argue, Judge Lewis ordered.

He told them to try the schedule and see if they could not patch up their differences after both said "arguing" was the cause of their troubles.

LAFOLLETTE TALKS ON 1920 TRANSPORTATION ACT

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 20.—(By The A. P.)—Senator Robert M. LaFollette, independent presidential candidate, in an address here tonight renewed his demand for repeal of the transportation act of 1920, declared there will be no reduction in freight rates until this is done, charged that the railroad interests are engaged actively "in a desperate effort" to defeat him and elect either Coolidge or Davis, and insisted that he did not propose, if elected, to undertake "any ill considered experiments in publi, ownership of railroads or along any other line."

Mr. LaFollette contended that the only way to take the railroad question out of politics is to "settle it right."

$18,000 LIQUOR CARGO WAS TAKEN FROM SCHOONER

Wildwood, N. J., Oct. 20.—A liquor cargo valued at $18,000 today was removed by coast guards from the two masted schooner, The Starrt, which is reported to have sailed from Providence. The guards also took possession of the sloop Columbia, from Atlantic City, and cared for its load of 400 cases. Both were captured in Delaware Bay and were taken to the Anglesea Coast Guard station.

EXPLOSION KILLED FOUR MEN ON CRUISER TRENTON

Eighteen Men Were Injured, Some Probably Fatally—Accident Occurred During Target Practice on the Southern Drill Grounds Off Cape Henry—Explosion Was in the Forward Twin Gun Mount of the New Scout Cruiser—Ship Was a Few Miles From Norfolk When the Accident Happened.

Norfolk, Va., Oct. 20.—Four persons—an officer, nad three enlisted men—were killed and 18 others injured in an explosion late today on the scout cruiser Trenton during target practice off the Virginia capes.

The Trenton arrived at the naval base tonight and eight of the injured were placed aboard a tug and sent to the navy hospital at Portsmouth. Naval officers said the names of the dead would be made public as soon as the ship's list could be checked and revised.

Names of the dead are:

Ensign Henry Clay Drexler, Sussex Beach, Del.

Rowland Philip Hanson, seamon, first class, Soldier, Iowa.

William Alfred Walker, seaman, first class ——

Bernard Beverly Bryan, seaman, second class, Bristol, Conn.

Walker went overboard and was drowned.

Among the injured, four were listed as critically burned and seven as seriously, but not critically.

Of the eighteen reported injured, the names of only 16 have been transmitted at a late hour.

The list, as made public, follows:

Critically Burned

Bennett Williams, seaman, second class.

George Robert Cholister, boatswain's mate, first class.

Franklin B. Jeffrey, seaman, first class.

Mervin Franklin Seamon, seaman, second class.

Seriously, Not Critically

George DeWitt Luker, seaman, first class.

Slightly Injured

Joh Arthur Sedwick, lieutenant junior grade.

Thomas Howard Bailey, seaman, second class.

Calmon Coloy White, seaman, second class

Joseph Leo White, turret captain, first class.

William Douglas Sterling, seaman, second class.

The cause of the explosion according to a radio message tonight from the Trenton, had no t been determined.

The forward twin mount was trained to the beam, with guns at an extreme elevation," said the message. "No shot had been fired. Powder and shell were being hoisted into the turret and all safety precautions had been observed.

"Unusual and exacting care had been taken at every step and at present, it is believed the accident cannot be attributed to electrical trouble.

Immediately after the explosion the access door in the rear of the turret was opened and four men fell overboard because of the overhang. They were rescued. One apparently was badly burned and drowned, but body was not recovered. The scout cruiser Raleigh was searching for the body tonight."

REPORT RECEIVED BY NAVY DEPARTMENT

Washington, Oct. 20—Three men were killed in an explosion in the forward twin gun mount of the new scout cruiser Trenton during target practice on the southern drill grounds, off Cape Henry, Va., today, the navy department was informed tonight.

A brief message received at the department said: "Powder fire in forward twin mount and three dead." No names were immediately available of the casualties.

The cruiser was said to have been but a few miles from Norfolk when the accident occurred. It is in command of Captain E. C. Kalbfus and has been in commission about six months, being one of the first of the scout cruisers recently placed in service.

The Trenton is a 7500 ton cruiser and carried ten six-inch guns besides anti-aircraft and torpedo equipment She is designated to carry a crew of about 400.

The Trenton had gone to the drill grounds from the Washington navy yard after bringing home the body of Major Robert W. Imbrie, American vice consul at Teheran, Persia, who was killed by a mob of religious fanatics.

MESSAGE OF REGRET BY ACTING SECY OF NAVY

Washington, Oct. 20.—Advised of the accident on board the scout cruiser Trenton off Cape Henry late today fr which four men were killed and 18 injured by an explosion during target practice, Admiral Eberle, chief of naval operations and acting secretary of the navy, sent the following message to Admiral McCully, commander of the scouting fleet:

"Department deeply regrets accident on Trenton and expresses heartfelt sympathy to officers and men of that vessel and to the relatives of those men who lost their lives or were injured in the performance of their duty."

Admiral McCully, who is on the Wyoming, was advised of the accident by Captain E. C. Kalbfus, of the Trenton, in a dispatch timed at 4.36 p. m., and promised details when the cruiser reached Hampton Roads, Va.

The Trenton was commissioned about six months ago nad had just returned from its shakedown cruise around Africa.

ALARMING INCREASE IN SMUGGLING OF ALIENS

Montreal, Oct. 20.—The smuggling of aliens into the United States across the Canadian border has "increased alarmingly" during the past few weeks, it was declared today by I. F. Wixon, United States commissioner of Immigration for Montreal. He said the American consular offices throughout Canada were crowded with applications for admission to the United States.

"There are sufficient of the waiting list in Montreal to provide for quota fulnillment until July of next year," said Mr. Wixen.

Jails near the border are filled with men and women of many nationalities who sought to evade the immigraiton law, the local immigration authorities have been informed, while rum runners are turning their attention from liquor to aliens.

Reports of immigrants having been thrown in the Detroit and St. Clair rivers, when the men conveying them across were threatened with capture by patrol boats, have been received here. "Hi-Jackers" who agree to get the alien across the border but en route rob them of everything they possess are reported as active.

The existence of a gigantic "ring" with headquarters in Montreal, is suspected.

TWO MISSING BOYS WERE FOUND ON LONELY ROAD

Stratford, Oct. 20.—There is rejoicing tonight at the home of Paul Grutz, age 14, and Edgar Behan, age 13. The two boys, believed to have been drowned on a canoe trip up the Housatonic river, were found today on a lonely road in Oxford, eight miles north of Derby, trudging along in the general direction of Stratford. They had slept in the woods last night. All they had eaten since leaving Stratford in a canoe yesterday morning was a pie.

The boys set out in their canoe to visit an uncle of the Behan lad, living on the banks of the Housatonic in Oxford. They had beached the canoe at Shelton, but were unable to find the uncle's house.

ELECTION FOR SUCCESSOR TO SENATOR BRANDEGEE DEC. 15

Hartford, Oct. 20—The special election for the choice of United States Senator from Connecticut to succeed the late Frank B. Brandegee will be held Tuesday December 16, Governor Templeton announced at the state capitol today.

The announcement was made at 1 o'clock following a conference with State Treasurer Anson T. McCook who is also acting executive secretary. Sheriffs and deputies representing the eight counties of the state were expected at the capitol at 2 o'clock to receive the special election writs to be served on the 169 towns in the state.

CUMMINGS DECLARES A VOTE FOR LAFOLLETTE IS FUTILE

Chattanooga, Tenn., Oct. 20.—Without "intention of being disrespectful," Homer Cummings, former chairman of the democratic national committee "laid aside" the candidacy of Senator Robert M. LaFollette for the presidency, in a national democratic campaign address here tonight. He predicted that the next president of the United States would be either Mr Coolidge or Mr. Davis, "whether the election should be decided in the usual way or whether the choice is referred, under the constitution to the house of representatives.'

"Most citizens will desire to cast not only a conscience vote but an effective vote," he said.

A vote in favor of the candidacy of LaFollette, Mr. Cummings stated in his prepared address, "is necessarily but a futile gesture, persuasive as his appeal may be, "to many citizens dissatisfied with the course of public events and suspicious of politicians and political parties in general.

Holding that the rank and file of the republican party are not responsible for "certain happenings" in that party, Mr. Cummings charged theft with responsibilities, if, in the light of events, "they continue in that leadership.'

He attacked the Fordney-McCumber tariff act as a measure which 'takes eight dollars out of the pockets of the American consumer every time it puts one dollar into the treasury of the government of the United States.

After discussing the record of the republican party and adding that the re-election of President Coolidge would mean "a continuation of conditions of chaos in public affairs," Mr. Cummings said that "we must not disappoint" the people "ts they have been disappointed since the day when the idealism of Wilson was abandoned for the doctrine of greed."

CONVENTION OF FEDERATION OF CATHOLIC ALUMNAE

Philadelphia, Oct. 20.—Delegates to the convention of the International Federation of Catholic Alumnae were told today by the Rev. Paul L. Blakeley that tendencies toward compulsory public school education in the United States were pointing the way to "pure Caesarism and state absolutism." He denounced as "unAmerican" the Oregon compulsory public school law and criticized the Sterling-Reed bill, which would create a federal department of education.

"If a proper relation on the truth can be brought home to our people," said the speaker, "the Sterling-Reed bill is dead. Introduced in October, 1918, but subjected to many amendments since that time, the bill still retains the features which from the beginning made it objectionable to all who believe that the local school should remain under the exclusive control of the local school authorities.

The Catholic parochial school system was described by Cardinal Dougherty as the "cradle of the faith."

NORWICH DOINGS 75 YEARS AGO

Foreign news was of importance in Norwich in 1849 but the greatest interest was in the proposal that lower Canada be anneved by the United States.

Items from the files of the Norwich Courier of that year were in part as follows:

Tuesday, October 16, 1849—Interest is centered on the Turkish question now that the Emperor of Russia has demanded the surrender of Kossuth and because Turkey, backed by English and French envoys will probably refuse the demand. War is likely to follow and 60,000 Turkish troops are massed in the Golden Horn.

The New Haven Palladium notes that Hon. John A. Rockwell of this state has arranged to reside in Washington for the prosecution of claims before the different departments and before the Mexican Commission. In this the Palladium is in error for Mr. Rockwell has no intention of changing his residence to Washington while doing this work.

Charles Coolide has been elected governor of Vermont by a 51 majority this being done by the two branches of government in convention at Montpelier after Governor Coolidge failed of election by the people by 36 votes, a total of 52,866 votes being cast in all.

The talk of the annexation of Cuba by the United States is of most importance in Cuba today. At a recent party the representative of Great Britain remarked that if Cuba became separated from Spain, her union with any other country than England was utterly impossible, nay, as impossible as the removal of the sun from the firmament.

The people of lower Canada have issued a declaration asking for the annexation of Canada by the United States. Sentiment of the people of lower Canada is strongly for this because they believe it will work to the advantage of both Canada and the United States. What will be done about the annexation remains to be seen.

Thursday, October 18, 1849—The receipts of the Norwich & Worcester railroad for the first week of the present month exced those of the corresponding week of last year by $1,350. The business of the road is destined to go on increasing as may be seen by anyone who glances over the railroad maps. Treasures must be forwarded to New York over the N & W road, the Granite state must use these lines and other states north are finding it the cheapest and quickest route to send their goods over.

The Montreal Courier says that over 10,000 people have gone out of lower Canada to settle in the United States, that they are not waiting for annexation but are doing it themselves. Lower Canada, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island are all losing many of their families.

Over 900 letters went out on the steamer leaving New York for California and fully as many more went by hand, by far the heaviest mail this year.

Currier & Company are advertising fall and winter clothing, among the items of interest being 1500 brown broadcloth overcoats at from $5 to $15, French and German cloth sacks, $6 to $12; black satin vests, $1.50 to $4; socks and mits and buck mittens, 35 cents to 75 cents, 500 pairs fine black doe skin cassimers pants made spring or plain bottoms, $2.50 to $6.

Saturday, October 20, 1849—Fifty dollars reward has been offered for the arrest of a villain who entered a livery stable of George Leffingwell in this city and hired a horse and carriage for a few days. The notice published asks for other cities and towns to be on the lookout and to arrest the villain who did not return his charges, mentioning that the state might benefit if he were caught and put to hard labor at Wethersfield.

A young man aboard the schooner Delaware was injured badly yesterday when the schooner was putting off from the dock. A pile of iron rails left projecting over the edge of the dock was struck and several of the rails fell upon him. As they weighed 350 pounds apiece it was some time before he could be released and then it was found that his legs were painfully crushed and bones broken.

Many residents of Norwich eagerly read the news from Rome concerning the manifesto of the pope which has appeared in official form. Deep resentment met the manifesto in all quarters there, especially among the French soldiers who tore them down wherever possible. The Cardinals dare not walk the streets of Rome for fear of encountering the popular fury, while the victims marked out by their inquisitorial decrees walk the streets unmolested. Grave consequences are likely to follow and later news is being looked forward to with interest.

The owners of the Norwich & Worcester line of steamers have promoted William Wilcox from the position he held as first pilot of the knickerbocker, to the command of the Worcester, which came through the sound under the guidance of her new command for the first time, on Monday. Capt. E. D. Roath has withdrawn from the service and Mr. Wilcox is well able to assume his position of responsibility.

FORMING $30,000,000 FOREIGN SECURITIES CORPORATION

New York, Oct. 20—Formation of the United States and foreign securities corporation, a $30,000,000 enterprise which will buy, sell and underwrite both American Foreign Corporation governmental and other securities, was announced today. Edward G. Wilmer, head of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber company, will be chairman of the board of directors, composed of representative bankers and industrialists.

One of its initial investments will be approximately $2,700,000 for 25 per cent. of the capital stock of the American and Continental Corporation, recently formed for the purpose of financing industrial and commercial companies in Europe this concern will begin its operations in Germany, where it has associated with it a group of leading German banks.

Another specialized foreign banking and credit institution the Equitable Acceptance Company of New York, Inc., is in process of organization by New York bankers. Its operations will be devoted to broadening American influence in foreign trade and financial affairs. The company, which is capitalized at $1,000,000 will be headed by Romaine Philpot, former head of the foreign credit corporation.

HEARING ON APPEAL FROM DIAMOND DEATH SENTENCE

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 20—The court of appeals today set November 10 as the date for the hearing on arguments on appeals from death sentence of Joseph Farina, Morris Diamond and Joseph Diamond. The three with Joseph Pantano, were convicted of the killing of two bank messengers on November 14, 1923, in New York City.

WOMEN VOTERS IN NEWTON, MASS., OUTNUMBER MEN

Newton, Mass., Oct. 20—If the women of this city stuck together they could capture the city government, with the completion of registration figures today, the registrars of voters announced that women now outnumber the men on the voting lists by 212. The totals are: women 11,484; men 11,272.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

CHAPLAIN WILL ADDRESS WHITE CROSS COUNCIL

White Cross council, No. 13, is expecting an unusually large attendance at its meeting this (Tuesday) evening at the K. of C. home when the chaplain of the council, Rev. W. A. Keefe, has an important message for the members, something that he is well able to give through his intimate acquaintance with the aims and objects of the order.

The new officers will assume the duties of this positions at this meeting and a programme of work for the season will be presented for the consideration of the members. The arrangements for the address by Father Keefe were in the hands of Lecturer Francis T. Diggins.

Palace Theater

Frank Lloyd's production of The Sea Hawk, a First National picture, by Rafael Sabatini, author of Scaramouche, is attracting crowds at the Palace theater this week.

The Sea Hawk deals with the romance and sacrifice of Sir Oliver Tresilian, who shortly after the announcement of his marriage to Rosamund Godolphin is accused of murdering her brother, is kidnaped, taken to sea by a profligate sea captain and later made a galley slave on a Spanish Galleon when the pirate ship is captured. After many months of toil at the big oars, many privations and long hours to give to brooding over his misfortune Oliver escapes, becomes the commander of an Algerian ship, returns to England, kidnaps Rosamund and his own brother and forces the latter to confess to the murder of which he is accused. This is vividly related, and the dramatic adventure contains many thrills and much that is original and entertaining.

Four ancient ships, costing over a quarter of a million dollars to build, an entire Algerian city, with historical slave markets, and a wardrobe valued at more than $85,000 are but a few of the unusual features of The Sea Hawk.

Special musical presentation by Palace augumented orchestra comprises this exceptional high class program.

Breed Theater

The White Moth, now being snown at the Breed theatre, is one of the most sensational and colorful stories that has been made for First National. Maurice Tourneur spared no expense in building magnificent settings and engaged an expensive cast to work with him. Hundreds of pretty girls were used in the chorus scenes and the Bal des Artistes. They wore gorgeous gowns and costumes. The most dramatic moments of the story were filmed against a background of gaiety and fun. The contrast is only one of the remarkable touches that a master director has woven into this story.

Barbara La Marr, together with Conway Tearle, play the leading roles. Charles de Roche, the French actor, plays the heavy part.

Other members of the cast include Josie Sedgwick, Edna Murphy, Ben Lyon, Kathleen Kirkman and William Orlamond.

Other pictures on the bill include the Pathe news and a Pathe comedy.

Broadway Theater

Fest of Clay, the new Cecil De Mille Paramount production at the Broadway theater today-Wed, is a modern story of the flapper grown to womanhood. Vera Reynolds plays a typical Miss 1924. Rod La Rocque, Victor Varconi, Ricardo Cortez, Julia Faye, Theodore Kosloff and Robert Edeson are also featured in the cast.

When we tell you that in addition to the direction by DeMille, undoubtedly the greatest producer of them all, Norman Bel Geddes, who staged The Miracle, the wonder play in New York City, supervised the construction of sets for Fest of Clay, you'll easily imagine just how big this picture is. The Ten Commandments is the only thing DeMille has even done that can begin to measure up to this one.

The Keith Vaudeville also made a big hit. Harry Philwin and Co. in Songs and Smiles opened the program. James H. Cullen in stories kept all in good humor. A rare treat show's sporting Dog Revue which closed the show.

Sale on Slater Avenue

Real Estate Broker John A. Moran has sold for Stanley Chimielewski the modern two apartment house and garage, located at 22-24 Slater avenue. The new owners, the Misses Margaret and Annie Counihan of this city expect to make their home in one of the apartments in their newly acquired property.

Slot machine owners in Austria count on a revival of business after the return of metal money, according to Consul Heingartner at Vienna. Slot machines are found in all Vienna railway stations, but they have been out of operation since early in the world war.

POETRY

Refuge

And what's to cure an aching heart
Beneath a jacket blue
For a lass's lips and a lass's vows
And all the while untrue?
Why, the whistle of the wind, lad,
The sting of salty spray,
And the blood-red moon arising
From the harbor of Bombay.

And what's to dry the tears that well
And smart with the eyes
For fond old hands now folded,
Fond hearts beyond the skies?
Why, following the whale's path
Afar from carking land,
With a chanty drowning the capstan's creak—
"Bound for Rio Grande."

And what's to bring forgetfulness
Of sodden days ashore,
And nights—black, burning memories
Of liquor, lust and gore?
Why, tight ships and taut sheets
And surges white-and-blue,
For, race or roll, sail safe or wreck,
There's mastery for you!

And what's to end it all, lad,
When heads are old and gray,
For him who dreads the willows' woe,
The churchyard's mold and clay?
Why, let him slip to leeward—
One plunge—green water's roar—
And sleep among the coral caves
With shipmates gone before.
—Harold Willard Gleason in Adventure Magazine.

Into the Twilight

Out-worn heart, in a time out-worn,
Come clear of the nets of wrong and right:
Laugh, heart, again in the gray twilight,
Sigh, heart, again in the dew of the morn.

Your mother Eire is always young,
Dew ever shining and twilight gray;
Though hope fail from you and love decay,
Burning in fires of a slanderous tongue.

Come, heart, where hill is heaped upon hill:
For there the mystical brotherhood
Of sun and moon and hollow and wood
And river and stream work out their will;

And God stands winding His lonely horn,
And time and the world ever in flight;
And love is less kind than the gray twilight,
And hope is less dear than the dew of the morn.

William Butler Yeats.

Saving the lives of 762 children of school age is credited to safety instructions in Detroit schools for the five years, 1919 to 1923, inclusive. Decrease in child fatalities has been from 1.64 a thousand in 1919 to .72 in 1923, a drop of more than 50 per cent; in relation to automobile registration the decrease has been from .85 a thousand in 1919 to .38 in 1923; on the basis of total population the decrease has been from .22 a thousand to .18 a thousand.

Pete Vandemeer, champion broncho buster of Canada at the Calgary stampede of 1923, and a friend of the Prince of Wales, has recently been made Chief Sky High by the Sarcee Indians of Alberta. He showed such skill as a wild horse tamer and broncho buster on the Indian reserve that the Sarcees insisted on making him a chief. In 1923 Pete Vandemeer was a guest of the prince of Wales at the "E. P. ranch," near High river, and rode at the Calgary stampede, for the entertainment of Alberta's royal rancher.

"A piece of linen, sent to our research department recently from London, though 5,000 years old, was found to be as perfect structurally as the linens we are making today." This was the statement made by W. H. Similarly, he said, the windings found in 1881 on the mummy of Rameses II, who oppressed the Israelites in the time of Moses, were still perfect.

The post-war wave of crime has been as much of a problem in German as American cities. To combat it in Berlin a special telephone device has been put in use. Whenever any one is in need of the police he calls central, says "emergency call," and gives his address. A motorcycle or auto patrol starts at once. The newest development involves the use of a phonograph with a record of the police call phrase. This is connected electrically to doors and windows, so that if a marauder forces an entrance an arr

DANIELSON

At St. James' church Monday morning, at a nuptial mass, Miss Etudienne Forest, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Forest of Putnam, and Oscar J. Bernier, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Bernier of Reynolds street, were united in marriage by Rev. F. J. Richards, M. S., in the presence of numbers of relatives and friends. Mr. Forest, father of the bride, and Mr. Bernier, father of the groom, were the witnesses.

The bride wore a fog-colored suit with hat to match and carried a bouquet of bride roses.

Following the marriage there was a breakfast and reception at the home of the groom's parents. During the day Mr. and Mrs. Bernier left on a motor tour that will take them over the Mohawk trail and to points in northern New England. Upon their return they will make their home at 31 Reynolds street.

The first radio show ever arranged for Danielson is to be presented here early in November. It will include, it is indicated, a great variety of radio sets and equipment. The exhibits are certain to be of interest not only to those who own radio sets, but as well to those who, in ever increasing numbers, are becoming curious about this marvelous development. It was stated Monday by one in close touch with radio work in Danielson that there are approximately 400 sets owned in town, and the number is increasing from week to week.

George R. Sturgis, of Woodbury, counsel for the state board of education; Oscar Fitzsimmons, Woodbury, a representative of the state board, and Frederick Camp, West Hartford, supervisor of elementary schools for the state board, are in Killingly this week to make a general survey of school properties of the town. Monday they visited the graded schools in Danielson. Fire drills were a feature of their checking of the schools here. Their survey will include inspection of the layout and equipment of school buildings. During his stay here Mr. Sturgis is the guest of Attorney E. L. Darble.

Notices have been sent out for a meeting of Quinebaug Pomona grange, to be held with Ashford grange at Warrenville on Saturday of this week. This is to be a special meeting, a degree to be given in connection with the established work of Quinebaug Pomona grange. Included in the list of entertainment features for the meeting is a solo by Miss Helen Witter of Brooklyn.

Thirty-three additional names will go on the voting lists of the town as the result of the last session held by the selectmen and town clerk for the purpose of admitting duly qualified persons as electors. Of the newest of the new voters, 18 are men and 15 are women. Just prior to election day all of those will be enrolled those who have just reached their majority and entitled that they may cast their first vote in a national election in November.

At Attawaugan crossing, the new road that is to connect the highway at that point to Attawaugan village, a short distance to the south, according to Putnam is practically complete. The work is being done in connection with the elimination of John A. Williams crossing, the contract for which was awarded the upper Attawaugan road. The cut-off will make it unnecessary to stop and send all traffic over the grade crossing, which is equipped with gates to give warning of approaching trains. Practically no loss in time will be experienced by travelers using the improved route. The crossing that is being eliminated has long been regarded as a dangerous one, and serious accidents have occurred there in the past.

The personal canvass system of aligning voters for candidates at the coming election seems to have largely supplanted in this town the time-worn program of having a long series of rallies and torchlight parades. There is not so much fuss and flurry in the more modern system, though it is not so modern after all, but it appears to be far more effective. This year the individual voter is getting a personal canvass and his or her vote is being appealed for on the ground of loyalty to party, personal friendship and various other effective and alluring bases. The canvass now under way in the interest of various candidates is covering about every section of Killingly.

Two cases were disposed of by Judge W. Fenner Woodward in the town court Monday. One man was fined for having been intoxicated and a minor was held in $500 bonds in an automobile case involving the disappearance and later recovery of a small automobile.

K. of C. whist party and dance in St. John's hall Wednesday evening. You are invited.—adv.

The substantial gain in 153 children of school age in the town of Killingly over the figures for last year is shown in the enumeration recently completed and now on file at the office of the selectmen. This year's total is 1938, as compared with 1785 in 1923. The largest part of the gain recorded is in No. 1 district, including Horse hill, the figures for this area being 938 this year as against 826 last year. Other districts, with two exceptions, also show gains and two districts show slight losses. No. 4 district has 99 this year as against 94 a year ago, No. 5 district 26 now as against 14 in 1923. No. 7 district 281 this year as against 278 last year, No. 8 district 133 now as against 127 in 1923, No. 9 district 113 in 1924 as compared to 109 in 1923, No. 11 district 13 last year against 13 this year, No. 12 district 52 this year against 54 last year, No. 13 district 37 in 1924 as compared to 34 a year ago, No. 14 district 9 this year as against 7 last year and No. 16 district 27 now as against 24 in 1923.

The increase in enumeration will bring to Killingly more money from the state for educational purposes. The increase this year will amount to $344.25, as the state allows $2.25 for each child enumerated. The total allotment from the state to Killingly will be $4360.50.

The enumerators who have recently completed the checkup are George A. Williams of Dayville, William Hunter of Goodyear, Henry Lague of Danielson and Alcott D. Sayles of East Killingly.

October began to bear down a bit Monday, which, in the late afternoon became one of the really chill days of the fall. It was not distressingly cold, but cold enough to bring out a showing of furs and heavy top coats. The cold appeared to mark a break in what has been one of the most beautiful periods of weather ever recorded hereabouts, in October.

As dog warden of the town of Pomfret, Sheriff Charles E. Ayer of this town received a message relative to a dog that is believed to be mad, over in the neighboring town.

A badly battered man who said he was beaten at Moosup because he was suspected of being a rum spotter, made his appearance in this town and sought out a quiet place to rest and recuperate for a few days.

A get-together supper is planned to be held at the Congregational church in Dayville Wednesday evening of next week.

Of interest to passersby are the calisthenics in which about 100 boys attending Killingly High school participate daily, an innovation this year. The daily drill is on the lawn at the school.

Numbers of republicans here complain that they have not received cards on which to express their political preferences for president, in a great poll being taken by a New York publication, and this in the face of the fact tha tthey are subscribers for the periodical.

Stereopticon slides of China will be shown at this (Tuesday) evening's meeting of the Crusaders at the Baptist church, in connection with the study book program.

The Connecticut Woman's Home Missionary society is to meet at the Congregational church here Wednesday of next week and will be entertained by the Benevolent society of the church.

MEASURES FOR RELIEF OF TRAFFIC CONGESTION

Boston, Oct. 20—Twelve recommendations for relief of traffic congestion were contained in a report submitted by Commissioner of Public Works William F. Williams to the special legislative committee investigating motor vehicles problems today.

Mr. Williams favors warning lights of red and white and bells for all grade crossings; jail terms for all convictions of intoxicated drivers; traffic courts in the larger cities; eye tests for applicants for drivers' licenses, compulsory insurance, effective state control over gasoline and other roadside business stands and better coordination of all law enforcement agencies.

PUTNAM

Important developments relative to the affairs of the proposed Citizens' National bank is anticipated following the visitation of Judge Mahlon H. Geissler to Washington, D. C., where he was in conference with the comptroller Monday. Judge Geissler, it was stated here Monday, was summoned to Washington by telephone Sunday and left during the day. Nothing definite was known here Monday relative to the details of his mission. It is taken for granted, however, that matters of importance would be discussed when the time for his appointment came at 10 o'clock Monday morning. It was not known, exactly Monday when Judge Geissler will return, but it is not anticipated that his stay in Washington will be at all lengthy.

A special meeting of Quinebaug Pomona grange is to be held Saturday next with Ashford grange at Warrenville. In the morning, at Baker's hall, there is to be a fifth degree session for conferring the Pomona degree. At noon a dinner is to be served by the grange and Ladies' Aid society.

The afternoon session is to be held in Knowlton hall, with the programme open to all patrons. The Boyhood Days of Calvin Coolidge will be the subject of an address by E. C. Carpenter. Readings are to be given by Frank L. Bennett, of Killingly. Miss Helen Witter of Brooklyn will play a number of piano solos. Other entertainment numbers that have not been announced will be presented.

The Child Labor Amendment and other Legislative Measures in which the Grange is interested will be a subject for a general discussion, to be led by Master Frank Haines, of Quinebaug Pomona grange.

About every adversity that one might ordinarily anticipate seems to be insistent on getting into the records of 1924 in Putnam. Now it is low water that is interfering with the steady operation of the textile plants in Putnam, and the same condition is being experienced at other plants along the Quinebaug and other rivers in this territory. The plant of the Putnam Woolen Company was one that was temporarily handicapped Monday by the water shortage and a brief shutdown was forced.

The rainfall of the year is considerably below normal. There was a long drought during the summer and another that threatens to rival it has been on for several weeks, with only an occasional rain. Rivers meanwhile have receded from their normal levels for this time of the year and there is not enough water in the streams to give dependable power at all times when it is required.

Pomfret has a mad dog scare—not a very serious one, but of sufficient importance to command the assistance of a special deputy from the office of the commissioner of domestic animals at Hartford. A dog believed to be suffering from rabies ran amuck in Pomfret at the week end and bit several other dogs and possibly other animals. Prompt action to get the supposedly mad dog resulted in the sending out of hurry calls for the town dog warden and for assistance from the bureau of domestic animals. A prolonged search for the dog had been unavailing, it was stated Monday afternoon.

French-speaking republicans of this city are to have a big political rally Tuesday evening of next week, when Attorney E. L. Jalbert, of Woonsocket, will come here to address a meeting to be held in St. John's hall, Providence street. There will be other speakers at the meeting. A parade will precede the rally, which is expected to bring together several hundred prospective voters for President Calvin Coolidge. This rally will be one of a series to be held by republican organizations in towns of the 25th senatorial district during the coming week, the last before the important elections of November 4.

While the LaFollette campaign is not making itself felt openly, in this territory, something is being done in the interest of his candidacy. It has come to light that literature setting forth LaFollette's claims to political preference in the coming presidential election is being circulated in this and surrounding towns and that his supporters from neighboring cities are doing some missionary work in his interest in a quiet way. There is nothing to indicate that LaFollette will have the support of any great number of voters in Putnam, but he will get some support here, as indicated by the outspoken intent of some voters as to what they are going to do with their ballots two weeks from today.

Miss Etudienne Forest, whose home is in this city, was united in marriage with Oscar F. Bernier at St. James' church, Danielson, Monday morning.

Well sustained interest and enthusiasm marks the work of those who are studying this fall at the Putnam evening school, which holds its sessions in the high school building.

At Hartford, at St. Joseph's carnival this (Tuesday) evening Miss Lorena Gallant, soprano, whose home is in this city, will assist in the concert programme.

Reports relative to what the hunters shot at the week end were more encouraging than those that came in at the early part of the hunting season.

State Attorney Charles E. Searls is still confined by illness to his home in Thompson.

In observance of his birthday, a party for a few of his little friends was given Aylward Thayer, at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Thayer.

NAT'L BANK IN SUBURB OF HARRISBURG, PA., ROBBED

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 20—The National Bank at Penbrook, a suburb, was robbe dof about $1,400 today, according to the police, by two masked bandits who escaped in a small closed automobile.

One of the bandits held up three bank employes while the other took the money. The employes were H. D. Flank, the president of the institution, R. H. Gish, cashier, and Mrs. Fannie Kirkpatrick, clerk.

WESTERLY

Superior Court Judge Leonard J. Nickerson, of Cheshire, past grand master of Masons in Connecticut, will address the member of Westerly Masonic club, No. 176 in the club rooms on High street Wednesday evening on "Citizenship."

The Colonial express as it pulled out of the Westerly station of the New Haven road, westbound, at 10.47 Monday morning, broke a coupling on the forward baggage car of the long train of coaches and Pullmans. The baggage was removed from the disabled car and it was set off on the siding near the signal tower, which delayed the train's departure.

Dr. Thomas E. Robinson reported Monday that he had received no trace of his Buick coupe which was stolen from the place in front of the Masonic club, New London Thursday evening last, while he was attending the Knights Templar banquet at the state armory. The doctor stated that he was handicapped in making proper return to the Rhode Island state board of registration because "he did not know to him it had been sold."

Over two hundred members and friends of the Women's Community club of Westerly were seated at the dinner tables in the vestry of the Pawcatuck Seventh day Baptist church Monday evening. This was the first in this season's series of meetings of the club, of which Miss Sallie E. Coy is president, and she acted as toastmaster. The speaker was Miss Harriet Fuller fo the Classical High school, Providence and the leader of the singing, Miss Orina W. Kidd of Westerly High school.

Miss Rene Palmer returned Sunday night to her home in New London after visiting her sister, Mrs. Ernest N. Gully.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Browning of Westerly nad Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Barber of Pawcatuck were automobile visitors Saturday in Providence and visited the Jane Brown Memorial hospital. They report Dr. A. H. Spicer, Sr., who has been there for five weeks as progressing favorably toward recovery. Miss Jennie B. Stanton of Westerly, also a patient there, is improving.

Irving H. Champlin of Westerly in the employ of the New Haven railroad went to New London on Monday to undergo an operation at the Lawrence hospital.

George S. Litman, Augustine T. L. Ledwidge and Henry Grills of Westerly were automobile visitors in New York Saturday in attendance upon the Army-Notre Dame football game.

Mrs. Gustave P. Brucker and Miss Sarah Richmond of Westerly have gone to New York for a week's visit.

Mr. and Mrs. William Clark left Monday for a visit in New York.

Vincent C. Whipple has arrived at his home in Westerly after an auto trip to Canada.

Attorney Herbert W. Rathbun of Westerly was in Stonington borough on Monday afternoon in attendance upon a coroner's inquest.

Miss Margaret W. Grant, ticket agent in the Putnam station of the New Haven road was the week end guest of her sisters, Misses Sarah and Elizabeth Grant, in Westerly.

Councilman Farquhar Smith of Westerly was one of a party of hunters in North Stonington Monday.

John Gomena returned Monday morning from a visit in Canada.

Joseph T. Crowley, a Pullman conductor on the New Haven road, was the week end guest of Pawcatuck relatives and friends.

William Barrus of Westerly was arraigned in a special session of Third district court Monday afternoon before Acting Judge Walter Flynn, Jr., on complaint of Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown, charged with operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor. He was fined $100 and costs which he paid. At the same court there were presented on complaint of intoxication William Rhodes of Westerly, and William Brown of Webster, Mass., and Norbert Holland of Westerly, who entered pleas of guilty and were fined $10 and costs each, which they paid.

These cases grew out of a "gin party" which the young men held Sunday night and which was followed by their arrest by Patrolmen Robert Kessel and Michael Curtin of the Westerly force after they had picked them up in an automobile on the Shore road.

Francis M. Johnson of the Westerly Light and Power company has returned from a visit to Atlantic City, N. J.

Alexander Barclay Robertson is having a short vacation from his duties as cashier at the Westerly branch of the American Railway express company.

The Auburn touring automobile, 3899 Conn., of Rose Drago, 56 Crystal avenue, New London, was in collision Sunday afternoon, about 4 o'clock on the Westerly-Stonington road, near the residence of David Shaw with the Ford sedan driven by Salvatore DiFrancesca, of 69 Mechanic street, Pawcatuck. The accident occurred when the touring car turned out in a string to pass some of the cars bound toward Westerly and was unable to get back in line so as to avoid a collision. The sedan held members of the DeParry family, bound to Stonington to visit friends. Broken glass caused the several occupants to sustain severe cuts. The touring car was badly smashed in on its right side. It went off the road on the north side of the highway.

Mystic Patrolman Robert McWilliams took Mrs. Drago's son, Angelo, to the office of Dr. M. H. Scanlon of Westerly where a bad cut on his right cheek and under his right ear required five stitches. He also had bruises on his head and knee. The officer also took Peter DeParry of 125 High street, Westerly, to the doctor's office for treatment for a bad cut under his right eye, a bad bruise on the top of the head, as well as cuts and bruises on his right hand, arm and leg. Other members of the party were taken to the office of Dr. John Ruisi, in Westerly, for treatment of cuts and bruises. Giles F. Watson from Groton barracks made the investigation and was assisted by Constable Charles McCourt of Stonington borough and Patrolman Francis McMahon of Pawcatuck, in caring for the traffic congestion caused by the accident.

Joseph Micell was presented at a session of Stonington town court before Judge William A. Wilcox of Pawcatuck at the town court room, in Stonington, by Prosecuting Attorney George R. McKenna of Pawcatuck on a complaint that October 19th he operated an automobile recklessly on the Westerly-Stonington road. The defendant, who said that he was not a United States citizen although he had been in in this country for ten years, did not thoroughly understand the charge brought against him and after a short conference with an interpreter entered a plea of guilty.

Salvatore DiFrancesca, 69 Mechanic street, Pawcatuck, driver of the Ford car in the collision was the only witness and testified that he was going toward Stonington and on a down grade when the Auburn car came out from a string of cars going towards Westerly and unable to find a place in line, hit his car "and broke it all to pieces." Beside the cut on his right hand, he stated that a Stonington woman was injured, also a man and a boy.

Town Solicitor McKenna recommended that a small fine and costs be imposed and Judge Wilcox fined him $50 and costs of $19.98, amounting to $69.98, which was paid. Attorney Herbert W. Rathbun of Westerly was present in court in the interests of DiFrancesca in a civil suit for damages.

Miss Annie Pauline Falco and John Pappadia, both of Bradford, were united in marriage Saturday morning at 9 o'clock at the Church of the Immaculate Conception by Rev. Henry Bruno, S. M. Fr. Bruno also celebrated the nuptial mass. The wedding marches and interludes were played by the organist, Mrs. Frank G. Ahern.

The bride was attended by Mrs. Frank Laudone. Gaetano Fiore was best man. The flower girls were Misses Catherine and Mary Pellegrine of Westerly.

Following the ceremony at the church a breakfast was served at the home of the bride in Bradford. In the afternoon a reception was held in Quarrymen's hall, Bradford, with dancing and light refreshments.

Mr. and Mrs. Pappadia will make their home in Peckham Hollow, Bradford, where they have a furnished home.

Miss Gertrude L. Duggan and Michael J. Murphy, both of Westerly, were united in marriage Monday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Michael's church by Rev. J. J. Keane. The nuptial mass which followed the ceremony was celebrated by Rev. John F. X. Quinn. During the ceremony Martin H. Spellman sang O Promise Me, and at the offertory he sang Gounod's Ave Marie. The wedding marches were played by Mrs. Thomas Murray.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Irene F. Duggan. William T. Murphy, brother of the groom was best man. The bride's gown was of white satin. Her tulle veil was trimmed with point lace and was caught with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies-of-the-valley.

The bridesmaid wore a king blue gown, with black lace hat, and carried Ophelia roses.

Following the ceremony at the church a breakfast was served at the inn. A reception was held later at the bride's home, 25 Stillman avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Murphy left Monday afternoon on a wedding tour to Atlantic City and Washington, D. C. Upon their return they will reside in Hartford.

STONINGTON

A 1923 Lexington owned by Vincent Squadritb and driven by his son, William, skidded and overturned Sunday morning about 11.30 in front of the summer home of Eugene Edwards. The car was coming down the road at a fairly good rate of speed when the driver got confused by a large pile of sand suddenly appearing in view. He lost control of the wheel and the car skidded about 100 feet before overturning. The other occupants of the automobile were Clarence Sanders, Robert Johnson, William Herman and William Robinson. No one was seriously injured as was first thought. Damage to the car was a broken windshield, bent mudguards, stove-in sides and miner breaks. The car was towed to a local garage. Dr. W. T. Veal attended the boys. William was the only one who will be confined to his home by the accident, the others having received only cuts and bruises.

The body of Mrs. Anne Perrin of New York, who died October 16th, was brought to Stonington on the 1.50 train Sunday afternoon for burial in the Stonington cemetery.

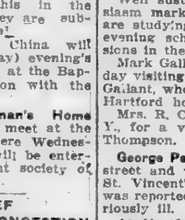
HEADACHE GONE TIRED NO MORE

Gives Credit to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Hopes Other Women Will Benefit by Her Experience

Skowhegan, Maine.—"I was sick most of the time and could not get around to do my work without being all tired out so I would have to lie down. One day when I was reading the paper I saw the Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertisement and saw what it did for other women, so I thought I would try it. I have taken three bottles, and cannot begin to tell you what it has already done for me. I do all my work now and keep up the whole day long without lying down. I have no more headaches nor tired feelings. I hope every woman who takes the Vegetable Compound will get as much benefit out of it as I have."—Mrs. PERCY W. RICHARDSON, R.F.D. No. 2, Skowhegan, Maine.



You have just read how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helped Mrs. Richardson. She gave it a trial after she saw what it had done for other women. For nearly fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been doing good.

DIMMING IS ILLEGAL.

Driving along the highways most any evening it is no novel experience to have drivers of machines going in the opposite direction dim their lights. It is considered an act of courtesy and an aid to the other fellow. Naturally there is the expectation that the other cars will do the same thing. If they do not then the lights are immediately thrown full on again.

Likewise it is possible to find that there are some drivers who employ nothing but dimmed lights for all their night driving. This likewise is for the purpose of increasing the safety of the road by not putting out the eyes of the driver going in the other direction. At least that reason will be given for doing it, and the blinding effect of many a strong headlight can be advanced as ground for following this course. They take a Golden Rule view of the situation and act accordingly.

But there are probably few who realize that the dimming of headlights is illegal. The authority for this is Robbins B. Stoeckel, commissioner of motor vehicles, who points out that the practice makes it impossible for the operators to see the highway 200 feet ahead which is what is required of the headlights.

The commissioner likewise points out that properly focused headlights with legal lenses are not a menace to other drivers. But it must be remembered that the special lenses do not necessarily accomplish this unless the lights are properly focused. It is necessary that the rays should be thrown down rather than up. That is accomplished by focusing and regulating the lights, and when that is done the dimming of lights is not required, even if it were legal.

Dimming as being against the law may be news to many. The reason for the strong and blinding lights ever with special lenses may also be informative. If it results in educating the drivers of autos to the proper focusing and aiming of the headlights a highly valuable contribution to the safety of the highways at night will be made. Protection against blinding lights rests with the amount of cooperation that is displayed in overcoming them, and the enforcement that is given the law.

NEW VOTERS.

During the year of the presidential election is the time for making the largest number of voters. It is interesting to note that there were 1125 of those eligible to be made voters who gave sufficient consideration to securing the franchise to go through the formal matter of becoming a voter. It is regretted that a larger proportion of those eligible failed to appear, and particularly unfortunate is it that there were 74 who appeared before the board qualified to become voters, but who had failed to abide by the requirement of getting their applications in on time as required by law.

The number of new voters stands in about the same proportion to those on the to-be-made list as in former years. It simply discloses that there were 314 on the list who were sick, who were away, who forgot or who didn't care enough about the privilege of voting to spend the few minutes required to obtain the right. The amount of indifference about matters of this kind is surprising. Hundreds would never file applications to be made voters but for the interest taken in them by their friends, and that interest is too often unappreciated.

The many women voters helps to swell the number of new voters these days in contrast to previous presidential years. Boosting the voting list to over 11,000 is an appreciable gain, even though almost twice the gain might have been made had all responded.

From now on attention must be centered on getting to the polls and voting. The interest, the importance of giving support to a stable and efficient government and the desirability of a vote by the many and not the few that the election may be decided by the people themselves should suffice to produce a record vote. Having obtained the right to vote, whether recently or not, there should be no other disposition than to use it.

INTEREST IN WRANGELL.

It is not the habit of this country to undertake to seize territory that belongs to another, or to get possession of it in any other than a legitimate way. The spirit of conquest doesn't prevail.

It is therefore in keeping with our well established reputation when it is indicated from Washington that there is no disposition to interfere with the question of ownership of Wrangell island. From all accounts there isn't anything about this arctic island to covet. It appears to be a deserted, icebound piece of land to the north of Siberia to which few, if any, go and from which few return. Whatever its resources may be in furs and the like there has been no serious development in the past and there are no prospects of much of a change in the future. Perhaps the exigencies of the future may bring about development but it promises to be almost as distant as the development of the coal deposits which MacMillan recently revealed in the far north.

While flags have been set up on Wrangell island by those representing this country nothing has ever come of it. Other explorers have done the same thing and the island has even been claimed in the name of Great Britain. Stefansson has been particularly anxious to have the British claim pressed, but there appears to be no greater interest on the part of Canada or the British than there is in this country.

Russia displays the only active interest in possessing the island. That it should is to be expected. It lies off the coast of Siberia and can be expected to be desired by Russia. Certainly there would be opposition to other countries occupying such territory, isolated though it is. Its very location indicates that Russia could establish an early claim to it even though it has done nothing to stimulate colonization.

From all indications there is slight interest in Wrangell island and that rests chiefly with Russia.

THE SPECIAL ELECTION.

By the death of Senator Brandegee Connecticut must hold a special election in order to maintain its representation in the upper house of congress. There is no other means at the present time of filling the vacancy, and at such an important time Connecticut cannot neglect its representation.

Unfortunate as it may be that the post could not be filled at the coming presidential election, inasmuch as action regarding this office must be taken at this time, Governor Templeton has done well in delaying the special election until the 16th of December, thus placing it at a date that will not interfere with the present campaign and which will permit of the new senator taking his seat before congress has undertaken any great amount of business. By setting the election in the middle of December preparations therefore will not conflict with the election on November 4.

The unexpected vacancy means more or less discussion of candidates or possibilities. From New Haven and Fairfield counties comes support of Congressmen Tilson and Merritt. From Hartford county there are such names as Robbins B. Stoeckel and Hugh M. Alcorn mentioned while Tolland county friends are advocating Francis T. Maxwell of Rockville. Without a doubt there will be others whose ambitions will be voiced or whose merits will be set forth by their friends.

Connecticut appreciates the loss it has sustained by the death of Senator Brandegee. It must be alert to the importance of properly filling that vacancy when the time comes in December. Good judgment, under present circumstances, has prevented rushing that decision.

REAR END COLLISIONS.

With two dead and 75 hurt in the rear end collision of two high speed electric trains near Buffalo there are furnished reasons enough for a thorough investigation for the determination of where the fault lies and for the purpose of establishing such protective measures that will prevent anything of the kind in the future.

The first train having stopped to put out a minor fire that had developed was not observed in time by the motorman of the second train to prevent a collision. Whether this was the fault of the motorman of the second train in not having his train under proper control, whether there was bad judgment exercised in stopping the first train just around a curve and whether any attempt was made to signal the second train can and should be established. With trains running 45 to 50 miles an hour adequate safeguards against just such collisions should be provided.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Judging the crowds football is just as popular as ever.

There's a wide difference between what the republicans have received and what they hope to get, and what those with charges claim. But no one expected the charges to be substantiated.

STRIKING EXCEPTION

The long-nosed man had just completed a pretty speech in which he had lambasted the modern youth for his general lack of push persistence and a few other qualities necessary to success and everybody was agreeing with him when the back doorbell rang and the lady of the house hastened to answer it.

"How-de-do!" was her cheerful greeting from a good-looking young man. I'm Beamish from the Tooker company!"

"Well," the lady of the house got out at last, "just what is it all about?"

"Why, the Tooker company has exactly 139 items on its list that are of use in the household," the young man began briskly, stepping aside from the sample case he had been concealing behind his legs.

"I might as well tell you right now," the lady of the house interrupted, "that I have not the slightest intention of buying any goods of any description today and there is no use in wasting your time as well as mine talking it over. I have no doubt the articles are worth the money and all that, but I don't need anything, as I have said. And I might add I haven't got a cent of money."

"Money!" scoffed the young man. "Why, you don't have to have any! I'm merely taking the orders——"

"Still, I'd have to pay some time," the lady pointed out neatly. "And I haven't any time to waste and I'm sure you haven't, so——"

"I'm so keen on this line I don't call it a waste even when a customer buys nothing!" declared the young man swinging the suitcase suggestively toward the screen. "If you'd look at the stuff it would be a great favor, with no obligations on your part——"

"There isn't any use when I'm not going to purchase!"

"Just to give you an idea of what we carry," the young man told her conversationally, "I can sell you Whoosis face soap, which is known from coast to coast, six cakes for 80 cents, a clear saving of——"

"I never use Whoosis soap," she told him distinctly. "I don't like it. I always use Whatfor——"

"Now, isn't that fine!" he said heartily. "Our rate on Whatfor is $1 for six, or six boxes for five—how many shall I——"

"I don't want any," the annoyed lady of the house snapped. "I buy it by the dozen and have just bought some! I'll have to say good-day, as——"

"Then," went on the young man briskly, "we have best quality rubber gloves for 50 cents—half what you pay in the stores. All grades of talcum at a third off, a complete line of sewing findings at much less than——"

There isn't a thing I want!"

"Why, you can't afford not to take advantage of this! I tell you I am doing you a kindness, really putting money in your pocket, a fact anybody of your intelligence will see quickly if you will only stop to think."

"I am not buying to-day!" My weekly budget——"

"Say!" the young man cried admiringly, "I'm always glad to find people who run their household on the budget system! I've the greatest budget book-keeping book—see, it begins——"

"I've got one," said the lady.

"I'm just going to let you see our exclusive brand of face powder," the young man remarked as though just remembering it. He undid the sample case and rummaged. "Not many women know about it and I'm going to let you in—it is a tint between ecru, flesh and white and you can't detect it with a microscope, while it so blends in a touch of rouge that your worst enemy couldn't tell you used it! Mrs. Snipp across the street took six boxes just now——"

"H'm!" said the lady of the house between her teeth. "So that's how she gets that effect—let me see it—you might as well come inside as stand out there. I'm about out of face powder. And I guess on the whole I'd better order some Whatfor soap at your rate. Come in!"

"Say, don't believe a word of all that guff I was just saying!" hissed the long-nosed man hurriedly to the rest of the interested family.—Chicago News.

Wilbur Had to Start Over Again

To make his boyhood dream come true, Curtis D. Wilbur prepared for his chosen profession only to find no real opportunity in it at that time and had to start anain in another field of endeavor.

Son of a lawyer and real estate man in the pioneer town of Boonesboro, Ia., the boy longed to be a sailor as he marveled at stories about his grandfather, a New England sea captain.

In that prairie country his dream seemed impossible of fulfilment. After attending the public school in Boonesboro, he went with the family to Jamestown, in the then North Dakota territory, and his first money was made in gathering and selling the bleached bones of buffalo.

Grasping the opportunity of going to Annapolis made possible by the congressman of his district, young Curtis began his naval training as midshipman at 17. Delighted with the prospect and the work he became one of the leaders, standing third in his graduating class and ranking high in football, rowing and in other athletics.

Although commissioned as a junior officer upon his graduation at 21, he realized that in those tranquil times that there was little future in the navy. Resigning he joined his family at Riverside, Cal., and again starting at the bottom, became a student of law.

Admitted to the bar at 22, he entered upon the practice of his profession in Los Angeles. His practice grew and at 31 he was appointed deputy district attorney for Los Angeles County, serving four years. Then he was chosen judge of the Superior Court of the same county. Taking an interest in children, he drafted the California juvenile court laws. After serving 15 years on the Superior Court bench he was elected associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the state.

But his love for the navy and the sea never dimmed, and whenever opportunity arose he shared in the maneuvers of the fleets. When the Spanish-American and World wars broke out he prepared himself to answer the call should it come.

And when President Coolidge summoned Judge Wilbur from the bench to become Secretary of the Navy, he gladly accepted.

"It's like going back to my youth and to a realization of all my dreams," he said.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Child Labor Amendment.

Mr. Editor: You will probably be willing to allow me a bit of space to give my views on the child labor amendment. In the question and answers as published by the Woman Voter's Bulletin we read: "It is inconceivable that any congress would ever pass a law forbidding a healthy boy of 16 or 17 to work if his parents wish it." If it is not wise to prevent persons of that age earning their keep, then why in the name of common sense pass an amendment to the constitution that will give power to congress to pass laws that anyone would admit would be silly and dangerous to our economic life? There is an organization in this country known as "Old Maids' Union" (and also a great army of men whose first name should be Marie Louise) who are backing this amendment. It is impossible to make these people realize the trials and sacrifices parents with large families and in poor circumstances must suffer in order to keep their children in school until 14. We hear a great deal said about the moral and physical harm done to children by too early application to labor.

The writer of this article has been working in a cotton mill since fourteen and, I don't believe I suffered physically—at any rate nobody is getting fresh with me. I am no exception either, for all my former schoolmates are now self-respecting parents who know the value of a dollar.

I heartily agree with Mr. Troland that it would be better to devote more attention to that which makes for the necessity of child labor. Furthermore I honestly believe that if, after having received the fundamentals of an education a child was put to work many of the existing juvenile troubles would vanish.

It is a fact that what is a cause of real concern lies in marriages and attempts to build homes by incompetent people. The big ambition of most school boys of 16 and 17 is to become a great sheik or to seek a soul-satisfying mate and their idea of a livelihood is to mop up in a crap game.

I wonder how many sane, decent people can raise a child in idleness until he is 18 and expect that he will ever work. Of course there are exceptions, but if I had my way all healthy children would be put to useful tasks at the age of 13.

NEW BOOKS

Uncensored Recollections. Anonymous. Cloth, 345 pages with index. Published by J. B. Lippincott Company, Philadelphia. Price $4.50.

Uncensored Recollections, by anonymous author, is a peep "behind the scenes" at the great and near great of Victorian aristocracy in England and France, betraying as formal history never can, the human passions and foibles beneath the pomp of courts and the intrigue of governments. You will hunt in vain among state records of the second empire in Paris or the England of Queen Victoria for the piquant and penetrating glimpses which make this entertaining volume a social panopticon of the second half of the 19th century. It is an unflagging torrent of gossip about queens and diplomats, peers and princes and occasional brilliant nobodies that rise and set by royal favor. Nor are these personages seen on dress parade. We catch them in those "off" movements when a peeres has her ears soundly boxed by an indignant rival; when a duke lunches familiarly on beefsteak and onions; when a queen dances a real none to decorously, and a prince is refused tea and a nice little tete-a-tete chat with an admiral's pretty daughter.

The writer had a fluent pen and evidently knows what he is talking about. Gossip which he passes along has been picked up from the state ball for Queen Victoria at Versailles, morning receptions at the Tuileries, a masquerade at the Marlborough House, from the opera house when its boxes held the mysterious and lovely Countess de Castiglion and the Jockey club when its membership included Lord Dupplin and the Duke of Beaufort, been companions of Albert Edward, Prince of Wales.

It is not difficult to understand that the information astonishes even the prince himself, and as a volume of gossip it stands as a leader.

"Professor How Could You!" By Harry Leon Wilson. Cloth, 340 pages. Published by Cosmopolitan Book Corporation, New York. Price $2.

There are few things so good for mankind as laughter and that is provided in liberal doses in Harry Leon Wilson's new novel. It revolves about Professor Cobblestone, an erudite professor of history who has spent his youth in scholarly seclusion and only when past middle age breaks away and goes in quest of adventure. He goes through a list of interesting experiences. He covers much ground, sees life and gets close grips with humanity, but he winds up by coming home and to his astonishment Carinthia, his wife and mayor of the town, breaks into tears, the students of the college, to whom he has been a dry-as-dust nonentithy welcome him with shouts of admiration, and he goes back to the class room and the lectures, but life will never be the same again. To quote him, "For I have mingled with my kind as man to man. I have had my fling."

It is told in Harry Leon Wilson's interesting style with the idea of producing a laugh and he certainly succeeds.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

CHILE'S GOVERNMENTAL MACHINERY

"The unusual situation of the president of Chile attempting unsuccessfully to resign, and instead being sent by Congress on a six months' leave of absence, draws attention to that country's constitution, which in many ways is the most interesting in Latin America," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

President Arturo Alessandri, to whom reference is made, is now living in Argentina while his country is in the hands of a military and naval committee and a new cabinet formed under this "junta."

"The Chilean constitution," continues the bulletin, "has existed since 1833 and is the oldest constitution of a republic in the Western Hemisphere except that of the United States. It is an intimate mixture of the governmental principles of the United States and those of Europe. While it was not designed with such an idea in view, developments in recent years seemed to be steering Chile toward a real parliamentary system; but the recent coup d'etat appears to have been in the opposite direction.

"Under the Chilean constitution of 1833 the American system of three separate functions — executive, legislative and judicial—was adopted; but unlike the United States, Chile incorporated a system of federal centralization which is probably more extreme than in any other republic. The president appoints the 23 intendants, who correspond roughly to our governors. With the intendants nominating them, he also appoints the 82 governors who rule over districts such as might be formed by groups of counties in the United States. The governors appoint sub-delegates to administer what might roughly correspond to townships, and the sub-delegates in turn appoint inspectors for small precincts. The whole elaborate civil hierarchy centers in the president and is ruled from the national capital.

"The constitution of 1833 provided for the indirect election of the president for five years through a sort of electoral college; the indirect election of senators in the provinces for six-year terms; and the direct house from the districts for three-year terms. There was no vice president. The president was to appoint a cabinet of six members to be confirmed by the senate, and the succession passed to the Secretary of the Interior if the presidential chair was vacated, a new presidential election to be called immediately. A sort of connecting link was established between the executive and the legislature in the form of a Council of State made up of the president, the cabinet, five additional members chosen by the president and six chosen by congress. A permanent committees of congress was also set up to act for that body during its recess. This was composed of seven senators and seven deputies.

"The constitution has had only slight modifications. The provision establishing the Roman Catholic church and prohibiting other forms of public worship has been amended to permit other religions to celebrate their rites in their own buildings and civil marriages are now recognized. The provision setting up property qualifications for voters has been construed liberally until now literacy is the chief test. The English system is in force, however, permitting candidates for congress to stand for election in other communities than their own. This has helped the wealthy classes to maintain control of the government since candidates well supplied with funds from Santiago can go into communities where local opponents, without financial backing, are easily defeated.

"In late years, however, the more liberal parties have gained strength steadily and it was an alliance of such a complex that in 1920 elected the recently ousted president. What the president stood for when he took office is indicated by the principal recommendations in his message of June 1921. He advocated improved legal status for women, labor welfare, complete separation of church and state, decentralization of the government, creation of the office of vice president, abolition of the permanent committee of congress and the council of state, and the popular election of president. The closeness of the latest election is probably one factor in the recent unprecedented ousting of the president. The election was so nearly a tie that a special tribunal—called a Court of Honor—was set up to decide it. This body declared Alessandri to be elected by one vote in the electoral college, 177 to his opponent's 176.

"Financial difficulties made up one factor in the recent events which culminated in the ousting of the president. Chile's income is largely dependent on the world-famous nitrate deposits of her northern deserts. Two-thirds of the republic's revenue comes from export taxes on the chemical. The remainder is made up of miscellaneous income duties and internal taxes.

"Chile may be superficially compared to California with directions reversed. It stretches in a narrow strip with the Pacific on one side and a mountain range on the other and embraces dry desert, a productive temperate region, and an area of moisture and cold. Whereas California is only 800 miles long, however, Chile is 2700 miles in length. To correspond with Chile in extent of latitude covered, California would have to annex on the south a strip twice as long as Mexico's Lower California, and would have to extend northward to the lower tip of Alaska's 'Pan-Handle.'

"Chile differs as much ethnically from the rest of South America as it does politically. It has had a greater proportion of northern European immigration than its sister states, largely German and British. The predominant strain is a mixture of Spanish and Araucanian Indian, a mingling which extends through all social levels. Few immigrants from Southern Europe have come in, and like Great Britain, Chile has working classes of its own blood."

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

Yellow Tramp Dog Starts Search

I declare boys and girls, I'm growing dreadfully worried about dear Uncle Lucky, and Little Jack Rabbit. For three stories now these two poor little bunnies have been lost and if some kind person, like the Yellow Dog Tramp or the good Policeman Dog, doesn't find them and bring them safely home to Little Miss Mousie and pretty Lady Love, these two anxious little lady rabbits will soon be wearing widow caps, with pretty white pieces of lace just above their bonny brown hair.

"Bow, wow, wow, I know how
To find the little rabbits.
Calm your fears, my little dears,
Dry your tears, my little dears,
I have good scout habits."

and into the little white house he trotted to speak to Lady Love over the 'phone. "Don't worry," he shouted, at the same time patting Little Miss Mousie's bobbed hair. "I'll bring them both back safe and sound.

"Don't be worried, I'll be back
In less than half a jiffy.
I'll bring the little bunnies home,
Looking well and spiffy."

and jumping into the stagecoach, he told the Old Dog Driver to get out his pistol and drive like mad into the Shady Forest.

"Gee Willikins!" exclaimed Daddy Long Legs, gazing after the fast disappearing stagecoach, "What can be the matter?" But dear Little Miss Mousie turned into the house without answering and running into the kitchen she picked up Uncle Lucky's carpet slippers. Then taking down his smoking jacket from the peg in the hall, she stepped into the sitting room and carefully hanging it over the back of the morris chair, she smoothed the cushions and placed the slippers on the floor close by. "Dear, dear dearest little me!" she sighed, wiping a tear from her eye, "If anything happens to Uncle Lucky I will never bake another lovely Angel Cake," and she slipped her little feet into the old carpet slippers and stood there quietly for maybe a minute or three. Then, wiping another tear from her pretty blue eye, she ran into the kitchen.

In the meantime, the stagecoach went rattling along as fast as the nimble little billy goats could run and pretty soon, not so very far, they came to the Shady Forest. Up the winding trail they sped, the Old Dog Driver clicking his long red tongue against his teeth and snapping the whip to urge them on even faster than they could go. For they were going fast, let me tell you. Yes, indeedy. Those dear little billy goats knew there was something the matter, let me tell you, and they were doing their best to get there in time before something dreadful should occur. Yes, before it might be too late to save kind Uncle Lucky and dear little Jack Rabbit.

"I'm glad it's dark and no one's here.
I'll pull you out by your long pink ear."

And in the next story I'll tell you what happened after that.

Beauty

A Gleamy Mass of Hair

35c "Danderine" does Wonders for Any Girl's Hair

Girls! Try this! When combing and dressing your hair, just moisten your hair-brush with a little "Danderine" and brush it through your hair. The effect is startling! You can do your hair up immediately and it will appear twice as thick and heavy—a mass of gleamy hair, sparkling with life and possessing that incomparable softness, freshness and luxuriance.

While beautifying the hair "Danderine" is also toning and stimulating each single hair to grow thick, long and strong. Hair stops falling out and dandruff disappears. Get a bottle of "Danderine" at any drug or toilet counter and just see how healthy and youthful your hair becomes.

SECOND OF SERIES IN SHOP MEETINGS

The second of the shop meetings of this season was held Monday at noon at the Richmond Radiator plant. The topic which Rev. Charles H. Ricketts presented was reversals in Human Life. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A.

The following is a part of the thought presented: There needs to be no doubt as to the meaning of the word "reversal". It means the change from one position to another which is directly opposite. The speaker used illustrations showing that mere changes, losses, modifications were not reversals. The latter does not apply to the little changes in our daily experiences. We do not say that a man has met with reverses when he loses a few hundred dollars, but we do when his property, or the greater part of it is swept away.

The remarks were an exposition of the words of Jesus: "But many that are first shall be last, and the last shall be first." There are two classes of people whom we recognize as being of the first rank. First, those who have a right to be there: those whose deeds merit the place given them. And secondly, those who have no right to be there. They are resting on a false pedestal. Some have climbed up by trodding other people down: some are up by the accident of birth: they were born in a palace, rather than a hovel, and all they have to recommend them is the accidental attachment to some institution that is very conspicuous.

There are other people who are in the "last" place. Some are way down because that is where they belong. They have neither the ability nor the ambition to rise. They are perfectly happy to be last. But there are others who are kept down by cruel and unjust conditions. They want to rise and try to rise but the millstone is around their necks. They ask only for sheer justice, not for our tears, our sympathy, and our contributions of food and clothing. They simply ask for a chance and there is a whole lot of them who never get it.

The speaker argued that if God is just every man will have his chance before he is condemned as a failure. If he does not get it here, he must somewhere, otherwise we must exclude justice from the character of God.

GREATEST BEE EXPERT WILL ADDRESS CONVENTION

George S. Demuth, editor of Gleanings in Bee Culture, who is considered by many bee-keepers the greatest living authority on bees, is to be the chief speaker at the fall convention of the Connecticut Bee-Keepers Association, which will be held next Saturday in the old senate chamber at the state capitol.

The programme will be as follows: 10 a. m., address of welcome by Allen Latham. Our Apiary Management, J. D. OBITUARY

James E. Conway

James E. Conway of this city died Sunday at the home of his sister, Mrs. John Drew, Hartford after an illness brought on by a nervous breakdown about a year and a half ago. He was born in this city August 17, 1891, and was the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Conway. His early education was received in this city. He graduated from St. Patrick's school in 1904 and from the Norwich Free Academy in 1908. In 1916 he graduated from the Georgetown Law school and was admitted to the bar that year in the District of Columbia.

He followed the profession of a lawyer for a time and then accepted a position in the treasury department of the bureau of income taxes in Washington where he was employed until his illness.

Mr. Conway was a member of St. Patrick's parish. He leaves a sister, Mrs. John Drew of Hartford, a sister, Miss Anna Conway and a brother, Joseph G. Conway of this city. His home was at No. 155 Cliff street.

CATH. WOMEN'S COUNCIL PLANS $500 SCHOLARSHIP

The Norwich Branch of the Connecticut Council of Catholic Women has been notified that the scholarship to the National Catholic Service School has been awarded to Miss Mary Lengen of Bridgeport for one year. The scholarship includes tuition, room and board—$500. The council hopes to establish a permanent scholarship fund so that a young woman may be sent every year to the Service school. The scholarship fund necessary would be $10,000 and the interest from this money would pay for the student every year. This would probably require several years for the collection of the money. In the meantime each local council is being asked to contribute to this fund with the understanding that each year $500 would be drawn to finance the yearly scholarship, and the remainder held in trust until the full amount for the permanent fund has been collected. Each local chairman has been requested to present this matter to her local council before the annual meeting so that some action may be taken at that time on the measure. This is one of the projects that the Connecticut Council of Catholic Women has undertaken as a diocesan council.

Harvest Scene in Window.

An attractive harvest scene has been arranged in the show room at the plant of Julian L. Williams, 25 Town street, Norwich Town. On each side and across the rear of the room is a border of corn stalks. The entire floor space is covered with the stalks as well as large bundles in the center of the room which are supported by the iron posts.

The large show windows are trimmed with oak boughs and small evergreen trees, while here and there are pumpkins and ears of corn. The middle window is the center of attraction. Here are two figures, representing farmers who have been husking each holding a tin cup in hand. Nearby is an open grate on which is a coffee pot and frying pan. This lighted by an electric bulb, gives the appearance of a fire burning. Each subject is fully dressed. The head and face is that of a pumpkin moonshine, on which is a sleuch hat, one having a pipe in its mouth.

The two large show windows at each end of the room, also other locations in the room, are some very handsome models of the Buick automobile of which Mr. Williams holds the agency. On a large card board in the center is the following inscription: "Now is the time to reap a full Harvest of Pleasure" We have many models to choose from. Choose your Buick today. When better automobiles are built, Buick will build them.

The entire arrangement is most unique in its setting and displays the painstaking efforts of those who did the decorating.

Enjoyable Birthday Party

A birthday party was held Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Marks in honor of their son, Joseph, Jr. Games were played and a delightful evening enjoyed. Mrs. Marks was assisted by Mrs. Charles Nowosadko, Mrs. Victoria Miskieo, Mrs. Frank Guskowski and Mrs. Charles Mumford.

Those present were Jennie and Alice Ibbison, Viola Cote, Esther Fahey, Frank, Joseph, Charles and Anne Guzdowski Raymond Nowosadko, Charles Nowosadko, Jr., Marion Guzdowski, Alvine Guzdowski, Walter Guzdowski, Peter and Leo Guzdowski David Whitely, Delorise Mumford and Loretta Fahey.

OFFICIAL OPENING OF NEW FIRE STATION ON JOS. PERKINS ROAD

Mayor Milo R. Waters, the members of the court of common council, heads of various city departments and the town officials were the guests of the board of fire commissioners and Chief Howard L. Stanton at the new fire station on the Joseph Perkins road, the visit of the city and town officials marked the official opening of the handsome new station. The guests were present upon invitation of the board of fire commissioners and Chief Stanton to inspect the new building and the trip to the fire station was made by automobile following the adjournment of the special meeting of the court of common council Monday evening.

Arriving at the station the visitors were welcomed by Chief Stanton and Deputy Chief Henry R. Taft, and open house was maintained for the remainder of the evening. Chief Stanton, Deputy Chief Taft with the assistance of Captain Joseph P. Tracy and the members of Engine Co. No. 2, quartered at the new station, royally entertained the score or more of guests. From the lounging room they were conducted through the various rooms of the building. All expressed themselves as highly pleased with the station and there was universal comment on the excellent appearance of the building which has been constructed with an eye to beauty, comfort and efficiency.

After the inspection trip the visitors were invited to the apparatus room where refreshments of chicken and tongue sandwiches, cakes, coffee and apples were served by the firemen and cigars circulated. While all were gathered in the apparatus room Mayor Waters took occasion to congratulate Chief Stanton and the fire commissioners on the new station. He expressed himself as highly pleased with the new station. He said he thought a few remarks from Alderman Edward Crooks, chairman of the board of fire commissioners, would be appropriate.

After speaking of his first appointment to the board of fire commissioners and the various changes that have taken place since that time Alderman Crooks said, "I take off my hat to Chief Stanton." What pleases us most, he said, is that this station has been built within the appropriation given us. He said it is a pleasure to work on the board of commissioners.

Alderman Crooks said that one thing he would like to see in the department is a city size truck which would save running out the big aerial truck to practically every bell alarm. He said the old Greeneville hook and ladder could be equipped with a motor.

He said the reason the new station was built in bungalow style was owing to the fact that it was to be located in the residential section. We didn't want to detract from the property values one bit, he said. I think, on the contrary, that we have increased the property values.

Alderman Crooks expressed the hope that some day a new and modern station will take the place of the old broken down station on the West Side, and that it will be located somewhere in the vicinity of West Main and Asylum streets.

I never would want to work with a better chief or a better crowd of men than we have in this department, said Alderman Crooks in closing.

Mayor Waters said he would like to hear a few words from Alderman Patrick J. Sweeney who built the station.

I built the station and did the best I could, said Alderman Sweeney. I tried to please the chief and fire commissioners and I think I have, he added.

Alderman Crooks has spoken of the West Side station, said Chief Stanton. The West Side station was built in 1859 for a hand fire engine. It has seen the passing of the hand engine, the steam engine and horse drawn apparatus and the advent of motor driven apparatus. Chief Stanton said it would take between $4,000 and $5,000 to put the West Side station in condition. He said he was satisfied in his mind that if the city could see its way clear to appropriate money to build a new station for the West Side the present station could be sold for about half what the new station would cost.

When the West Side station was built there was nothing above Fairmount street but farm land, Chief Stanton said, and he went on to say that the growth of Norwich has got to be westward. He spoke of the West Side apparatus being blocked by traffic while getting out of the station to answer alarms.

We are sadly in need of fire alarm boxes, especially of the modern type, said the chief. Norwich could use 25 alarm boxes. We now have six circuits and 76 boxes. It would be a good practice to buy three or five boxes a year until the city is fully equipped.

Following brief but complimentary remarks by Councilman William H. Aldrich, First Selectman William S. Murray spoke in an interesting vein of the days of the old volunteer system.

He spoke of his long term of service as a member of the old Greeneville Hook and Ladder company and of the old time hand apparatus they had when he first joined the company, about 1900. Selectman Murray spoke of the purchase of the old three-horse hitch aerial truck years ago, and recently replaced by the modern motor aerial truck.

Selectman Murray said he was not in agreement with the suggestion to motorize the old Greeneville hook and ladder. Get a piece that is up to date, he said, the old piece is practically worn out. Get one a trifle larger, a brand new one. The selectman said there is plenty of room at the Greeneville fire station for another piece of apparatus.

There were complimentary remarks by F. P. Welch, during which he said that Chief Stanton is spoken of as one of the best known fire fighters in the United States. Reference was made to the fact that some seven or eight years ago the Du Pont company asked Chief Stanton to accept a position as head of the fire department in one of their largest plants but that he elected to stay in Norwich.

Mayor Waters said he could tell something about the "quest of the Dupont company to steal Chief Stanton from us." The mayor said that Chief Stanton refused an offer of practically twice as much salary as he is getting here to remain with the Norwich fire department.

Chief Stanton spoke of the big increase in building activities in Norwich. He said that in the last quarter he has granted 26 permits for building in the city and that he knows that as many more buildings have been started within the town outside the city limits. He spoke of the big increase in building activities in the Greeneville section and that the Greeneville company must be kept efficient.

Only for the fire prevention work being done by the boys of this department we would have many more fires than we have, said the chief. Norwich is a city of shingled roofs, as I have said before. If the court of common council wants to do a good thing you will have a new building code. Certainly shingle roofs should be abolished. A new building code and the abolishment of shingle roofs would count for us in the insurance rates.

Chief Stanton said he has fought fires in Norwich for 55 years and that his ambition now is to serve 25 years as chief of the Norwich fire department. A year from next July makes me 25 years chief of the department. He said it will soon be time for a younger man to take his place. Chief Stanton said he owes a great deal to the members of the various administrations and the various boards of fire commissioners for their cooperation.

Just before the gathering broke up about 11 o'clock the apparatus which had been standing outside in front of the station, was backed into the apparatus room so that the visitors could see how the room looked with the apparatus in it.

Engine Company No. 3 has 21 first alarm boxes on its schedule, the remaining 57 boxes being second alarm and general alarm calls.

HEAR PLAN EXPLAINED FOR PROPERTY VALUATION

William Walsh of the Manufacturers Appraisal Co., of New York appeared Monday night before a meeting of the tax equalization committee in the assessors room at the court house to explain the plan upon which that company would offer to undertake to get up a valuation on the real estate in Norwich.

This kind of work has been done in Connecticut in New London, Winsted and Stratford by the company Mr. Walsh represents and is now doing it for Saybrook. He guaranteed to have the work done for Norwich in six months. He explained that through a committee consisting of the assessors and citizens which would be divided into sub-committees, a unit foot value for blocks in the business district would be established and the same practice would be followed for the residence districts. In the outlying districts the unit of value would be the acre. All this would be a land valuation, but there would be a separate building valuation, with a card for each piece of property showing all the details of how the valuation was arrived at. The experts of the company would visit every piece of property in order to learn of physical conditions bearing on its value and the cards would contain measurements and descriptions of the buildings. There would be master cards for big property owners that would show all his property on one card with all the details affecting it.

Mapping the city is included in the plan and in this work the maps that have already been prepared for the business district will be of great assistance. The mapping that company would do would be principally in the other parts of the city. All the maps would be turned over to the assessors and the company would have a man here for the board of relief meetings to substantiate their figures. Mr. Walsh said that they were particularly well qualified to value manufacturing plants and machinery and that their experience had been that manufacturers were well satisfied with the work they do.

He said that it was the general experience where the company had done this kind of work that fifty per cent. of the taxpayers had their assessments reduced, about twenty five per cent. found no change and the same percentage had their assessments raised.

Part of the plan is publication of the complete lists, with old and new figures, so that every property owner can see how he is assessed and how every one else is assessed. This is valuable as a means of correcting mistakes that are bound to creep in. The property owners are invited to public hearings before the unit value for districts is set, and the unit value applies to the land without buildings. The company's experts set the value on the buildings on the basis of replacement cost, with an allowance for depreciation and for any special conditions affecting a piece of property.

The committee asked Mr. Walsh questions on many points and took the information he gave under advisement. Chairman James L. Case, presided and those attending the meeting were the three assessors, A. R. Manning, John B. Oat, and Fred G. Prothero and C. D. Noyes, Gresvenor Ely, J. J. O'Rourke, F. B. Ricketson, M. J. Curran, H. M. Lerou, C. R. Butts, Albert Boardman, Samuel Goldberg, C. K. Bailey, D. T. Shea and S. B. Palmer.

EXPLOSION STARTS FIRE IN BOSWELL AVE. HOUSE

What is thought to have been an explosion of turpentine threatened the two family house at 280 Boswell avenue shortly after 6 o'clock Monday evening, but prompt work on the part of the fire department prevented the flames from spreading. Shortly after 6 o'clock the department responded to a telephone call for the fire. On arriving at the scene and discovering the nature of the fire box 212, Boswell avenue and Hickory street, was ordered pulled. This called out additional apparatus.

A chemical line and a line of inch and a half hose soon had the fire extinguished and the recall was sounded shortly after the box had been pulled. The fire was in the tenement occupied by Hugh Corcoran and family, on the second floor. The tenement is being renovated and turpentine, paint, etc., had been stored in one of the rooms. Mr. Corcoran said the first he knew of the fire was when he heard a noise which sounded as if the chimney had collapsed and was coming through the roof.

According to an investigation what really happened was that in some manner a quantity of turpentine in the room exploded, the flames shot through the door, the concussion blew open a scuttle leading to the attic and some old rags on the attic floor were set on fire. Mr. Corcoran said that the last time he was in the room where the explosion took place was about 4 o'clock and that everything was all right then.

This was the first run for Engine Company No. 3 from their new quarters in the fire station on the Joseph Perkins road.

WEDDINGS.

Gudealin-Pillar

At the rectory of St. Patrick's church, Monday morning at 10 o'clock Arthur Gudealin of West Main street and Miss Bessie Pillar of No. 289 West Main street were united in marriage by Rev. Michael H. May, rector of the church. The bride's gown was of white canton crepe trimmed with Spanish lace, she wore a tulle veil and carried a shower bouquet of roses. Her bridesmaid, Miss Stella Cushman, was gowned in pink canton crepe and carried pink carnations. Albert Boardman was the best man.

The bride's gift to the bridesmaid was a gold bracelet and the groom's gift to the best man was a pair of gold cuff links. The numerous gifts received by the bride included a tea set, silver, cut glass, money, aluminum and linen. After a wedding trip to Boston by automobile Mr. and Mrs. Gudealin will reside at No. 289 West Main street.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pillar and has lived with her parents at No. 289 West Main street. Mr. Gudealin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Gudealin and is employed as a chauffeur.

Tremato-Quintilian

Monday morning at 8 o'clock Joseph Tremato of Jewett City and Miss Loretta Quintilian of No. 64 Boswell avenue were united in marriage at St. Patrick's church by Rev. M. H. May, rector of the church. Mendelssohn's Wedding March was played by Prof. Frank L. Farrell, organist, as the bridal party entered the church, and Mrs. Farrell sang Ave Maria at the offertory. The bride's gown was of white canton crepe, she wore a tulle veil and carried a shower bouquet of roses and chrysanthemums.

The maid of honor, Miss Phyllis Bontempo, was prettily gowned in peach crepe de chine and carried pink roses and white chrysanthemums. The bridesmaids were Miss Clemintne Quintilian, sister of the bride, who wore royal blue crepe and carried pink carnations and white roses, Miss Alda Bonville, who wore green jade taffeta and Miss Anna Bernard, gowned in poudre blue, both carrying bouquets. Tony Colletti, a cousin of the bride, Daniel Quintilian, a brother of the bride, and Patsy Tremato, brother of the groom, were the groom's attendants. The flower girl was Mary Bontempo and the ring bearer was Joseph Bontempo.

About 200 guests including relatives and friends of the couple from New London, New York, Westerly, Boston, Providence, Jewett City and Hartford, were present at the wedding breakfast served at the home of the bride. The bride presented her attendants green gold rings and the groom's gifts to his attendants were $10 gold pieces. The bride received many beautiful gifts including gold, silver, linen, furniture, cut glass and aluminum. During the evening Malerba Bros.' orchestra furnished music for dancing. The couple left for a wedding tour to New York and Boston and on their return will reside with the bride's mother.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Quintilian and has been employed by the J. B. Martin Co. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Peligino Tremato of Jewett City and is employed at the plant of the United States Finishing in Greeneville.

Akeley-Jobe.

The Bulletin's Mystic correspondent writes:

Miss Mary L. Jobe, well known here because of her connection of several years with the founding and operating of the summer camp for girls on the Old Mystic road known as "Camp Mystic"; explorer and mountain climber, was married Saturday morning to Carl Akeley, famous explorer, naturalist and sculptor, in All Souls' church in Gramercy Park, New York. Rev. Dr. Minot Simons, rector of the church, officiated, assisted by Rev. Dr. William E. Brooks of Morgantown, W. Va. The ceremony was followed by a breakfast at the Bryn Mawr Club, 279 Lexington avenue.

Mrs. Gertrude T. Rider of Washington, D. C., was matron of honor and Ann Huston was ring-bearer. Only relatives attended the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Akeley will spend their honeymoon on a motor and camping trip of several weeks through eastern Canada.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Richard Watson Jobe of New York and Cleveland, and is a niece of Sir Francis Pittis, of England. She is a graduate of Bryn Mawr College and Columbia university, and for a number of years has been the owner and director of Camp Mystic for girls. Mrs. Akeley was the first person to explore Mount Sir Alexander, one of the loftiest peaks in the Canadian Rockies. She is a member of the American Alpine Club, the Canadian Alpine club, the Club Alpin Francais, Bryn Mawr College club, the Daughters of Ohio, and a Fellow of the Royal Geographical Society of London.

Mr. Akeley has been actively connected with the American Museum of Natural History for many years and has made several African expeditions for that institution. He is a member of the Century Club, the Explorers' club, the Boone and Crockett Club, the Adventurers' Club, Explorers' club, the Wilderness Club, the Ends of the Earth Club, the Camp Fire Club of America, and is a medallist of the Holland Society and of Franklin Institute.

Freeman-Anderson

James H. Freeman of Rochester, N. Y., and Mrs. Martha Anderson of Providence were united in marriage here Monday morning by Justice of the Peace John H. Barnes. The groom was born in Bradford, Pa., and is a hospital attendant. The bride is a nurse and was born in Torrington. This is her second marriage.

Corey—Lewis

Miss Helen C. Lewis, daughter of Dr. N. B. Lewis of 314 Main street, was married to William E. Corey of this city in East Hartford by Rev. James Lord at St. John's Episcopal church, Thursday, July 17th. The couple were attended by Miss Helen Blackstone and William McClimon of this city.

NORWICH WILL HAVE NO AUTOMOBILE BRANCH

Hope that Norwich automobile owners might be able to get their registration markers here next year in their own city without the necessity of sending to Hartford or going to New London apparently are futile.

A committee from the chamber of commerce recently took up with Motor Vehicle Commissioner Stoeckel the possibility of having a distribution station for automobile markers located in this city next year, but was told that this was impossible without a further appropriation, as the motor vehicle department had only money enough to conduct the branch stations that have already been established in New London, Waterbury, Bridgeport and New Haven.

Asked why the branch station for this part of the state could not be located at Norwich, which would be much more central for this section of the state, instead of placing it in New London, Commissioner Stoeckel bluntly told the committee that New London had secured the branch because that city pulled a stronger political influence than Norwich did.

PEERLESS BEATS MOOSUP TWO GAMES AND TAFTVILLE DROPS 3 TO LAWRENCE

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, Oct. 20—The so-called "crucial series" in the Eastern Connecticut bowling league with the Peerless and Moosup bowling fives opposing each other, began this evening with the Peerless taking two strings out of three from the up-river aggregation. In order to win, each team had to hit 500 or better for a single string total. Only one game was close and that was the second string, when Moosup with Chartier and MacKenzie playing the leading roles hit the pins with reckless abandon.

While the first string went to the locals, the scores were close up until the final two boxes, but Moosup bowlers failed to keep up their steady gait and with Cooper rolling a single 119 and Capt. Belcher with 110, the Peerless won this string by a margin of 26 pins. The rubber game, which was the third, provided some unlooked for thrills in the early stages. But Henry Sistare had to come in with a single of 128 to spoil the evening for Moosup.

The Peerless lead off man secured high single and high three strings, hitting 330 for a high triple and 128 for a single after a bad first string. MacKenzie of Moosup hit the pins regularly and came close to high honors for the evening MacKenzie had 116 for a single and 326 for three strings.

TAFTVILLE DROPS THREE TO LAWRENCE FIVE

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, Oct. 20—Sensational finishes were in order at the Lawrence alleys this evening, and the locals were the ones to benefit most by last minute finishes, when victory seemingly had eluded their grasp. A strike and a spare on top of that in the second string of the Lawrence-Taftville game, gave the locals that string after they had made a walk away affair of the first string, winning it by a margin of 36 pins. Both teams were away off form in this initial encounter and all below the standard. The Lawrence total was 462, while the Taftville five got for the amazingly small mark of 432.

Sistare rose to unusual heights as a bowler, by taking the last game out of fire for the locals. He made a strike and then topped it off with a spare and the Lawrence took this string by a close margin of 7 pins. The final string which was also won by the Lawrence giving them a clean sweep over Taftville, was another close affair with the last man on the Taftville team having a chance to turn defeat into victory. The string went to the locals by five pins.

Chip Dugas carried off all of the honors, hitting 117 for a high single and then continuing his steady rolling and hanging up 331 for a high three string total. Stone had 116 for a single. It was very unusual to have a team take all three points and yet not one member of the five hitting 300 for a total

JOHNSON IS STILL HOT ON SCANDALL CASE

Chicago, Oct. 20.—President Ban Johnson of the American league, reporting today from a two weeks sojourn at Excelsior Springs, Mo., declared that he was going "to take my coat off and get down to work" referring to the baseball scandal that rocked the nation just before the staging of the world's series between Washington and New York.

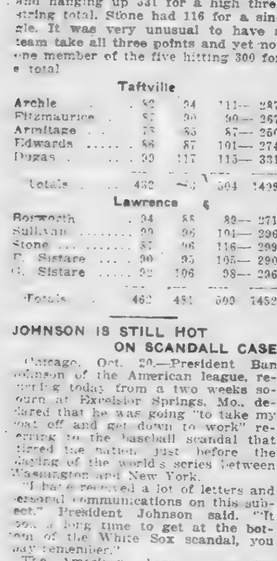
"I have received a lot of letters and personal communications on this subject," President Johnson said. "It took a long time to get at the bottom of the White Sox scandal, you may remember."

The American league executive made no further reference to the Dolan-O Connell scandal case.

'BEAT CHAPMAN TECH" IS BATTLE CRY AT ACADEMY

With two games already played by the Academy in the Eastern Connecticut Interscholastic league, with one resulting in a 14 to 0 defeat and the other a tie game, the battle cry at the Academy is "Beat Chapman Tech" The New London member of the league has two victories to his credit in the league but has Westerly to meet yet in the first round. Last week the local school battled to a tie score with the Westerly team and displayed a good brand of pigskin warfare. However the result was far from satisfactory as all tie games are.

Energy will now be directed toward beating Chapman when they appear here next week. The Academy is showing a decided improvement as the season grows and by the time Chapman invades the Campus the team should be at the peak of its form. This week the Academy will clash with Stonington another league opponent but not rated as high as the New London team although Stonington gave Chapman a strong fight in their game several weeks ago.



COACHES INVADE PRESS BOX TO GET DOPE

Chicago, Oct. 20—The old custom of "scouting" the football games of future opponents, now developed into a recognized system among big ten conference coaches, received a staggering blow in the Michigan-Illinois upset Saturday.

It was generally known that coach "Hurry Up" Yost of Michigan was a spectator at the previous Illinois game against Nebraska and Butler, to study the Illinois style of play and formations. To win the Nebraska game, Coach Zuppke of Illinois was forced to disclose enough of his running pass system, so that Yost could become familiar with the part "Red" Grange took.

Not so many years ago, visiting scouts, composed chiefly of assistant coaches or enthusiastic alumni, quietly bought tickets for sideline seats and depended on memory to secure diagrams of opponents' play.

Now the press box is full of "Buffalo Bills" with huge drawing books spread out on tables designed for working newspapermen and telegraphers. In the western conference at least, each coach, on request, and often without, sent two press tickets to each other coach with whom future games are scheduled. By Monday night, the freshmen and scrubs are using so called "opponent" plays for the varsity to solve.

Despite these painstaking details, Michigan was unable to "solve Grange". Study of Illinois' formations proved of no help in stopping the red haired comet when he scooped up the first kickoff and ran 90 yards to a touchdown. He was equally elusive in his three other long runs for touchdowns from formations.

SUB BASE LOSES CLOSE GAME TO NEW BRITAIN

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New Britain, Oct. 20.—A bit of blue flash was all that could be seen at Memorial Park Sunday afternoon, where the Submarine Base and the All-New Britains staged a thrilling encounter in four lengthy periods of 15 minutes each. The game was really played in a melodramatic fashion with each and every period supplying unlimited thrills and fine plays. As mentioned above, a bit of blue flash was the downfall of the New London gobs, and that person was Sanford, All-New Britain halfback, who time and again tore off long runs that threatened to make the game a rather one-sided affair. Due to Sanford's great running ability the locals were able to score the only touchdown made during the contest and the sailors had to accept a defeat by a 7 to 0 score.

The lineup:

Submarine Base		All-New Britain
Anderson		J. Conley
	Right End
Robbins		Landers
	Right Tackle
May		Dully
	Right Guard
Bailey		Rogers
	Center
Hess		Vose
	Left Guard
Andrulot		Poltis
	Left Tackle
Murphy		Clark
	Left End
Kelly		Tully
	Quarterback
Angell		Sanford
	Left Halfback
Meske		Dill
	Right Halfback
Curry		Kennedy
	Fullback

Score by quarters:

All-New Britain	0	7	0	0	—7

Touchdown for New Britain, Sanford. Point after touchdown, Sanford by dropkick. Referee, Ginsburg of New Haven. Umpire, Parker of Hartford. Head linesman, Mahoney of New Britain. Time of game, four quarters of 15 minutes each. Substitutions, Submarine Base, Cummings for Anderson, Compton for Cummings, Wickwire for Hess, Hart for Bailey, Gray for May. All-New Britain, J. ONLY FOUR HARVARD PLAYERS ABLE TO REPORT

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 20.—Only four of the men who started in Saturday's game against Holy Cross were on the field in uniform today when the Harvard football squad reported for practice in preparation for Saturdays game with Dartmouth. Coaches and trainers said, however, that they expected all members of the team, with the exception of Harry Dunker, guard, recently ill from diphtheria, and Arthur Rogers, halfback, suffering from a sprained ankle to be in condition for the Dartmouth game.

Among those on the sidelines in civilian clothes today were Captain Malcolm Greenough, who was badly bruised and carried a cane; Joseph McGlone, quarterback in charge of the team when the winning touchdown was scored Saturday and who is bothered by an old knee injury; George Adie, center, and Frank La Farge, end. Of those to start last Saturday, only John Stafford, quarterback, and Nathaniel Howe, got into practice today.

Al Miller, back, and Charles Branford, guard, were in uniform but took part only in signal drill. Cheek Spaulding and Gehrke, Harvard backfield regulars, out since Monday, will be in the game Saturday, it was announced.

Todd Beats Bloomfield.

London, Oct. 20.—Roland Todd, European middleweight champion, defeated Joe Bloomfield in a 20-round bout here tonight. The defeated man is a brother of Jack Bloomfield, the former British heavyweight champion.

JEWETT CITY SPEEDBOYS TRIM NORWICH NUTMEGS

The Jewett City Speedboys defeated the Norwich Nutmegs 12 to 0 in a spectacular game Sunday afternoon at Slater Field, Jewett City.

The ends were taken care of by Barry and Eichelberg. The first touchdown was made by Barry. After having made a wonderful catch he ran 40 yards for a touchdown. Eichelberg's tackling was a feature in the game and his team mate Sawicki was as good. These two players had the opposing team at their mercy at all times during the game. Guiollette played as usual. Izzy and Stanley who substituted him in the third quarter played a good game. Harris as center is the best center that Jewett City ever had and McCluggage at right guard was always there to break up the opponents interference and making some very fine tackles as well. Ambot and Mondor who substituted Guiollette and Stanley are showing up well.

Parkhurst the quarterback, the veteran of many games led his team to victory by his able generalship. Jaskiewicz the well known fullback who has assisted Parkhurst for the last 2 years in leading their team to victory was the shining star in bringing about the second touchdown. After running twenty yards he was tackled within one-half yard of the goal, it was a wonderful run. The goal was then made by Hoffman a well known halfback in eastern Connecticut, scoring the touchdown by a trick play which left the opposing team dumbfounded. Kaduda who has made his first attempt at football has turned out to be a sensational halfback. During the second half fumbling was the cause of Jewett City not scoring.

FRANKIE BUSCH NOW UNDER CARE OF BARNEY KEENAN

Frankie Busch, local heavyweight boxer, who made a creditable showing against Young Pelky of Worcester last week at Danielson is under the care of Barney Keenan that old time pugilistic star of the Rose City. Barney has been working with Busch during the past few months and Busch's showing last week shows that Barney's labors have not been in vain.

Busch, himself, gives Keenan all the credit and says that Barney has shown him more in the past few months than he has learned from others in the past two years. Busch always packed a good punch in either hand but has always been lacking in the footwork. However, Keenan is devoting a large part of his time to improve the fault and in last week's go Busch showed the fruits of Keenan's teachings. Busch is by no means perfect in this respect but he has gotten out of the flat-footed way of fighting and can now hit from most any angle.

There is a strong chance that Busch will get a return match with Pelky over the 12 round route in the near future either in Danielson or in Worcester or Southbridge.

DELANEY WINS WHEN M'CARTHY IS DISQUALIFIED

Boston, Oct. 20.—Jack Delaney of Bridgeport, Conn., won from Pat McCarthy, of Boston, in the eighth round of a scheduled 10-round bout, here tonight when the referee stopped the fight because of the local man's indifferent boxing. Delaney weighed 165 and McCarthy 172.

Al Melio of Lowell, who reached the 147 pounds semi-finals at the Olympic games in Paris last summer, making his first professional appearance, defeated Billy Brewster of Lynn, when his opponent refused to answer the bell at the beginning of the second round of a scheduled eight-round bout. Bob Lowerie of Scotland, knocked out Scoops White of Worcester in the seventh round of a scheduled eight-round match.

PRINCETON HOPES BOUYED UP BY SATURDAY'S WIN

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 20. — The Princeton football squad returned to the practice grind today with rejuvenated hopes for success in the more important gridiron battles yet to be fought.

Fresh from the spectacular tiger victory over the pigskin carriers from Annapolis Saturday, the team today was in rare form, to a man unscarred and anxious for the last big game with Notre Dame Saturday before plunging into the "Big Three" contest with Yale and Harvard.

The presence again of captain "Buzz" Stout also contributed to the team enthusiasm for the fleety end, by direction of Coach "Bill" Roper, watched the Navy battle from the Tiger bench.

YALE VARSITY COMES THROUGH WITHOUT INJURY

New Haven, Oct. 20.—The Yale varsity reported this afternoon for football practice following the Dartmouth game without an absentee. There was no scrimmage for the first varsity but a long signal drill. The lineup was the same that started the game on Saturday, except that Eckart was in at right guard in place of Wortham.

Norton Conway, who was one of the tackles on last year's freshman team, and who has been playing with the scrubs, was moved over to the varsity squad today. Conway played at Hotchkiss before coming to Yale.

Day Outpoints Brady.

Bridgeport, Oct. 20.—Georgie Day, of New Haven, outpointed Eddie Brady, of Brooklyn, in a close and bristling ten-round bout here tonight. They are junior lightweights.

In the semi-final, Johnny Red Allen, of Bridgeport, outpointed Willie Angelo, of Stamford.

Young Saxon, of Bridgeport, knocked out Frankie Cavanaugh, of Fairfield, in the third round of a scheduled eight-round affair.

Tony Travers, of New Haven, flattened Nick Petite, of Bridgeport, in the first round of the opening preliminary.

WERTHEMEIR TURNS DOWN OFFER $300,000 FOR HIS FAMOUS EPINARD

New York, Oct. 20—(By the A. P.)—After disclosing his refusal of a $300,000 offer for Epinard, a price which sets a new record in thoroughbred values, Pierre Wertheimer announced today that his famous French horse had run his last race and would be retired to the stud.

M. Wertheimer did not reveal the name of the bidder for Epinard but it was said to be a prominent American turfman who believes that the French crack, in spite of four straight defeats in this country, is one of the greatest thoroughbreds of all time.

Epinard came out of his last race at Laurel, Md., last Saturday with a quarter crack in one of his front feet, an injury which, occurring during the race, resulted in the horse finishing fifth in a field of seven and prompted the decision of M. Wertheimer to retire his star from further competition. The injury, he said today, was more serious than was at first believed and would preclude any further racing by Epinard here or abroad.

Young Baker of Sterling, a promising youngster, would like to challenge any boy in the state at 125 pounds and would like nothing better than a return bout with Kid McKay of New Bedford. Address Walter Baker, Sterling, Ct.

SPORTING NOTES

Tennis, played in an enclosed court, was a favorite game in the 14th century.

Hockey of some kind is played in Asia, the South Sea Islands, and by the hill women of Algeria.

Several of the famous hunt clubs still existing in England were founded early in the 17th century.

Fishing is the favorite sport among successful men, followed by golf and shooting.

The Fort Worth champions were the only club in the Texas league which did not lose a double-header last season.

Kraft, the great batsman of the Fort Worth Texas league champions, played with his team in every game of the past season.

Nearly all the changes in lawn tennis since the first introduction of the game about fifty years ago have been toward greater swiftness. Originally the net was 5 feet high at the sides and 4 feet in the middle. It has been lowered to 3 feet 6 inches at the sides and 3 feet in the middle. The service line has been brought nearer the net by 5 feet. Racquets are more tightly strung and balls are more lively.

The record in a six-day bicycle race is 2625 miles, no laps, made in the Madison Square Garden contest in 1916 by Egg and Dupuy.

Phil Krug and Young Bob Fitzsimmons are among the Eastern boxers who will try their hand at the game on the Pacific coast this winter.

Mrs. W. C. Judson, an enthusiastic angler of Big Rapids, Mich., is the first woman to become secretary of an Izaak Walton chapter.

Mickey Walker welterweight titleholder, is to take on Warnie Smith, the Oklahoma Cowboy, in a 10-round bout at Milwaukee on the night of October 20.

Walter Camp will be a guest of the California association at the annual California-Stanford football classic at Berkeley, Nov. 22.

The U. S. tennis and polo teams, like rowing squads, showed their mettle against foreign stars. The golf players also retained the Walker Cup against England.

Johnny Hodapp, shortstop at Indianapolis, continues to be in great demand by the majors. The 19-year-old infielder hit better than 350 after a rather unsatisfactory start at Indianapolis.

Francis Hussey, the schoolboy sprinter of New York, who paved the success of the American relay team in the Olympic games, is now a student at Boston University.

The continental football teams in Europe have shown wonderful improvement in late years. Crack English teams that have played recently in Copenhagen, Paris, Vienna, Barcelona and other Continental cities have had all they could do to hold their own.

Argentina has developed into one of the leading polo countries in the world, and at the present time they are considered the greatest rival to the United States for supremacy in the game. It is reported that the speedy South Americans will be presented here next season in the contest for the International Challenge Cup.

NORWICH TOWN

The Sheltering Arms service Sunday afternoon was conducted by Rev. James B. Aldrich, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, who was accompanied by several members of the church choir.

Rev. Mr. Aldrich gave an interesting talk on "One Lord, One Faith, One Baptism," Ephesians 4:5. Those who furnished the singing were Lewis Aldrich, Miss Florence Brown, Mrs. George Manning and Miss Hazel Cruthers the last named accompanying at the piano for the hymns. During the service Miss Brown played a piano solo. At the conclusion of the services, several extra hymns were given to the pleasure of the shut-ins.

At the Sunday morning worship at the Methodist church, Rev. Mr. Aldrich preached from John 5-39. Search the Scriptures, for in them ye think ye have Eternal life; and they are which testify of me. Miss Florence Bennett was the leader of the Young People's Christian Endeavor service in the evening, ably treating the topic, My Denomination; Its Organization and Aims, I Corinthians 12:1—13 This was followed by a short sermon by the pastor who spoke from John 7-24. Judge not according to the appearance; but judge righteous judgment.

At the Scotland Road hall Sunday afternoon the Young People's Christian Endeavor society, of the First Congregational church, had charge of the service. There was a large attendance from both places. The subject was Prayer. Miss Helen Avery was leader Miss Bernice Underwood gave as a soprano solo, "An Evening Prayer," by Gabriel, with Miss Marion L. Bailey accompanying at the piano.

"Why Go to Church?" was the theme of Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey's sermon at the First Congregational church, Sunday morning. The text was Luke-4-16. And He came to Nazareth, where He had been brought up; and as His custom was, He went into the Synagogue on the Sabbath Day, and stood up for to read.

Arthur Avery was the appointed delegate from this church, to attend with the pastor the ordination service Tuesday afternoon, October 28th, of Mrs. William J. Tate, of Franklin, at the Franklin Congregational church. Mrs. Tate is to assume the pastorate of this church, in her husband's place because of Rev. Mr. Tate's ill health.

The regular Sunday evening service of the Young Peoples Christian Endeavor society, was omitted, because of the afternoon service held at Scotland Road Hall.

"Moving Pictures in the church "will be the topic for discussion at the mid-week prayer service of the Congregational church, Thursday evening.

Mrs. Charles F. Geer of West Town street, had as automobile guests to New Bedford for over the week-end, Mr. and Mrs. Stanton W. Brown, and Miss Gertrude Teft, of Wightman avenue. While there they called on relatives and friends. A visit was made to Fair Haven, the home of H. H. Rogers, oil magnate. Sunday the party were entertained at a delicious chicken dinner at the home of Miss Teft's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Groves. Before returning, a tour of inspection of New Bedford was made including a stop at the home of Hetty Green's son Colonel Green, who owns much real estate.

The beautiful flower beds, as yet untouched by frost, on this magnificent estate, were greatly admired as well as the gorgeous foliage all along the route. The party returned home late Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Marcus E. Grady, of Laurel Hill avenue, received a surprise call one evening last week when a delegation from the W. I. Ts., the organized class taught by Miss Jessie E. Hyde, at the First Congregational Sunday school, presented them a cut glass dish, in behalf of the class. Mr. Grady is a member of the class, also the church. The gift was in recognition of the recent marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Grady.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles H. Lamb, returned Sunday evening, following a visit of two days at Dr. Lamb's former home in Mystic. While there they were guests of Mrs. Harriet E. Brainerd, sister of Dr. Lamb. When leaving Friday noon, Dr. and Mrs. Lamb were automobile guests as far as New London, of Theodore Sterry. When returning to Norwich Town they were guests of Dr. Lamb's nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence J. Greenley and the latter's mother, Mrs. Brainerd.

Watch any man long enough and you will see him do something that he ought to be ashamed of.

INGROWN NAIL

Turns Right Out Itself

"Outgro" is a harmless antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.

A few drops of "Outgro" in the crevice of the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night.

BRITISH SCHOONER, WHISKEY-LADEN, BROUGHT INTO NEW LONDON HARBOR

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, Oct. 20.—The first foreign craft to be seized by rum chasers of the United States government, was taken this afternoon when the British three-masted schooner Over-the-Top was found by the revenue cutter Tampa in the vicinity of Block Island with a big cargo of whiskey and alcohol. The schooner and her crew of eight men were brought into port and tomorrow morning the crew will be given a hearing before United States Commissioner Carl Mathewson, of Norwich.

The cargo of the Over-the-Top has not been determined, but it is of a large amount, for as the schooner lies moored to the cutter near the Groton shore the Over-the-Top is deep in the water, indicating that the cargo is heavy. Capt. McLane, master of the revenue cutter, stated this afternoon that he had not estimated the amount of the cargo.

The Over the Top, which hails from St. John's, New Brunswick, was sighted about noon by the Tampa's crew, which was scouring the Connecticut and Rhode Island shores in quest of rum runners. When the cutter pulled alongside the Over the Top the master of the foreign ship was ordered to bring his craft to a stop and when this was done an officer from the cutter boarded the schooner. A glimpse into the hold of the schooner revealed the fact that the craft was a rum-runner. The schooner was taken in tow and reached port shortly after 3 o'clock.

Edward Hickey and John McDonough were sent to jail this morning from the police court each to stay 60 days, as a common drunkard. The men pleaded guilty. Hickey is a bad one and once has done time for highway robbery, when he attacked Arnold Burr near the Montauk avenue bridge. He has been accused at other times but could not be convicted. McDonough has been treated with leniency and with severity, but neither means of dealing with him has been effectual in inducing him to change his habits. The men have offered all sorts of excuses in the past. Today they seemed to have reached the conclusion that excuses would serve them no good purpose so they just admitted they were guilty.

Benjamin Tuttle, about 50, formerly a handy man for a New London furniture concern has turned his attention to other channels and has entered the employ of the county detective's office as seeker after evidence to convict liquor sellers. He has been working about this city since the last week in September and has secured evidence that today convicted three sellers and sent one of them to jail. The fines that came were $200 on each count in the information, which is pretty expensive. Indeed it is so costly that no dealer will desire to continue in the business and pay the price. The liquor secured was in pint bottles and each was labelled with the date of purchase, the alcoholic content of the liquor and the price paid. The evidence was of the hard and fast sort that could not be disputed, though an effort in that direction was made by the men accused and their attorneys.

Angelo Giardini fared so badly that he received a jail sentence. He will work for the county now and get no pay for it, whereas he has been at work for contractors on the state road and has earned some $5 a day. In his cellar was found six cans of alcohol besides a quart bottle of the same liquid. These were seized and confiscated. Tuttle went to Giardini's place and declared that he had no difficulty in securing the liquor he asked for. The price paid was $3 a pint, the same price the drugstores charge for the real thing in whiskey. Giardini has been convicted before of selling so a jail sentence was attached to his judgment. He gave notice of appeal but instead of perfecting it he concluded that he would take his medicine and make the best of it.

Tufik Haberek was fined $400 for conducting a liquor business in a Sixteenth street house he hires from the Central Vermont Railroad company. His place was in the upper stories of the building, but Tuttle learned that liquor was to be had there so he put Haberek "on his list" as a fellow to be nabbed. Tuttle bought whiskey there and turned it over to Detective Lewis, with all the facts that they might be used to convict Haberek. The latter did the crying act in court and declared that he "Would go to church and swear that he never sold any whiskey." This did not convince the court in view of the facts the Detective and his "pigeon" presented. Ha-berek finally paid a bill of some $425 to the court.

George Sabagh, a Syrian who keeps a pool room on Main street, opposite Church street, was fined $400 also for selling to Tuttle. George was positive that Tuttle was lying and said so on the witness stand. He admitted that Tuttle was in his place once, but said he entered only to the threshold and there asked for a fellow named Ward. This name proved to be a fictitious one so far as the court could ascertain. The statement that Tuttle was lying spurred the prosecutor to disclose that he was not lying and the case was made even more positive against the accused. Sabagh appealed and gave a bond of $1000 to appear before the common pleas court at its next session.

Evidently the authorities propose to clean up many of the places where liquor is sold as they can get evidence against.

A resident of Mountain avenue was accused of selling liquor, but there was no corroborating evidence to convict him and as he owns a good reputation and is employed at one of the factories of the city the complaint was nolled without any testimony being taken. It was a close call for the fellow so he will be wise if he is not accused again.

A quarrel among children over in the Walback section of the city extended so that other members of the families of the squabblers became involved. The case got into the police court, but there was no trial as the parties to it were ashamed of their conduct. The case was continued that Probation Officer Mansfield may use his persuasive powers to bring harmony out of chaos.

Mrs. Pierce King and infant son of Crescent Beach; Mrs. Clarence Brockett, Niantic, Mrs. Israel Slutsky, of Show street; Owen Brown, Hartford; Mrs. Frank Farina and infant son, Pearl street; Miss Catherine Carver, Harrison street; Henry Pickowitz, Tilley street, patients at Lawrence hospital, were able to return to their respective homes today.

The funeral of Catherine, widow of Andrew Somers, whose death occurred at her home in Graniteville Friday, was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Joseph's church. A solemn mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. William C. Fitzsimons, pastor of the church, with Rev. Alexander Wollschlaeger, deacon and Rev. Raymond O'Callahan, sub-deacon. The bearers were Bernard Cullen, Edward Peters, John Drudy, John Gallagher, Edward Cody and William Riley. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Mrs. Frank Powers, 32 Golden St., complained to the police this afternoon that she had been robbed of a gold watch and chain and a Moose charm. Mrs. Powers stated that she left her room early in the afternoon and was absent about an hour. When she returned she discovered that a thief had been there for the watch, chain and charm were missing. No other effects in the room were disturbed.

Nurses at Home Memorial hospital, Pequot avenue, detected a prowler about the place shortly before 4 o'clock this morning and communicated with the police. Patrolmen George McCaskey and Michael Corcoran were dispatched to the institution in the speed automobile, but no trace of the prowler could be found.

Mrs. Maria F. Starr, 189 Broad St., complained to the police this morning that youths are destroying the fence that surrounds her property at 1 Prest street.

An automobile owned and operated by Mrs. Ottillia McInnis, 43 Union street, Norwich, in passing through Bentley avenue, Ocean Beach, late Sunday afternoon collided with an electric light pole when Mrs. McInnis lost control of the steering gear. The automobile was considerably damaged for the axle was bent as were the front right wheel and mudguard.

Henry William H. Morris is critically ill at the residence of his son, George R. Morris, 116 Ocean avenue. Mr. Morris is a retired merchant, formerly conducting a grocery store at the corner of Hempstead and Manwaring streets.

Mrs. Margaret W. Mahan, widow of Postmaster Bryan Mahan, 189 Hempstead street, is at North Adams, Mass., called there today because of the serious illness of her daughter, Miss Elizabeth Mahan, who has been visiting her sister-in-law, Mrs. Alfred Mahan, at Williamstown, Mass. The exact nature of Miss Mahan's illness is not known, but it is believed that she is threatened with pneumonia as she developed a severe cold a few days ago. Miss Mahan is under treatment at a North Adams hospital.

Dr. Hugo F. Lena is in New York where tomorrow and Wednesday he will attend the clinical congress of the American College of Surgeons.

Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Shay have returned to their home, 15 Waller street, after a motor trip through New York state and Pennsylvania.

Frank Crandall, of Pleasant Valley, Groton, arrested two weeks ago, charged with reckless driving by B. Kopatz, Thames street, Groton, was not tried in the Groton town court this morning, Judge Cornelius C. Costello ordering the case dismissed for lack of evidence.

Francis Gray, of Pleasant Valley was fined $25 and costs, the latter amounting to $10.15, in the Groton court this morning on a charge of reckless driving. Twenty dollars of the fine was remitted. Gray was arrested Saturday night by State Police Officer Henry J. Albright, from Groton barracks.

Faust Pierferderici, of Mystic, was arrested Saturday for operating his automobile without lights showing. As the lights were in perfect condition and that they were not lighted through lack of thought on the part of Pierferderci, he was discharged.

Deputy United States Marshal James Daugherty, of New Haven, came to New London today and levied libels on several steamers of the Menhaden Fisheries company, in an action brought by the Thames Towboat company for work performed by the company on several of the steamers, amounting to approximately $40,000.

Mrs. May Odde Gammons, of Faye street reported to the police this evening that her daughter Constance, about 16, who is mentally unsound, had disappeared from home and a search for the girl had failed to locate her. A short time afterwards the police were informed that a girl was acting strangely in Squire street and an investigation revealed that the girl was the daughter of Mrs. Gammon. The girl was returned to the custody of her mother.

George W. Prince, 77, of Niantic, died at Lawrence hospital Sunday, where he had been under treatment but a week. Mr. Prince was a painter by occupation and is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Stevens, of Niantic.

Funeral services for Burton A. Chapell, whose death occurred at Hartford last week, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence of his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth P. Chapell, Waterford. Rev. George H. Strouse, pastor of the Waterford Baptist church, officiated. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

Congetta Cafaro, 7, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Cafaro, 223 Poquonoc road, Groton, died this morning at the residence of the child's parents.

Miss Josephine A. Daniels, a former residence of New London, died Saturday at her home, Taunton, Mass. The body will be brought to New London and interred in Jordan cemetery.

Henry Goldfarb of Hartford, has sold an undivided half interest in the property at 16 Midway place, Ocean Beach, to Bella Perimuter, also of Hartford.

William T. May and Charles A. Gallup have sold a cottage on West Coit street to Stanley and Anastasia Wiezorek. The property was formerly owned by Ellen Burke and was recently acquired by Messrs. May and Gallup at a sale ordered by the superior court.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Mamie R. Apte, of Southbridge, Mass., and Ralph Goddard, formerly of this city. The marriage was performed Saturday at Southbridge.

The city council this evening received and accepted an invitation from Capt. King, commanding the submarine base, to visit the base on the 27th inst., Navy day, the anniversary of the birth of Theodore Roosevelt and to dine with the officers and witness the football contest.

The council voted to purchase three more fire alarm boxes of the Gamewell type and to install them at points suggested by the chief engineer.

It was decided to provide more street lights about the Connecticut college, the cost to be $1003 above the cost of the lights at present. Land in the rear of the Hillside Home was released to Joseph Andre. C. F. Washburne's bids to audit the accounts of city employes was accepted and a contract with him to do the work was authorized. The council declined to accept the proposition of Leon St. Germain to pay for the extension of the water main into the town of Waterford, he to pay for the same and to pay for water used there. The drain would be too much on the high pressure service of the city. After the council meeting, the members went into secret session to consider ordinances proposed and which have had two readings. The police investigation was to receive consideration, but it was understood that action was not to be taken upon it.

HOPKINTON

Dr. and Mrs. A. L. Wells and son Russell A. Wells, Dr. J. K. Wells of Boston, Mrs. Elliott C. Wells, of Palm Beach, Fla., Mrs. Nathan Culver and daughter, Catherine W. Wheeler, of Westerly, were guests at the home of John E. Wells, early last week.

Miss Deborah Wells, employed in Providence, was home over Columbus day.

Rev. E. P. Mathewson and family were in Providence Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Lewis have returned home, after spending the summer at East Beach, Quonocontaug.

The Seventh Day Baptists observe the custom of making an annual pilgrimage to and holding services in the old Newport church edifice. This year they gathered there last Saturday, the 11th. Those from Hopkinton taking part in the services were Rev. A. L. Davis, Rev. W. L. Burdick, Rev. Paul S. Burdick, Arling Kenyon, Leland Coon, Miss Elizabeth Kenyon, Miss Helen Kenyon and Miss Gladys Baker.

John S. C. Kenyon and family have moved from Canonchet to the Ross farm, near Ashaway.

The Altco ladies' club, connected with the Line and Twine company, met in rooms in the basement of the house occupied by I. Brady Wednesday evening. A. J. Crandall loans them two rooms and has helped about the furnishings.

METHODS OF EDWIN GOULD IN STOCK TRANSACTIONS

New York, Oct. 21.—Edwin Gould, testifying today in the resumption of the hearing of the $82,000,000 Jay Gould estate accounting suit explained that during the panic of 1907 he was obliged to borrow large sums of money, obtaining as high as half a million dollars from one company, and that the year following he was anxious to sell out securities held by him to clear up his debts.

The admission came during questioning regarding his holdings of Missouri-Pacific Railroad shares and his disposition of them. Mr. Gould at first said that in 1908 he had not contemplated unloading his interests in Missouri-Pacific. When records were produced showing an entry of 53,000 shares in his name and that shortly after he commenced to sell out in blocks so that in November not a share remained in his name, Mr. Gould contended that the stock might have been in his name mut owned by someone else.

The witness glanced over the records when they were producer. "Here," he said, "this shows that you can't prove anything by this."

He referred to transfer of 2,100 shares to J. C. Berry.

"He was my colored porter," said Mr. Gould, "and is now dead so this proves nothing in the way of a sale."

"And about Paul J. Langua, whose name appears in a transaction. Was that a dummy, too?" counsel queried.

"He's not a dummy; he's my secretary," came the reply.

Mr. Gould's memory was hazy about other names on the list, but he finally said he never borrowed money in Berry's name, or any of the others, but that he might have negotiated loans in a way that his own name would not appear.

The witness also admitted today that George Gould, his brother, and one of the executors of his father's estate, had purchased $8,500,000 worth of Missouri-Pacific gold bonds in 1910 secretly while he was out of the city, but that he made no protests nor objection upon his return. George, he said, contracted for $10,000,000 worth of the bonds, ostensibly in his own name and not the estate's, but the brothers later received $142,000 in commissions on the sale to the estate, he said. Of the $10,000,000 pledged by George, Mr. Gould stated that John D. Rockefeller took $3,500,000.

The race may not always be to the swift, but the fast young man soon arrives at the end of his course.

Kellogg's Bran did more in two weeks than medicine taken in 20 years

Out of regard for your own health, read this letter:

Gentlemen:

Your "Krumbled Bran," used by me as a cereal, has done more for me in two weeks than the hundreds of dollars' worth of medicine I have taken in last twenty years for constipation. It is wonderful, and it is so simple.

Yours truly,
Arlington H. Carman,
Patchogue, N. Y.

Mr. Carman's experience has been duplicated in thousands of homes. Why does Kellogg's Bran succeed when drugs and pills fail? The answer is simple. Drugs have an unnatural effect upon the bowels. They irritate the intestines. The more they are used, the more one has to use. Finally, they have no effect at all.

Kellogg's Bran STIMULATES the intestines. It cleans, sweeps and purifies them. It acts exactly as nature acts. And it is never necessary to increase the amount eaten. If eaten regularly, Kellogg's Bran is guaranteed to bring permanent relief to the most chronic cases of constipation, or your grocer returns your money. For Kellogg's Bran is ALL bran. Nothing but ALL bran can be so effective. That is why doctors recommend Kellogg's.

The wonderful, nut-like flavor of Kellogg's Bran is exclusive. It is delicious—totally unlike ordinary brans. Eat two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. Eat it with milk or cream and in the recipes on every package. Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is made in Battle Creek. Sold by all grocers.

HELPS ABOUT HOUSE LIGHTING

LIGHTING THE HALL AND STAIRS

The main hall, where we welcome our guests, may be large or it may be small, but probably nothing will light it as well as an attractive ceiling fixture equipped with a total of from 50 to 100 watts of lamp bulbs.

If the hall is large enough, we may add a pair of bracket fixtures on the wall at either side of a pretty mirror, or we may use a small table lamp, or candlesticks on a console table. When we do this, the lights should be well shaded, of course, and not too bright. Economy suggests the use of 15 or 25-watt bulbs.

Upstairs halls or long private halls are usually best lighted with small ceiling fixtures equipped with 25 or 50-watt bulbs. In many homes, however, bracket fixtures may be used on the walls to give satisfactory lighting. When the house is wired the lights in the halls should be put in so that they may be lighted from either upstairs or downstairs.

The lighting fixtures in the halls ought to be placed so that they will light the stairway as well as the hall. In large homes where the stairs turn or where there is a landing half way up, it may be advisable to install a small fixture at the turn to be sure the stairs are well lighted.

LIGHTING THE OUTSIDE OF THE HOUSE

Many homes that are being built now have a duplex convenience outlet installed on the porch so that portable lamps may be used to make an outdoor living room in pleasant weather.

In every home some lighting is needed at the main entrance and other doorways for convenience and safety at night. Lanterns of weather-proof metal are commonly used either as brackets or ceiling fixtures.

The driveway to the garage will need some light, perhaps from a fixture attached to the outside of the house. The lighting inside the garage should be installed so that it may be lighted from either the house or the garage. In more elaborate homes the gateway and drive may be equipped with ornamental lanterns or posts.

For outdoor fixtures a 50-watt bulb will usually be large enough. However, if a large space is to be lighted, as much as 100 watts may be needed.

PROPER WIRING

Hidden in the walls of a home are the wires that permit us to enjoy the comforts of electric service. They are out of sight and we never think about them, but they are very important for they may limit our ability to use electricity for lighting and for appliances conveniently.

Every year we add something to the electric equipment in the home. Perhaps this year it is a new table lamp; last year it may have been a wash machine or a toaster, next year it may be a fan or a curling iron. Five years ago when the house was wired, we did not plan for these new things, and now we remove a lamp bulb to connect one of them, thus depriving ourselves of needed light and spoiling the appearance of the room by the unsightly cord which dangles from the socket.

The wiring in most homes can be made to give greater service today by addition of convenience outlets (usually the duplex type, which permits two things to be connected to one outlet.) In general, we need one of these for each fifty square feet of floor in the room. These may be placed in the wall near the floor or at a height of three or four feet above the floor to save bending over when we connect an appliance. Another feature of the properly wired home is a wall switch to control each of the principal lighting fixtures.

As a protection against accident, the main switch, which controls all the lights in the house, and the fuses should be in a modern metal box so designed that there can be no possibility of an electric shock.

Every householder is interested in these devices for comfort and convenience in the use of electric service, but he should not attempt to make changes in the wiring of the house without the services of a competent electrician who understands the precautions which must be taken for safety. There are specific rules in every city designed for the protection of the public and all changes in wiring must be made according to these rules.

She Says:

"I Am Thin"

Her Friend Say:

"She Is Skinny"

If she only knew that she could put on at least 5 pounds of good, healthy flesh in 30 days she wouldn't be worrynig about her peaked face and run-down looks.

She has tried Cod Liver Oil, but the fil-smelling, nasty tasting stuff upset her stomach and made her feel worse than before.

Doctors and good pharmacists know that Cod Liver Oil is full of vitamines that make flesh, creates appetite, builds up the power to resist disease and chases away nervousness.

But it's horrible tasting stuff and every day fewer people are taking it for doctors are prescribing and the people are fast learning that they can get better results with McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets, which Lee & Osgood Co. and druggists all over the country are having a tremendous demand for.

It's a wonderful upbuilding medicine for children, especially after sickness, and sixty tablets only cost 60 cents.

One woman gained 10 pounds in 22 days and if any skinny man or woman can't put on 5 pounds in 30 days, your druggist will gladly return the purchase price.

ENTIRE TRAIN OF TEN CARS WAS DERAILED

Lewiston, Pa., Oct. 20—Scores of passengers of the Commercial Express St. Louis-New York Pennsylvania railroad passenger train, escaped with minor injuries when the entire train of ten cars was derailed near here today. Only three were reported seriously injured although three Pullman cars and the dining car toppled partially over an embankment.

The seriously injured were:

A. J. Penrod, Swissvale, Pa., shoulder dislocated and left hand hurt; Frank J. Thompson, Dormont, Pa., left leg lacerated; M. H. Newall, Altoona, Pa., probable fracture of the ribs.

The train carried a total of 168 persons, railroad officials said tonight. It was composed of all steel cars. The cause of the accident is undetermined although an investigation was begun immediately by the railroad officials.

The train was running at a good rate of speed when it left the track, which was plowed up for a distance of about a quarter of a mile. It was running on what is known as track number 1 and it blocked the remaining tracks for only about a half hour. All other eastbound traffic was detoured around the wreck. Relief trains were dispatched from Altoona and Harrisburg, with nurses and doctors and sufficient extra equipment to take care of the passengers.

LEADERS AT STORRS ONLY THREE EGGS APART

Only three eggs separate the two leading pens in the Storrs Laying Contest. Fernside Farm's pen of Reds from Attleboro Mass., are still holding first position while C. T. Darby's pen of Leghorns from North Branch, N. J., are only one day's lay behind. During the last week the Reds rallied a little and may yet prove to be the pennant pen. There are only two weeks to go in this race which now looks like a repetition of the contest back in 1913 when F. O. Yost's pen of Leghorns fom Sayre, Pa., beat out McLeod Brothers' White Wyandottes from Hamilton, Ont., by only two eggs. Up until this time only one pen has completely laid down on the job. On the other hand last week saw three pens of Plymouth Rocks cross the 2,000 egg mark. They are the entries of Edgar Stoughton of Wapping, Conn., H. F. Barber of Dover, Mass., and Purdue University at Lafayette, Ind. It seems safe to predict that the Agricultural College's pen of Bared Rocks from Guelph, Ont., and D. O. Witmer's White Wyandottes from Joplin, Mo., will likewise be in this class before the contest closes the 29th of October.

In the fiftieth week C. T. Darby's pen of Leghorns from North Branch, N. J., came though with 42 eggs, the highest score for any pen. Three other pens of Leghorns entered by Hilltop Farm at Suffield, Conn., Meadowedge Farm at Cedarhurst, L. I. and George B. Ferris of Grand Rapids, Mich., all tied for second place with 40 eggs each. Edgar Stoughton's pen of Barred Rocks from Wapping, Conn., was third best pen for the week with a total of 39 eggs and Andrew L. Ohl's pen of Leghorns from Wallingford, Conn., finished fourth with 38 eggs. The total production for all pens for the week was 2,305 or a yield of nearly 33 per cent. The grand total for the year for the entire 1,000 hens in the contest is sure to exceed 167,000 eggs.

ERNEST WHITE BANKRUPTCY RETURNS BUT LITTLE

The final hearing was held Monday before Bankruptcy Referee Thomas M. Shields in the case of Ernest D. White of this city, an automobile dealer, in which the assets were $500 and the liabilities $30,000.

The administration expenses were paid and the tax on the business of $129, the town and city taxes of $190.90 were paid. The only other payments made from the bankrupt estate were the preferred claim of Fred Preaux for $185 for labor on which he received $44.48 and the preferred claim of Miss Maizie Williams for $15 for labor on which she received $3.62.

Considerable of the $30,000 in liabilities was in notes to banks and there were several items of $1,200 and $1,600 representing advance payments that customers had made for automobiles but had never received the machines. They will neither get their money back nor the machines which they had bargained for.

Interest you have to pay on borrowed trouble is exorbitant.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKET WAS STRONG.

New York, Oct. 20.—The recovery in stock prices which began last Friday, was halted today by the heavy selling of the steel shares and a few specialties, net losses in the active industrial issues ranging from small fractions to 2 1-2 points. Independent strength was shown, however, by a number of railroad shares, particularly those in which favorable merger or dividend developments are pending.

Bethlehem Steel was hammered down 3 points to 40 5-8, the lowest price since 1921, in speculative anticipation that the quarterly earnings statement, due Tuesday, will show earnings insufficient to cover preferred dividends for that period. The stock rallied later to 41 1-4. Crucible, Gulf States and Republic Steels yielded in sympathy, losing 1 to 1 3-4 points. United States Steel common received better buying support, rallying from a low of 105 7-8 to 107, where it was off only one-eighth on the day.

A sharp break of 5 1-2 points to 106 1-2 in United States Cast Iron Pipe followed the publication of a court decision prohibiting the company from paying any dividends on the common stock until back dividends totaling $721,370 on its 7 per cent preferred had been liquidated. The stock recovered 4 points of its loss in the final hour. The preferred, which will benefit by the court decision, closed nearly 3 points higher at 101 7-8.

One of the features of the railroad group was the heavy accumulation of Frisco common, which advanced 3 points to 34 3-4 on reports of high current earnings, coupled with expectations that dividends would be inaugurated next year. "Nickel Plate" preferred and Pittsburgh and West Virginia each moved up about 2 points while gains of one to three points were recorded by Jersey Central, Chicago & Eastern Illinois preferred, Gulf, Mobile & Northern preferred, Peoria & Eastern, the Pere Marquette preferred issues; Rutland preferred and Seaboard Air Line common and preferred.

Other weak spots were General Electric, Woolworth, Kresge Department Stores, Willys Overland preferred, Colorado Fuel, Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron, Mack Truck and International Business Machine, off about 1 1-2 to 2 1-2 points.

Corn Products, the American Water Works preferred issues, Brown Shoe, Federal Light and Traction, Schulte Stores, Savage Arms, Union Tank Car and Remington Typewriter were in good demand at rising prices.

Lowering of the renewal rate on call money to 2 per cent., which rate was maintained all day, had only a temporarily stimulating effect on stock prices. The time money market was dormant, traders showing no disposition to make concessions and borrowers declined to raise their bids. Commercial Paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchange rates held relatively steady despite the large column of grain and cotton bills which made their appearance in the local market. Demand sterling was quoted around $4.48 3-4 and French francs ruled around 5.22 cents. Danish exchange was heavy, dropping about 10 points to around 17.16 cents.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

During the past week there was a large number of building applications filed with Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton and 15 permits were granted by Fire Marshal Stanton. The permits include five for new buildings, four frame dwelling houses and one brick building in Greeneville which is to be used for a voting booth. The remainder of the permits are for additions and alterations to present buildings and for garages. One large garage is to be erected on Talman street for the Corcoran Estate, the garage being 50 by 70 feet and of frame construction.

The building progress in Norwich during the past week has been very favorable and things are being rushed along to completion. The new garage on North Main street is well along and the side walls are practically completed. Other buildings in Norwich and vicinity have made good progress during the past week. There is a noticeable amount of building being done on the Norwich-New London road near the Mohegan hill section. Here several new houses are being erected, two being ready for occupation while the others are in various stages of erection. A new two story house is being erected on the site of the house that was burned several weeks ago.

The building permits issued by Fire Marshall Stanton place the value of the new buildings at approximately $35,000 and are as follows:

To R. G. Hinckle to erect a frame garage at 81 Newton street for Walter M. Cowan the garage will be 12x20 feet.

To Thomas M. English to build a 2-apartment house on Slater avenue for himself. The foundation will be of stone and brick and the building itself will be of frame construction. The exterior will be finished in cedar shingles and clapboards. The interior will be finished in hardwood.

To C. J. Ruehl and Chas. T. Walker to build a seven room cottage house on Bentley avenue. The house will be 28x26 feet with stone foundation and frame superstructure. The interior will be finished in hardwood and plaster and the exterior in clapboards.

To Joseph J. Chimingo to erect an addition to the present house at 81 North street for Peter Angollone. The addition will be 7x20 feet and there will also be a new veranda.

To Daniel H. Kenyon to build a frame garage on Wilbur avenue. The garage will be 10x18 feet.

To Contractor P. F. Sweeney to erect a brick building on Seventh street for the Town of Norwich to be used as a voting booth. The building will be 18x28 feet.

To P. F. Sweeney to build a 2-story frame house on Carroll avenue, 20x31 feet for Fred S. Crowell. The house will have a stone foundation with frame superstructure. The house will have eight rooms and bath. The exterior will be finished in clapboards with wood shingled roof and the interior will be done in plaster and hardwood.

To P. F. Sweeney to build an addition to the present house on Broadway for Daniel T. Shea. The addition will be frame, 6x13 feet and 2 stories high.

To P. F. Sweeney to alter the present building at 201 Central avenue for Alexander Mierzejewski. The floors will be dropped and plate glass front put in so that the building can be used as a store.

To P. F. Sweeney to erect a frame garage on Talman street for the Corcoran estate. The garage will be 20x70 and one story high. The foundation will be of concrete.

To I. Eisenberg to build a 2-car garage at 27 Maple street. The garage which will be of frame construction will be 20x18 feet.

To George W. Allen to alter and extend present frame building on West Main street for Dr. George Thompson. The old building will be altered into two stores with a tenement on the second floor.

To Stanislow Lutz to erect a frame garage at 5 Copper street. The garage will be 20x20 feet.

To John C. Tracy to add a bath room to the present frame house on Lincoln avenue.

To Harold Bowers to build a 2-story house on Greene avenue. The house will be of frame construction, 24x28 feet, with stone and cement foundation. The exterior finish will be in stained shingles and the interior will be in hardwood and plaster. The house is the property of Clarence Sholes.

Don't Be Bald

How to Make Hair Grow Strong, Thick and Lustrous.

Few of us get bald in a day and we all have ample warning when our hair is thinning out.

Parisian Sage is a most efficient invigorator, but to immediately stop any further loss of hair and quickly start a new growth it must be rubbed into the scalp so the starved hair roots can readily absorb it and get the vital stimulation so badly needed. You will surely be delighted with the first application for your hair and scalp should look and feel 100 per cent. better.

Parisian Sage is not expensive. It's a scientific preparation that supplies all hair needs—a clean, non-sticky, antiseptic liquid that is sold by Lee & Osgood Co. and at drug and toilet counters everywhere with guarantee to give you perfect satisfaction or money refunded.

Neglect means dull, thin, lifeless hair and finally baldness, while a little attention now insures thick and lustrous hair for years to come. No matter what your hair troubles try Parisian Sage tonight—you will not be disappointed.

M. E. POTTER & CO.

446 building permits were issued during the year, for construction work estimated to cost $1,305,262. This compares with 365 permits issued during the preceding fiscal year when the estimated cost of building operations started was $979,625. A notable gain in building operations for the year just closed is apparent. The permits are classified as follows: Industrial and commercial buildings, 56, costing $625,127; dwellings, 81, costing $500,850; garages, 186, costing $78,600; additions and alterations, 124, costing $100,685.

The permit has been issued for a dwelling for James F. Sullivan, 20 Coleman street, on Barrows street From private plans, the house will be of frame construction, 25x45 feet, arranged for two families. There will be hardwood finish, modern heating and other conveniences. The owner will have charge of the construction.

The contract has been awarded for a dwelling for Joseph Sandoro, 417 Montauk avenue, at 96 Squire street. From private plans the house will be 24x26 feet, of frame construction, two stories high. It will be provided with the usual improvements. The cost will be about $4,000.

Plans are being prepared for a dry cleaning plant for the Krystal Cleaning & Dyeing Co., on a site adjoining the company's present plant at the corner of Truman and Blinman streets. The building will include a garage, and will be of modern fireproof construction, provided with improved machinery.

Work has been started on a dwelling for Silas Maxson, Jr., 233 Bank street, on Henry street. The proposed house will be a two-story cottage, of frame construction. It will be 22x28 feet, and will have all improvements. The cost will be about $4,000.

The building at 71 Pequot avenue, recently destroyed by fire, which was occupied by the Pequot Steam Laundry, Inc., John H. Touchette, president, will be replaced by a modern semi-fireproof structure, plans for which are now being prepared. The building will be 90x90 feet, one story high. There will be steel girders and supports, frame exterior, with all partitions of Sheetrock. A slag roof and modern sprinkler system will be added fire-resisting features of the building. Work will be started at once, and it is hoped to have the plant running in about two months. E. Frank Morgan, former mayor, 255 Williams street, is treasurer of the company.

Bids are being received by Charles A. Smith, 570 Main street, for a dwelling on Glenwood avenue. The house will be 26x28 feet, of frame construction. It will contain six rooms, with steam heat, tile baths, fireplace, sun porch and all conveniences. It is planned to start work shortly.

Plans are being prepared by H. R. Douglas & Son, Barrows building, State street, for a three-story brick building at the corner of Green and Golden streets for H. D. Barrows. The proposed building will be of brick construction, designed for business purposes and will be erected at an estimated cost of $40,000.

Applications for Building Permits

Niantic

Several houses are being started at the Riverside Beach development on the Niantic River. Walter Chapman has a six-room cottage on Third avenue, inclosed. Ground has been broken for a semi-bungalow for LeRoy N. Darrow on Fourth avenue, and a foundation is being completed for a bungalow on Fourth avenue for William Gurney, of the Gurney Sign Co. Mr. Swiney, of the Niantic Lumber Co., Niantic, has work well under way for a semi-bungalow on Third avenue.

A frame cottage has been started for Harvey Finley on Third avenue, Riverside Beach at Mago, Waterford, on land purchased from the Titus Land Co., Goldsmith building. The house will be 26x30 feet, arranged for six rooms. It will be constructed for use during the entire year and will have hot air heat and other improvements. Rev. Mr. Todd, of Southbridge, Conn., has also started a cottage on Third avenue.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

There were 22 sales of real estate in Norwich during the past week as compared to 12 sales for the corresponding week in 1923. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $47,100 and $15,900.

In New London during the past week there were 12 sales of real estate as compared to 10 sales for the same week a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $35,182 and $18,500.

The Building Situation

The record of building permits issued in the larger towns of Connecticut during the week shows a total of 301 permits granted for buildings costing $4,720,670, comparing with 282 in the like week of the previous year, for buildings costing $663,304, and 226 in the same week of the year 1922, the buildings costing $926,174.

A department of labor survey of 46 cities shows the average wage paid to both skilled and unskilled workers in the building trades to be substantially over the wages paid a year ago. Building laborers are found to be receiving wages averaging 134 per cent above 1913, as against an average of 131 per cent over 1913 last year. Based on the 1912 level the other classes of building laborers receive wages showing the following increases: Plasterers, 1924, 117 per cent, 1923, 92 per cent; carpenters, 1924, 116 per cent, 1923, 96 per cent; bricklayers, 1924, 103 per cent, 1923, 87 per cent.

A RELIABLE COUGH REMEDY

Why experiment with unknown remedies for that cough or cold when you can secure FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR COMPOUND? It is a safe and reliable remedy for the relief of coughs, colds, hoarseness. Equally beneficial for young and old. Mrs. Anna Cornell, Bridgeton, N. J., states: "I bought FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR COMPOUND for my cold and find it great." Insist upon the genuine. Refuse substitutes. Lee & Osgood Co.

What BEECHAM'S PILLS are good for Indigestion, Biliousness, Constipation, result from errors of diet and careless, irregular habits of elimination. Sick Headache, Nervousness, Depression, Insomnia, Bad Complexion, are often traceable to the same causes. For prompt relief, take Beecham's Pills. They are simply the concentrated corrective elements of natural medicinal herbs. They begin to act, full strength, as soon as they are swallowed. Beecham's Pills—tasteless, effective—have been used for years to make digestion vigorous and keep the body internally clean—the real foundation of good health.

At All Druggists: 40 Pills—25c 90 Pills—50c

Most ill health is due to constipation. Beecham's Pills give prompt relief and tone up the whole system. They are purely vegetable. Act gently but efficiently.

AUCTIONS

WITTER BROS Auctioneers
Office
No. 42 Main Street, Danielson, Ct.
60—HEAD OF CATTLE—60
At Auction
Absolute dispersal sale of the Wood's Hill Farm Cattle on WEDNESDAY, OCT. 22, 1924
At 10 O'Clock A. M.
At the farm located in the south end of the Town of Pomfret, Conn., about 4 miles west of Danielson, Conn., and about 4 miles north of Brooklyn Village, via Church St.

As described, twenty-five head of thrifty young cows consisting of strictly new milkers and forward springers, 10 fancy pure bred registered Holstein heifers ranging from one to two years of age, partly bred. 15 exceptionally high grade heifers ranging from one to two years of age, bred and unbred. 10 fat veal calves.

The pure-bred two-year-old Holstein herd bull will also be sold.

This auction will complete the dispersal of Mr. Kimball's mammouth herd of cattle of which 60 head were sold at his sale on Sept. 9, 1924. The present lot of 60 cows and heifers will inclure high grade Guernseys, Jerseys, Ayrshires and Holsteins. Among the pure bred Holstein heifers you may fine a future state champion. We sold one bred by Mr. Kimball at the Sayles Farm dispersal at Mechanicsville, Conn., on July 12, 1923, for $500.

During the day a variety of feathered animals will be sold including ducks and geese.

Terms of sale—CASH.

If stormy next fair day.

Lunch available.

GEO. H. KIMBALL, Owner.

REAL ESTATE

At 12 o'clock noon the real estate belonging to the estate of the late Albert Hopkins will be sold, consisting of a story and a half cottage house and a small barn, together with one acre (more or less) of land. This property is situated in the northern part of the town of Brooklyn, about 2 miles west of the Wood's Hill farm and located on the road leading from Brooklyn to Pomfret Landing, Conn.

Terms—CASH.

Inspect this before day of sale.

GEO. H. KIMBALL,
Administrator of Estate of Albert Hopkins. oct21d.

Charles J. McSheffery of Dorchester, Mass., is spending a few days at the home of his parents at 42 South A street.

Although Hallowe'en is two weeks away, someone was evidently mistaken in the date, as a number of pranks were played Saturday night on Norwich avenue, which might have resulted in an accident. A large sign of a local automobile dealer was removed from its prominent position on Bank and placed in the middle of the road, and a huge boulder which weighed about 150 pounds was rolled to the middle of the sidewalk. This must have been quite a task, as it must take more than one man to move the boulder. One of the lower rails of the state road fence was also removed.

A very pleasant lawn party under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor society of the Taftville Congregational church was held on the grounds of the parsonage on Saturday afternoon. NEW TRAFFIC ORDINANCES ARE REFERRED BACK TO COMMITTEE

After a public hearing during which suggestions were offered regarding changes, mostly of a minor nature, in several sections of the proposed traffic ordinances, the court of common council at a special meeting in the council chamber Monday evening referred the traffic ordinances back to the committee for further consideration and report to be made at the next meeting of the council. At that time they will be acted upon. As a whole the proposed new traffic rules met with the approval of those present at the hearing, the changes suggested or asked for being in regard to allowing parking sections of certain streets where under the new rules, if adopted, no parking whatever will be allowed. The main objection to these particular sections was that the no-parking rules would tend to injure business or tend to retard public utilities, such as the gas and electric department, from carrying on their work.

The meeting was called to order at 8 o'clock by Mayor Milo R. Waters and the minutes of the previous meeting were accepted without reading, according to custom. Petitions were then disposed of as follows: From E. R. Smith for an electric light on Carroll avenue; referred to police commissioners with power.

From David Gordon for an electric light between the corners of West Main and Thames street, and No. 20 Thames street; referred to police commissioners with power.

From about 100 petitioners for an appropriation to complete the sewer started and now open on North street. Petitioners claim people living there cannot get in winter's supply of fuel as street is impassable. Referred to public works committee.

Traffic Rules Hearing

The city clerk then read the return of publication of the proposed traffic ordinances and the hearing was declared open by Mayor Waters. The new ordinances were taken up section by section so that any one present could offer changes or suggestions for the particular sections.

C. V. Pendleton offered suggestions regarding minor changes in the wording of sections 3 and sections 6 to avoid confusion that might result in overtaking and passing other machines and drawing up to the curbing.

Among the principal changes suggested or asked for were the following:

Section 8—The operator or owner of a vehicle shall not allow his vehicle to stand or stop within the intersection of any streets . . . .

Charles W. Taggart, superintendent of the gas and electric department, said he thought provisions should be made for public utilities vehicles or telephone company vehicles so that they could park there for the purpose of carrying on necessary work.

Section 18—The operator of a vehicle shall not turn the same around in Main street between Burnham square and Washington square except around the traffic beacons near the intersections of Shetucket and Cliff streets with Main street. . . . .

C. V. Pendleton said that this would mean that a machine coming east on Main street and intending to go up Franklin street would have to go to the Cliff street beacon to make the turn on Main street. He suggested that the wording be changed so that machines could either make the turn at either the beacon near Ferry or the beacon near Cliff street.

Alderman Patrick F. Sweeney said that drivers will be allowed to turn around the safety zone on Franklin square.

Sec. 19.—No person shall park any vehicle on the northerly side of Main street from the west line of the U. S. postoffice property to a point on said street, 100 feet westerly, thereof. . . . . .

Rudolph Henschel said that if that section goes into effect it will disfranchise him. He said it will tend to make it a proposition where he would not be able to keep a tenant who owns a machine because he (the tenant) couldn't park his machine in front of his own home.

C. V. Pendleton said the busses stay there too long. One bus, he said, stayed there four hours Saturday.

This section would be injurious to our business, said Mr. Henschel. He said he didn't think that part of the section was just.

Mayor Waters said there was room for parking machines on the other side of the street.

We can't allow parking there, said Alderman Sweeney, if we reserve that space for the busses.

Sec. 21.—No person shall park any vehicle on the northerly side of Main street from Cliff street to Franklin street . . . . .

Frank G. Aubrey said he was present as representing the Mohican company. He said this rule would work to the detriment of their business. You can't buy groceries in five or even twenty minutes, he said. He said he thought that anything less than a 30-minute parking period would be injurious to the Mohican company.

Couldn't anyone park on the other side of the street and trade? asked Mayor Waters.

Sec. 24—No person shall park any vehicle on the southerly side of Main street from Ferry street to Rose place or on said side of Main street from a point to range with the easterly line of the Shannon building to Shetucket street.

Dr. James J. Donohue said that if the automobiles are given 10 or 15 minutes to park in those sections it would be better than to rule them out entirely. He said it would be better for the people in machines and for the business man in general.

James Mara said he thought there should be at least ten minutes parking allowed. Otherwise it will be detrimental to business.

It is quite congested there, said Mayor Waters.

Yes, but it is quite a wide street, said Mr. Mara.

I will have to differ with you, said the mayor. There is not much room between the sidewalk and the trolley tracks.

Protest Over Willow Street.

Sec. 35—No person shall park any vehicle on either side of Willow street.

C. V. Pendleton said this street is not narrow. There is no trolley running through it. It is 27 feet, he said. Mr. Pendleton said the no parking on either side would be a hardship for his business, and that it would be only fair to allow parking on one side.

James P. Sheridan said he thought there was plenty of room to allow parking on one side all the way. It would be no hindrance to traffic whatever, he said.

Sec. 40—No person shall park any vehicle on the southerly side of Water street for a longer period than 40 minutes and no person shall park any vehicle on the northerly side of Water street.

Attorney Charles L. Stewart said he had been asked to appear in behalf of J. M. Young & Sons, grocers. Their main objection as expressed by Mr. Stewart, is that they could not park their delivery trucks in front of their store while they were waiting to be loaded. Mr. Stewart said that it seemed to him that some parking should be allowed there.

Mayor Waters said there is nothing to prevent the trucks from loading or unloading in front of the store.

Mr. Stewart said that the unloading and loading might require a half hour. That is the only place they have to load and unload, he added.

Mr. Taggart said the gas and electric department faced a similar condition. We would have to carry our meters across the street to load them, he said.

Mayor Waters called attention to the fact that parking would be allowed on the other side of the street.

Sec. 41—No person shall park any vehicle on either side of Market street between Main and Water streets.

Mr. Stewart, again representing J. M. Young & Sons, said he couldn't see any serious objection to allowing parking on the north side of the street as it is sufficiently wide to allow parking on one side. Mr. Stewart said that in the very nature of things Market street must become a one way street.

James P. Sheridan called attention to the fact that Market street won't be a one-way street, according to the ordinances.

Mayor Waters said there is nothing to prevent an automobile from coming east on Water street, going up Market street and going west on Main street.

J. H. Carney expressed the opinion that some plan should be arranged so that traffic ordinances could be drawn up and put into effect without the necessity of a public hearing.

Mayor Waters said that would have to be done through an amendment to the charter.

Suggests Plain Street Signs.

Mr. Sheridan suggested that the city plainly mark the streets with conspicuous signs to aid auto drivers from other cities and towns while passing through Norwich.

Mayor Waters said this was a very good suggestion.

The council then took a short recess and on reconvening Alderman Sweeney moved the proposed ordinances be referred back to committee and that a report be made at the next regular meeting. The motion was carried and the council immediately adjourned, having been in session an hour and fifteen minutes.

About 60 persons attended the hearing.

Showing The Sea Hawk

The Sea Hawk, Frank Lloyd's picture version of Sabatini's epic, released by First National and now showing at the Palace theatre was viewed Monday evening by a capacity house, and as at other showings, gripped and held the audience from the opening scene until the close.

As a brilliant spectacle on the silver sheet The Sea Hawk has no superior, the story is one of exceptional nature and the finely selected cast serves to bring out the full beauty and power of the story.

Milton Sills, who plays the part of Sir Oliver Tressilian, an English knight and later Sakr-el-Bahr, idol of Algerian corsairs, could have but few equals in this part, while Enid Bennett as Rosamund, a demure maid torn between her love for Sir Oliver and love for guardian, is a most happy selection for the leading role.

To transfer the story of Sabatini to the screen was a big task and Mr. Lloyd has done this in a manner that cannot fail to grip everyone, while those who have had in charge the historical settings have won for themselves the praise they deserve for their great undertaking.

AUDIENCE ENTHUSIASTIC AT COLLEGE COURSE CONCERT

An audience that filled the state armory at New London, to capacity Monday evening and was moved to unbounded enthusiasm in its applause for Elly Ney, pianiste, and the New York Philharmonic orchestra greeted the opening number of the Connecticut college course.

The orchestra of 103 members was conducted by Willem Van Hoogstraten and the appearance of the famous pianiste and the orchestra on the same programme was a privilege that the audience fully recognized as was indicated by the compelling applause that they gave for more numbers than the assigned programme which was as follows:

ARRESTS ARE MADE AT TWO DANCE HALLS

State policemen from the Groton barracks Friday and Saturday night visited two dance halls secluded in wooded sections of Preston and North Stonington and made three arrests, it became known Monday.

Sergt. Clifford N. Gorgas, led the detail composed of State Policemen Henry J. Albright and Fred T. Caron. Saturday night at midnight they approached the White Park dance hall in Preston and awaited the finish of the last dance.

When the crowded hall began to empty and the attendants scattered a volley of shots broke out in the midst and the state policemen made a rush for the crowd which quickly dispersed.

John H. Perkins, who gave his address as Escheag, R. I., was the only man who did not make good his escape. He was captured shortly after he is alleged to have thrown down a revolver and fled and was placed under arrest on charges of carrying and discharging firearms.

The revolver he is alleged to have used was found with several of its cartridges discharged and another similar weapon was found nearby loaded but not fired. The owner of that pistol escaped. Perkins was held for a hearing Wednesday before Justice of the Peace Main in North Stonington. A visit the previous night to the Dew Drop Inn dance hall in North Stonington netted two prisoners. They were Leo Crickett and Henry Ouilett, both of Jewett City. They were taken in a brawl outside the hall and according to police bore evidence of having been drinking. They were arraigned before Justice of the Peace Main in North Stonington Saturday charged with breach of peace and each were fined $5 and costs. The complaint in this case was lodged by Henry Eggleston, proprietor of the inn.

RECEPTION COMMITTEE FOR CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR

The republican rally will be held at the town hall at 8 o'clock this (Tuesday) evening, and the addresses of the evening will be made by Col. Hiram Bingham, the republican nominee for governor of this state, and U. S. Senator Bert M. Fernald of Maine. Preceding the rally a public reception will be given the distinguished guests at the Wauregan hotel.

The reception committee will consist of Hon. H. H. Gallup, Hon. Nelson J. Ayling, Hon. Herbert M. Lerou, Albert J. Bailey, Lee Roy Robbins, George G. Engler, Charles W. Cassidy, Mrs. Frank A. Mitchell, Mrs. William A. Norton, Mrs. H. H. Gallup, Mrs. Willis Austin, Miss Louise Howe, Mrs. Frank J. Royce, Mrs. L. O. Smith, Mrs. Arthur H. Lathrop, Mrs. Helen Zabriskie, Mrs. H. M. Lerou, and Mrs. Joseph A. Higgins. The people of Norwich and surrounding towns are cordially invited to attend. The reception will be hel dfrom 7.30 to 8 p. m. The Italian band will play at the Wauregan hotel during the reception and immediately after the reception they will march to the town hall where they will render a short program, and play during the rally.

The committee is asking to attend both the reception and rally on prompt time.

WOMAN DRIVER UNDER BONDS FOR MANSLAUGHTER

Charged with manslaughter as the result of the fatal injury to Tony Vera, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Vera of Maple street, Mystic, Mrs. Alberta Noyes of Willow street, Mystic, was arraigned Saturday afternoon before Judge William A. Wilcox in Stonington court.

Pending the verdict of Coroner J. J. Desmond of Norwich, Judge Wilcox continued the case until Oct. 27, and released Mrs. Noyes under a $2,500 bond. The Vera boy was crushed beneath the Noyes car Friday afternoon so severely that his death occurred in New London within a few hours after it happened. He was being brought to the Lawrence and Memorial Associated hospital in the Westerly ambulance.

Mrs. Noyes herself reported the accident at the Groton state police barracks.

Employed Boys' Brotherhood Supper

Between 35 and 40 are expected to attend the first annual meeting and supper of the employed boys' brotherhood this (Monday) evening at 6 o'clock at the Y. M. C. A. building. The election of officers will be held and plans made for the season.

It is hoped to be able to make arrangements for the brotherhood boys to attend the Yale-Brown football game in New Haven next Saturday.

CONSTIPATION OVERCOME

The use of FOLEY CATHARTIC TABLETS will bring speedy relief from constipation if taken promptly. They are purely vegetable and act on the liver. Mr. John D. McComb, Lucas Co. OVER 60 YEARS OF SUCCESS

CHARLOTTE PERKINS GILMAN OPENS LECTURE COURSE

Mrs. Charlotte Perkins Gilman who has for some years been favorably known as a lecturer in many cities of the United States, was heard Monday evening in the first of the course of three lectures to be given under the auspices of the Norwich College club.

Slater Hall Annex was filled by a representative audience who gave the closest attention to Mrs. Gilman's exposition of "Our Brains and What Ails Them," and stayed on to ask questions and listen to her answers.

The lecturer analyzed the work of the brain as receiving and retaining impressions, correlating them, i. e. exercising the reasoning power and finally discharging them into action.

This last function is most important, for not what men think but what they do counts and just here she finds the great failure of the human brain. It is not used enough and its energy is not completed in action.

While Mrs. Gilman whimsically called the brain the greatest obstacle to human progress, she exalted it in the highest degree as the latest and noblest possession of the human race.

Great emphasis was laid on the brain as a social organ, useful only in its relation to humanity as a whole. The greatest hindrances in the way of its successful use are its inherited mass of prejudices and outworn ideas, its failure to connect its processes, causing a bewildering combination of folly and wisdom in all human beings, and the wide gulf between knowledge and action.

Mrs. Gilman analyzed the influences of home training, education, social contacts and religion upon the youthful mind, and with apt anecdote, clever sparkles of humor and telling bits of original verse drove home her points to the amused conviction of her hearers.

She deprecated excessive emphasis on memory and urged exercise of the imagination especially in social and community life.

The speaker was introduced by Miss Nancy True, president of the college club.

PRESTON MAN FINED FOR SUNDAY HUNTING

Benjamin Eliaf of Preston, was found guilty of Sunday hunting and having a deer in his possession, before Justice of the Peace Appleton Main in Preston Saturday morning. On the first count he was fined $10 and costs totalling $23.16 and on the second count he was given jail sentence of 30 days, which was suspended. Forfeiture of his hunting license for one year also comes as a result of the finding.

Eliaf was arrested in the Preston woods last Sunday by Deputy Game Wardens Bliven of Waterford and Watson of Sprague, who had been on the man's trail for some time. The deer the hunter had in his possession had been stabbed with a knife, and, according to the deputies, was freshly killed. Following his arrest he was released under a $200 bond pending hearing Saturday.

At the hearing Robert B. Chappell of New London, county fish and game warden, prosecuted the case. Eliaf introduced as character witnesses A. Perris and Fred Benjamin. He pleaded guilty to hunting on Sunday and not guilty to the second count, involving the possession of the dead deer. Justice Maine, however, found him guilty and warned him that if he was caught in another violation his jail sentence would ride, together with whatever penalty the charge warrants.

RESERVES DECISION IN COMMON PLEAS COURT

Judge C. B. Waller took the papers and reserved decision after hearing two cases in the common pleas court at New London Monday morning.

George H. Sherman of New London sued the Spicer Coal and Ice company of Groton for $2,000 damages for injuries he received when a coal carrier emptied its contents on him at the Spicer company's Groton dock about a year ago. He was the captain of a coal barge at the time.

Shraff's Furniture company of New London sues Morris Pouzzner of that city for $145 for furniture, which he alleges the defendant received about two years ago but has not paid for.

THREE ARRESTED FOR THEFTS FROM BLEACHERY

Two men who are employed at the United States Finishing Co. and one who is not were arrested Monday morning for theft of cloth from that plant. All are out under $200 bonds for appearance in the city court.

Cloth measuring 37 1-2 yards, valued at $8.12, was found at the home of Ralph Dimicco, 11 Lake street, an employe in the engine room Ernest Dandria, a dye house employe, living upstairs in the same house as Dimicco, and cloth measuring 27 3-4 yards, valued at $5.73, was found in his place. In the home of Vergilio Dimicco at 426 Main street 26 1-2 yards of cloth valued at $6.19, was found. He is a brother of Ralph, but does not work at the bleachery. All three men were arrested.

Search of the premises was conducted by Officer D. O'Neil, Raymond E. Sherman of the Finishing Co., and Capt. John Nowell of the Watts detective agency, Boston, who scored his fourth successful detection of thefts from the bleachery in the last year.

It is reported that shortage in cloth has greatly decreased at the bleachery since Capt Nowell began his work. Piece marks and cut marks on the cloth recovered Monday showed that some had come from the mill in the last two or three weeks, while other pieces date1 farther back.

JAIL SENTENCE AND FINE IN LIQUOR CASE

Pleading guilty to a charge of actual sale of liquor, Nicholas Lombarella, 24, of No. 163 Franklin street, was fined $200 and costs and given a sentence of 10 days in jail by Judge Arthur F. Libby in the city court on Monday morning. He paid his fine which amounted to $210 and was taken to jail to serve his sentence. Lombarella conducts a grocery store on Franklin street and was arrested Saturday night by the local police. A pint bottle containing liquor and two glasses of liquor were seized by the police.

One woman paid a fine of $5 and costs, amounting in all to $14.50 for intoxication and two men were fined on intoxication charges. Edmund Robertson, white, and Sarah Dorous, colored, were fined for intoxication and creating a disturbance at Robertson's home on West Main street, where they were arrested about 3 o'clock Monday morning. The fines in each case were $5 flat. The woman paid and the man made arrangements to pay his bill.

Officers Patrick Shahan and Charles Perry made the arrests after they heard cries of "Police, Police!" coming from Robertson's house in the old Shea building, West Main street. They found both the accused intoxicated. The trouble evidently started over $7.45 which Robertson accused the Dorous woman of stealing from him. Both pleaded not guilty to the charges against them. The Dorous woman claimed she was at Robertson's house to cook for him.

MOOSEHEART LEGION EVENING OF CARDS

An evening of whist and pinochle was conducted Friday at the Buckingham Memorial by the Women of Mooseheart Legion, having a large attendance.

MISSING WOMAN FOUND AT MATUNUCK BEACH

Miss Josephine Murphy of this city, who has been a patient at the Norwich state hospital from which she has been missing since last Monday, was found Sunday morning at Matunuck Beach, R. I., clad in a bathing costume, over which she was wearing a long black cape. She was carrying an armful of groceries and she told Patrolman W. H. Gilman of Wakefield that she had gained entrance to a nearby cottage by prying open a window. It is supposed she must have found the bathing suit in the cottage and changed her clothes, but the officer did not succeed in finding the place where she said she had spent the night.

The Norwich police were notified and attendants from the state hospital took Miss Murphy back there.

Miss Murphy disappeared from the hospital grounds while she was walking with her sister who was visiting her. Nothing had been heard of her except a report that two farmers near Westerly had seen her the day after she disappeared.

It is said that doctors swear by their own medicine—yet they profit by their own advice.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germ that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

NOTABLES ARRIVE ON THE WHITE STAR LINER OLYMPIC

New York, Oct. 21.—A United States revenue cutter bearing several representatives of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon met the White Star liner Olympic at Quarantine today and escorted ashore Miss Ailsa Mellon, daughter of the secretary.

The Misses Craigrie Mackay and Alice Sylvester of Washington, D. C., disembarked with Miss Mellon. She has remained abroad when he father, who accompanied there, returned home several weeks ago.

Also passengers on the Olympic were the Princess Xenia Shalikoff-Kalkoff of Russia, who will visit Miss Theresa Tyler at Philadelphia, and Madame Ytbe, cousin of General Wrangle of the former Russian white army and former baroness.

Madame Ytbe, granddaughter of George V. N. Lathrop, former U. S. minister to Russia, now conducts a millinery establishment in Paris for the employment of 150 refugees of the Russian nobility, she said. She will visit Mrs. Alexander Biddle at Philadelphia.

Brigadier General Cornelius Vanderbilt, his wife and daughter Grace also returned from abroad today. The yacht Atlantic in which he had sailed to the Mediterranean by way of Bermuda was left abroad for the season.

PROF. MERRIAM OPPOSED TO OBLIGATORY VOTING

Chicago, Oct. 21—Professor Charles E. Merriam, head of the department of political science at the University of Chicago expressed disagreement with the recent suggestion of former Judge K. M. Landis that non-voters should be subjected to jail sentences.

He pointed out that a survey of the mayoralty elections of 1912 by the university indicated that Landis had not cast his ballot.

"I cannot agree with my friend, Judge Landis, that obligatory voting is desirable," Prof. Merriam said.

He advocated instead, education to stimulate the citizens interest in government.

Vienna Bank Insolvent.

Vienna, Oct. 21.—The private bank of Brevillier and company, one of the oldest and best known firms of Vienna, founded in 1802, was declared insolvent today. The liabilities were estimated at $500,000. The assets are said to be considerable but are not realizable at present. Franc speculation by clients was declared to be responsible for the failure.

OPENING OF GOVERNMENT'S OIL SUIT IN LOS ANGELES

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 21—The opening session of the government's suit against hte Pan-American Petroleum and Transport Company to cancel the Elk Hills naval reserve oil leases granted the E. L. Doheny interests crowded Federal Judge J. McCormack's court here today, outnumbering those attending the sensational criminal trials held in Los Angeles in the past several months.

The government's amended bill of complaint charges conspiracy between Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, and E. L. Doheny involving the payment of $100,000 by Doheny to Fall, which was followed by granting of oil leases in the naval reserve to the Doheny interests, whose value and possible profits have been estimated by Doheny at $100,000,000. Owen J. Roberts stated the government's case briefly.

The defendant welcomed the change of venue and expressed great satisfaction that the case was out of the senate and before a federal tribunal, according to Frank J. Hogan, chief defense counsel.

Hogan declared that "we purpose to expose an almost inconceivable story of the deliberate misrepresentation of known, or of easily ascertainable facts and the unblushing distortion of the truth which have made as unlike as day and night the case heretofore presented to the public and the case now to be submitted to this court"

VIEWS OF SOCIALIST-LABOR PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATE

New York, Oct. 21.—Senator La Follette would be powerless to enforce the demands he is making even if leected president, and stands for a continuation of the capitalistic system in essence, Frank T. Johns, socialist-labor presidential candidate, told an audience at Cooper Union tonight.

"The working class will be as little able to buy back the full product of its toil as at present," Mr. Johns said, "and Mr. La Follette would have to invent some way of connecting with the planet Mars in order to dispose of the surplus product. To dispose of it on earth is an impossibility. The La Follette bubble, a result of middle class discontent, is bound to burst when the middle class capitalist becomes extinct as a class, and this will come about not as a result of socialist-labor party pressure upon that class but because of the pressure brought to bear by top-capitalist competition in the markets, due to superior methods of production and pressure from below by the working class clamoring for higher wages and better working conditions."

The working class of the country, he said, must place the blame for its troubles upon its failure to learn intelligent use of the ballot. He described a political campaign as "the civilized method of settling social disputes in a peaceful manner."

ACTRESS PARTICIPATING IN BRITISH ELECTION CONTEST

London, Oct. 21.—Lady Dianna Duff Cooper, actress, is now actively participating in the election contest and has a method all her own in trying to induce the women electors of Oldham to vote for her husband, Alfred Duff Cooper, D. S. O., conservative candidate. Lady Dianna hastened home from the United States in order to assist her husband in his campaign.

Instead of making set speeches, Lady Diana drives around in her car and seizes opportunities to address any gathering of girls or women she happens to see. For instance, a group of women, the majority of whom may be heading for the labor exchange to draw unemployment insurance, is observed by her.

She steps into their midst and commiserates them on their hard lot. Naturally she gains their undivided attention and interest. When she has the ground prepared she introduces the subject of her husband running for Oldham and next she produces her husband's photograph. Along with the Alfred Duff Cooper photograph is a manifesto that I calculated to point the voter in the right direction from the standpoint of the candidate thus pictured.

PRINCE OF WALES SUFFERS FROM CHILL IN MONTREAL

Hamilton, Mass., Oct. 21—The Prince of Wales was confined to his room in Montreal today by a chill and will not be able to come here until Thursday, Mr. and Mrs. Bayard Tuckerman, Jr., who are to be his hosts, were notified tonight. It was said the prince's condition was expected to improve over night.

The prince was to have left Montreal at midnight tonight, arriving here tomorrow, and several social events and a drag hunt were planned. The tea at the Tuckerman home, at which the prince was to meet the hunting set of the Myopia Hunt Club and this neighborhood, together with friends of the Tuckermans in Boston will be held as scheduled.

The change in plans will shorten the visit here of the prince and his party, because he is to sail on the Olympic from New York at 1 a. m., Saturday, but it may result in adding as a definite detail in his program a real fox hunt with the Myopia pack early Friday morning, that he had left open in the programs previously arranged.

SHOT HIMSELF AS HE WAS ABOUT TO BE ARRESTED

Meredith, N. H., Oct. 21—John C. Needham, formerly superintendent of streets at Lawrence, Mass., shot and killed himself at a farm here today when officers appeared to arrest him on a charge of passing a worthless check. The check involved was for $35. Needham also had been a member of the board of aldermen at Tewrence

A FLOOD OF ORATORY IN BRITISH ELECTION CAMPAIGN

London, Oct. 21—(By the A. P.)—The political campaign in settling itself down to a rather tedious process of discrediting and belittling the "opposing party." This is due to the absence of any great question of principle to stir the mind of the voters. There is, nevertheless, an overwhelming flood of oratory.

Marquis Curzon entered the field for the first time today with a speech in the city of London. As natural to a former foreign minister, Lord Curzon devoted his speech to denouncing the foreign policies of the labor government, especially the Russian treaty, which he characterized as "astonishing," and respecting which he said: "The whole annals of our country contain nothing more humiliating or more disgraceful than this treaty."

Premier MacDonald's health has improved and he is again touring the country in an active campaign. There has been some rowdyism at Bristol, Norwich and other places, leading to the arrest of many disturbers under a special act of parliament passed in 1908, when suffragist disturbances were rampant. This is the first time that act has been invoked since that period.

FORMER ACTRESS WINS DECREE OF DIVORCE

Bridgeport, Oct 21—Katherine Lasalle Carpenter, former stage star, was granted a decree of divorce in superior court today from Samuel E. Carpenter, of Ridgefield. She charged intolerable cruelty and was granted absolute custody of her six year old daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter signed a stipulation, presented in court, wherein it was agreed that she was not to be paid alimony, as she had first petitioned, nor receive maintenance for the upbringing of her daughter.

Reviewing the evidence purporting to show "mental cruelty", Judge L. F. Marvin trial judge, said:

"While it didn't create in her any physical disability which the doctor could observe, I doubt not it did have some effect on her, and was conduct which was calculated to endanger her health, physical and mental, and it is for that reason that I am disposed to give to the plaintiff's evidence a greater bearing than it perhaps normally would have."

DAWES IS CAMPAIGNING THROUGHOUT PENNSYLVANIA

Philadelphia, Oct. 21.—The story of the establishment of the federal budget system under President Harding and a republican administration, was told by Charles G. Dawes, republican candidate for vice president and first budget director, in an address at the Academy of Music here tonight, opening his seven-day eastern speaking campaign.

The address was the first extended discussion of the budget by Mr. Dawes during the campaign. He combined with it continuation of his attack on the La Follette independent candidacy, directing his fire particularly at the La Follette platform declaration for congressional veto of supreme court decisions.

Traveling across Pennsylvania today, Mr. Dawes was greeted by several hundred persons at Altoona and Harrisburg, where stops were made to change engines. He gave a brief informal talk at Altoona, stressing what he conceived to be dangers to American governmental institutions in the La Follette independent movement.

Nothing Amazing in "Slush" Fund Probe

James J. Gerard Admits That Democratic Committee Will Spend $1,500,000 if They Get It.

Washington, Oct. 21.—With a total of $548,440 in contributions in hand to date the democratic national committee expects to continue the present campaign on a maximum outlay of $769,000, the senate investigating committee was told today by Clem L. Shaver, chairman, and James W. Gerard, treasurer.

Expenses thus far have aggregated $597,119, according to a statement put into the record by Mr. Gerard. Of this sum $461,801, has been paid, the statement shows. There is an existing deficit of approximately $48,000 on the basis of this showing and Chairman Shaver said he anticipated a deficit at the end of the campaign unless contributions came in more rapidly.

At previous hearing officials of the republican national committee testified to expenditures of $1,700,000 with an estimated maximum by election day of $2,000,000. John M. Nelson, manager of the LaFollette independent organization, told of collections aggregating $190,000; expenditures of $155,000 and said he expected to wind up the campaign on a total cost of $250,000.

The examination of Mr. Shaver and Mr. Gerard consumed less than an hour and as no other witnesses were available the inquiry was adjourned until late tomorrow when the LaFollette charges of a republican "slush" fund will be investigated further.

Only three of the five members were present today, Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, chairman, and Senators Caraway, Arkansas, and Bayard, Delaware, democrats. The absentees were Senators Jones, republican, Washington, and Shipstead, farmer-labor, Minnesota.

When Mr. Gerard placed the maximum budget at $750,000, Chairman Borah asked him about a recent statement issued by the democratic national committee that as the outside $1,500,000 would be raised.

"I am not in charge of the conduct of the campaign," Mr. Gerard said, adding that he assumed that the committee would spend $1,500,000 "if they gave it to us."

Both the former ambassador to Germany and Mr. Shaver said they knew of no organizations except the national committee that were undertaking to raise any substantial sums for the democratic campaign. Mr. Gerard said there were organizations like the young men's democratic clubs nad women's organizations, but that the national committee had contributed to them.

Responding to inquiries as to funds raised by state committees, the national treasurer said he had no specific knowledge but assumed they were not raising any very large amounts since the national organization had been called upon by them for aid in a number of states. These contributions were placed at an aggregate of $29,000 the witness said.

Mr. Gerard presented to the committee a detailed list of contributors to the democratic fund, which was made public yesterday in New York. Chairman Borah questioned him as to the identity of the larger of the contributors, including Thomas La Chadbourne, a New York banker, who gave $25,000; John D. Ryan, president of the Anaconda Copper company, who contributed $5,000; Francis P. Garvan, former alien property custodian, who donated $10,000 and a number of others. These included Bernard M. Baruch, $25,000; Henry Morgenthau, former ambassador to Turkey, $21,000; Frank L. Polk, former under-secretary of state, $5,000; Chairman Shaver, $10,000; Mr. Gerard, $13,000; and Cleveland H. Dodge of New York, $5,000.

Replying to questions by Frank P. Walsh of Kansas City, personal counsel for Senator LaFollette, Mr. Gerard said he knew of no organizations of bankers or business men or others who might be beneficiaries of a tariff law who were collecting funds for the support of the Davis-Bryan ticket.

Chairman Shaver was questioned only briefly. He estimated that the deficit at the end of the campaign might total $150,000 nad said there were no plans for underwriting it.

Responding to Chairman Borah, he said he had never heard of any plans "for the purchase of newspapers in Tennesee for the benefit of the democratic campaign."

"I wish somebody would buy the Banner in Tennessee," interrupted Senator Caraway, "and turn it over to your men. It is democratic all the time except at election time."

"In that case you would have to spend more than $750,000," Chairman Borah observed with a smile.

MOTHER MAKES PLEA FOR SEARCH FOR MISSING SON

Bridgeport, Oct. 21.—A plea to aid in the search for Joseph Russell Hubbell, aged 23, was made by his mother, Mrs. Frances Hubbell Walther, of 631 State street, who claims that her son left this city with $700 in cash and a check from the government for $100 in his pocket, last Thursday morning at 1 o'clock.

Hubbell, who has been receiving vocational training under the U. S. Veterans' bureau here, is said to be slightly affected mentally because of injuries he sustained while he was a sailor in the transport service.

"I am sure that he has been robbed and killed by some gamblers who knew he had a lot of money with him," said Mrs. Walther tonight.

"He had secretly been married and I never knew about it until after he was gone. His wife then came to me and asked about him. That is how I learned about his marriage."

Traction System in Hub Tied Up 2 Hours

Surface, Tunnel, Subway and Elevated Halted by Clogging of Water Supply to Power Plant.

Boston, Oct. 21—The traction system of this city—surface, tunnel, subway and elevated—failed for nearly two hours this morning when traffic normally is at its height, and half a million persons were forced to walk or wait, to beg rides from motorists or to pile on congested ferries and suburban rail systems. It was the most extensive tie-up in the city's history probably, those during street car strikes having been discounted enough to provide some measure of substitute service. It affected an area that included points in greater Boston 20 miles apart. It delayed business, created a telephone peak that almost swamped that service and created unusual scenes with thousands of persons trudging along main arteries on the way to work.

The cause was the clogging of the water supply to the boilers of the main power plant at South Boston of the Boston elevated railway, which operates all traction lines in the city It was the first steam failure in the company's recent history, it as said. With three auxiliary power plants in various sections of the city, the company could not get them into commission for the emergency to render any material aid for two hours, although spasmodically a tunnel train moved a little, a surface car was started only to stop again, and elevated trains were brought to a halt between stations.

Scenes of semi-hysteria were reported from the Dorchester tunnel where women in cars crowded with rush hour traffic, became excited. Windows were smashed in the haste to gain ventilation. Bells were jangled by youngsters, girls screamed and efforts were made to get out and walk. Somewhat similar conditions were reported in the Cambridge and Park street subways, and in the East Boston and Washington street tunnels, but through it all no one was injured.

The question what happens when a city's transportation system breaks down was answered in many ways, and in places as widely separated as Stoneham and Watertown, Everett and Forest Hills, Chelsea and Arlington, Newton and South Boston. This area has a population of approximately 2,000,000 persons. It was estimated that at least 25 per cent. were involved in the tie-up, with school children, laborers, business people and office employes, factory workers and shoppers, all bound somewhere within the period affected.

At Harvard Square, the jam looked like those of big football days, but unlike those, there was no relief and the station was crowded between tracks and walls. The east Boston ferries, virtually deserted since the opening of the tunnel some years since, came into their own again, and listed under the loads, while in the bore below, the harbor hundreds were caught in crowded cars.

TESTIMONY IN RYAN TRIAL FOR MURDER OF KLANSMAN

New York, Oct. 21.—Ferdinand Downs, a constable of Southampton, Long Island, and admittedly a member of the Suffolk County Ku Klux Klan, for whose murder Patrick Ryan is on trial in Brooklyn, was shot in the back of the head, R. Robert King of the Central Islip hospital testified today.

Downs was killed while a band of men was pursuing alleged rum-runners near Eastport May 16, and Ryan was arrested immediately. Mrs. Ryan was in the car with her husband the night Downs was shot.

Ernest J. Brockett, an undertaker, testified today that Downs was in full uniform with a gold badge on his coat when he was slain. Other witnesses were not so sure, however, and described the dead man's garb as a "black suit and a "sweater-like thing with brass buttons."

A uniform coat containing three bullet holes was shown to Brockett and he identified it as that worn by Downs on the fatal night. When questioned by defense counsel as to whether the bullet holes were in when the man's body was brought in, he answered in the negative, however.

CANCER NOT CURABLE BY MEDICAL TREATMENT ALONE

Paris, Oct. 21—Legal proceedings against a medical institute which processes to cure cancer without surgery have been instituted by Justin Godart, minister of labro and health, with the view, if court action fails, to obtain new legislation for the protection of cancer victims.

The minister of health has long been interested in a possible cure for cancer and in 1920 founded the Franco - American Anti - Cancer league. His determination to prosecute one of the many so-called institutes which guarantee to cure the disease without surgery arises from discussions at the recent international congress at Strasbourg at which demonstrations were adduced to show that surgery, combined with X-ray treatment, could cure cancer.

The minister was convinced, after observing the proceedings at the Strasbourg congress, that he had no right to permit cancer sufferers in France to believe that a cure was possible by medical treatment alone.

9-YEAR-OLD GIRL KILLED BY AUTO DRIVEN BY C. G. MORRIS, DEM. NOMINEE FOR GOV.

Wallingford, Oct. 21.—Mary Kiraj, the 9 years old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Kiraj, of this place was killed near the center of the town late this afternoon by an automobile operated by Charles G. Morris, democratic candidate for governor.

Mr. Morris was alone in the car at the time of the accident. The little girl had been on an errand for her mother and was accompanied by a girl friend. The girls were forced to cross the state highway on their way home. As they stepped out into the road, Mary's companion saw the Morris car coming and called to her companion. The Kiraj girl tried to jump back and Mr. Morris tried to bring his car to a stop but it was too late to prevent the accident.

The Kiraj girl was thrown to the highway and suffered a fractured skull, dying instantly, according to Medical Examiner Dr. J. H. Buffum. Mr. Morris stopped his car immediately after the accident and gave all aid he could.

Mr Morris was held under bond, the amount of which was not given out but which was furnished by a friend in Wallingford. The date of the examination will be fixed by the coroner.

DETROIT POLICE USED TEAR GAS BOMBS TO DISPERSE MOB

Disorder Was Ascribed to Efforts by Ku Klux Klan Sympathizers to Prevent Attendance at an Address on the "Ku Klux Kraze"—Between 7,000 and 10,000 Persons Were Gathered in the Street—Lecturer Was Aldrich Blake, Former Secretary to J. C. Walton, Deposed Governor of Alabama.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 21—Hurling tear gas bombs and red pepper, police riot squads tonight dispersed a mob estimated at between 7,000 and 10,000 persons gathered in the street in front of the Arena Gardens Auditorium, where Aldrich Blake, former secretary to J. C. Walton deposed governor of Oklahoma, was scheduled to deliver an address on the "Ku Klux Kraze."

Police were called when it was reported that the mob was preventing persons from entering the auditorium. The crowd was described to police as Ku Klux Klan sympathizers.

After the mob had been driven into side streets, a number of them staged a demonstration for Charles Bowles independent candidate for mayor, police report. The only casualty reported was an unidentified man struck on the head by a tear bomb. He was stunned but not otherwise injured. Police remained on guard at the auditorium throughout the evening.

After the police assumed control of the situation, Blake delivered his address, which he characterized as a "plea" to members of the klan. He asserted that the members of the organization were being misled by their leaders. During the address a group of those in the hall arose simultaneously and noisily left the hall.

TRUCK STRUCK AUTO OF VEHICLE COMMISSIONER

Naugatuck, Oct. 21.—State Motor Vehicle Commissioner Robbins B. Stoeckel and his driver, Lawrence F. Smith, both of Hartford, escaped injury tonight when their automobile was run into by a ten-ton truck on the Waterbury road about a mile north of the borough, shortly before midnight tonight.

Robert C. Frost, of 1902 East Main street, Waterbury, was arrested by Policeman Martin Garrick and taken to the office of Dr. Walter A. Reilly. Dr. Reilly said that the man smelled of liquor but was not drunk.

Commissioner Stoeckel had been in Naugatuck on business and was en route to Hartford, via Waterbury, when the accident occurred. He said that the truck bore down upon his car, forcing his driver to pull as far over to the right of the road as it was possible to go, and even then, the crash could not be avoided.

The truck driver, the commissioner said, apparently lost complete control of his machine after the accident, crossing the road and running into the bank.

Commissioner Stoeckel pulled the man out of his seat and held him upright, he said. Frost appeared to be half asleep, the commissioner said, and he suggested that a doctor be called to determine whether or not the man was drunk. Frost was uninjured. Mr. Stoeckel's car lost both left wheels. The truck also was badly damaged.

After the police arrived, Commissioner Stoeckel continued his journey.

REICHSTAG MEMBERS WERE SURPRISED BY DISSOLUTION

Berlin, Oct. 21.—(By the A. P.)—The news that President Ebert had decided the dissolution of the reichstag came as a surprise to a great majority of the deputies who either are in Berlin or on the way here to attend the session of parliament which was to have begun tomorrow.

Political circles had hoped for a compromise which would enable the minority cabinet to continue in office, especially as the cardinal problems of Germany's foreign relations had been definitely solved through the government's acceptance of the Dawes plan.

The party organs of all shades have inaugurated the campaign for the elections, which will be held December 7 with columns of criminations and recriminations which indicate a pre-election season of violent and acrimonious politics.

In a personal statement, Chancellor Marx recapitulates the genesis of his negotiations for the creation of a coalition bloc which would be "nationally inspired" and which would gather "under one hat" all factions from socialists to nationalists.

The dissolution of the reichstag, which involves the abolishment of immunity from arrest for deputies, has been followed by the hurried departure from Berlin of a majority of the 62 communist deputies, against whom warrants of arrests have been issued on various charges, including treason and conspiracy.

TO INVESTIGATE ACCIDENT ON THE CRUISER TRENTON

Washington, Oct. 21—Three experts of the bureau of ordnance were ordered to Norfolk late today to assist in the inquiry on board the Cruiser Trenton as to the cause of the explosion yesterday which killed six and injured more than a dozen other members of the crew of that ship.

The details were made by Secretary Wilbur when officials at Norfolk reported they were unable to find the slightest clue to the cause of the catastrophe. The only theory advanced in communications to the department was that powder charges being hoisted to the guns may have caught and in some way become ignoted by friction. So far as could be learned at the department the records of the navy show no parallel accident.

The officers sent from Washington were Commanders Harvey Delano, and Garrett Schuyler and Chief Draughtsman G. A. Chadwick.

N. WARREN BROWN IS IN CRITICAL CONDITION

New Haven, Oct. 21—N. Warren Brown, district deputy of the fourth Masonic district who was taken ill after participating in the dedication of the new addition to the Masonic building in Milford last Thursday, was reported to be in a critical condition tonight. He is suffering from a stroke of apoplexy.

WORLD FLIGHT AVIATORS TO LAND AT SACRAMENTO

Medford, Ore., Oct. 21—The around-the-world fliers, who arrived here yesterday, departed southward today with Sacramento, Cal., as their next landing place. They are returning to San Diego, Calif., after having ended their flight around the world at Seattle, Sept. 28.

PLANNING PRELIMINARIES FOR SENATORIAL ELECTION

Hartford, Oct. 21.—Both of the major political parties took initial steps today toward the nomination of their candidates for United States senator to succeed the late Frank B. Brandegee, who will be voted for in the special election of December 16.

The democratic state central committee, at a meeting in New Haven decided upon Thursday, November 6 as the date for the caucuses for election of delegates to the state convention. That will be two days after the date of the presidential election. The committee left the determination of the date and place for the state convention for the nomination of the candidate to Chairman Edward M. Yeomans and Secretary A. S. Lynch. To conform to party rules and meet statutory requirements as to the filing of nominations, the convention will have to be held some time between November 20 and November 25, as November 23 falls on a Sunday, the dates are likely to be either Thursday and Friday, November 20 and 21, or Monday and Tuesday, November 24 and 25, with the odds in favor of the former.

Although the conventions will have but one duty to perform, the rules of both parties require two day affairs, as in the case of conventions for the nomination of the state tickets. The convention of each major party will have to come together at 2 p. m. on the opening day to organize and return at 10 a. m., of the second day to nominate. It is likely that the temporary chairman of each will be expected to deliver a "keynote speech", an unusual procedure after the close of the presidential and general state campaign. Whether new platforms will be adopted, in addition to those adopted at the conventions which make the tickets is problematical.

The democratic convention will be held at New Haven and, if the republicans follow the customary procedure of alternating between New Haven and Hartford, their convention will be in Hartford.

Chairman Roraback today issued a call for a meeting the republican state central committee to be held at 1.30 o'clock Wednesday to fix the dates and place for the state convention of that party. This meeting of the committee is being combined, for convenience, with the meeting customarily in the last week of every state campaign. To conform to party rules and the statutes, the republican caucuses will have to be either November 13 or 14 and the state convention, November 24 and 25.

PRECAUTIONS AGAINST "TONG" WAR IN CHICAGO

Chicago, Oct. 21—Heavily armed policemen tonight patrolled Chicago's Chinatown with orders to prevent another outbreak of what the police terme da Chinese tong war which last night resulted in the death of one Chinese, the probably fatal shooting of two others and attempts on the lives of half a dozen more.

Furtive Chinese, silent save when pressed vigorously for answers, today attended the inquest into the death of Willie Kee Kai, shot to death last night. The inquest was indefinitely continued when several of the Chinese witnesses expressed fear that anything they might say would involve them in trouble with various factions.

What the police considered the first real step in the solution of the slayings came late today when Hu Lung, a Chinese arrested early today as he alighted from a taxicab, was identified as one of those participating in one of the unsuccessful attempts last night on the lives of his countrymen. Lung maintained a stubborn silence in the face of all efforts to question him.

ANDERSON MUST SERVE FULL TERM IN SING SING

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 1.—The court of appeals in a decision today confirmed unanimously, but without opinion, the conviction of William H. Anderson, former superintendent of the New York Anti-Saloon league for third degree forgery, in New York county. The decision in effect hold that Anderson must remain in Sing Sing prison until the expiration of his one to two year term.

The ruling of the court of appeals upholds that of the appellate division, first department, which first reviewed the case. Anderson was compelled to begin serving his term, pending the appeal, as application of his counsel, former Governor Charles S. Whitman, for a certificate of reasonable doubt permitting him to be released on bail, was denied.

GIRL HELD IN CONNECTION WITH CASES OF EXTORTION

Jersey City, N. J., Oct. 21.—Charged with being a fugitive from Boston where she is wanted in connection with two cases of extortion, one involving Victor Searles, a Boston millionaire and another having to do with the difficulties of former District Attorney William J. Corcoran of Middlesex County, Mass., Jersey City police tonight arrested 24-year-old Helen Pelrose of this city.

WILLIMANTIC

NORWICH BULLETIN
Willimantic Office, 771 Main Street
Telephone 1131
Office Hours: 9:30 to 12 m.; 1:30 to 5 p. m.

President "Ed" Regan, of the New London Rotary club, led a band of eleven members of that club with one guest to this city Tuesday noon to take charge of the entertainment programme at the weekly session of the Willimantic club. Due to a misunderstanding as to the time of the meeting the attendance of Whalers was smaller than had been expected, as many members of that club were under the impression that the meeting would be held in the evening and they could not be present at noon. The eleven, however, filled in the shoes of the absent and made Tuesday's meeting one of the liveliest held by the local organization for some time. President Harry W. Standish presided at the business session, also reading an attendance report for the district, showing that Willimantic was down to fifteenth place being tied with an 80 per cent. average with Wallingford. The attendance contest now in its second week is expected to bring the local average to a record mark. There were but three absentees Tuesday. The luncheon was followed by the organizing of a sextet by John F. Ahern. The vocalists included Fred Jordan, Charley Pomeroy, John Reilly, Frank Smith, George Buck and Val Murphy. John Ahern's leadership and inspiration was thrown to the winds, however, as his sextette failed to perform and the members were ordered back to their respective seats without having uttered a single noise which might give promise of musical. To offset this display John then banded together another sextette, which functioned to profection and was composed of Dr. R. Bullock Jones, Tim Weatherhead, Ray Parker, Ellison Smith, John Pickett, and Jim Mustard. Although their rendition of Sweet Adeline might have brought hot water down from any second story window, they were applauded for their endeavors, special mention being made of the submarine notes dropped by Ray Parker and Big Tim. Gus Greene reported on the progress being made up by the committee in charge of installing Rotary Welcome signs on the highways leading into Willimantic.

In addressing the local members President Standish related the strayed condition of the Willimantic club when it sought for a true definition of Rotary principles and ethics during the first year of its organization. An inkling of the functions of Rotary as a code of life and of Rotary meetings was finally brought home by George W. Hinckley, then chairman of the entertainment committee, after he had attended a number of the meetings of the New London club. Later on, fifteen Whalers, including Jim Hammond, put on a programme for the locals which was a revelation and which started the Willimantic club on the proper course for the staging of interesting meetings.

Acting Mayor George W. Hickey delivered the address of welcome to the New Londoners making mention of the exemplification of the Rotary motto, Service Above Self, by the visitors, whose club, as a parent club had always been an inspiration. President "Ed" Regan of New London was then placed in charge of the meeting. Declaring that Secretary Bill Clark and himself were mere pinch speakers for their club, he went on to introduce the remainder of the visitors as follows: Sid Miner, Ed Ford, Major Bob Eddy, Ed Corcoran, Ad Norris, Col. Bill Mercer, Dr. J. E. Underhill, Thornt Lathrop, George Lowrey and their guest, Walter Slocum, New London's postmaster.

Secretary Bill Clark, the first speaker, strongly advocated intercity meets and visitations and in giving his definition of Rotary said that it was synonomous with responsibility and reliability in private, civic, and business life. Bill was the man who instituted the local club upon its inception, he having been deputized by the district governor. What Rotary Meant to Me was the subject of a highly interesting discourse by President Regan. He threw many sidelights on application of the Rotary code of ethics in business life and told how it enabled him to maintain discipline, yet retain the good will of about five thousand railroad employes who were under his charge. He advised a more thorough study of the code by Rotary and of its appliance to their every movement. The calibre of the talks as given by both men dispelled all ideas of their pinch speakers and they were given a hearty round of applause. Bill Clark gave a novel definition of Rotary when he stated just before adjournment that it was the Golden Rule equipped with six cylinders and a self starter. Rev. Arthur S. Wheelock, new pastor of the Congregational church was a guest of John Tracy and Fred Noble of the State Normal School was the guest of George H. Shafer. Adjournment was taken at 2.10 o'clock.

Every citizen in the community is being urged to donate to the $3,500 appeal made by the local Salvation Army to cary on the work in this city during the next twelve months. Captain Walter Perrett, in charge of the local barracks, states that if the appeal is met there will be no further demands for funds during the coming year.

Sheriff Charles A. Gates has fifteen town clerks in Windham county to serve with warants for the calling of the special session of electors in the 169 towns of the state, to be held Tuesday, December 16, for the purpose of electing a successor to the late United States Senator F. B. Brandegee.

An interesting address on The Literature of Pessimism was delivered by D. A. B Meredith, state commissioner of education before one hundred and twenty-five members of the Windham Teachers' club in th eauditorium of the Windham High School Monday night. A business meeting of the club followed with the annual election. R. L. Hahn was re-elected president, Miss Lucy Reddish and J. L. Harrcun were elected secretary and treasurer respectively. The treasurer's report was accepted and the minutes of the pevious meeting were approved. Dr. Meredith was introduced to the assemblage by President Hahn as "a master craftsman of our profession."

Dr. Meredith decried the pessimistic pseudo-culture which preaches that we are deteriorating physically, or mentally, as a race. In his estimation the fact that we, as a nation were in even a slight way considering the child labor amendment, rather disposed of the pessimistic plaint that we are living in a day when economic materialism has run wild, to the detriment of higher values in life. After considering that only about 25 per cent. of our population of high school age is under formal instruction of any kind, one wonders what basis in fact there is for a present day claim, urged in some quarters, that too many are getting an education. When we realize education is an investment, which in time produces more wealth and comforts, it is a question whether one to two per cent. of that wealth is too great an expenditure. People who were making such claims could count, but could not think clearly. He concluded by saying that what we need is more of the action which is founded on ascertained facts, rather than the thinking of stereotyped minds. After the address Mrs. G. C. Case, chairman, served refreshments in the school lunch room.

There will be music and speeches at the republican rally to be held this (Wednesday) evening. The Lakeside orchestra, G. R. Young, leader, will give a concert programme previous to the rally and furnish music during the evening. The Imperial quartet, Ray Tallman, and Arthur Clark, tenors; Edwin F. Cross, baritone and Claude Ide, bass, will sing. The speakers are Colonel Hiram Bingham, republican candidate for governor; Hon. Joseph Lussier of Holyoke, Mass., editor of "La Justice," who will speak in French and Congressman John Gibson of Vermont.

Kate and Jack, two prize coon dogs owned by John F. Healy, of South street, are among the missing, following a hunting expedition leading from Rattlesnake Ledge near the McQuade farm in Champlin and ending in this city, about midnight. No catches were made by the party, which included John Healy, John Ryan, James F. Healy, Arthur Hagerty, Clarence Moriarty, Frederick Moriarty, Eugene Moriarty, Raymond Sullivan and William McQuade.

A Ford car abandoned near the Bert Micha garage on the Eagleville road, late Saturday night, by Arthur Baldwin, of Mansfield Depot, after the steering gear failed to function properly, burst into flames a few hours later and was totally destroyed. State Poate Policeman Henry Heinold of the Stafford Springs barracks conducted an investigation to locate the owner.

T. A. Callaghan, of Windham High school, gave the first in a series of civic lectures at St. Joseph's church hall recently before the members of the Catholic Welfare Council. His subject was The Origin and Development of Political Parties in Our Country, the address leading to an open discussion of the Prohibition and Labor parties during the forum

There will be no charges pressed against the twelve year old boy caught stealing money at the news and tobacco store conducted by Dennehey Brothers on Railroad street. The management generously stated that, as the child's parents were poor, they would not expect remuneration for their losses.

A one and one-half story wooden house, owned by Clayton Root at Well's Wood in the town of Columbia and unoccupied was destroyed by fire early Sunday morning causing an estimated loss of $600. The exact origin of the fire is not known although it is presumed that it was caused by coon hunters, who were seen in the vicinity of the house after midnight.

The minutes of the last meeting Oct. 3, 1923, were read and approved. The report of the treasurer, Robert O. Branch, was read and accepted. The election followed, all officers being re-elected: President, George H. Shafer; vice president, Mrs. A. W. Turner; secretary, Mrs. Carl R. Alford, and treasurer, Robert O. Branch; a board of managers was chosen by the officers. Plans for the coming year were discussed. Promise was given of exceptionally fine concerts this year, to eclipse those heard last year. The concerts will be held in the high school auditorium.

NORWICH DISTRICT W. F. M. S. MEETS AT METHODIST CHURCH

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, Oct. 21.—Branches of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society of the Norwich district, East and West divisions, held joint conferences at the local Methodist Episcopal vestry, Tuesday, with morning and afternoon sessions. Of the twenty-seven branches, fourteen were represented when the forenoon session was called to order at 10.30 o'clock by Mrs. Howard Keith of Manchester A brief praise service was followed by the reading of reports from the officers of the various branches. All showed a decided increase in membership and finances. The work of members of the Norwich district in foreign lands was also mentioned in the reports. Luncheon was served at noon.

At two o'clock Mrs. Albert Boardman, of Norwich, opened the afternoon session. During the first hour the East and West divisions held separate sessions to elect officers and appoint committees. When the joint conference was resumed, Mrs. Charles Rowe Vickery, of Hartford, was heard in an inspiring address on "The Inside Ferson." She cleverly depicted the life of the Chinese woman, her work in the house; her work in the shop; her work and that of the children in the schools. Her picturesque portrayal was made possible through experience gained while engaged in missionary work in India, China and Malaysia

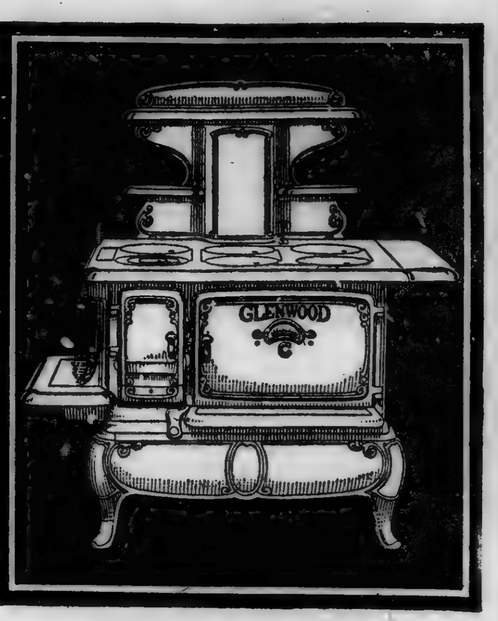
"There Is So Much More Room In This Glenwood Oven"



WHEN baking day comes round you'll always appreciate the big roomy oven of a Glenwood range. Here's the Model "C," for instance. Its oven is wide and deep with plenty of space to adjust the sliding rack at different heights. The corners are four-square, allowing you the full width of the oven bottom for anything that needs to be baked very slowly and thoroughly.

The indicator on the door tells you just how hot to keep your fire for cakes, pies, roasts and biscuits. May we show you this range, some day soon?

Model "C" For Coal or Wood

Finished in pearl-gray porcelain enamel or in plain black. To furnish plenty of hot water we can equip this range with either a water front for urban districts or a special reservoir for rural homes.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theatre

Charles Jones in The Circus Cowboy, his latest William Fox production, which will be shown at the Breed theater today and tomorrow is Jones at his best. It is a rip-roaring action picture which gives this popular star plenty of opportunity to act as well.

Marian Nixon, who has been his leading lady in several of his recent productions, furnishes the romance and in the colorful setting of the west and the "big top" there is enacted a drama of intrigue, love and men that will hold your interest throughout.

The story is that of a cowboy who, accused falsely of shooting a man, outwits and outrides a posse and joins a circus. Miss Nixon plays a tight-rope walker who eventually captivates Jones, but before she does it, she supplies the motive for some extraordinary action. One of the big thrills of the picture comes when an animal trainer, spurned by the girl, loosens the guy rope of the tight wire while she is performing. She falls, but instead of being dashed to death, she is caught in the arms of the big cowboy. What else could they be but happy after that?

A news and a comedy make up the remainder of the bill.

Broadway Theater

Five exceptionally fine acts of B. F. Keith vaudeville is scheduled for the Broadway theater the last half of this week. They are all bound to make a hit.

George Arliss, star of $20 a Week, is one of the world's most distinguished and best loved actors. He is an Englishman by birth but all his successes have been made in America where he has been a prominent figure in the theater for the past twenty-five years. Arliss first came to this country with Mrs. Patrick Campbell, but it was with Blanche Bates in The Darling of the Gods that he first attracted widespread attention. Following this he was starred in a number of plays which have made theatrical history, notably The Devil, Disraeli and The Green Goddess. The latter play is now the outstanding hit of the current London theatrical season. In motion picture form, it is one of the greatest successes of recent years.

Practically all of Arliss' stage plays have been adapted to the screen with excellent results. $20 a Week, is, however, a magazine story and somewhat resembles The Ruling Passion, in which Arliss was so well received last season. It comes to the screen of the Broadway theater on Thursday, playing for three days. It is a Selznick-Distinctive picture.

Palace Theater

A Woman Who Sinned, a romantic photodrama, written, directed and produced by Finis Fox, will be the chief screen feature at the Palace theater. It is by far the most sensational and successful of the big theme films ever produced.

The story is built around the pretty wife of a New England minister. She is invited on a yacht and held against her will. Finally she jumps from the boat and swims to shore. Upon reaching home she sees her baby son and husband praying for her, as they believe she has lost her life in a storm. Rather than face them—in what she believes to be disgrace—she goes to New York and eventually meets the man who held her on the yacht. Twenty years pass. The minister's wife has become mistress of the man who wronged her.

Mae Busch plays in a most convincing manner the title role. Other noted stars in the cast are Irene Rich, Morgan Wallace and Rex Lease. Educational comedy, Exit Ceaser, Pathe comedy, and Sport Light.

Men's Bible Class at Y. M. C. A.

This opening Bible class session for men for the season will be held this (Wednesday) evening at 6.15 o'clock when a moderate priced supper will be served. All men who are interested in the practical study of the Bible for daily life are cordially invited.

WAUREGAN

The first presidential campaign rally for this town was held here Saturday evening. The Wauregan Republican Marching Club, some seventy-five in number, were in line with lighted torches and marching regalia, headed by the Wauregan Band. The marchers formed at the Wauregan Hall, marched to the residence of J. A. Atwood, thence to the residence of Roscoe Ashley, countermarching to the banner opposite the trolley station, where Dr. Campbell of Hartford delivered a short, interesting address which proved most satisfactory. The banner, as in previous campaigns bears the names of the candidates for president and vice president "Calvin Coolidge and George W. Lawes." It is suspended across the main highway, the only one known to be exhibited in eastern Connecticut. On Monday evening next October 27th, there will be another republican rally in the Wauregan Hall. A much better parade and longer line of march is planned More marchers are expected to participate and uniforms for one hundred and twenty five have been arranged for. Good speaking is assured.

The roll call and supper of the Con[illegible] church is to be held this (W[illegible]y) evening.

[illegible]rence Leach is reported as [illegible] improved [illegible]lth, as is [illegible]h and their [illegible]ner, Mrs. [illegible]ach.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Enumeration figures of children of school age just compiled in this town would indicate that Killingly's population has materially increased since the last general census of the town was taken in 1920.

Figuring from the familiar basis that each person of school age enumerated is representative of five people in the town, Killingly's population would appear to have increased to 9,490 the highest point in its history. The 1920 census showed the population of the town considerably under the 9,000 mark.

To support the contention set up by citing the new enumeration figures there are substantial evidences of the town's growth. A large number of new homes have been built within the past four years, yet there is a constant clamor for more houses. The shortage of homes here has been chronic for the past ten years, though the building operations have been constant and during the war went along on a boom basis for several years. It is not unlikely that Killingly's population has approached as near the 10,000 mark as the new enumeration indicates.

Auction Notice: Relative to the sale of the real estate known as the Phebe Snow property, located at 16 Mechanic street, Danielson, Conn., which is to take place on Saturday, October 25, at 2:30 o'clock p. m., on the premises, we wish to call attention to the fact that a detailed account of the sale is being published on the classified advertising page of this paper in today's issue. Indoor golf! That's a prospect for Danielson this winter. To be more explicit possibly it is better to set down that no 9-hole course is to be constructed in any of the halls in town. The plan is to establish an indoor school of golf. There are many things, it would appear, that one can learn about the game without being on the links. To that end there are plans for establishing the school here and allowing the ever increasing number of local people who are interested in the game to improve their playing qualifications while Jack Frost is raising Old Hob out of doors. The proposed school is to be in charge of a professional instructor, so, it may be assumed, the students who take the course will show vastly improved style and knowledge of the game by the time the season of 1925 finds the links a-lure again.

Only a few weeks short of reaching his 90th birthday, a goal that he had cherished the hope of attaining in recent years, Alba H. Stevens died Tuesday morning about 9 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. J. Clark in Canterbury. Until last Friday Mr. Stevens had been in his usual good health. His illness was not regarded as really critical right up to his last hour and just prior to his death he was conversing with a member of the household.

Mr. Stevens was a native of the town of Canterbury and with the exception of a few years spent in the central west had been a resident of his native town throughout his long life. During his active years he was engaged as a farmer. Mrs. Stevens died three years ago.

Mr. Stevens, a relative of Mrs. Clark was a son of Darius and Edith Hyde Stevens and was born in December, 1834. He is a descendant of an old line Canterbury family, a town that has given so many sturdy sons and daughters to the nation.

With pay-off day only a few weeks away, hundreds of members of Christmast Thrift and Savings clubs in the Danielson banks are looking forward with happy anticipation to realizing on their consistent putting away each week since last December of a certain weekly sum.

No definite figures are available yet, but it is believed that these club members will draw down in the aggregate approximately $75,000 about mid-December. The bulk of this money will go to residents of the town of Killingly, but there are many out of town subscribers in the Danielson clubs.

Experience of the past shows that not all this money will go to swell the volume of trade during the Christmas holiday season. Much of it is re-deposited in savings accounts. However, a heavy percentage of this club money is specifically saved, week by week, during the year for the purpose of meeting holiday shopping expenses, so the release of it assures a heavy volume of business to be financed from this source for local merchants.

The club releases, of which there will be three, are expected to be the largest this year of any in Danielson's history.

Some hunter with a peculiar sense of humor is held to have been responsible for shooting a squirrel and then setting it up in a tree, from where it was shot down two days later by another Danielson man, who quickly sensed that he was the subject of a joke.

James Kent, Elmville's veteran coon hunter, has two young dogs that he is training this fall for his favorite sport.

Howard A. Elliott of Hartford was in Danielson Tuesday on a business trip.

With the introduction in the Rhode Island legislature during its coming session of a bill providing for the construction of a trunk line highway from North Scituate to the Connecticut line near East Killingly, it is anticipated that a renewal of effort will be made for the building of the Connecticut end of the route from East Killingly to Dayville Four Corners and from a point near Goodyear to Pomfret.

Maybe it will not be necessary after all for many people to continue campaigning for cutting down a row of trees bordering the state highway through Reynolds street between Main and Broad. If automobile drivers continue to run into them in negotiating the lane-like stretch of highway the machines probably will cut them down in due time. In any event, they keep hacking away at them.

It appeared Tuesday as if at least three political parties will give Killingly voters a chance to hear arguments for their different causes within the next week. Coolidge, Davis and LaFollette boosters all are busy with arrangements for rallies in Danielson.

Mrs. Carl Jennings will have the members of the Roundabout club at her home for a meeting Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Earl Winslow has been at St. Joseph's hospital visiting with her daughter, Miss uth E. Winslow, a patient recovering satisfactorily after undergoing two surgical operations.

Walter W. Murphy is in charge of the Danielson Inn, taking up his new duties this week.

Members of the Trefle Clef club are to meet this (Wednesday) evening with Miss Lucile Caron.

The state motor vehicle department is prompt with its forms for registration of motor vehicles for 1925. Many motorists here have received them. Those who file for registrations prior to December 1, may, upon request, retain their present numbers.

Miss Katherine D. Aylward was in New London attending a department conference of the S. N. E. Telephone Company.

George C. Bateson of Fewtucket was in Danielson Tuesday on a business trip.

Strictly fresh eggs have made a sensational climb to unusually high price levels for this time of year. They are now being offered in this territory at from 80 to 90 cents per dozen, and the prediction is that the price is on its way toward the dollar mark.

CONN. MILLS COMPANY TO PAY THREE DIVIDENDS

(Special to the Bulletin)

Danielson, Oct. 22—Following a meeting of the board of directors of the Connecticut Mills Company in Boston Tuesday, it was announced here in the evening that they had voted to pay the current dividend and accrued dividends as of November 1 on the first preferred stock of the corporation. The payments simultaneously of these three dividends will involve the distribution of $74,576 to the first preferred stock holders and will clear up all the dividends that have accumulated on this issue. Previously the corporation has paid five other accrued dividends. The first preferred stock of the Connecticut Mills is a 7 per cent. issue so the checks that will go out to stockholders will represent earning of $3.25 per share. With the two deferred dividends paid, the corporation will have paid a total of $13.25 per share in accumulated dividends and the current dividend on the first preferred stock since it began to recover from the difficulties that were common to hundreds of textile industries in the general business depressions of 1920. The current dividend will be paid out of earnings of the last quarter, and the deferred dividend from accumulated surplus. Thi sis exceptionally good news for Danielson and all interested in the Connecticut Mills, which manufactures tire fabric.

PUTNAM

In usually well informed circles in Putnam Tuesday there was free expression of opinion that the proposed Citizens' National bank has been promised a charter by the comptroller of the currency under conditions that are possible of acceptance.

As to this Judge M. H. Geissler, just back from Washington and a conference with the comptroller, was non-committal Tuesday, although he said that he might make some statement today.

Somehow, however, the impression gained ground during the day that the Citizens' National bank may become a reality and the successor here of the First National bank, ruined through the operations of its cashier, G. Harold Gilpatric.

What Judge Geissler will have to say about his visit to Washington and what promises to come of it will be of very special interest to the people of this city and the surrounding territory, for it may clear up, after many weeks, something of the uncertainty as to Putnam's future commercial banking facilities, maintained on an emergency basis since Mr. Gilpatric attempted suicide, in August.

In the meantime the procedure for establishing the Cargill Trust company, another proposed commercial banking institution for Putnam, is uninterrupted. November 6 a hearing relative to the establishing of this bank will be held before State Bank Commissioner John B. Byrne at Hartford. At this hearing those who favor the chartering of the proposed trust company will have opportunity to tell the commissioner why they believe it should be established. Conversely, those who may be aggrieved by its establishment also will be given an opportunity to be heard.

Following custom in such cases, the Putnam Savings bank was officially served Tuesday with notice of the impending hearing, that it may be represented, should it so desire.

There is a possibility, it was indicated Tuesday, that the receivership for the Manhasset Manufacturing company, in so far as Connecticut is concerned, may be terminated, following presentation of certain facts to the superior court at its session here next Friday morning.

Counsel for the corporation, which has been in the hands of receivers for several months during which its property in this state has been sold and other steps taken to liquidate its affairs, will appear in court here Friday morning to present a statement that it is hoped may lead to the end of the receivership in this state.

Adjustment of the affairs of the big corporation has of necessity been a somewhat drawn out process. It has involved intricate labor for the counsel involved and meticulous care on their part, demanding a great deal of their time. Every effort has been made to realize the utmost from the assets.

The Manhasset Manufacturing company was Putnam's largest industry, giving employment to 700 or 800 operatives at the peak of its prosperity. It was engaged in the manufacture of automobile tire fabrics. With the coming of nationwide depression in business in 1920, it became involved in difficulties that culminated in the appointment of a receiver. The concern owned and operated another mill, manufacturing yarns for the Putnam plant, at Taunton, Mass.

An airedale owned owned by a G. W. Clark, of Worcester, is held accountable for biting from six to eight dogs in the town of Pomfret, chasing a herd of cattle, some of which may have been bitten, and stirring up general apprehension as to what developments may follow the rabid animal's raid.

The Airedale has passed to his reward. He has been shot, the head sent to laboratories at Hartford and a report received that evidences of a positive case of rabies were discovered.

Chief Special Deputy Howard A. Elliott of the commission on domestic animals and Special Deputy Ray Ellis worked on the case during Tuesday. Late Tuesday afternoon Mr. Elliott said that the Airedale had made a remarkable trip for a rabid dog in traveling all the way from Worcester into Pomfret, via Eastford, a distance of 52 miles, this constituting a record run, so far as the department figures for this state show, for a rabid dog.

Mr. Elliott said that no general quarantine will be placed on dogs in Pomfret, Eastford and Woodstock unless developments make this necessary. Dogs that are known to have been bitten have in some instances been given an anti-rabies treatment and will be held in quarantine for 20 days. If other dogs that are known to have been bitten are not subjected to the protective treatment, they will be killed.

Close watch will be kept on the dogs of Pomfret, Eastford and Woodstock during the next three weeks that any symptom pointing to rabies may be quickly discovered. Every possible precaution to prevent the spread of the disease will be taken, Mr. Elliott said. Mr. Ellis is remaining in this territory to keep in close touch with the situation.

Mr. Elliott says there has been an epidemic of dogs going wrong in eastern Connecticut during the past month, chiefly as to killing sheep. At Dayville, Tuesday afternoon, Mr. Elliott impounded a rabbit hound belonging to Luther Day of that place. This hound is held for identification of witnesses who saw a dog in a pasture at Dayville where several sheep owned by George A. Williams were recently killed.

Briefs were filed Tuesday by Attorneys William A. King of Willimantic and John F. Carpenter of this city, counsel for the defendants, in the case of Leah Smith vs. Captain William J. Jarvis, et al, a civil action in which the plaintiff is seeking to recover damages of $2,000, as the result of being detained at the police station here during the early summer, following the searching of the automobile in which she was riding for liquor and pending a co-incident raid on the City hotel, where she is resident with her husband, Samuel Smith, owner of the property. It is anticipated that arguments in the case will be made at next Friday's session of the superior court.

Co-defendants with Captain Jarvis of the Putnam police department are Sergeant George Laird and Patrolmen Ryan and Sponcey.

It is contended in the brief of the defendants' counsel that Sergeant Laird had a warrant to search both the Smith automobile and the City hotel. The car was stopped for search on the state highway near the Children's home, in the Sawyer district. Afterwards the driver, Miss Mollie Smith, was ordered to proceed with it to the police station here. The members of the party in the car were held there for something more than an hour. In the meantime a raid was being made by Captain Jarvis at the hotel. It was contended in the brief that the search of the car and of the hotel, under a single warrant, represented one continuous act of service and that the police were well within their rights in holding the women in the automobile party until the raid at the hotel could be completed in order to forestall any possible warning that might be conveyed to the hotel as the result of searching the car. The brief also holds that refusal of the police to allow Mrs. Smith to use the telephone at the police station to communicate with the hotel might be construed as discourteous, but, on the other hand, such allowance would, it is held have nullified any searching operation the police may have been carrying on at the hotel at the time.

A running race between horses owned by Ernest Richards and George Harper, both of this city, was staged at the track on the Woodstock fairgrounds Monday afternoon

JEWETT CITY

A trip to the submarine base was made by members and friends of the Methodist Men's class, Saturday last. The party of 26, headed by the pastor, left Jewett City in automobiles at 1 p. m. They arrived at the submarine base at 2 o'clock and were received by the officer on duty and were shown through torpedo shops, foundry, machine and electrical shops, torpedo school, recreation and refreshment rooms, barracks and galley. All of these places were fully explained and the inner workings of the torpedo were shown by well informed seamen. The party then divided and each section was taken aboard two of the latest type subs—the S1 and S6. Every part of these undersea craft was explored. The men on duty gave all information desired regarding the working and operating of the boats. The members of the party were greatly pleased at the orderly condition of every department. The trip was made possible by the courtesy of the base commander who readily consented to the visit when asked by Rev. J. W. Carter, a former welfare officer at the base.

Mrs. A. M. Brown presided at the meeting of the Baptist Missionary society held in the vestry Tuesday afternoon. The programme was arranged by Mrs. John Harris, the subject being God's New American Children. After a song, Let the Lower Lights Be Burning, was sung by Mrs. G. H. Prior, Christian Americanization—its Aim and Work, was explained by Mrs. A. M. Brown. This was followed by articles on Volunteer Service—Teaching English, Friendliness, Understanding, Interpretation, Internationalism, Jesus Christ—prayer for volunteers to the work by Mrs. S. F. Brown. The hymn, Work For the Night Is Coming closed the meeting.

News of the death of Mrs. Stephen Green, came to Mrs. A. M. Brown, Monday night. She died at a hospital in Hartford at night, following an operation in the morning. Mrs. Green's home for 35 years or more was in Jewett City where her husband was overseer of spinning in the Ashland mill. Mr. Green died ten years ago, and Mrs. Green's home has been with her daughter, in Hartford. But she has been a frequent visitor with friends here, and is a member of the Methodist church and of Anne Brewster Fanning Chapter, D. A. R. She leaves a daughter, Mrs. Roger F. Montgomery and a grandson, Frances Green Montgomery, of Hartford. A sister, Mrs. Mary B. Lord, and a brother, Enos Johnson of Tilton, N. H., survive her. Her body will be taken to Tilton for burial in the family lot. Mrs. Green was a woman whom her friends all loved, always helpful and considerate of others' comfort.

Mr. and Mrs. William C. Jeffers and Miss Clara Wood who were more or less injured in an automobile accident at Greeneville, Sunday afternoon, are confined to their homes as a result. Both Mrs. Jeffers and Miss Wood have cuts on their heads, and bad bruises. Mr. Jeffers' left wrist was seriously cut, severing an artery and cords, the flesh being torn to the bone. Nearly a dozen stitches were taken and his arm and hand are in splints. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Jeffers and their daughter were not injured.

Miss Grace Olin and her brother, H. W. Olin, spent Tuesday in Willimantic with their aunt, Mrs. Jennie Lewis.

Mrs. Clara A. S. Crawford of Pelham, N. Y., is visiting her sister, Mrs. F. D. Ballou.

One of the large plate glass windows in Hourigan Bros. in the Finn block was broken by a stone thrown by the wheel of John Potter's automobile, Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Potter stopped and the damage was satisfactorily arranged. Some time ago this window was broken in the same way, and the stone narrowly escaped hitting G. H. Prior, who was standing in front of the window. That automobolist kept right on going regardless of calls to stop.

Mrs. Henry Olson, Mrs. James Crary, Miss Eleanor Stetson, Mrs. Ida R. Ladd, Mrs. G. H. Jennings, Mrs. J. H. Tracy and Mrs. W. R. Burdick attended the state D. A. R. meeting in Rockville Tuesday.

Miss Mary and Gladys Wilkinson were week-end visitors in Danielson, Providence and Boston.

THE SWING TO COOLIDGE.

When the announcement was made that McAdoo would take the stump for Davis there was elation in the democratic circles. It was considered that the effect would be to heal the breach that was caused at the New York convention. Illness has prevented the candidate for democratic nomination for president taking the stump, but it has not interfered with public expressions by him.

His first epistle isn't one, however, that can give very much satisfaction to the democrats. While he is supposed to be supporting and advocating Davis he is throwing bouquets to the third party leader and regretting the fact that the democrats and La Follette haven't joined hands.

That may well cause many a democrat to wince. They know as well as the republicans what is represented by the La Follette candidacy, and they know that democrats are going to vote the republican ticket in order to overcome any such possibility as putting La Follette into office through throwing away their votes on the democratic ticket. Even the Brooklyn Eagle, a strong democratic paper, in referring to the democratic fear of the La Follette movement, declares that it would be idle to attempt to disguise the fact that it is driving a number of democratic voters toward the republican camp."

That movement toward the republican camp was started long before Mr. McAdoo spoke. He regrets that the democrats cannot line up with the La Follette movement. Therein he not only furnishes those fearing democrats with good and sufficient reason for being satisfied with the view and course they have taken but he puts enough fear in the minds of others to cause them to swell that defection to the republican ranks.

The democrats that he is trying to hold back are the democrats who are demanding sound, efficient, common-sense government, and they know that they can get it and avoid the dangers of the La Follette threat by voting for Calvin Coolidge and the excellent policies for which he stands.

NAVY DAY.

Next Monday, the anniversary of the birth of Theodore Roosevelt, will be Navy day. It is a fixed day for the purpose of calling the attention of the people at least once a year to the past and present services of the navy, that great defensive service which means so much to the nation during the times of peace as well as during the days of war.

Due cognizance is given to the existence of the naval agreement and the fact that this country is desirous of peace, but as Presient Cleveland said in his first message to congress, "The nation that cannot resist aggression is constantly exposed to it," and it is well known what an argument for peace an efficient first line of defense is.

People in this vicinity may well take note of the arrangements which are being perfected at the submarine base on the Thames for the observance of the day and the opportunities to be extended to civilians to participate therein. We know we have a navy, we know there is a submarine base and we know there are submarines, but how many know what is one at the base, what in fact is there, or what the interior of warships or submarines looks like?

The chance to find out is made possible on Navy day. Next Monday morning when the entire submarine base is thrown open to the public there are good and sufficient reasons why those who can get there should do so and know more about what the "navy yard" has developed into.

It is well to remember that the navy belongs to you, and that you should improve all your opportunities to get first hand information concerning it. Much of the success of Navy day will be measured by the manner in which the public responds to the occasion.

HELPING TRAFFIC.

From the discussion that developed at the hearing on the new traffic regulations there appeared to be a desire to furnish suggestions that would eliminate inconsistencies in the ordinance, overcome what are considered to be injustices from the reading of the proposed draft and if possible to modify the regulations in certain respects.

The purpose of the ordinance must be to facilitate the use of the streets by the vehicles that are expected to traverse them. Increased traffic has necessitated a stiffening of the regulations. The importance of avoiding congestion and preventing accidents cannot be disregarded.

In connection with the various objections that were raised and the appeals which were made for changes, nothing seems to have been said concerning that narrow neck of Chesenut street opening from Union square and beyond the point designated as the public stand for vehicles. With cars parked on both sides of the street cars going in the opposite direction are faced with a problem and it is this very street through which the apparatus from the central fire station must pass. It is not a point where encouragement should be given to congestion.

Without a doubt the making of Main street a one way thoroughfare is going to call for the early improvement of that block pavement between Market street and Central wharf. Such efforts as were made to top dress it have accomplished little and with all west traffic using that street the betterment of the roadbed must be regarded as the next job to be tackled in the improvement of city streets.

CAMPAIGN FUNDS.

Campaigns have come and campaigns have gone. For the most part they have required a certain amount of money to keep them in motion. The more thorough they are conducted the more they cost, and all within the bounds of legitimate expenditure.

The efforts to make a campaign issue over the cry of plans by the republicans for enormous funds have fallen of their own weight. They were of course put forth solely for campaign purposes, but the holler than thou attitude hasn't produced anything to substantiate the wild claims.

Money has been raised by the republicans and more will be raised, but the methods employed and the uses to which it is put do not differ from those of the other parties. Those who know anything about political campaigns know that they do not move without financial assistance. Wastes and economies may be pointed out but the people do not have to be told that legitimate expenditures and corruption are not synonymous. It is easy to make a lot of wild claims, but they invariably bear their own earmarks.

JULES JUSSERAND.

Even though there has been intimation that Jules Jusserand, French ambassador to this country, would soon terminate his duties in that capacity, there has been an unwillingness on this side of the water to accept such a possibility. There comes a time when all good things must end, but the length of service as ambassador, the high service he has rendered in that post and his excellent and delightful qualities as a man have endeared him to all those with whom he has come in contact.

Under the circumstances there is no surprise that there is a reluctance to have a successor take up his duties. His personality has made a deep and lasting impression. Others may come and render able and faithful service as the representative of France but the Jusserand record simply inspires the demand that it continue unbroken.

Talk to the effect that the approval of the man who has been picked as the new ambassador will be delayed, or that this country will take its time in approving him, is to be regarded chiefly as a manifestation of sentiment concerning Ambassador Jusserand. A score of years is a long time to hold such an office. It permits of a thorough understanding of America and the American viewpoint. But Jules Jusserand is getting to be a man close to 70 and governments change. His going will be sincerely regretted but we have nothing to do but accept the action of France. With no reason for declaring the high French official picked for the next ambassador other than persona grata that course will be followed in due time. Jusserand may go but he will not be forgotten.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

If there are complaints about sunburn these days, the number is not large.

Norwich had a chance to hear our next governor and was well impressed.

One of the hard jobs this time of year is keeping cider production up to the demand.

Make up your mind to vote on November 4, but take good care not to throw your vote away.

Never mind if you didn't see the ZR-3. It's ours now and the chances to see it should be numerous.

Isn't it about time for someone to start a campaign for government regulation of crossword puzzles?

Such wonderful promises as La Follette makes reminds one of the alluring tales handed out by the sellers of gold bricks.

The popularity of the ZR-3 as a passenger carrying craft would be sure to suffer from the fact that it has no smoking room.

Some have been taught to stop at railroad crossings, some are being urged and others will need no further instructions of any kind.

The man on the corner says: If the straw votes indicate the hay crop there's no such thing as keeping up with Calvin Coolidge's harvest.

From the way in which the British part of the German loan was oversubscribed it was quite as well thought of over there as over here.

PRECEPT AND PRACTICE

"It was just wonderful, Henry!" declared the earnest little mother of the most wonderful child on earth. "Until I heard this professor talk I never realized the wrong I was doing my own child—

"Bobbie, dear, mother wishes you to leave the fern alone! The leaves all die when you handle them—don't touch!

"I have been too matter of fact and impatient and irritable with Bobbie and these are his most impressionable years — why, he might have grown up with the most awful memories of a mother who hectored and nagged him instead of trying to understand and to be reasonable with—

"Come here, Bobbie, and listen to me while I explain why I asked you to leave the fern alone. One leaf is all dead now because you have pulled off all those little green things and you don't want to kill it, do you? The fern likes to live just the way you do and the way kitty does! It was just because you did not understand, wasn't it Bobbie? Run along now and play nicely with your cart!

"See how obedient he is, Harry, when it is made clear to him!

"Bobbie is so exceptionally intelligent, too, that it would just have been a crime for me to have handled him in the wrong way, struggling with him when all that was necessary was a little common sense and patience—

"Bobbie! Bob!

"I suppose if I spatted his hands it would make him stop, but that was a particular point the professor made—not to use physical force against a human being smaller than oneself. I was so proud of this fern, and now here is one leaf gone and two more half broken off!

"Listen Bob; I don't want to explain this to you again. You know that mother likes the fern and wants it to live, and so do you, and it won't live if it is handled, to say nothing of being yanked limb from limb!

"See here, son! Whatever am I going to do with you? Have you any idea at all of minding mother when she speaks? All you have to do is not to do something because I ask you. I don't think that is very nice, Henry! It wasn't complicated at all, and, of course, he understood the point I was trying to get over!

"Bobbie is very bright for his age, and you don't have to tell him a thing twice—well, you know what I mean!

"Bob! What do you mean by deliberately pulling off that leaf—and after all I have been saying to you, too? I should think you were actually trying to be naughty if it were not that Professor Crump said no child was bad intentionally, that their motives originally always were good and just got deflected—mercy on me!

"Yes, you can cry all you choose, Bob, but I am not going to sit here and let you completely ruin that plant! I shall hold you this way until you say you will behave yourself! Had you any idea, Henry, that his lung power was so extraordinary? I am sure they could hear him a block away if they chose!

"Stop it, this minute—

"At a strenuous time, the professor said, one must be calm and firm and ignore them. I don't suppose it is possible that he could injure himself shrieking so, do you, Henry? I wish he would stop because it makes my head sort of ache.

"Managing children is certainly complicated—when you hear some one like Professor Crump talk and you realize that your own methods have been all wrong and that you must do none of the things which have seemed to work pretty well up to date. It makes you think a bit. Before I heard him I expect I should have spanked Bob before this and everything would now be peaceful and I would still have a fern instead of—

"Look there! Look! He broke the last leaf just as I turned! He's simply defiant—I don't care what the professor said. He certainly never had to deal with a child like Bobbie, who simply cannot be made to mind unless—yes, I certainly am going to spank him good and proper this minute!"

"Hooray! Then I guess the lecture didn't hurt you, after all," said Henry as the sound of a fast descending hand began to disturb the air.—Chicago News.

Crowley, The Messenger Boy

P. E. Crowley did not go to college, he had neither wealth nor influential friends, and he had to work and wait for every advancement.

In Cattaraugus, N. Y., where he was born, he attended the public school, but had to give up his studies while in the grammar grades, and go to work to help the family. His father was a railroad man and at 14 the lad obtained work as a telegraph messenger for the Erie railroad at $5 a month.

Ambitious to be a station agent, he studied telegraphy and other phases of railroading at night. He became a station agent, then wanted to be a telegraph operator and was advanced to the combined position of operator and train dispatcher.

Although he filled his position well and continued to study at night, his advancement seemed blocked and he could see no opportunity ahead. At 26 he went to the New York Central Railroad as train dispatcher at a better salary. Soon afterward he was made chief train dispatcher at Watertown, N. Y.

Then came promotions to the positions of train master, chief train master, and superintendent of the Pennsylvania division. Reinstating the engineemen who had been discharged following a wreck, he was called to account by the officials in New York, but declared the men must be given another chance or he would resign. The men stayed.

Having proved that a man could be a good train dispatcher without the use of profanity, he later held that a man could be a good official without being a "fire eater," and turned out to be one of the calmest and most patient men on the line.

Continuing his progress, he became assistant general superintendent, assistant general manager, general manager and at 52 vice president in charge of operation. Known as "Pat" to a majority of the 175,000 employes of the New York Central, he was one of the most popular men in railroad circles.

And recently, at 60, he was elected president of the New York Central System, the second largest railroad in the world, at a salary reported to be $100,000 a year.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

Still Seeking The Two Little Rabbits

Snapperty snip went the Old Dog's whip,
And crack went his pistol gun.
Goodness me, how the billy goats leaped!
Gee Willikins, how they could run!

"Stop at that big hollow tree," shouted the Yellow Dog Tramp, and the next minute he jumped off the back steps of the stage coach and bounded ahead. In less than twenty three jumps, he reached a big hollow tree, on one of the upper branches of which sat Hooty Tooty Owl guarding the entrance, a big knothole, to his forest bunaglow.

On seeing the Yellow Dog Tramp, the old owl gave a mournful hoot. But he never moved. No, sir, he just sat there, blinking his eyes, and every now and then softly rustling his feathers. The next minute up ran the Old Dog Driver, his long whip in one paw and his pistol gun in the other.

"Throw up your wings," he shouted, snapping his whip and pointing the pistol at the old feathered robber.

With another winkerty blink and a roll of his eyes, the old owl gave a mournful Tooty, Toot and answered: "There is no bullet in your gun, You cannot frighten me in fun. And neither can you climb a tree, And neither can you capture me."

"Give me the whip," whispered the Yellow Dog Tramp, and reaching out his paw, he hid it behind his back. "Where have you put the little rabbits?" he asked with a deep growl.

"Ha, ha, tooty fruity!" answered the old owl, "What you don't know won't hurt you," and with a wheezy sneezy cough he crept closer to the opening in the old dead tree.

Quick as a wink, before Old Hooty Tooty Owl had gone an inch nearer, the Yellow Dog Tramp swung the whip around three times. Snip, snap! went the long leather string. Wrap, wrap! it twined around the neck of the wicked old owl, and before he could fly away, or creep into the hollow space, or say "Ouch!" off the limb he came and down to the ground with a thud. With many a twist and many a turn, with a flutter and flitter, and a beating of wings, he tried his best to get away, but the Yellow Dog Tramp was too quick for him, and picking him up, he pushed him into the box under the driver's seat on the stagecoach.

When the cover was fastened down and locked, the old dog grover and the Yellow Dog Tramp looked at each other, then up at the Hollow Tree. "Where do you suppose Uncle Lucky and Little Jack Rabbit are?" they both asked at the same time.

"Must be in the old tree," answered the Yellow Dog Tramp, placing his ear against the trunk.

"Do you hear anything?" asked the Old Dog Driver.

"Are you there, Little Jack Rabbit?" shouted the anxious tramp dog.

"Where are you, Uncle Lucky?" barked the Old Dog Driver, scratching the bark with his front feet. But no answer came from within. Dearest me, where can the two little rabbits be? And in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

New York society is agog over the announcement that it is to have another member of the British royal family in its midst, and this time as a more or less permanent resident. Lady Patricia Ramsay, according to report from London, has decided to live in the city of skyscrapers while her husband, Commander Lord Alexander Ramsay, R. N., is commander of the British Atlantic Fleet, a post to which he has just been appointed. Lady Patricia, as is well known, is the former Princess Patricia of Connaught, daughter of the Duke of Connaught, former Governor-General of Canada, and a first cousin of King George. Known as Princess "Pat," she has been regarded as the most popular of the younger members of British royalty. She has been described as a handsome young woman, with great spirit and a keen sense of humor. Outdoor sports, such as golf and horseback riding, have long been her chief sources of pleasure. It is said that she was a particular favorite of her late uncle, King Edward VII. Her marriage to Commander Ramsay took place in 1919.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

MANCHURIA AND SOY BEANS

Americans who like to eat at Chinese cafes have a personal interest in the most recent phase of China's civil strife—the fighting in Manchuria.

"Manchuria's major crop is the soy bean—and it is soy bean sauce which lends flavor to chow mein, chop suey, yakamin, and other American versions of Chinese cooking," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"The soy bean's rise from obscurity, only 18 years ago, to its present importance is a wonder of modern commerce. Today its products, manufactured by the wholesale at Mukden, center of Manchuria hostilities, are shipped all over the world.

"Not only does the soy bean provide a sauce which is the Worcestershire of China, but it also masquerades as cheese, candy, fertilizer, flour, oil for lighting and lubricating and it does further duty in waterproofing umbrellas and cloth.

"The Japanese use it widely as the basis of confectionery. In this form it is highly palatable and the Japanese consider their candies and pastries more wholesome than ours—indeed they are appalled by the quantity of sugar which Americans consume.

Dairen, just north of Port Arthur, on the Liaotung peninsula, exported in one year nearly 150,000 tons of bean oil, and most of this came direct to the United States. Many of the ultimate consumers thereof probably were no more aware that soy bean oil was the basis of a delicious mayonnaise dressing than that hair-seul oil was an important ingredient of the bonbons they ate after dinner.

"Only a fraction of the bean oil that comes to this country is used in edibles. Much of it is utilized in making soaps, paints, lubricants and toilet powders. After oil is extracted from the beans the residue is made into bean cakes. These are manufactured extensively in Mukden. They are retained in the East, and serve as fertilizer and cattle feed, both in China and Japan.

"Aware of its enormous soy bean crop, and its heavy yield of sorghum and millet, the visitor expects to see great farms of these products. The Manchurians, like most Chinese, are gardeners rather than farmers. The vast aggregate of these grains and vegetables come from patches of an an acre or so. Tens of thousands of farmers, with tens of thousands of primitive plows, shaped like crude shovels, turn up millions of ridges, and drop seeds into the loose earth. Then they run a roller over their patches and wait until it is time to spread their beans or their grain on clay floors. They thresh the grain with flails or with oxen to trample it.

"Southern Manchuria has the best railroads in China; some of the business cities, such as Mukden, Harbin, Kirin, and Port Arthur; and its general prosperity is high.

"Two utilities escape any taint of modernism—the fire fighting of the cities and the roads of the countryside. In [illegible] the Chinese Chamber of Commerce has a fire brigade, which has the hand pump, hose cart and bucket equipment like that found in New England towns as precious relics of colonial days. If volunteers are not at hand or if the fire is too far from a well, as frequently is the case, this provision is not effective.

"Outside the cities Manchuria roads are cart tracks. The heavier the traffic the worse the road. Hard use engenders no good roads campaigns. There is a famous cart road from [illegible] where carts roll south from October to February at a rate of 3,500 a day. These bring down grain, beans, fuel, skin and produce. They travel back with oil, woven goods, matches, and various household needs.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night just to keep right. Try them. 15c and 30c.

POETRY

The Call of the City

Vast and far, like a thing of dreams,
With palace and mart and spire,
With the tread of a million hurrying feet,
With hope and regret and desire—
The city lies and it calls with a voice
That touches men's soul with fire.

The fields stretch far to the rim of the day,
And afar to the rising sun,
The valleys between bear lilies white
As the mood of a cloistered nun;
The winds of heaven, untrammeled and sweet,
Fan meadow and fen and fell—
But over and over the wind fares forth
With its burden, the city's call.

The maid who dreams by the side of the brook
That flows from the niche in the hill,
Heeds not that the bird on the blossoming spray
Sits mute to hear her trill
The tender lilt of an old love song,
For she catches the throng's acclaim
In the voice of the brook and the whispering breeze—
The bring her the message of fame.

The youth with his hand on the stubborn plow,
As furrow on furrow he turns,
Bares his head to the tempter breeze
And a wondrous fire there burns
In the depths of his steadfast, grave young eyes
As he sends there strong and tall—
For over the hush of the fallow [illegible]
Comes stealing the city's call.

The student bending to parchment and page,
While the midnight oil burns low,
Delves on and on, for the way is long
That the searcher for truth must go—
But a glow o'erspreads his strange wan face,
As he lets the last page fall,
For into the quiet, shadowed room
Comes creeping the city's call.

Vast and far, like a thing of dreams
With palace and mart and spire,
With the tread of a million hurrying feet,
With hope and regret and desire—
The city lies and it calls with a voice
That touches man's soul with desire

LIFE

We are born; we laugh; we weep;
We love; we droop; we die!
Ah! wherefore do we laugh or weep?
Why do we live or die?
Who knows that secret deep?
Alas, not I!

Why doth the violet spring
Unseen by human eye?
Why do the radiant seasons bring
Sweet thoughts that quickly fly?
Why do our fond hearts cling
To things that die?

We toil—through pain and wrong:
We fight—and fly;
We love; we lose; and then, ere long
Stone-dead we lie.
O life is all thy song
"Endure and—die?"

"Say, George, do you think there's anything in this talk of our being descended from sponges?"

"Utter rot, Henry, don't listen to it. Got a butt?"—The Brown Jug.

Judge—"What brot you here?"
Prisoner—"Two policemen."
Judge—"Drunk, I suppose?"
Prisoner—"Yes, both of them."
—Judy's Magazine.

Parker—Our women have learnt to spend the silliest sums on their frocks. Have you ever realised how much your wife's clothes have got to cost you?

Churcher—(gloomily) It's easy. I just add my income to what I owe.—London Mail.

Banker—Now, if you will give me the exact location of the house on which you applied for a loan last week, I think we can accommodate you.

Kansas House Owner (hesitating)—It's rather hard to say. You see, we had a tornado last night.—Judge.

NAVY DAY PROCLAMATION BY MAYOR WATERS

By the authority of the Navy Department and with the approval of the President of the United States and the Governor of the State of Connecticut, Monday, November 27, has been designated as Navy Day. On this day it is hoped that our people will be brought to a realization of the extent and value to this country of its first line of defense against an invading foe, and a remembrance of the self sacrifice and valor shown by the officers and men of the Navy and Marine Corps on many a sea and many a battle field. I request that the people of Norwich display the National Colors on this occasion. On Navy Day the Submarine Base, the headquarters for submarines on the Atlantic Coast, will be thrown open for public inspection and I hope that as many as possible will take advantage of this opportunity. Courteous guides will be in attendance, and the well known hospitality of the Navy will be extended to every visitor.

MILO R. WATERS,
Mayor of the City of Norwich.

BINGHAM SHOWS FINE RECORD OF REPUBLICAN ADMINISTRATION

Preceded by a reception at the Wauregan house from 7.30 to 8 o'clock, an enthusiastic republican rally in the town hall opened the political campaign here Tuesday evening, with a standing room crowd of between 600 and 700 to greet Col. Hiram Bingham, republican nominee for governor, United States Senator Bert M. Fernald of Maine, and Congressman Richard P. Freeman of New London, who were the speakers. Hon. H. H. Gallup, a former state treasurer, introduced the speakers.

As the speakers were escorted into the hall by Chairman Gallup and Arthur F. Libby, chairman of the republican town committee, the audience rose and welcomed them with prolonged applause, and after a selection by the Italian band, Chairman Gallup introduced Colonel Bingham, telling the audience that the great gathering foretold the election of Mr. Coolidge for president and Colonel Bingham for governor.

Addressing his hearers as "My friends of Norwich," Colonel Bingham went on to speak of his ancestry which traced back to Deacon Thomas Bingham, the youngest of the Norwich settlers, and to John Brewster, on his mother's side, while he had married a girl who was descended from four or five of the early settlers of Norwich. Her grandfather, Alfred Mitchell, was pastor of one of the Norwich churches.

In his experience as lieutenant-governor he had been struck by the fact, he said, that the senators of Connecticut had attended to business in the legislature and had used old fashioned common sense in handling the state's business. Requests for 50 millions in appropriations had come in to the appropriations committee, but these had been cut down by 30 millions by the committee of which Senator E. E. Rogers of New London was chairman, Senator John Trumbull, head of the finance committee, is another splendid example of the kind of men the republicans believe in. He had shown thorough businesslike ability in insisting upon the serial clause for payment of bond issues, whenever these were granted to towns. There is nothing like that in the platform of our windy friends. The issue before the people today is Coolidge and common sense as opposed to demagoguery and fool promises on the other side.

Situation in the State.

Taking up the situation in the state, Colonel Bingham spoke in part as follows:

"It has been our policy year after year to balance our books, to stick to the policy of 'pay-as-you-go' and not to fool the citizens of Connecticut into thinking that they were getting the benefits of state government without having to pay the bills," Colonel Bingham declared.

"In Connecticut the republican party has been in power for nearly ten years In determining how to vote in the coming state election it is appropriate for the citizen to study the record which has been made by the party in power as well as to study its platform and the platform of the democratic party and its record when it was last in control of the state of Connecticut. Actions speak louder than words, performances are more weighty than promises. In 1911, when the last democratic governor came to the capitol in Hartford the net debt of the state of Connecticut was nearly $4,000,000. During the next four years, while the administration was democratic, the net debt of the state of Connecticut was increased by over $7,000,000; so that when the republicans came back into power, in 1915, the net debt was nearly $11,000,000. Since then we have had the great war, the increasing cost of living, the hard times of 1920 and the necessity of providing for the needs of disabled soldiers and their dependants. These things have been faced squarely by succeeding republican administrations and have been handled in such a thoroughly business-like manner that in the nine years of republican administration the net debt has been reduced by $11,000,000, and is now entirely wiped out. Similarly, the funded debt has been provided for by a sinking fund. So that Connecticut republicans are able to offer for your consideration the fact that, unlike practically every other state in the Union, this state is out of debt. It has been our policy year after year to balance our books to stick to the policy of 'pay-as-you-go,' and not to fool the citizens of Connecticut into thinking that they were getting the benefits of state government without having to pay the bills.

Accomplishments Not Promises.

"In the last two years of democratic administration in Connecticut there was an annual deficit of about $2,-500,000. On the other hand in the last two years of republican administration in Connecticut there has been a small annual surplus. These are facts, not theories. These are accomplishments, not promises. It is significant that the democratic platform on which the present candidates for state offices are running proposes to repeal the gasoline tax, the personal tax, and the tax on unincorporated business. From these three sources the state of Connecticut derives $2,500,000 a year. The platform of the democratic party does not say where it proposes to raise this money. Can it be that it actually has it in mind to do what it did during the last two years when the democrats were in power in Connecticut and run an annual deficit of $2,-500,000 Is it not fair to draw the inference from democratic past performances and democratic promises that the democratic party does not believe in the present policy of paying your bills as you incur them, but prefers to fool the voters into thinking that they are getting the benefits of government at reduced cost, when what they are really doing is to shift the burden to the next generation by meeting current expenses out of borrowed money?

"The democrats say that in order to achieve this splendid financial record the republican party has grossly increased the taxes which the citizens of Connecticut have to pay into the state treasury. It is true these taxes have been increased; but so have the taxes of every other state in the Union, and before passing final judgment on the action of the republican party in increasing the taxes of Connecticut let us see what has been the experience of other states. The latest available figures are those published by the Federal Trade Commission. They give the amount of taxation raised for state purposes in every state in the Union for the five-year period 1917-1922. I am sorry that they do not come down to 1924, for that would put Connecticut in an even more favorable light, since the last general assembly reduced the state tax on general property by 25 per cent. However, let us take these figures as they are given for the five-year period and see what they show as to epublican extravagance in Connecticut. Throughout the United States the average increase in state taxation has been slightly over 100 per cent. In other words, during the five-year period the average state has slightly more than doubled the tax burden which it has laid on its citizens. New York state has increased its taxes 101 per cent., and may be said to represent the general average for the states of the Union. Pennsylvania has increased its taxes by 136 per cent. New Hampshire has increased its taxes by 168 per cent. Wisconsin by 101 per cent; Massachusetts by 57 per cent.; Oregon by 261 per cent.; Connecticut by only 15 per cent. Under the republican administration we find that Connecticut has increased its taxes less than any other state in the Union, the nearest state to Connecticut having increased its taxes more than twice as much as Connecticut has. We are very proud of this record of the republican party in Connecticut. We feel that it justifies the confidence which the voters of the state have placed in it. It has not been achieved by attempting a parsimonious policy. It has never pretended that state government does not cost money, and it has placed the burden of meeting these expenses on the taxpayers who enjoy the benefits of state government although, as has been shown, this burden has been increased less than in any other state in the Union.

Just and Equitable Taxes.

Like the national administration our state administration believes in economy and while we realize how pleasant it would be to have the state spend millions of dollars more for various worthy purposes, we do not propose to increase the burdens on Connecticut taxpayers. On the other hand, it has been our policy to try and levy taxes in a just and equitable manner. The personal tax of two dollars, which the democrats propose to repeal and which raises about a million dollars a year for the state, is a small annual assessment which calls to the attention of every voter the fact that you cannot get something for nothing, and that the conduct of the government and the way it spends is something in which he has a direct personal interest. The offer to repeal it is little less than a two dollar gratuity by means of which the democratic party hopes to please the voter who would like to believe that he can enjoy the blessings of government at the cost of somebody else. Another tax which they propose to repeal—the gasoline tax—seems to me one of the fairest which has ever been devised. It realizes a million dollars a year. This money is all devoted to repairs on the roads. If you use the roads a great deal you must burn a lot of gasoline, and the more gasoline you use the more tax you pay, the more money there is with which to repair the roads. If you do not use the roads you do not burn gasoline, you do not have to furnish that quota of the tax for road repair. Could anything be fairer than that? Why is it that the democratic party proposes to repeal that tax? Is it because so many voters buy gasoline and would like to get it for a cent a gallon less? There is nothing in the democratic platform about spending less money on road repair. Hence we are led to believe that they propose to raise the money in some other way, preferably in some way which will not call so forcibly to the mind of the voter that the cost of road repair rests on his shoulders."

The National Situation

Taking up the national situation, Colonel Bingham said the important appointive powers which the president has makes it highly desirable that the man in this office should be a good judge of men, must know how to pick the right men. Mr. Davis had his one great moment in picking a man at the end of that two weeks circus that was called a democratic convention, and when he looked around to see who should have a place on the ticket with him he decided it should be Brother Charlie. Either Mr. Davis must have thought that Mr. Bryan was the best man or it was political expediency. Well, Brother Charlie made a pretty fair governor of Nebraska; at least he says he never disagreed with William J., but Connecticut has never been very strong for the Bryan family. What do you think of John W. Davis as a picker?

Mr. LaFollette picked his delegates and his platform, from which he is throwing away several planks already as it is a platform made to get in on and not to stand on. Then LaFollette picked Mr. Wheeler for his running mate and the soldiers tell us of Mr. Wheeler that he was doing his best during the war to keep out of jail the I. W. W.'s and others who were doing all they could to keep us from winning the war. Can it be that the people of the United States are to vote for a man for president who was nearly thrown out of the United States senate for his disloyalty?

But the republicans have two men of courage and common sense at the head of their ticket, Mr Coolidge did not pick his vice president. He left that to the convention, but he has picked distinguished men of unquestioned ability to fill vacancies in his cabinet.

With a quiet touch of humor, Colonel Bingham related a number of amusing incidents in the life of Mr. Coolidge that illustrated his aptness in saying and doing the right thing at the right time and the speaker declared that the republican candidate was a man of great human sympathy and willingness to study a question down to the bottom and not be rushed into an answer. He believes that government exists for securing justice for the individual and for nothing else.

Colonel Bingham closed with the pledge that, if elected, to see that the citizens of Connecticut secure justice without regard to party, creed, race or color.

Chairman Gallup led in three cheers for the gubernatorial candidate, who left the hall immediately to proceed to another point in his campaign. The applause continued until he had passed out of sight.

Senator Fernald Speaks

After a selection by the band, Chairman Gallup introduced Senator Fernald as one who had been elected in Maine by a majority of over 50,000, a good omen to bear out the saying that "as Maine goes, so goes the Union."

This splendid audience, said the Maine senator, certifies that the next governor of Connecticut will be a republican and his name will be Bingham, that the next congressman from this district will be a republican and his name will be Freeman, and that the next president of the United States will be a republican and his name will be Coolidge.

He predicted the election of Coolidge by an even greater majority than Harding received and said that he had never heard a more manly speech than that of Colonel Bingham, or a more businesslike statement of facts by a man that any state would be proud of.

Whenever we have had a democratic president, from Buchanan, through Johnson, Cleveland and Wilson, we have had the same conditions of unemployment with millions of men out of work. Under President Wilson in 1914 there were eight million unemployed and there would have been a change in the administration in 1916 if it had not been for the war. During the republican administration of the last four years the national debt of 26 billion has been reduced to less than 21 billion, government bonds have been raised to par or better, putting three billion into the pockets of the people, and we'll pay off the entire national debt in 12 years if we can continue the policy of Coolidge and Mellon, the greatest secretary of the treasury since Alexander Hamilton.

Senator Fernald said the 10,480 bills had come before the congress of which Congressman Freeman was a member and he told the audience that Norwich ought to be able to get anything it wanted in harbor improvement as Mr. Freeman is the ranking member of the rivers and harbors committee and he is the ranking member of the committee on commerce and would promise to back anything that Mr. Freeman wanted.

The last congress has passed 290 bills, more than any previous congress has done, the budget bill has been passed and the number of employes reduced from 126,000 to 72,000 with a further cut of 12,000 to be made if the administration is continued.

The tariff has protected the working man against the product of countries where they pay children 12 cents a day for 12 hours work, women 15 cents a day and men 25 cents a day. We are paying twice the wages of any other government and we need to keep the republican administration to protect the working man and the farmer as well.

Lafollette advocates things that are not American. He's against everybody who is doing big business and he wants to take over the railroads and the public utilities. It is alluring to some people to think they will be in government employ. All his talk about the railroads, the price of sugar, the price of gasoline, is the talk of a demagogue that is not borne out by the facts and he has dropped his plank about amendments to the constitution. We are going to elect men who believe in standing by the constitution.

Senator Fernald closed with a eulogy of President Coolidge as a man of the Lincoln type and was enthusiastically applauded.

After a selection by the band Congressman Freeman spoke a few words declaring that he had heard two mighty good speeches and he felt sure that two weeks from tonight we will roll up a tremendous majority for Coolidge and Dawes.

The rally closed with the singing of America, led by the band

LECTURES UPON OUR CONSTITUTIONAL GOVERNMENT

Our Constitutional Government was the subject of the third of the lectures in the course given Monday afternoon at Slater hall annex by Mrs. Morrill Hamlin of Greenwich before a group of women who listened to her with absorbing interest.

Our constitution, she said, was a great instrument written for human needs and she dicussed somewhat in detail the first ten articles written by the forefathers and the bill of rights devised by the states to protect the individual against the encroachments of the federal government. She advocated that these first ten articles and the bill of rights ought to be printed in every newspaper in the country for the instruction of the people. She mentioned what she declared was three invasions of constitutional rights—the Klan, when it interfered with the right of worship and asylum, prohibition agents when they exercise illegal search and seizure; and LaFollette when he proposes to take private property without just compensation.

She described how the supreme court was designed as a needed agency to stand between the will of the people and the mob rule of congress and expressed her conviction that the people would never consent to have that protection to their liberties done away with.

Speaking of amendments to the constitution, she mentioned that there had been 170 proposed in the last year and she spoke strongly in favor of the child labor amendment, reading extracts from a speech by Samuel Gompers in which he said that child labor conditions in this country put the United States in a class with Turkey, India, China and Japan.

Mrs. Hamlin spoke of several extremely satisfactory amendments to the constitution which might be passed. These included the president take his seat and congress convene in January instead of March, a universal divorce law for the states; a new way of ratifying amendments by popular vote, the abolishment of the electoral college and the election of president by popular vote, and a referendum on war except in case of invasion.

The final lecture in the series will be upon The World Remade.

SUPREME COURT HEARS FIVE APPEALED CASES

The supreme court docket was completed here Tuesday by the hearing of five of the six cases that were ready. One case, the first on the list, was withdrawn, plaintiff's appeal in Salvatore Sabillo of Waterford against the Connecticut Co., in which Sabillo had been given a verdict for $1,500 by the jury in the superior court in his suit for $4,000 damages because his motor truck was hit by a trolley car when it was backed up to a house to deliver a piano, the front wheels of the truck standing across the trolley tracks.

For Damage to Automobile.

Chief Justice George W. Wheeler presided and arguments were made in the following cases by attorneys for the litigants:

Appeal by the Connecticut Co. against the $4,500 verdict given by a jury in favor of Lycurgus M. Sigsbee, manager of a New London brokerage office who sued for $15,000 for damages to his St. Claire roadster, which was hit by a trolley car on Broad street, New London, July 13, 1923. Mr. Sigsbee claimed that his car was a total loss. Geary, Davis and Keefe appeared for the plaintiff and Day, Berry and Reynolds for the defendant.

Note Endorser Appeals.

Appeal by the defendant, John Turello of New London, in a suit brought against him by Guiseppi Contino in Turello's endorsement of a note for $6,000, May 4, 1921. The note was made by Giosue Duca and Augustino Di Noto. Judge George E. Hinman gave judgment for Contino to recover from Turello $6,000, the amount of the note, interest amounting to $1,-014, a total of $7,014 and costs. Hull, McGuire and Hull were attorneys for the plaintiff, and Philip Z. Hankey for the defendant.

For Death of Woman.

An appeal by the Connecticut Co. and the Shore Line Electric Railway Co. receiver against a $5,000 jury verdict for the death of Mrs. Cecelia Plona of Waterford. Suit was brought by her husband as administrator of her estate. Mrs. Plona was instantly killed on the night of November 28, 1922, when she was struck by a trolley car on the track close to her home in Waterford. Suit was brought for $10,-000 with Thomas E. Troland and Hull, McGuire & Hull attorneys for the plaintiff and C. B. Whittlesey attorney for the defendant.

Child Injured On Barbed Wire.

Bridget A., James H., and Agnes M. Sheedy, all of New London, appealed the $400 verdict given by a jury for Elizabeth Ruth Bruce Skaling, a minor, who sued for $5,000 for injuries she received February 13, 1922, while coasting on a sled that ran onto a lot owned by the Sheedy defendants where there was a barbed wire fence less than five feet from the ground. The Skaling girl, who was then seven years old, was caught on the fence and severely torn. Geary, Davis and Keefe were the plaintiff's attorneys and Hull, McGuire and Hull for the defendants.

Endorsed Note.

Jacob Solomon of New London, endorser on a $5000 note of the Shalett Dyeing and Cleaning Co., of New London, appealed from a verdict of $5,-780 against him in favor of M. R. Davis of East Lyme and Arthur T. Keefe of New London also endorsers of the note, which was dated April 18, 1921. Upon trial of the case the court directed the jury to return a verdict for the plaintiffs. Geary, Davis & Keefe were counsel for the plaintiffs and Hull, McGuire and Hull for the defendants.

Three cases that were on the docket had not been printed and accordingly could not be heard.

THREE ARE FINED FOR RECEIVING STOLEN GOODS

Found guilty of receiving stolen goods, Ralph Diminicco and Ernest D'Andri, both of 11 Lake street, and Vergilio Deminicco of No. 426 East Main street were each fined $10 and costs and given 30 day jail sentences by Judge Arthur F. Libby in the city court Tuesday morning. The jail sentences were suspended for one year and the accused are to make full restitution. The original charge against the trio was theft of cloth from the United States Finishing Co., but the charge was changed after they had told their stories as to where the cloth first came from. The accused paid court bills of $22.22 each. Ralph Diminicco made restitution to the amount of $8.12; D'Andri made restitution of $6.19 and Vergilio Deminicco restitution of $5.78.

The court discharged Herbert Clark of this city, Judge Libby finding that the evidence on a breach of peace charge did not warrant any other procedure. A Central Village man and a local man charged with intoxication were fined $5 and costs each. They could not pay and went to jail for 17 days.

The charge of failure to grant the right of way to a motor vehicle against Victor Davis was nolled on payment of $20. The first charge against Davis was reckless driving but this was changed to failure to grant the right of way. His Dodge car figured in an accident with a Ford owned by Mrs. Barton of Laurel Hill Avenue, Friday evening in Taftville.

WOMAN WHO SUED AT 92 GETS $500 WITH INTEREST

Judge F. M. Peasley in the superior court for Tolland county at Rockville, has recently given a decision of considerable interest to members of the bar as well as to laymen. In the suit of Mary Smith, 92, now an inmate of the townhouse in Wethersfield, against Eliza G. Lavin, also of Wethersfield, tried before Judge Peasley and a jury to recover $500 money loaned, a verdict was given for Mrs. Smith, awarding her $500 and interest covering a period of about ten years.

The defendant's counsel, in order to perfect an appeal to the supreme court, asked Judge Peasley for a finding of facts, which the judge promptly denied, so that now there can be no appeal. In his ruling Judge Peasley says

"Were a finding to be made in the words of the proposed draft, it is obvious that the appeal would be futile. I am satisfied that the verdict was just and fully supported by the evidence, and that delay in paying the judgment would be a serious hardship to the aged and needy plaintiff. For those reasons the request for a finding to be made, is denied."

Counsel in the case were Frederick Manning of Manchester for the defendant, Mrs. Lavin, and ex-Congressman Augustine Lonergan for Mrs. Smith. Lawyers say that the case is an unusual one and establishes a precedent.

EMPLOYED BOYS ELECT BROTHERHOOD OFFICERS

The first meeting of the Employed Boys' Brotherhood of the Y. M. C. A. with an attendance of 35, was held on Tuesday evening. The officers were elected as follows: President, Albert Leffingwell; vice president, Floyd Lambert; secretary, Richard Oat; treasurer, Howard Ludlow.

A supper was served and songs were sung. Later plans were made for a trip to New Haven next Saturday. The meetings of the Brotherhood will be held Tuesdays at 6.15 p. m. instead of Thursdays.

AETNA FIVE WINS MATCH FROM FRANK BARBER'S DANIELSON TEAM

The first of a series of matches for purses of $100 each was rolled at the Aetna alleys Tuesday evening betwen Frankie Barber's Danielson team and the Aetna five of the Eastern Connecticut Bowling league in which the latter won by a 33 pin margin. The match was for total pinfall rather than strings. Either way the Aetna team would have won for the first two strings went to the local five.

The local bowlers took the lead in the first string piling up 536 pins while the visitors hit an even 500. Foster and Hull being the high rollers that pulled the Aetna through. In the second string the local five picked up 28 pins more through the high scores of Harold Hull and Fillmore. The last string went to the visitors by 28 pins.

Mike Foster took the individual honors for the match, his first string of 121 giving him high single, to which he added 100 and 111 for a total of 342.

The next match will be rolled at Barber's alleys in Danielson on next Tuesday evening for the same purse. The scores:

NAVY ELEVEN HARD HIT THROUGH INJURIES

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 21—A crippled navy eleven will take the field against West Virginia Wesleyan here on Saturday. This became known today with the announcement that Lentz, the husky left guard, and Flippen, halfback, have fractures of the nose. Banks, a first string back, is afflicted in a like manner, and he, too, will be out of the game for some time. Forsberg, also remains idle because of injury.

But perhaps the most serious loss to the team as far as the big game with West Point is concerned, is that of Clyde. He was regular tackle last season and was traveling a smooth road to land a permanent berth again this year. Only recently recovered from a broken collar bone sustained in an automobile accident during his summer vacation, he got into the lineup against Princeton Saturday. It was reported that his shoulder was badly hurt but it develops that his trouble is a bad knee injury that will keep him out of play for the balance of the year.

ACADEMY PREPARES FOR STONINGTON HIGH

Encouraged by holding one of the fastest teams in the interscholastic eague to a scoreless tie, the Academy gridiron men are preparing themselves for their next big objective, their game with Stonington an aggressive team and one of the leaders on the football field this year. The Academy morale which fell quite low after the game with Chapman Tech has now risen to fever heat again after the marked improvement shown by the team in their last game. Although they were not able to score they showed themselves to be a team of very high calibre and great things are to be expected of them this season.

Coach Atkens is putting his men through the regular routine of practice. There will be several hard days of scrimmage before the game and also some intensive signal practice. Although the Academy men are confident of a victory they are not underating the ability of their opponents.

This game should be an excellent one from the spectator's point of view and large crowds of Norwich football fans and rooters should attend to cheer their home team to victory. It is to be suggested that a larger crowd of the student body should attend than have been in the habit of attending in the past.

SECRETARY WEEKS TO BE GUEST OT SERVICE GAME

New York, Oct. 21.—Secretary of War John W. Weeks today accepted the invitation of Major General James G. Harbord to attend the football game between teams of the Quantico Marines and the scouting fleet of the navy, at the Yankee stadium next Monday, Navy Day. Secretary Weeks will occupy a box across the field from Secretary Wilbur of the Navy.

A committee consisting of General Harbord, the Secretaries of War and Navy, Rear Admiral Eberle, Chief of naval operations, Major General John A. LeJeune, Vincent Astor, Rodman Wanamaker, Mayor Hylan and Rear Admiral Charles P. Plunkett will act as patrons.

Both teams will include former college football stars from all parts of the United States, including Lieut. Frank Goettge, formerly All-American back of Ohio University; John W. Beckett, All-American tackle of Oregon in 1916, and Harry Liversedge, one time Olympic champion shot putter.

LANDIS WILL BE GUEST AT DINNER FOR DREYFUSS

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 21.—Kenesaw M. Landis, baseball commissioner, and Barney Dreyfuss, owner of the Pittsburgh Pirates, who were at odds concerning the manner in which the investigation of the recent baseball scandal was conducted, will meet at the festive board here in event the former judge can cancel a previous engagement, according to the committee arranging for the Dreyfuss testimonial dinner next Saturday. The committee invited Commissioner Landis to attend as a guest of honor, and in a telegram received today, the commission said he would be on hand if he succeeded in breaking a previous date.

With Landis and Dreyfuss at the same table, followers of baseball are inclined to believe that the controversy between the commissioner and the magnate may be revived.

YALE TEAM HAS FIRST SCRIMMAGE SINCE SATURDAY

New Haven, Oct. 21—The Yale varsity had a long hard scrimmage today, the first since the battle with the Dartmouth eleven last Saturday. The lineup was the same which started the game Saturday except that Eckart was in his old position at right guard.

Through the greater part of the scrimmage, close formations were used and the varsity made three touchdowns against the scrubs. Cottle made the first touchdown after a series of line plunges, and he scored the second also after a 50-yard run. The third touchdown was carried over by Bench who was playing quarterback.

United States Senator James W. Wadsworth, Yale '98, who played on the Yale baseball team, was at the field and watched the practice. His son, Jerry Wadsworth, is one of the substitute quarterbacks and today was running the second team.

ST. PATRICK'S TEAM BEATS THE ACADEMY SECONDS

The grammar school football champions of 1922 and 1923 took on the Academy Scrubs Monday afternoon at the Campus and defeated them 13 to 7 in a close and interesting game. The St. Patrick's team, light but fast, having beaten the Elizabeth street team 26 to 0, found keener apposition in their heavier opponents. Mingo with his forward passing netted one touchdown while a trick play on the part of Berghinzo brought the other. Shea, fullback for the Saints, netted 10 to 15 yards each time he was given the ball. The lineup of the Saints was: Saunders, le; Drew, lt; Carpenter, lg; Finnegan, c; Kelly, rg; Fournier, rt; Riley re; Marks, qb; Mingo, lhb; Shea, fb.

BIG CROWD EXPECTED AT HARVARD-DARTMOUTH GAME

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 21.—A capacity crowd of 51,000 persons for the Harvard-Dartmouth football game in the stadium Saturday was assured today when the four thousand seats reserved for the season ticket holders were snapped up with many persons still waiting in line. Those turned away included former varsity players who sought to add to allotments.

Racing Dates For 1925

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 21.—Officers of the Ohio state Jockey club and the Brooklyn Jockey club today announced dates for the spring running race meetings at their tracks for 1925. The Maple Heights meeting is from May 9 to May 30, inclusive and the Brooklyn meeting from June 6 to June 20, inclusive.

The Ohio state Derby, date not yet fixed will be run on a Saturday at the Maple Heights meeting for a $10,000 added money purse.

Cullen Makes Flynn Offer

Newark, N. J., Oct. 21—Babe Cullen, National Sportsmen's club promoter today announced that he has wired Leo Flynn, manager of Dave Shade, an offer of $10,000 to have Shade fight Mickey Walker, welterweight champion, at the Newark armory, November 24.

CHAPMAN TECH CLASHES WITH WESTERLY FRIDAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Oct. 21.—The climax, although most generally reached with the termination of a teams season, will not be the situation at Chapman Tech where the season will be climaxed at Morgan Park on Friday afternoon when the locals will meet a determined Westerly High School eleven in what will prove to be a deciding contest of the Eastern Connecticut football league. All the teams entered in this league will be affected directly or indirectly pending the outcome of this important game. As a direct consequence, with a free day for the school boys in this state, due to a teachers' meeting, one of the largest gatherings of school boys from all schools in this section of the state will be seen on the side lines when the battle gets under way.

Unless some unusual circumstance should develop in the meantime, the outcome of the leading league battle seems to find Tech favored to win by a slight margin. But the margin is so slight that the Red and Black will not have any easy time coming out on top. Only a comparison of the strength of the two rival teams can be made in the contest each team played with Norwich Free Academy. Chapman Tech gained a rather impressive victory over the Rose City eleven, and on the other hand, the Academy reinforced by two additional players, played the Westerly eleven to a standstill, but were only able to return with neither team having decided which is the better.

Judging from the performance against the Red and White machine, and expecting the same opposition, we should say that the locals are in line for a victory. But football has its ups and downs, and victory is sometimes turned into defeat by some unexpected element which happens to enter into a one sided contest. Westerly which usually sends along its large delegation, besides its eleven, will give the game a real football flavor. With the October weather which is made most propitious to football prevailing, one of the largest gatherings of football enthusiasts in a single game will be had.

And then the gathering is expected to harbor players and the coach of the Academy team to learn something of each team. For it is expected that all the plays and various deceiving formations will be used with little thought of giving the opposition a chance to size up the plays. The one thought upper most in the minds of both Westerly and Tech elevens will be to win, for the game is sure to blossom into a hard fought battle.

Tech after its game with Killingly had very few after effects. The team as a whole returned to practice Monday with determination and gusto to bring the Eastern Connecticut league bacon to this city. The same strong play of the past two games previous to the Killingly contest was evident once again and on foreign territory, too. While Westerly has been solving Tech's plays, a surprise in the manner of an entirely new attack will meet the Rhode Islanders, so that their preparation will be for naught. While straight football predominated in the game with Killingly, it was demonstrated that Tech could complete forward passes also, and just what kind of an attack will be tried on Friday remains for the coaches to decide. But as far as could be understood from the practice sessions, the overhead game will figure strongly in the final outcome.

BULKELEY WILL CLASH WITH CROSBY THIS WEEK

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Oct. 21.—A record in four games played to date that stands out as the best ever turned in by a Bulkeley football team of all times, finds the wearers of the Orange and Black preparing to keep this record intact even though a powerful combination such as Crosby High of Waterbury will be Bulkeley's fifth opponent in as many weeks. It will be a contest worth seeing, for with a Bulkeley team determined on to greater efforts, a powerful eleven such as Crosby will find Bulkeley as tough an opponent as its pceding elevens, namely Springfield Tech and Naugatuck have found it.

Incidently this will be the final home game of the present season, and of course the last chance to see the Bulkeley machine in action. The feat of turning in two victories at the expense of teams of such high calibre as Springfield Technical H.h and the Naugatuck High, finds no precedent in Bulkeley football annals. The victories both decisive and clean cut, have given some of the other teams in the state something additional to thing about.

It is only hoped that the winning streak can keep up until some of the present cripples can once again rejoin the squad. Contrary to custom, although the Naugatuck game was a gruelsome game fortunately no one on the squad was injured to any great extent to make him refrain from reporting for practice today. Coach Canty has enough cripples on the squad now, and is doing marvelous work with the material on hand. It is hoped that no more injuries will make themselves evident in the remaining contests.

McCarthy Football Director

New York, Oct. 21.—Ray McCarthy, newspaper man and former Lehigh athlete, has been named football director at Yankee stadium for 1925, the New York American league baseball club announced tonight. He will begin his duties of arranging games for next year immediately.

SPORTING NOTES

Records of golf being played at St. Andrews, Scotland, go back to 1552.

The Stanford university athletic plant, covering 149 acres, is one of the largest possessed by any American university.

John McGraw says that he is pleased that the Washington Senators won the championship. That makes it unanimous.

The Army-Yale game to be played at New Haven on November 1 is expected to be one of the biggest drawing cards of the season.

Some good boxing shows are being staged for the entertainment of the fans in New York this winter at prices ranging from 50 cents to two dollars.

With a stable of only 8 horses, Mrs. Sofer Whitburn, one of the most prominent women owners on the English turf, won nearly $40,000 in stakes during the past racing season.

The Myopia Hunt Club at Hamilton, Mass., which is to have the honor of entertaining the Prince of Wales, is New England's best-known hunt club and one of the foremost in the entire country.

Ever since he started to play football for Harvard in 1909 Bob Fisher has taken a prominent part in Crimson gridiron history. Fisher played three years in the Harvard line, establishing a great reputation and ending up in 1911 as captain of the eleven. From 1912 until 1916 he was assistant coach. After the World war, in 1919, he became head coach, succeeding Percy D. Haughton, who had sought other fields. He is still on the job.

The University of Chicago football eleven will play only one game away from home this season, that with Ohio State University.

The Florida resorts are preparing for a record season of winter sports, the program to include everything from golf to horseshoes.

The pugilistic stock of Tommy Loughran, the Philadelphia middleweight, has been boosted many points by the great showing he made against Champion Harry Greb. A return match between the two will doubtless be arranged at an early date.

The biggest bag of pheasants ever obtained in a day in Britain is credited to seven guns, including King George and the Prince of Wales, who brought down 3,937 pheasants, 3 partridges, 4 rabbits, and 1 various at Hall Barn, in Buckingham, in December, 1913.

The attendance at the Giants-White Sox games on their coming European tour will probably be far in excess of that at the Boston-Athletics games played on the first visit to Great Britain fifty years ago, when baseball was almost wholly unknown on the other side.

Manila has started a campaign to raise funds by subcription to erect the new Jose Rizal Memorial stadium, part of which it is hoped to have in shape for the Far Eastern track and field sports to be held next May.

The sport of fox hunting has flourished in the southern and eastern parts of the United States since colonial days, and is still pursued by several established clubs in Virginia, Kentucky, Maryland, and southern Pennsylvania, where the nature of the country favors it.

The first game between Yale and Princeton football teams was played in 1873, when Princeton won 3 to 0. This is, therefore, the oldest of the "Big Three" championship series and antedates the Harvard-Yale series by two years, and the Princeton-Harvard series by four years.

Leo P. Flynn is entitled to be called a champion in pugilism, not as a fighter but as a manager. The Flynn stable includes nearly an even score of boxers, ranging from flyweights to heavyweights. FEATHERWEIGHT TITLE TO BE DECIDED BY SERIES OF ELIMINATION BOUTS

New York, Oct. 21. — Rules under which contenders for the title left vacant by the resignation of Johnny Dundee, former champion, were defined by the State Athletic Commission today.

The six most logical contenders, in the opinion of the commission, will meet in an elimination tournament to be conducted by the commission, all of them meeting on the same card in three ten round exhibitions. The winners will then meet and the champion will be determined by the process of elimination. The contestants will be weighed in at the commission and the pairings determined by a draw to be held at the office of the board. This plan will be put into operation as soon as a promoter can be obtained to stage the tournament.

The triangle which has developed in the light heavyweight title situation since Paul Berlenbach became a contender, failed to show any material change today despite rumors to the effect that the managers of Tunney and Berlenbach had agreed to allow Berlenbach to make Mike McTigue's first opponent with the stipulation be allowed to meet the winner.

This proposition was placed before the commission today but this body refused to discuss such an agreement with the manager unless it is placed in writing and signed by the managers of three principals. The board has ruled that Tunney must be McTigue's first opponent if he attempts to exhibit his wares in this state but Tunney has made a concession that he will waive his right to this match if he is guaranteed a match with the winner within a reasonable length of time. The principals will appear before the board on Friday with written articles of agreement for the approval of the commission.

Add Amazing Endurance to Unequaled Results

The success of the Chrysler Six, which has made it literally the talk of the country, is well founded.

It is not due to some single engineering innovation of a spectacular nature. It is a success that involves every phase of performance and ownership.

It is based on such fundamentals as power production and application, weight distribution, space engineering and the essentials of economy.

It is a success that has completely changed prevailing ideas of automotive design deemed essential for finer motoring. It has swept into the discard the cumbersome and the wasteful.

To cap the climax come such records as the recent performance at Fresno, Calif., when a stock model covered 1,000 continuous miles in 1007 minutes, 54 seconds. To unprecedented results is now added positive proof of amazing stamina and dogged endurance.

We are pleased to extend the convenience of time payments. Ask about Chrysler's attractive plan. Dealerseverywhere

NOMINEE C. G. MORRIS KEPT FROM DEM. RALLY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, Oct. 21.—Nearly four hundred democrats of the town of Windham meet at an enthusiastic and highly optimistic rally at the town hall here, Tuesday evening, heard addresses delivered by James L. May of New London, candidate for the comptroller; Wallace Jewett of Hampton, candidate for the state legislature from that town; Dr. E. G. Dolan of Manchester, and Former Congressman Augustine Lonergan, of Hartford, possible candidate for successor to the late Senator Frank B. Brandegee. There was a disappointment in carrying out the program, due to the inability of Charles G. Morris of Newtown, candidate for governor, to be present as scheduled.

At the opening of the rally Frank P. Fenton announced that he had received a telephone communication from Mr. Morris that while on his way here his car had figured in a serious automobile accident in Wallingford and that he could not attend. Although the nature of the accident was not made known, it was hinted that it might imply the loss of one life or two. Town Clerk Fenton introduced the speakers, James R. May leading the list, followed by Wallace Jewett of Hampton who presented some of the state issues in a lively discourse. Dr. E. G. Dolan with his customary eloquence spoke on state affairs, making mention of the stigma cast on the state republican party by the embezzlement of funds by one of its officials. Dr. Dolan included the name of Dawes in reviewing the misdeeds of republican national officials. He charged Dawes with untruthfulness in campaign speeches. Regarding the Klan issue, the speaker concluded, "The Catholic, the Jew and the negro do not need any protection from the Klan, but the Constitution of the United States does, and it shall have it, under a democratic administration."

Attorney Lonergan of Hartford delivered the main address. The names of Forbes, Fall and Dougherty were flayed with vigor, with marked emphasis on Forbes for his mismanagement of the veterans' bureau. Credit was given for the administrative ability of the late Warren G. Harding and Hughes, Mellon and Hoover. The speaker said that a chief executive needed leadership and he had failed at any time to distinguish that quality in President Coolidge. He pointed out several instances when the republican senate and house disagreed with the president and overrode his recommendations. Mr. Lonergan lauded John W. Davis as one of the few great men ever nominated for the presidency by any party and he went on to extol his ability as an executive. The speakers in turn asked for the whole-hearted support of Frank P. Fenton, candidate for the United States congress in the coming election. The name of Fenton appeared to cast a magnetic spell over the audience and the mention of it was always followed by a round of applause. The Willimantic B. P. O. E. band played popular selections on Main street and in the hall, prior to the rally. Besides the speakers and Chairman Fenton, the stage was occupied by some 30 prominent democrats of Windham and surrounding towns.

PLAINFIELD

It has been suggested that Plainfield schools might follow with profit the system of Newton schools as regards the "no school" signal on rainy and stormy days. They used to sound a signal when the weather would not permit children to be out. The school committee abolished this system for the following reasons: 1st, because everybody did not hear the signal; 2d, because it was almost impossible at an early hour to decide wisely whether there should be school; 3rd, because they thought that the parents ought to know when their children should not attend on account of bad weather. They also voted that the teachers should report at every session regardless of the weather. By adopting this system a great many lost days would be avoided. Many times a light rain is the cause of a half day wasted. It remains with the parents whether this system should work properly.

MASTER AND CREW OF RUM SCHOONER IN N. LONDON JAIL, LACKING BONDS

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, Oct. 21.—The three-masted schooner, Over The Top, British craft, hailing from St. Johns, New Brunswick, was seized off Block Island yesterday forenoon as a rum-runner by the revenue cutter Tampa and was brought into port by the cutter and later taken to the pier at the United States Coast Guard Academy. Today, the master and crew were before United States Commissioner Earl Mathewson of Norwich at the customs house, charged with violation of the laws of international navigation, as entered into by the United States and foreign countries last July, making it a violation of the law for a rum-laden schooner to traverse the sea within an hour's sailing distance of shore. The master of the schooner, Captain M. B. Westhaver, and the supercargo, were held in bail of $10,000 each, for hearing tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock, while the crew who gave their names as E. Jensen, S. Cohen, J. Plant, Milbourn Kinickle, Alexander Cotter and Oscar Kinickle, were held in bail of $1,000 each. Neither master nor the crew could furnish a surety and were remanded to jail to await hearing. A New York attorney, who will represent the interests of the captured seamen, will come to New London tomorrow and will supply bail at that time.

WHY WOMEN LOOK 40 AT 40

With dark circles under their eyes, sallow complexions, drawn expressions drooping shoulders, a lagging step, many women of forty have the appearance of women of sixty. In many cases this condition is caused by overwork or neglect of such warning symptoms, as headaches, backache, nervousness, dizzy spells, and irregularities which indicate ailments peculiar to women. If all women so afflicted would only rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound it would restore them to a normal healthy condition, and the premature signs of age will soon disappear.

The Over the Top has stored in her hold a most valuable cargo for she has 6000 cases of choice rye and Scotch whiskeys and alcohol.

Mrs. Virgillio Battelli, 225 Shaw street, complained to the police this morning that her premises were entered some time last night and that forty chickens, roosters and hens were stolen. Mrs. Battelli declared that there was no unusual sound heard about the house during the night, neither was the barking of her dog heard. The animal sleeps close to the hennery and barks viciously whenever anyone enters the yard.

Mrs. Alois Wyman, of Groton, Mrs. Charles Brooks and infant daughter, 4 Marshall place; Mrs. L. H. Smith and infant daughter, Groton, and Miss Ruth Potter, Hotel Mohican, patients at Lawrence hospital, were able to return to their respective homes today.

Jennie Gardner, wife of Adelbert L. Burr, died last night at her residence, 94 Warren street, after a few days' illness with pneumonia, following childbirth. Mrs. Burr, besides her husband and infant, is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles O. Gardner, who formerly resided in Hackensack, N. J.

An automobile truck owned by Charles Christiansen and operated by W. R. Francis, in passing through Ocean avenue, near the corner of School street last evening, struck the open door of a pleasure car. The owner of the pleasure automobile assumed responsibility for the accident, acknowledging carelessness in leaving the car door open.

Boleslaw Kopitz, of Groton, reported to the New London police last night that while his car was being operated on Williams street, near Mohegan avenue, Sunday night, it was struck by an unidentified machine.

Past masters of Brainard lodge of Masons worked the entered apprentice degree this evening on a class of candidates. A banquet was served at the close of the meeting.

Hunters report squirrels scarce this season, and partridges and quail are not numerous.

The meeting of New London chapter of the American Red Cross is to be held tomorrow evening.

There is a story that Tufik Haberek who was fined $400 Monday for the sale of liquor, was made a goat for other parties residing in the same house with Haberek or nearby and that he was punished for what others did. Haberek was persistent that he did not sell and wanted to be allowed to "go to church" and make his statement, but the fellow to whom he is alleged to have sold, Benjamin Tuttle, identified Haberek positively as the man who furnished the liquor. The matter will be investigated to determine whether Haberek was unjustly punished. Angelo Giardini of Mitchell court, who was just as positive in his denial that he sold liquor and who was persistent in saying he would appeal, weakened at the end and said he wanted to take the punishment meted out to him, which is pretty conclusive evidence that he was rightly convicted. The activity of the prohibition agents and County Detective Lewis has had a restraining effect upon the sellers of intoxicants and they are more careful what they do than they have been in many months. The policy of the prosecutor seems now to be to allege two counts against the parties accused —the actual sale and keeping of intoxicants for sale. That brings a stiff fine on conviction and fines have been very efficacious in the past in stopping the sales.

When three new Gamewell fire alarm boxes, which have been ordered are in position about the city, the system should be very effectual as a means of giving fire alarms.

Very little new building construction is going on in the city at present. Garages are being constructed here and there, but the dwelling houses that are new are few and far between. There has been a slowing up in the number of gasoline station permits sought also, but that is to be expected with winter at hand and the use of automobiles restricted by the weather.

It is believed that after next Monday night the resolutions adopted by the city council a week ago ordering an investigation of the working of the police department and providing that the city manager, director of law, director of finance and treasurer shall not be connected with a business, corporation, or bank doing business with the city, will be put into effect. Probably the first step in compliance with the provisions of the resolutions will be the appointment of a committee of three, by Mayor Clarke, to delve into the matter of ascertaining the truth of rumors to the effect that the rules and regulations of the department are constantly being violated. This committee will comprise members of the city council. Following the regular meeting of the council last evening, Mayor Clarke discussed the provisions of the resolution pertaining to the appointment of the salaried officers mentioned but nothing definite transpired. It was understood, however, before the conference was concluded that another meeting would take place next Monday night at the close of the council meeting.

The ordinance, introduced at the meeting of the council a week ago providing for the retirement of a police officer who becomes 70, had its second reading last night and all that remains for it to become effective is another reading and this is scheduled to take place at the next meeting. The ordinance is framed to compel the transfer of Lieut. Benjamin Beebe to the veteran reserve force. Lieut. Beebe who is well in advance of 70, is in charge of the night force.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins R. Stoeckel has caused the operator's licenses of Ralph Edson, 44 Perry street, Oliver Neff, 16 Lincoln court, and Newton Rowley, 248 Colman street to be returned to the respective owners. The licenses were recently suspended for violations of the automobile law.

Acting Captain James C. Sullivan today issued orders to all sergeants and patrolmen to make a report of any violation of the automobile law, section 41, which provides for lights on motor cars. The order also instructs the officers to report the time of the violation and the specific point where the violation is noted.

Patrolman John Sullivan detailed to duty on Hamilton street a fortnight for the purpose of endeavoring to put a stop to the destruction or theft of electric light bulbs at the overhead bridge of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, this evening arrested a quintette of bulb thieves. The officer was standing at Hamilton and Howard street and observed one of the lights fail to illumine. Hastening to the bridge he found three sailors and two soldiers and noted a large bulb in the hand of one of the sailors. The gang was taken to the police station, where none would admit guilt as to removing the light from the socket, so all were locked up to await the disposition of their cases in the police court tomorrow morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. O'Keefe, 129 Montauk avenue, are at Rockville, where they will remain a fortnight, as guests of relatives. Mr. O'Keefe is employed as general clerk at the local offices of the New Haven railroad.

A commercial automobile owned by Flynn Brothers, Mystic and operated by Chris Hansen, also of Mystic, was practically demolished, late last night, when in collision with a machine owned and driven by Albert Hickman, president of the Mystic Sea Sled company, the commercial machine sideswiping Hickman's car on Fort Hill. A short time following the accident Hansen was ordered to appear in the Groton town court Monday next and answer to a charge of reckless driving made by State Police Officer Bodnick, who was assigned to investigate the accident. The commercial car was overturned, but Hansen escaped injury other than sustaining slight bruises and contusions.

Some of the restaurant proprietors here are advocating advancing the price of coffee from 5 cents to 10 cents a cup. While it is possible that some of the restaurants will put in the increased price into effect shortly, there are several proprietors, who will not countenance the increase. Restaurant proprietors who advocate the increase in price claim that the wholesale price of coffee has gone up.

An automobile, owned and driven by George T. Brown, 16 Prospect street, struck a youthful cyclist, James White 17 Amity street, early this evening on Broad street, near Brainard street. The boy was knocked from the cycle and sustained bruises and scratches as was determined by a physician, who attended the youngster after he had been taken to his home. The cycle was damaged.

The New Haven police this evening requested the New London authorities to be on the lookout for a Ford touring car, stolen from New Haven about 7 o'clock. The automobile bears registration 1650, Connecticut.

STONINGTON

William Lameroux of Pawcatuck was tried in the town court here Saturday morning on the charge of reckless driving of an automobile on the state highway Aug. 11, 1924. The case arose from the injury to the small son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Woods. Judge W. A. Wilcox imposed a fine of $30 and costs which amounted to $42.80 which the defendant paid. It is said that there will be a civil action in connection with the case.

A carrier pigeon with "No. 781" on a rubber band on its left leg and "No. 264 A 1 C. H. A. 659" on a metal band on the right leg, was a visitor the past week at the rooms of the Westerly Cycle club on Main street. So well did the bird like the rooms which have been lately renovated, repainted and redecorated by some of the club members that it decided to remain for a time. It was easily captured by Daniel L. Crandall, a well known musical member of the club, who turned the air visitor over to the Westerly police department. The bird has been held by the police department "pending release."

William Shaffer, Jr., of North West street, Stonington, was taken to the Westerly police station Monday night, where he was held until Tuesday. It was reported to Officer Geo. H. Champlin that a three year old boy, Robert Collins, was being pushed across the highway near the Clyde Mills, Inc., on Main street in a cart when a Ford coach N3170 Conn., striking the cart, threw the child out and Dr. Charles P. Crandall attended him for a bruise on the head and scratches on the face. Tuesday afternoon Shaffer was given a hearing before Acting Judge M. Walter Flynn, Jr., on complaint of Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown, charged with reckless driving. On his plea of guilty he was fined $30 and costs, which was paid and he was dicharged, agreeing to pay doctor's bills.

Miss Margaret Mary McQuillian, daughter of Mrs. Mary McQuillian of 12 Ravenswood avenue, Providence, and Leo Charles Gaffney, son of Mrs Frank Gaffney of Westerly, were united in marriage Monday morning at St. Edward's church, Frevidence, by Rev. William L. Deignan. Fr. Deignan also celebrated the nuptial mass. Rev. James R. O'Brien of the Church of the Assumption was in the sanctuary.

During the mass Mrs. Frances O'Brien Vigen sang Gounod's Ave Maria and O Salutaris and at the conclusion of the mass she sang My Soul What Shall I Render the Lord?

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Helen McQuillian. Joseph W. Gaffney of Westerly, brother of the groom was best man.

The bride was in a gown of turquoise brocaded chiffon over rose, with hat to match. She carried a shower bouquet of roses and lily of the valley. Her bridesmaid wore pale blue georgette over pink, with hat of silver cloth and carried Aaron Ward roses. Following the church ceremony a breakfast was served to 70 relatives and friends at the home of the bride's mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Gaffney left on a wedding trip to Albany and Montreal. They will reside at 17 Lenox avenue, Providence, and will be at home Nov. 1.

Mr. Gaffney, a former Westerly resident, is now manager of a Mayflower store in Providence. Before her marriage the bride was a bookkeeper at the Old Stone bank in Providence.

Miss Jennie Dotolo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Angelo Dotolo of High street, Westerly and Manuel Victoria, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Victoria of Stonington, were united in marriage Saturday morning at the Church off the Immaculate Conception by Rev. Henry Bruno, S. M. Father Bruno also celebrated the nuptial mass. During the service Martin H. Spellman sang O Promise Me and at the offertory he sang Gounod's Ave Maria.

The witnesses were Mr. and Mrs. Piori.

The bride wore a gown of white chiffon, trimmed with ostrich feathers, and her veil was caught with orange blossoms. She carried white roses. The matron of honor was attired in yellow satin, with picture hat of ostrich and carried yellow chrysanthemums. Miss Junne Piori, the flower girl, wore a pink frock and carried a basket of pink flowers. The ring bearer was La-Verne Stillman.

A breakfast was served at the home of the bride on High street. In the evening a reception was held at Champlin's hall on Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. Victoria are on a wedding trip to New York and New Jersey.

A private masquerade ball of Wilcox temple, No. 7, Pythian Sisters of Westerly, was held Monday night in Mechanics hall. Fifty couples were in the grand march and about 200 were present. Among the out of town Pythian Sisters were Grand Chief Mary E. Shay of Providence, Grand Senior Ida Newman of Riverpoint and Grand Manager Annie D. Wood of Riverpoint. From Mystic as guests of the local temple were Most Excellent Chief Martha Archangel, Flora S. Craig, Marion Crowley, Ella Norris and Frances Lowe, officers of Pequot temple. The awards were: First prize for women, Mrs. George Kinmear, Westerly; first prize for men, H. Ritzle, Mystic; other prizes, Mrs. H. Ritzle, Mystic, and guest from Pawcatuck. The judges were Mary E. Shay of Providence, L. Y. Lowe of Mystic and John McCuller of Scotland. The social committee consisted of Emma Crocci and Mrs. George Kinmear. Guests from Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York and Canada as well as from other points in Rhode Island were present.

Louis Kaplan, 16, son of Abraham Kaplan, of 195 Canal street while riding his bicycle without a light, on Canal street, near the Stillmanville bridge soon after 6 o'clock was struck by the Ford truck of the Armour Co., driven by John E. Sisson, of 100 Stillman avenue, Pawcatuck. He was taken to the office of John W. Heffrich, on Elm street, where he was treated for cuts and bruises. The accident happened when he came out in back of a passing automobile on his bicycle and into the path of the approaching truck. Police Patrolman George Madison investigated the accident.

The roll call and get together of the First Baptist church is to be held in the church on Broad street this (Wednesday) evening. A special program of music will be given and there will be an address by Rev. John G. Osborne of Mystic.

LORRAINE COMMUNITY HOUSE FIRST ANNIVERSARY

(Special to the Bulletin)

Westerly, Oct. 21—Nearly a thousand members, friends and guests, assembled in the Lorraine Community house on Mechanic street, Pawcatuck Tuesday evening, for the first anniversary of the Lorraine Mills Community house. President, A. Dubuc of the Lorraine community association presented A. E. Steere, "Father of the Community House," who was superintendent of the Westerly branch of the Lorraine company, when the house was started and is now general superintendent of the cotton division of the Lorraine Manufacturing Company at Pawtucket and Westerly. He reviewed the past season's activities of the Community house, including bowling, with 18 teams of ten men and the six women teams and the windup banquet. Two new alleys are to be added, he stated, to the two already in the house by building an addition. Roller skating, pool, girls' room up stairs, a minstrel show, a cooking class of twelve, sewing class of twenty were mentioned and favorable notice was made of the work of Miss Maude S. Price, the director in charge.

The present superintendent, Stuart D. Fisher, in a short talk, pledged his support in carrying on the community work begun by Mr. Steere and regretted the absence of Agent J. R. MacCall of Pawtucket, who was unable to be present.

Jerome Gaudet, superintendent of worsted, carding and combing, of the Lorraine plant in Pawtucket was the last speaker.

The entertainment of the evening was by Miss Helen Cannon, reader and entertainer; Capuccio Sisters, violin and piano-accordion, and Louis Cheney, pianist. Dancing followed from 9 to 2:45 to music by the Collegiate orchestra of the Rhode Island state college.

MYSTIC

At the meeting of Richard William Morgan Post, American Legion, on Thursday evening in the office of the commander, plans for Armistice Day will be discussed. An invitation has been received by the local post to attend the parade and unveiling of a memorial to veterans of the world war at Norwich on Armistice Day. The task of correcting the list of names on the Mystic honor roll, which has been undertaken by the post, is well under way and this matter is to be acted upon at the meeting Thursday evening. Anyone knowing of any correction or addition which should be made to this list should communicate at this time with officers of the Legion.

At the meeting of the Dinty Moore Wrist pin club last week at the home of Mrs. Truman A. Jewell, the prize was awarded Mrs. Ruth Jewell and the consolation went to Mrs. Sarah Barstow.

The Home Missionary Society of the Methodist Church met Tuesday afternoon in the chapel.

Mrs. J. K. Bucklyn, Miss Clara Frink, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bucklyn and Mrs. Pamelia Watson motored to Brooklyn, Conn., Sunday to visit Mrs. J. K. Bucklyn's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Witter. Mrs. Watson, Mrs. J. K. Bucklyn's mother, who is in her ninety-sixth year and who formerly resided with her daughter in Brooklyn, stood the journey well and enjoyed it very much.

Mrs. Eva M. Burdick has been a visitor in Norwich and Jewett City this week.

Mrs. Walter T. Fish and son Hamilton have returned from Hartford.

Mrs. George Lewis is in Montclair, N. J., attending the wedding of her sister.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Methodist church is to meet Thursday afternoon.

Florine Dow Camp, Royal Neighbors held an enjoyable masquerade Monday evening, after the regular meeting.

A tea in the interest of the League of Women Voters is to be held at the home of Miss Kariska S. Gates, on Gravel Street, at which Mrs. Eunice Whitney of Kennett Square, Penn., and Mrs. J. Beveridge Lee of New London, are to speak on subjects of interest to the league.

Raymond Allen, a student at Chapman Tech, had the misfortune to cut his hand with a chisel in such a way, last week that several stitches were required to close the wound.

Rev. W. H. Dunnack of Burnside, a former pastor of the Methodist church, is expected to preach at the local church Sunday next.

Mrs. Lucy Haley Chesebro, of Middletown is visiting of her mother, Mrs. Catherine Haley.

WESTMINSTER

Tuesday morning, the 14th, clear and cold, brought a "full house" to the celebration of the fifth anniversary of the Junior Six Church Fellowship of this region, comprising the churches of Central Village, Wauregan, Brooklyn, Canterbury, Green, Ekonk and Westminster, all Congregational. This Fellowship, formally styled The South Windham Conference, was begun at Ekonk under the leadership of Rev. Naseeb Malouf, then pastor there and his devoted wife, who together visited the parishes and ministers forming this association, and backed by their church at Ekonk accomplished this desired union of churches with no officers except the secretary and the treasurer, and with no constitution or by-laws. After the morning's greetings, Rev. T. D. Child, pastor at Ekonk, who presided called each church represented to give its "reaction" or estimate of the value of the five years of the fellowship. Real fellowship, realizing the problems, burdens and joys of each other, more than otherwise possible, courage, union in work, new methods suggested, were some points stated.

A special feature of the day was the collation, choice and abundant, served in the grange hall, opposite the church, different churches being asked to bring certain contributions, all received and served with great skill, by the women of the Ekonk church, to 135 people.

All the addresses of the day were very inspiring, and full of good.

Eight went to Ekonk with Charles Barstow and Arthur Edmond on his motorcycle.

When a man loses his temper, he certainly doesn't look it.

W. L. GOSS A COTTAGER AT SHELTER ISLAND 80 YEARS

The Suffolk Times, of Greenport, L. I., Oct. 10th, under a Shelter Island head, had the following concerning a former Norwich resident:

Among the interesting people that visit Shelter Island nearly every summer, is the aged author, Warren Lee Goss. Mr. Goss spent several weeks at the Chequit Inn this season, and while here he celebrated his 89th birthday. He is a veteran of the Civil war, and it is very gratifying to see one of these old soldiers in good health and enjoying life at this advanced age.

Mr Goss is widely known as a writer, for he has written many books of the Civil war which have been well received and widely circulated. At the outbreak of the rebellion he was a student in Harvard college, but like many other students, he left his studies to enlist in the army. His varied experiences as a soldier gave him the material for the wonderful stories that he has so graphically penned. His books have been very popular for the past 50 years, especially with the youth of this country. His confinement in Andersonville prison for many months furnished him the subject for his first book, "The Soldier's Story of His Captivity at Andersonville." This was illustrated by the well known illustrator and cartoonist, Thomas Nast. His next book, "Recollections of a Private," first appeared in the Century Magazine. His most popular book was "Jed, a Boy's Adventures in the War," and its publication has reached the 32nd thousand. His other books are "Tom Clifton," 18th thousand; "Jack Alden," 17th thousand; "In the Navy" 8th thousand: "Life of Grant," for boys and girls; "Life of Sheridan;" "Life of Sherman"; "Jed's Boy;" "A Boy's Adventures in the World's War," and "Jack Gregory, A Boy's Advanture in the Revolution," which was written in the author's 87th year.

Mr. Goss was one of the earliest of those who built summer homes on the island, for it was just fifty years ago that he came here and selected a site on the hill above the Chequit Inn for his house. Some of his earliest writing were penned in his cosy little cottage, during his vacations. In those days Mr. Goss, who was very fond of the water, won quite a reputation as a fisherman and swimmer. The following story is a favorite one with him, and the oftener he tells it the more he seems to enjoy it:

While on the island one summer a publisher wrote to him requesting that he come to the city for an interview. Mr. Goss replied that he could not leave home just then, as he was very busy swimming and fishing. A little later the publisher sent a representative here to see Mr. Goss. On arriving at the island he inquired where Mr. Goss the writer, lived, but no one could tell him. Finally a small boy piped up and said: "I guess you mean Mr. Gosse, the swimmer."

Mr. Goss seems to be as proud of his reputation as a swimmer as that of a writer. He is erect and active at 89, and like Moses of old his eye is not dim, nor his natural force abated. It is fondly hoped that his life will be spared so that he will be permitted to revisit the island of which he is so fond, for many years to come.

Great Northern Railway officials announced that they had placed orders for $3,700,000 worth of equipment to handle a steadily growing volume of traffic.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKET WAS STRONG

New York, Oct. 21—Stock prices swung upward again today under the leadership of the railroad shares, the demand for which arose from the splendid showing made by the first of the September earnings reports to make their appearance. Nearly two dozen railroads closed at net gains of one to two points new 1924 peak prices being attained on Frisco common, Southern railway preferred, Gulf, Mobile and Northern preferred, Rutland preferred and Colorado & Southern.

Active industrials also displayed a better tone despite renewal of selling pressure against the sugars, based on labor troubles and political disturbances in Cuba, and against such individual issues as Bethlehem steel, which was hammered down to 39 3-8, the lowest price since 1911, and American Woolen which broke more than two points to 54 3-8 and then recovered more than half of its loss.

Heavy buying of Frisco common, which advanced nearly two points to 36 1-2, again overshadowed all other developments in the railroad group. Other western carriers also were in demand on publication of the Union Pacific's September statement showing net operating income of $5,983,000, an increase of $456,000 or 8.3 per cent. over September, 1923, and the highest for any September since 1919. Rock Island common and six per cent. preferred, Chicago Great Western preferred, Lehigh Valley "Katy" preferred.

The Missouri Pacific and Seaboard Air Line issues and Wabash preferred "A" were among the many shares to close a point or so higher.

United States Steel common was unaffected by the selling of Behlehem, closing unchanged at 107. Sears Roebuck common soared six points to a new peak at 111 1-2. Revival of activity in H. R. Mallinson, which closed nearly 1 1-2 points higher was attributed to inside accumulation based on the substantial improvement in the financial condition of the company.

Further improvement was noted in the oil shares although the net gains, as a rule, were small. Some of the other individual strong spots were the American Hide and Leather issues, General Electric, Maxwell Motors "A" Worthington Pump, United States industrial alcohol, Davison Chemical, Fisk Rubber first preferred, Goodrich, Interborough Rapid Transit, Iron Products, National Lead, Otis Elevator, Tidewater Oil, United States Cast Iron Pipe preferred, Universal Pipe and Radiator preferred and Woolworth, up 1 1-2 to 4 points.

Consolidated Gas of Baltimore broke 5 points on a few sales, American Water Works dropped 2 1-4 and African Sugar Refining, Cuba Cane preferred, Great Western Sugar and Punta Alegre lost a point or two.

Call money ruled unchanged at 2 per cent. the time money market continuing quiet with borrowers showing no inclination to raise their bid and lenders refusing to make concessions. Commercial Paper rates held steady. Strength of sterling, both here and in London, was the feature of the foreign exchange market. The local demand rates ruled around $4.49 5-8, up about a cent. Dutch exchange was also strong, demand bills jumping about 20 points to around 39.34 cents. Other European rates showed only nominal change.

CURB MARKET

New York, Oct. 21—Speculators for the advance continued in control of today's curb market although weak spots cropped out in various sections of the list. Speculative interest was confined to a half dozen issues, trading in the general list showing a contraction in volume. The transfer of large blocks of Mutual Oil around 11 was the outstanding development in the oil group which continued to display a firm tone. The activity in Standard Oil of New York, which climbed about a point to 41 5-8 was in response to the company's announced intention of retiring a large issue of bonds without resort to new financing. Standard Oil of Indiana, Vacuum and Anglo-American, three of the most active issues, improved fractionally. Middle West utilities was bid up 2 points to 79 1-2, but later forfeited about half of its gain. Commonwealth Power closed 2 3-4 higher at 101. The heaviness of Consolidated Gas of Baltimore, following the stockholders' approval of the splitting up of the old stock, was attributed to the traditional "selling on the good news."

Duz led the advance in the industrials with a gain of more than two points at 27 5-8, Cuba Company dropped a point to 35 in reflection of labor and political disturbances in that country.

BOND MARKETS

New York, Oct. 21—Employment of surplus bank funds in the purchase of United States government and other investment obligations imparted a firmer tone to today's bond market. Demand for the treasury 4 1-4s coupled with a steadily diminishing floating supply of these liens, forced the price up to 107, the highest ever recorded. Liberty issues at the same time were buoyed up by increased buying interest, with the 3 1-2s under heavy accumulation.

Several railroad bonds, including those of the Frisco "Kay" and Union Pacific systems, developed independent strength although prices of the carrier issues on the whole were little changed.

Favorable earnings reports by some of the western roads, reflecting the results of expanded fall traffic, encouraged buying of these liens.

Local traction issues also profited by a revival of buying interests, based on favorable developments in the city's transit situation. Gas company bonds shared in the improvement. Sugar liens were the chief points of weakness in the industrial list, Warner Sugar refunding sevens dropping 2 points and other issues displaying nervousness over Cuban strike and crop news.

Foreign obligations held firm with the new German bonds hovering between 93 5-8 and 94, apparently undisturbed by the loan in the initial London stock exchange dealings.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Oct. 21—Buying on the part of houses that have recently led the selling gave a moderate upturn to wheat values at the last today despite set backs at the opening and numerous subsequent changes. Closing quotations on wheat were nervous, 3-4 to 1 1-2c net higher, December 1.46 3-8 to 1.47 and May 1.50 1-2 to 1.50 5-8, with corn 1 1-8 to 1 3-4c up, oats showing 1-8c to 1-2c gain, and provisions varying from 15c decline to 12c advance.

At first, the wheat market was affected by lower prices at Liverpool and by bearish new estimates sent from there regarding the world's exportable surplus and the world's import requirements. Word of further rains in Argentina also tended to ease down prices here. On the declines which ensued, however, fresh buying on the part of foreigners appeared to be developing, and offerings became light, with a majority of tradrs appearing disposed to accept an opinion current that price setbacks had been more than sufficient for at least the time beating.

Late strength in the wheat market was aided by reports that the Argentine rains were inadequate and by assertions that the new British figures as to the Argentine and United States wheat surplus were much larger than any American authorities conceded. On the other hand, early hopes of liberal export business today were unfulfilled except to a limited degree. Congestion of grain at domestic spring wheat terminals was also more or less disquieting to friends of higher prices.

Advances in the price of corn were associated chiefly with news of export sales. Frost news had little effect, being looked upon as seasonal at this time. Oats followed corn.

Weakness of hog values tended to ease the provision market.

GALES FERRY

When the selectmen of Ledyard, Frederick W. Burton Samuel L. Lester, Leslie P. Gray and Town Clerk William I. Allyn, with Registrars Billings T. Avery and George A. Montgomery, had completed their work at the Country club here Saturday afternoon, Oct. 18 the number of voters made in the town, including those made October 11, were 22; 18 in the first district at Ledyard Center and 4 in the second district, Gales Ferry.

At Sunday morning worship in the Methodist Episcopal church, Rev. W. D. Woodward, spoke from Hebrews 12:14—Follow peace, with all men, and holiness, without which no man shall see the Lord". The offertory anthem, Lord, Is it I? was sung by a trio, Mrs. Grace A. Chapman, Mrs. Amos Main and C. E. Colver. Following the sermon Holy Communion was administered by Rev. Mr. Woodward.

Dudley C. Perkins was the leader of the Epworth League evening service and the appointed topic was The Christian Citizen and Community Problems.

Miss Jennie G. Perkins, secretary of the New London Northfield club, attended a picnic of the club at Pine Lodge tea room, conducted by Mrs. Thomas Chadburn, near Westerly, R. I., Saturday afternoon, when the club members were entertained for an all day session, by the Westerly members. Miss Perkins was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. D. W. Perkins, and her aunt, Henry W. Hurlbutt, with her cousin, Mrs. R. Irving Hurlbutt, motoring there in the Hurlbutt car.

Nathan A. Gibbs and daughter Miss Gibbs, with S. Alpheus Gilbert of Norwich, returned Friday from a motor trip of a week through Long Island and the Catskills.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Latham and daughter, Miss Ethelyn Latham, with Mr. and Mrs. Kingdon, all of Hartford, motored here Saturday, and were callers in the place, also visited the M. E. church which Mr. Latham attended in his boyhood days, he being a native of Gales Ferry.

Mrs. Andrew E. Meech and daughter, Miss Grace E. Meech of Danielson were guests Sunday of their relatives, Mrs. Charles A. Sattrelee and daughter, Miss Satterlee.

Mrs. Aubrey Baxter, concluded her services for the season, at the store of Norman and Povey the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. George Gavitt and children of Niantic were calling at the M. E. parsonage on Rev. and Mrs. W. D. Woodward Saturday.

Mrs. Franklin H. Brown and her sister, Mrs. E. V. Mann, closed their summer cottage here Tuesday and returned to their home, Laurel Hill, Norwich.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Mowry of Providence, R. I., motored here and attended the morning service, in the Methodist Episcopal church Sunday.

Mrs. Everett T. Bruce of Long Cove, was a recent guest for several days of her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Guy A. Bruce in Stamford.

Miss Mabel Smith, a local member of Ledyard grange, attended a meeting of the State Pomona grange, at Salem Thursday, when the Salem grange entertained. Among those attending from the town were Rev. G. F. Goodenough and Mrs. Billings T. Avery.

Dr. Robert Allingham, president of Tabor college, of Tabor, Iowa, a former friend of the Rev. and Mrs. Allen Shaw Bush at at Denver, Colorado, has been their guest for a few days recently.

Mrs. Latham E. Smith attended the funeral of Mrs. Cynthia Dart Allen, her relative in Norwich Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Latham of Noank, motored here and were callers on relatives, Mrs. Fanny A. Molthrop of Gales Ferry, and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Colver of the Submarine Base, the first of the week.

Amos P. Gray of New London was a week end guest at the parsonage of his brother-in-law and sister, Rev. and Mrs. W. D. Woodward.

Ice as thick as window glass was observed Saturday morning in places back from the river. Although the days are fine and sunny, the nights are cool.

WEST KINGSTON

Mrs. J. M. Kenyon, who has been ill for the past seven weeks with pneumonia, has recovered so far as to be able to sit up for a few hours each day.

Richard P. Barstow who works at Saltuate, spent Sunday at his home here.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Woodmansee and Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Kenyon took a trip over the Mohawk Trail Saturday and Sunday.

Amos H. Kenyon with his son, Harris spent Saturday with his parents here to visit his mother who has been very ill.

Mrs. Bert Woodmansee and son, Franklin, spent Wednesday and Thursday with Providence relatives.

The training teachers are boarding with Mrs. Lena F. Woodmansee.

Mrs. F. K. Crandall of Kingston spent Tuesday afternoon with her mother, Mrs. Ida M. Kenyon.

Adelaide Smith is very ill. She is being cared for by her sister, Miss Emeline Sutton.

T. T. Knowles and Arnold Knowles have completed their shore cottage a Greene Hill.

Mrs. S. E. Moore is caring for Mrs. E. E. Kenyon.

Mrs. Carol Randall and son Carol, Jr., have arrived home from the South Coventry hospital.

Wiley, son of David Perkins, who has been very ill, is recovering.

Leonard Taylor, who had to be taken to the hospital nearly two weeks ago is expected home Sunday. He was operated on for appendicitis.

Mrs. Frank Sullivan, of Wyoming, was a recent caller here.

CORNS

Lift Off—No Pain!

Doesn't hurt one bit! Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers.

Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the foot calluses, without soreness or irritation.

BALTIC

The library of the Holy Family academy has been enriched by a number of splendid new books, the most valuable addition being a revised, thirty-four volume set of the Encyclopaedia Britannica," in leather binding, with mahogany case. The set comes as a gift from a friend of the school. The science department has also received additional apparatus. Though the large number of students are busily engaged in studies, many hikes through the gorgeous autumn woods and fields are enjoyed as well as spirited games of basketball.

MISS ELIZABETH MAHAN DIES AT NORTH ADAMS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

[illegible] Oct. 21.—Miss Elizabeth Mahan, 22, daughter of Mrs. [illegible] Whittlesey Mahan, 189 [illegible] street, and the late Bryan F. [illegible]an, died this morning at a hospital at North Adams, Mass., where she had been under treatment but a few days for pneumonia. Miss Mahan's mother, who was summoned to North Adams yesterday when the girl's condition became grave, and her sister, Miss Margaret W. Mahan, arrived before she expired. Miss Mahan went to North Adams about ten days ago to visit her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Mahan. Within a few days she contracted a severe cold and Monday her condition assumed extreme gravity and resulted in her being transferred to the hospital where she rapidly grew worse until the end.

Miss Mahan was graduated from Connecticut college, June 10, with the degree of bachelor of science. She was born in this city Aug. 9, 1902. Her elementary education was obtained at the Robert Bartlett school and she prepared for college at Williams Memorial Institute in this city and in September, 1920, entered Connecticut college.

Miss Mahan's father, the late congressman, mayor and postmaster, died here Nov. 16 last year, before the daughter had been graduated from college. She is survived by her mother, five brothers, Alfred W. Mahan of Schenectady, N. Y., Norman W. of Boston, Francis Mahan of this city, Gordon F., a student at Poughkeepsie, N. Y. Business college, and Charles A. Mahan, a student at Norwich University, Vt., and a sister, Miss Margaret W. Mahan, a teacher in the Ardan school, at Lakewood N. J.

Returned From Motoring Trip.

Mr. and Mrs. George Brown of Glasgo returned home Saturday evening after enjoying a three weeks' tour through Vermont, Canada and Maine, making the Mohawk Trail on the way going and taking the most interesting routes along the way. The scenery was of exceptional beauty along the forty miles of wood through Maine. They will reside in Glasgo for a short while and then make their home in Hartford.

51 ORGANIZATIONS HAVE SO FAR ENROLLED FOR ARMISTICE PARADE

Plans for the Armistice Day celebration and parade in connection with the dedication of the soldiers' and sailors' memorial tablet at Chelsea Parade are rapidly shaping up and from present indications it is going to be even a greater success than was at first predicted. At a meeting of the general committee, Tuesday afternoon, at 5 o'clock at the Chamber of Commerce rooms, Arthur E. Story, chairman of the parade committee announced that conservative figures place the number of those who will be in line at 5,400 with 51 organizations parading.

The meeting was called to order at 5 o'clock by General Chairman Herbert M. Lerou and the minutes of the previous meeting were read by Secretary John J. O'Rourke, being accepted as read. Secretary O'Rourke stated that to date in addition to the money contributed by the town and city there are 85 public subscriptions amounting to $379.50. The hope was expressed that this sum will be greatly increased by public subscription within the next two weeks. Attention was called to the fact that in Stamford where a similar celebration is planned the Stamford committee has raised $10,000 to take care of the expenses.

Arthur E. Story, chairman of the parade committee, announced that 51 different organizations have accepted invitations to take part in the parade and that conservative figures place the number that will be in line at 5,400. There are yet about seven organizations to be heard from this week.

The success of the big parade depends on whether the manufacturing plants will close down. A full day holiday is favored but the opinion was expressed that the plants of the city ought to close down for at least a half day.

Chairman Lerou said it seems as though the manufacturers could close for a day or at the least for a half day. Mr. Story said the people in general in Taftville want to join in the parade but they will not be able to do so unless the mill there closes down along with the other plants of the city and town.

Secretary O'Rourke then read the following letter which he has received from State Commander E. P. Armstrong of the American Legion:

Mr. John J. O'Rourke, Sec.,
Chamber of Commerce,
Norwich, Conn.

My dear Mr. O'Rourke: I was pleased to hear that Col. Petty had agreed to deliver the address in Norwich, Armistice Day. The other gentlemen, I spoke of Col. Coulter has agreed to deliver the address at the dedication of the War Memorial in Torrington on the same day.

For publicity purposes, you may wish to know something about Col. Petty, he is a regular Re-man, pastor of one of the largest churches in New Haven. He served overseas for over a year and was a chaplain with the 102nd Regiment for nearly a year. He was later sent to a base port (after the armistice), and placed in charge of 100 chaplains, then promoted to major which is quite unusual for a chaplain.

At present he is lieutenant-colonel of the 169th Regiment, Connecticut National Guard. He also served on the Legion Survey Committee which a short time ago completed an investigation in an endeavor to ascertain conditions regarding the disabled service men of Connecticut.

Several months ago, the Fletcher post invited myself and the State Department of the Legion to participate in the ceremonies and the parade in Norwich. Since that date requests that I and the State Department participate in the ceremonies at Stamford, Berlin and Torrington have been received. I am arranging so that the Connecticut State Department will be represented in these four cities. I am in hopes of being with you on that day and will have members of the State Department with me.

Max Hanover, chairman of the entertainment committee, made a report of progress on the plans for the supper to be provided for the uniformed men who participate in the parade, including all out of town soldiers and sailors and the local units of the National Guard.

It was decided to secure a special train to transport the soldiers from the island forts and the sailors and marines from the submarine base to and from Norwich. The matter of getting up a programme was left with the executive committee. There was some discussion as to what form the programme should take. The committee requested Mayor Milo R. Waters to extend an invitation to the Connecticut Foot Guards to participate in the parade.

The meeting adjourned shortly before six o'clock to meet again next week.

Following is a list of additional contributors to the celebration fund:

A. J. Bailey, G. N. Beardow, C. M. Beebe, B. P. Bishop, Bogue Co., A. M. Brown, E. P. Brewer, J. L. Case, F. A. Collins, A. B. Davies, G. E. Fellows, R. S. Gernon, Henschel Tire & Rubber, F. Hempstead, Max Hanover, G. L. Ingalls, Nelson Larsen, A. G. Lillibridge, J. W. McKinley, Norwich Shirt Mfg. Co., Max Novogroski, Bargain Shoe Store, C. D. Noyes, Quinn & Desmond, Rathbun & Fowler, E. SPOKE TO EAGLES ON OLD AGE PENSIONS

On Sunday afternoon with William Kelley of Naugatuck, a grand aerie officer, as presiding officer, Norwich Aerie, No. 367, Fraternal Order of Eagles, initiated a large class.

After initiation exercises, Brother Kelley who is a past president of state aerie also, introduced the chairman of the old age pension committee for Connecticut, William Kearney, a young attorney from Waterbury, who spoke in part as follows:

"If there is any state which should enact an old age pension bill it is the state of Connecticut. Connecticut is principally a manufacturing state and manufacturing demands efficiency. Efficiency calls for the entire energy of the workman while he is on the job and the industrial age of the workman is therefore early reached. When a man reaches the age of 60 or 65 his limbs become feeble; his energy is gone. He is unable to maintain the standard of efficiency so demanded by our present industrial system. He is told to go. Scrap: Scrap like a piece of junk."

"Three ways are opened to the aged man who is unable to find employment or who, if employed, is unable to earn a sufficient amount for even a modest living, viz: He may resort to his savings, if he has any; he may depend upon his children or relatives, if they want him or he may seek public charity and give in return his self respect.

"It is the duty of the old age pension committee of the subordinate aeries to interview the candidates for the legislature regardless of party and find if they are in favor or opposed to old age pension legislation in the state of Connecticut."

One of the members of the local committee has called on the democratic nominee for state senator, Herman Gibbs, and the two representative nominees A. R. Grover and A. W. Lillibridge, these three wished to say they were in favor of the passage of such a bill.

The republican nominees for these offices will be interviewed before the week end and the committee will announce the results of the interview through the press. While the Fraternal Order of Eagles is very active in this movement, which at the present time is nation wide it is the hope of the officers and members of this organization that other fraternal organizations will interest themselves and give the Fraternal Order of Eagles their moral support and advocate old age pension until it is finally a reality in the state of Connecticut.

CLAIMS WOMAN GOT HIS TEN DOLLAR BILL

Anna Loomis, 32, of West Thames street, will be presented in the city court this (Wednesday) morning on a charge preferred against her by a local man who claims she took $10 from him. According to the complainant he was one of a party of four or five, including the woman, who dined in a local restaurant on Tuesday morning. He laid a ten dollar bill on the table, intending to pay the check for the party. Someone else in the party paid the bill and the Loomis woman got hold of the ten dollars belonging to the complainant and kept it. She was arrested Tuesday afternon by Officer D. J. O'Neil.

Brown-Hasler Wedding.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

ERRORS APPEAR IN THE DEMOCRATIC BALLOTS

A number of errors have been discovered in the democratic state ticket and the correction of them may delay the distribution of ballots to the towns for the election on Nov. 4. The errors are due to inaccuracies in the ticket furnished the secretary of state by the state central committee. The report is signed by Congressman P. B. O'Sullivan who presided at the Democratic state convention at which the ticket was nominated. The names of the democratic presidential electors are not printed in order in which they were nominated. The given name of Philip Troup of New Haven was spelled on the certificate "Phillip".

In the name of John A. Markham of Hartford, nominee for secretary of state, the initial was omitted. The convention nominated William S. Meany of Greenwich for treasurer, and James R. May of New London for comptroller. In the certificate of the nominations received from New Haven the positions of these candidates were reversed, Mr. Meany being named for comptroller and Mr. May for treasurer.

The secretary of state had sent to the towns where voting machines are used the names of the candidates on the different party tickets before the errors were discoverd. He has notified the clerks of these towns the errors and corrections.

BONUS APPLICATIONS ARE COMING TOO SLOWLY

Only 1,300,000 applications out of a possible 4,500,000 have been received for the soldiers' bonus, and veterans who intend to apply for the adjusted compensation are urged to do so without delay by Maj. Gen. Davis, adjutant general of the army.

Veterans who have not filed their bonus application should do so immediately. Many benefits under the law may be lost by tardiness in making application for the bonus.

Both the American Legion post and post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars in this city have committees who assist men in making out their applications so that it is the men's fault if they fail to get their applications in on time.

DONORS IN QUARTER TO SHELTERING ARMS

Donors to the Sheltering Arms for the past three months were the following:

Junior Chautauqua, Miss Isabel Mitchell, Miss Mary H. Paddock, Mrs. Rose F. Manning, Mrs. George W. Carroll, William Jackson, Mrs. Irene G. FOUND STILL OPERATING IN NORTH STONINGTON

Mrs. Mary Florak, 44, of North Stonington is in the New London county jail following a raid on her farmhouse Monday in which state police seized a 15-gallon still in operation and quantities of the raw and finished product.

Arraigned before Justice of the Peace Main Monday afternoon, shortly after the raid, she pleaded guilty to manufacturing and was fined $50 and costs, which she was unable to pay.

The raid was conducted by State Policemen Bodnick and Albright. They found the still in operation and confiscated 20 gallons of mash and four or five gallons of alleged moonshine, which was presented as evidence in court.

Mrs. Florak claimed ownership of the outfit and admitted all that was charged and gladly went to jail in default of her fine. Unless someone pays her fine she will serve out her fine besides the costs of the court.

Pension for East Lyme Man

Pensions of $30 a month for Lillian E. Hope of Hartford; $15 a month for Charles S. Stebbins of East Lyme, $30 a month for Mary R. Simmons of Bethel, $12 a month for Olaf Frantzen of Bridgeport, $15 a month for Archie E. Galvin of Torrington and $12 a month for Thomas F. Fagan and $15 a month for Lot Cullinan of New Britain have been announced by the pension bureau.

Birthday Party

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Walsky gave a birthday party Monday afternoon for their only son Edward Joseph Walsky, at their home on 60 Fountain Street, being his second birthday. Games were played and ten of his playmates were guests for the afternoon. Dainty refreshments were served. Edward received many useful presents including two five dollar gold pieces.

NORTHFIELD CLUB HELD ENJOYABLE ALL-DAY PICNIC

The all day picnic of the New London Northfield Club, Miss Maude R. Allen, this city, president, was successfully held Saturday at Pine Lodge, Westerly, where the club was entertained by the Westerly members. Autos met the out-of town guests and carried them from Westerly to the lodge, which is conducted by Mrs. Thomas Chadburn, as a very attractive tea room during the summer months. A huge fire in the fire place gave added warmth to their reception. There were about 30 present during the day, the youngest guest being Master Richard Smith, the 3 1-2 months old son of Mrs. Albert Smith of Westerly.

A fine luncheon, provided by the Westerly group, was served around the open fire at one o'clock, consisting of meat loaf, escalloped potatoes, pickled pears, piccalilli, rolls, coffee and doughnuts.

At the business session the list of names was read by Northfield girls who belong in this district, and plans were made for a membership campaign. A letter from Miss Fanny C. Hatch, alumnae secretary, was read, with greetings from Northfield. Miss Hatch also wrote encouragingly concerning the New London club, "You are our youngest club, but somehow we have already felt your spirit," and she hopes to meet with the members again in March. Rev. Dwight C. Stone, of Stonington, was made an honorary member. A vote of thanks was extended to the Westerly members for their cordial hospitality.

The remainder of the afternoon was spent in recalling happy memories of Northfield days, and tea and cake were served. The delightful day was brought to a close by the singing of the Northfield song. O Northfield the Beautiful.

Those attending from Norwich and vicinity were Miss Allen, Mrs. Dwight W. Avery, Mrs. Richard M. Harding, Mrs. Billings T. Avery, Miss Mildred Zabriskie, Miss Blanche V. Smith, of Yantic, Miss Nellie J. Starr, of Uncasville and the secretary, Miss Jennie G. Perkins, of Gales Ferry.

NORWICH BOY SCOUTS ARE KEEPING BUSY

Scout Executive F. A. Benton and several scout masters of Norwich camped over the week end at Camp Tippecan, and nearly completed the frame work of the roof of the log cabin. Further work will be done this fall on its construction.

Reservations for 75 Scouts and drivers have been made for the Norwich council at the Brown-Yale football game in the Yale Bowl this week Saturday. About a dozen automobiles will take the Scouts to New Haven.

It is planned for each troop to furnish autos to accommodate their Scouts, all of whom are to go in uniform.

The autos will start at Union square at 10 o'clock in order to arrive at the Bowl in time to march to at the gate assigned them. Scouts are requested to take lunch along to avoid delay on the way. The party will drive down in a body. There will be no charge to the Scouts for admission to the game.

Norwich Council Scouts are planning to turn out for the Armistice Day parade. They will be led by their own bugle and drum corps. Other troops of town Scouts are also expected in parade.

Scouts are circulating this pledge: "I pledge myself to vote at the coming election. But I can't vote if I don't register. Therefore, I pledge myself to register and to make this registration good with my vote."

Fined By Salem Justice.

On Friday evening F. H. Weston of 187 High street, Hartford, was brought before Justice of the Peace J. E. Hackett, in Salem, charged with reckless driving on the Hartford turnpike on October 17th. He pleaded guilty and a fine of $25 and costs was imposed.

At the same session of the court the case of Thomas Preston of 94 Huntington street, Hartford, charged with reckless driving on the same date and place, and also of being without registration or operator's license was heard. He paid a fine of $35 and costs and the other two counts were nolled.

Both arrests were made by State Policeman Fred J. Caron.

Late October Huckleberries

Albert Main of 69 Franklin Street who is employed by the state highway department, picked a lot of huckleberries Monday, an unusual record for so late in October.

Vanilla growing has assumed important proportions on Porto Rico plantations.

ALLEGED EVENTS LEADING TO LAFOLLETTE CANDIDACY

Statement of an Alarming Nature Made by Martin W. Littleton, Prominent New York Lawyer, Before the American National Defense Society—Says Inception Was the Combination of Revolutionary Forces in June, 1921, to Overthrow This Government — Traced the Gradual Consolidation of Radical Organizations.

New York, Oct. 22.—Martin W. Littleton, prominent New York lawyer, in an address tonight which he said was non-partisan, told the American Defense Society that the presidential candidacy of Senator Robert M. La Follette was "manufactured in June 1921 by the combination of the revolutionary forces which are pledged to the overthrow of this government, in one way or another."

"The beginning of the coordinated effort of these forces," Mr. Littleton said, "was on June 27, 1921, at the socialist convention held in Detroit. There a resolution was offered by Morris Hillquit and adopted and that was the first step in coalition of the radical revolutionary forces.

"The next actual record which shows the gradual coalescing of the forces is found in the meeting held on February 20, 1922, at Chicago. This meeting was called by William H. Johnston, president of the International Association of Machinists. Johnston Mr. Littleton said, was a member of executive committee of the Civil Liberties Union. 'They declared,' Mr. Littleton said:

"'The advocacy of murder unaccompanied by any act, is within the legitimate scope of free speech.

"'All of them (the members) believe in the right of persons to advocate the overthrow of government by force and violence.

"'We want to also look like patriots in everything we do. We want to get a lot of good flags, talk a good deal about the Constitution and what our forefathers wanted to make of this country and to show that we are the fellows that really stand for the spirit of our institutions.'"

About the time of the Chicago meeting, Mr. Littleton continued, Benjamin Marsh, working with Townley who represented the nonpartisan league, sent out a call for the known radical farmer movements to meet in Chicago on February 18. "On February 20, the Townley delegates, representing the farmer movement, moved over in a body to the conference called by [illegible]

This conference, Mr. Littleton said, did not content itself "with the program of depriving the supreme court of the ultimate power to determine the constitutional act of congress, but they included also the acts of the legislatures of the various states."

"It is strikingly significant," said Mr. Littleton, "that within four months after this declaration Senator La Follette declared his intention to introduce a constitutional amendment which would enable congress on the repassage of an act held unconstitutional, to make that act the supreme law of the land. It is even more significant * * * that the day after that * * * the American Federation of Labor at Cincinnati endorsed the La Follette proposal."

Mr. Littleton then traced at great length the gradual consolidation of radical organizations, and mentioned as among some of the prominent leaders including C. E. Ruthenberg, of the workers' party, Morris Hillquit, Jo C. Dorman, Jay G. Brown, of Chicago and others.

Meantime," said Mr. Littleton, another organization which has been referred to as working in close association with the conference for progressive political action, known as the people's legislative service, had been active. Its organization dates from the year 1920. Its president is Robert M. La Follette. Its secretary and treasurer is none other than Mr. William H. Johnston, the perpetual chairman of the conference for progressive political action, the perpetual chairman of the national committee, the director of the Civil Liberties Union. The member of the Council of The League for Industrial Democracy, the defeated socialist candidate for governor of Rhode Island."

Referring to a meeting called by Senator La Follette, Mr. Littleton said: "This meeting was well timed, for the people's legislative service, working hand in glove with the conference for progressive political action were concerned about giving La Follette a position of control, if possible, in the senate."

Mr. Littleton quoted from the reports of the secretary of state and other sources passages concerning action taken by various radical groups and declared some of the men behind the movement had court records. He mentioned, among others, Jay G. Brown, "who served two years in the Walla Walla, Washn., penitentiary for burglarizing with a gun;" he said another man actively identified with the movement was "Joseph Pogany, alias Joseph Lang, alias John Pepper," who figured in the Bela Kuhn revolutionary movement in Austria.

"It is interesting to note," said Mr. Littleton, "that Peppe, this unmistakable red communist, who was constantly in touch with C. E. Ruthenberg, was one of the members of the communist convention and the first national convention which was held at Bridgman, Michigan, on Aug. 22, 1922."

Mr. Littleton then attempted to show "by circumstances" that "the pretended exclusion of communists at the conference held in December, 1922, at Cleveland, was a sham and that these communistic forces are patently aiding the other revolutionary forces which brought about the nomination of La Follette and Wheeler."

Referring to an article written in the October, 1923, number of The Liberator by Pepper about "the La Follette revolution," Mr. Littleton said "while it does not appear that La Follette or Wheeler inspired this article, or that they were aware of its publication * * * it would not have been difficult for them to discover that their candidacy originated in and was prompted by a combination of the revolutionary elements in the United States, whose object is the overthrow of its institutions."

"I do not say," said Mr. Littleton, "that Senator La Follette has endorsed the soviet government of Russia * * * but I do say that considering the source of his candidacy, the means by which it was brought about, the confederated agencies which run from the cellar of the communist through the back room of the socialist into the parlor of the pacifist, that Senator La Follette has not been unmindful of the possibilities which lay out in front of him when he returned from his visit to Russia."

Mr. Littleton referred to John Schwarzkopf, who was disbarred from the New York bar in 1911 and who later was associated with Ludwig C. A. K. Martens, self-styled soviet envoy to the United States, who was deported. Schwarzkopf has admitted that he was "the personal representative of La Follette," according to Mr. Littleton who said he had an affidavit purporting to show that Schwarzkopf was recognized at the office maintained by the La Follette-Wheeler organization in New York city.

"It is known," said Mr. Littleton, "and I dare say cannot be denied, that Schwarzkopf is now in a position of authority in "the La Follette-Wheeler offices in New York city." Schwarzkopf is closely associated with Mr. (J. A. H.) Hopkins, who is treasurer of the La Follette-Wheeler campaign and was appointed to this position by Mr. Hopkins,' Mr. Littleton charged. He also said that Schwarzkopf was a companion of Nuorteva, secretary of Martens.

Mr. Littleton asserted that J. N. Bolanger, "one of the five ringleaders of the I. W. W. Seattle strike," is one of the members of the executive committee of the La Follette organization in the state of Washington."

MORRIS MUST SURRENDER HIS DRIVING LICENSE

Hartford, Oct. 2.—In conformity with the state law requiring the motor vehicle commissioner "forthwith to suspend the license of any operator concerned in any motor vehicle accident resulting in the death of any person," the state motor vehicle department wrote today to Charles G. Morris, democratic nominee for governor, requesting him to send in his license. An automobile driven by Mr. Morris killed Mary Kiraj, nine years old, in Wallingford, late Tuesday afternoon.

The law requires the motor vehicle department to hold the license of any operator involved in such an accident until the facts and circumstances concerning it have been determined. If he is absolved of responsibility by the coroner, the license is immediately returned, but the suspension continues for a year in cases where it is found that the operator "contributed to such death through the violation of any provision of the motor vehicle law or through negligence or carelessness." The motor vehicle commissioner has no option in cases of fatal accidents and licenses are automatically suspended by his office force without directions from Commissioner Stoeckel whenever reports of such accidents are received.

AMERICAN WOMAN HELD BY IMMIGRATION AUTHORITIES

New York, Oct. 22.—Regarded as possessing a dual nationality, neither of which was sufficient to obtain a passport, Mrs. A. J. L. Capo, wife of the chief engineer of the Argentine dreadnought Rivadavia now undergoing repairs at Quincy, Mass., who was formerly Mary Land of Boston, and her 7-year-old son, were detained by immigration authorities today on their arrival aboard the liner Vauban for non-possession of a passport.

Mrs. Capo said that before leaving Buenos Aires to come here to visit her husband she applied to the Argentine authorities for a passport, but was told that notwithstanding her marriage to an Argentine citizen she was an American citizen. The American embassy held that she was an Argentine because of her marriage. Unable to secure a passport from either source she decided to use the passport issued her from Washington in 1915, signed with the name of William Jennings Bryan as secretary of state, at the time she went to Buenos Aires to marry Mr. Capo. Immigration authorities held this passport invalid.

Mrs. Capo said that she intends applying for repatriation.

GIRL HELD IN $25,000 BAIL ON CHARGES OF EXTORTION

Jersey City, N. J., Oct. 22.—Helen Pelrose, in the county jail in default of $25,000 bail on charges of extortion involving Victor Searles, Boston millionaire and former District Attorney William J. Corcoran of Middlesex county, Mass., tonight was facing extradition to that state where the warrant for her arrest has been issued.

The girl, who police say is Mrs Abraham Levy, 24, this morning protested that the "gang would shoot me" if she were returned to Boston. She is held in $25,000 bond.

It is understood that plans are in progress to have her extradicted to Massachusetts. The warrant was forwarded to Attorney General J. S. Mitchell of Massachusetts and authorities of Boston.

The girl told the police she came to Jersey City to "live down" the past and start life anew.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

Belgian Minister to Sign

Brussels, Oct. 22.—F. Peltzer, Belgian minister to Switzerland, has been instructed to sign immediately for Belgium the disarmament protocol drawn up by the last league of nations assembly.

Herriot to Attend Dinner.

Paris, Oct. 22.—Providing his duties permit, Premier Herriot will tomorrow attend a dinner given in honor of Vincente Blasco Ibanez, the Spanish author, by the Society of Friends of French Letters. At any rate, if the premier is unable to be present, the French govenment will be represented.

COL. JOHN G. EMERY SHOT BY MAN IN HIS OFFICE

Grand Rapids, Mich., Oct. 22—With the words "You broke up my home" on his lips, Chedell Simpson, 44, fired a bullet today into the left shoulder of Col. John G. Emery, veteran of Cantigny, the Argonne and St. Mihiel, and former national commander of the American Legion. The shooting was in Emery's real estate office, where Simpson's 26 year old wife is employed as a stenographer.

Tonight Colonel Emery is at a local hospital, and Simpson, against whom Mrs. Simpson recently filed suit for divorce, is in a cell charged with assault with intent to kill.

Physicians at the hospital removed the bullet and announced late today that unless infection developed Col. Emery might expect a speedy recovery.

Simpson was still in jail tonight, unable as yet to secure bail.

Colonel Emery, who is 43 years old and married, could give no reason tonight why Simpson singled him out as the cause of his domestic trouble. The man's wife, according to Emery, has been employed in the real estate office only a fortnight and he had never seen either Simpson or Mrs. Simpson before that time.

Simpson, according to Emery's story, fired two shots, the first hitting Emery in the left arm and plunging through the flesh to the shoulder.

The second shot went wild. Other persons in the office grabbed Simpson then as he aimed at Emery's heart.

BEQUESTS IN THE WILL OF HENRY R. TOWNE

New York, Oct. 22.—An estate of an estimated value of $1,000,000 is disposed of in the will of Henry R. Towne, engineer and manufacturer, former head of the Yale & Towne Manufacturing company, of Stamford, Conn., who died here on October 15, which was filed for probate today.

The will provides for a $50,000 trust fund, to be known as the "Henry R. Towne fund." For the Merchants' Association of New York, of which Mr. Towne was former president. The income from the fund is to be applied to the extension of the Merchants' Association's work.

Another trust fund, to be known as the "Henry R. Towne Engineering Fund," is bequeathed to the United Engineering Society, New York, the proceeds to be used for the general purposes of the engineering foundation maintained by the society.

The First Episcopal Society of Litchfield, Conn., is willed all of Mr. Towne's shares in the Litchfield Land Company as a permanent fund for the benefit of St. Michael's parish.

New York university, the Franklin Institute of the State of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia and the Penn Normal Industrial and Agricultural School, St. Helena Island, S. C., are each recipients of a $10,000 trust fund.

BODY OF POPE LEO XIII REMOVED TO ST. PETER'S

Rome, Oct. 22.—(By The A. P.)—The body of Pope Leo XII was removed at 8 o'clock tonight from its provisional resting place in St. Peters' to the tomb provided for it in the Basilica of St. John Lateheran. The translation was conducted in complete privacy, but with all due ceremony.

Leo XIII, Pope from 1878 to 1903 reckoned the 257th successor to St. Peter celebrated his jubilee on March 3, 1903. He died July 20 following. Since his death there have been numerous reports that the body would be removed from St. Peter's and in 1907 a colossal statue for his tomb was transported to the Church of St. John Latheran.

For various reasons, though none of them definitely stated, the body has remained in St. Peter's. The present pontiff, Pius XI, however, expressed the wish that the body of Leo XIII should be in the tomb at St. John Latheran at the celebration of the sixteenth centenary of the dedication of the great Basilica in November.

FUND FOR ORIGINAL COMPOSITION OF MUSIC

New York, Oct. 22.—A trust fund of $50,000 the income from which is to be used by Columbia university for the encouragement of original composition of music, to be known as the Josev M. Bearns Foundation is provided in the will of Lillia M. Bearns, who died at Brookline, Mass., on September 29. The will, disposing of approximately $167,000 and real property the value of which is not stated, was filed for probate today.

Other beneficiaries are Joseph Gautier Bearns and Eugenie Gautier Bearns, adopted children between whom the income for a fund of $30,000 is to be equally divided. M. Perkins, Greenwich, Conn., is named as guardian of the two children.

TO TEST "TRUTH SERUM" ON SING SING PRISONERS

New York, Oct. 22.—Scopolamin, "truth serum," will be tested on 10 inmates to Sing Sing prison, it was announced today by Dr. Carlton Simon, deputy police commissioner, who is in charge of the city's narcotic squad.

Dr. Simon said that Dr. Amos O. Squires, Sing Sing prison physician, had agreed to get the half score prisoners to submit to the test within a few days. Arrangements for the test were made after Dr. Simon had consulted with Dr. R. E. House, of Ferris, Texas, inventor of the serum and an attendant at the American Clinical Congress now in session here.

SENATOR LODGE IS IN EXCELLENT CONDITION

Boston, Oct. 22.—"Condition excellent" was the brief report on Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, who was operated upon a second time on Monday, made tonight by Dr. J. H. Cunningham, his physician.

Influences Working Against Railroads

Notation by John J. Cornell, General Counsel of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

Boston, Oct. 22—The destinies of America's railroads are in the hands of congress and the American people rather than of the railroad management, John J. Cornell, of Baltimore, general counsel of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad company, said in an address tonight at the annual dinner of the Associated Industries of Massachusetts. He warned against what he termed "influences and groups working vigorously, openly and covertly, to so handicap the carriers in their operation and management as to make private ownership and operation of railroads a failure."

"Railroad managers everywhere today are exerting themselves to put into effect efficiencies and economics striving to reduce the cost of operation in every possible way," he said. "It is estimated that the railroad system of the United States, taken as a whole, will reduce the total operating costs this year by the enormous sum of approximately $450,000,000. Certainly with these new economies and efficiencies and with the successful movement of the record-breaking business of 1923, there should not be any ground for fear of the failure of the railroads to meet their responsibilities next year or the year after.

"To do this, however, they must not stand still * * * for needed expansion and the purchase of new equipment, the carriers must secure approximately one billion dollars of new capital next year and each year thereafter if business conditions and the volume of traffic are normal. Can they raise this money? They did raise it in 1923. * * * If the transportation act is continued upon the statute books and is freed from the threat of repeal or emasculation which menaces it, confidence will continue and the additional capital needed will be forthcoming."

Reviewing railroad legislation introduced at the last session of congress, Mr. Cornwell said:

"Many men who are in public life today are working to that end (government ownership), although they would not openly advocate it. They know that as long as the railroads are operating efficiently and handling the commerce of the country in a satisfactory manner the people will not support a measure for government ownership and operation of the roads, but if they can enact legislation that will make private ownership and operation inefficient and unsatisfactory, they realize that, in desperation and as the only alternative, the people will turn to government ownership."

Other speakers at the dinner were GoGvernor Cox, Fayette R. Plumb of Philadelphia, and John E. Edgerton, of Lebanon, Tennessee.

UNTERMYER HAS TAKEN UP PROHIBITION ENFORCEMENT

Washington, Oct. 22.—A statement declaring a "nation-wide scandal" in regard to prohibition enforcement "still exists" and that President Coolidge has proved he will not put an end "to it" was issued here tonight by Samuel Untermyer, New York attorney.

The letter from Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general in charge of prohibition enforcement, to the Law Enforcement League of Philadelphia last July on the enforcement question and the league's reply, was quoted by Mr. Untermyer in drawing the conclusion that President Coolidge has "used his power to prevent the people from learning the facts."

"After fourteen months of President Coolidge as the law-enforcing executive of the government, this nation-wide scandal still exists," the statement said, "it is bred and is breeding more lawlessness, corruption, crime and misery than any other one thing today. In six months a fearless president, not afraid to remove department heads and other officials failing to do their plain duty in office, would end this scandal and again restore respect for the constitution and the laws of the land."

RECOUNT FAILED TO CHANGE OLD LYME ELECTION RESULT

New London, Oct. 22—A recount of the votes cast for first selectman in the recent election in Old Lyme has failed to change the results of balloting. The two leading candidates at the election were Eugene Caulkins, democrat, who received 123 votes and Bruce Bradbury, republican, who was given 124 votes. Caulkins, not satisfied with the decision, petitioned the superior court for a recount and the petition was granted by Judge Leonard J. Nickerson. The recount was held today in the superior court chambers here with Judge Nickerson present. The recount gave Bradbury 123 votes and Caulkins 119.

In filing his petition for a recount, Caulkins charged that several votes in his favor had been illegally rejected.

NOT TO PROCEED AGAINST NEWSPAPERS OF ST. JOHN

St. Johns, N. F., Oct. 22.—The supreme court of Newroundland today decided to take no proceedings against the editors of several of St. John's newspapers which published comment on the action of the grand jury recently in finding no indictment against Sir Richard Squires, former premier, who was charged with larceny of public funds. The decision of the court today was rendered on a motion by counsel for the former premier that the editors be committed for contempt of court.

In refusing the contempt ammitment the court warned the newspapers that further comment would result in action against them.

WARNING ABOUT FOREST FIRES IN MASSACHUSETTS

Boston, Oct. 22.—Warning that any increase in the number of forest fires will bring about suspension of the hunting season was contained in a letter sent today by Commissioner of Conservation William A. L. Bazeley to the 325 forest wardens of the state. The wardens were instructed to discontinue the issuing of permits for burning until after a heavy rain because of the existing drought.

Explosion in Mine Entombed Nine Men

Four Escaped Through an Abandoned Shaft—Other Five Report "All Here."

Madisonville, Ky., Oct. 22.—An explosion in the mine of the Hart Coal corporation near here early tonight entombed nine men, four of whom escaped through an abandoned shaft and five reported that they were "all here."

The explosion occurred in shaft No. 9, 220 feet underground, shortly after the day force of 250 men had left the workings. The cage was jammed in the shaft and the tipple blown partly over. Crowds began to gather and for several hours it was believed that the nine men known to be in the pits had perished. Four of them, who had been working in No. 11 shaft, 90 feet below No. 9 shaft, escaped through an abandoned shaft uninjured.

Shortly before 9 o'clock tonight those gathered around the partly wrecked tipple heard a voice from below shouting: "Hey, there." John Harvey, a negro miner, was talking. He told those on the surface in reply to questions that "We are all here. None were injured." Two rescue crews were attempting to enter the workings tonight in search of two men who were said to be still in the mine. Company officials, however, said that there were only nine men under ground when the explosion occurred.

No estimate of the damage could be obtained tonight nor would any of the rescue workers predict how long it would be before the entombed men would be reached.

Three of the imprisoned men are white and two are negroes.

PROGRESS OF PROBE INTO CAMPAIGN EXPENSES

Washington, Oct. 22.—Intimate details of the bringing of labor leaders to Washington to hear President Coolidge in a Labor Day address and additional light on methods employed to raise money for the conduct of the republican party's national campaign were furnished today to the senate campaign fund investigating committee.

T. V. O'Connor, chairman of the shipping board, testified that he had arranged to bring the labor leaders here and had advanced the money, about $360, to pay their hotel and taxicab bills in Washington.

This sum, he added, later was repaid by him to Joseph Ryan, vice president of the International Longshoremen's Union. He denied that he had discussed the matter with either President Coolidge or his secretary, C. Bascom Slempt, but under sharp cross-examination stated that he had taken it up with one White House attache.

Joseph R. Grundy, a wealthy worsted yarn manufacturer of Bristol, Pa., and chairman of the Pennsylvania ways and means committee of the republican national committee, said his organization had raised $365,000 up to today in 53 counties in Pennsylvania outside of the Pittsburgh district. W. L. Mellon, a relative of Andrew Mellon, secretary of the treasury, is in charge of raising money in that district, he said.

A denial of information reaching Senator Robert M. LaFollette that he had been named as the recent convention of the American Bankers' association at Chicago to head a committee to solicit funds from the bankers of the country to aid the republican national or other ticket was made by Edward T. Stotesbury, Philadelphia, partner of J. P. Morgan. He told of collecting approximately $50,000 in Philadelphia for the Grundy committee, of which he is a member.

Both Stotesbury and Grundy told the committee that they had no knowledge of the collection of funds for the republican campaign by any Pennsylvania organizations except the ways and means committee, the Union League, an old republican organization, and the Manufacturers' club. They disclaimed any knowledge of special and independent efforts to raise funds among the bankers and business men.

CHINESE TROOPS KILLED IN EXPLOSION OF MINE FIELDS

London, Oct. 22.—An attack by 15,000 Chihli (Peking government) troops upon the Mukden forces, is reported by the Mukden correspondent of the Daily Mail under date of Wednesday. After an all-night battle, fiercely contested, the Mukdenites turned the left flank of the Chihli troops and pressed the right flank upon prepared mine fields. The mines were exploded Monday morning, killing thousands.

Meanwhile Wu Pei-Fu, commander-in-chief of the central government armies, rushed three fresh brigades from Tien-Tsin and attacked the Mukenties inside the great wall, but was repulsed with severe losses.

The Chihli troops, according to the correspondent, were also defeated on the Jenal front, losing 1,4000 killed, 2,000 wounded and 1,700 prisoners.

SHENANDOAH HAS STARTED RETURN TRIP

Aboard U. S. S. Shenandoah, Oct. 22.—(By Radio to The A. P.)—Climbing steadily until an altitude of 3,500 feet was reached, 90 minutes after weighing off from the Nogh Island mooring mast at San Diego, the navy dirigible Shenandoah was fairly started on the trying return trip over the Rocky Mountains at 11.25 o'clock.

The course from the southern California city was laid southward toward Tia Juana. Turning before the Mexican line was reached and mounting over Otay reservoir, the flagship of the skies circled on a five mile radius mounting to 4,500 feet to dry out, then followed along the Mexican border to Petrero from where the charted course followed the mountain road through passes to the dessert, then over El Centro and Yma, and to the east.

RESIGNATION OF REV. HARRY EMERSON FOSDICK ACCEPTED

Unanimous Action by Congregation of First Presbyterian Church, New York—Rev. Fosdick Was Extended an Invitation to Preach in the Church "On Such Sundays as He Finds It Convenient.

New York, Oct. 22.—The congregation of the First Presbyterian church tonight unanimously accepted Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick's resignation. The meeting, however, extended an invitation to Dr. Fosdick to preach at the church "on such Sundays as he finds it convenient."

There was scarcely a vacant seat in the church when the meeting was opened by Dr. George Alexander with a prayer in which he said: "We look to Thee for guidance, conscious as we are as to the infirmity of our judgment and our liability to err."

The clerk then read the call for the meeting and the communication from the Presbytery responsible for it, together with Dr. Fosdick's declination to become a member of the Presbyterian church.

A letter from Dr. Fosdick was then read, including a copy of a letter to the New York Presbytery's committee, in which he declined to renounce his affiliation with the Baptist church.

The report to the Presbytery which was passed on at the meeting, reads in part:

"In view of the action of our general assembly and under present conditions, we are constrained with great reluctance to authorize our chosen officers to accept the resignation of Dr. Fosdick, to take effect at a date most agreeable to him and to our pastor, Dr. Alexander, and not inconsistent with any expressed desire of the Presbytery."

Another clause simplifies the position of the churchmen as follows:

"Had Dr. Fosdick found it possible to accept that overture (to renounce the Baptist and accept the Presbyterian) we should have invited him with great cordiality, to enter into still closer ecclesiastical relations. Since he has declined under present conditions to become a Presbyterian minister our concern is, not for ourselves alone, but for the cause of Christ in our city, to find some way not inconsistent with Presbyterian law and usage whereby his ministrations, which have been attended with such signal tokens of divine favor may be continued."

DAWES CAMPAIGNING IN HOME STATE OF DAVIS

Wheeling, W. Va., Oct. 22—Charles G. Dawes, republican vice presidential candidate, carrying his party's campaign into the home state of John W. Davis, democratic presidential nominee, told his audience here tonight that there was no room between the lines of the fight for and against the constitution.

The republican nominee devoted most of his address to a continuation of his assault on the LaFollette Independent candidacy, characterizing it as "an attack on our constitution and existing form of government." But near the end of his speech he turned to the democratic opposition, declaring:

"I know that I am speaking to a great many patriotic, honest, liberty loving democrats, but there is no room for any one between the lines in this great fight for and against the present form of this government and our constitution."

The address here ended a day of campaigning which took Mr. Dawes into industrial Pittsburgh for a noon meeting and to Washington, Penna., for a rear platform speech.

The LaFollette platform declaration for restriction on the power of the supreme court to declare acts of congress unconstitutional and "the heterogenous collection of extreme radicalism" which he asserted had been massed behind the LaFollette candidacy drew the principal fire from Mr. Dawes in all of his speeches.

TO CONSOLIDATE SUGAR PRODUCING PROPERTIES

New York, Oct. 22.—Plans to consolidate 12 large sugar producing properties in Cuba and the Dominican Republic were announced tdoay by the Cuban Dominican Sugar company which will float a $15,000,000 bond issue to finance the transaction. The West India Sugar Finance corporation and the sugar estates of Orient, Inc., will be linked with the Cuban-Dominican company in the deal.

Upon completion of transactions incident to the financing the Cuban Dominican Sugar company will control developed mill properties and cane lands which will make it one of the largest producers of raw cane sugar in the world.

CASE TESTING REVENUE TAXES ON SALES OF STOCK

Washington, Oct. 22.—A case involving the right of the government to collect revenue stamp taxes on short sales of stock was argued today before the court of claims here.

The action was brought by the stock brokerage firm of Provost Brothers and Company, of New York, who were represented by former Attorney General George W. Wickersham. The decision will determine the power of the government to require revenue stamps to be affixed in all transactions of the New York and other exchanges known as "selling short." The case is one of the 318 of this class pending before the court.

DAVIS HAS COMPLETED HIS CAMPAIGN TOUR OF INDIANA

Evansville, Ind., Oct. 22.—Completing his third and final campaign tour of Indiana with addresses tonight at Evansville and in the late afternoon at historic Vincennes, John W. Davis, democratic candidate for president, charged that the last three and one-half years of republican administration had produced the "third party" and offered with the help of a democratic congress to remedy "the disease which has brought it about."

Mr. Davis also pledged in the name of democracy to give relief to the farmers of the country; to bring about a thorough house-cleaning of the Washington government; to put an end to bureaucracies and install a government based on a sane, forward-looking and progressive liberalism.

NOTICE OF REDEMPTION OF TREASURY CERTIFICATES

TESTIMONY BEGUN IN THE OIL RESERVE SUIT

Los Angeles, Oct. 22—Testimony was begun in the United States district court here today in the government suit to cancel the lease and contracts of naval oil reserve properties to the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport Company, which E. L. Doheny controlling shareholder, values at $100,000,000 and in the alleged conspiracy for granting of which the government charges Doheny paid $100,000 to Albert B. Fall, secretary of the interior of that time.

Commander H. A. Stuart, U. S. N. formerly officer in charge of the naval fuel oil reserves, at Washington, was the first witness called by Owen J. Roberts, government prosecutor. Roberts said that Commander Stuart was placed on the witness stand to prove that a disagreement existed in the navy department concerning these leases that the navy officer had not been in accord with the policy and was subsequently removed from office.

The taking of testimony was preceded by offering of documentary evidence. Including the withdrawal order of President Taft by which the Elk Hills oil lands were withdrawn from public entry; the executive order of President Harding in 1921 directing that administration of the naval oil reserves be transferred to the department of the interior from the navy department and other documents bearing on the case.

In bringing out testimony to prove there was a disagreement among naval officials in the granting of the proposed leases, Roberts asked Stuart to relate his dealings with Fall prior to the granting of the leases to the Pan American interests.

"After it was decided to make the lease, Admiral Griffin and I went to Secretary Fall and told him we had heard the United Midway was to be given the lease on part of number one," Stuart's testimony began. "We objected to this and said it was not necessary to drill wells. Fall said he had already taken it up with the president, and had met with his approval. Fall said he would get proof of the approval, but did not until later. We left and went to the navy building and were then summoned back and shown the approval of the president. Shortly after the leases were divided."

DUDLEY FIELD MALONE IN A DEFIANT MOOD

Waterbury, Oct. 22—Dudley Field Malone, former collector of the port of New York, speaking at LaFollette rally here tonight, took occasion to criticize John W. Davis for claiming to be a progressive. "I have respect for President Coolidge," he said, "for admitting that he is a conservative. That is what Mr. Davis should claim, too."

Mr. Malone asserted that the only hope of free government and honesty in national life is through the election of Senator LaFollette. He assailed the republicans for corruption and the democrats for being reactionary. "There is no difference between the old parties," he said.

Referring to local affairs, Mr. Malone mentioned the fact that police were sent today to stop Congressman Patrick B. O'Sullivan from speaking outside a factory gate.

"If I were in Waterbury tomorrow," he declared, "I would speak outside the gates as a test of free speech and defy them to arrest me."

REGIONAL ANAESTHETIC FOR SURGICAL OPERATIONS

New York, Oct. 22—From thirty to eighty per cent. of the surgical operations of the future will be performed with the aid of a regional anaesthetic which eliminates pain but leaves the patient conscious, according to Dr. Gaston Labat, French surgeon who addressed the convention of the Eastern Society of Anaesthetists this afternoon.

Dr. S. C. Smith of Ashland, Ky., describing the new method of rendering a patient unconscious in pain, said it is done by injecting an anaesthetic solution into the part of the body on which the operation is to be performed, or by injecting the same solution into the large nerve trunks at the point of their departure from the spinal cord.

A peculiarity of this method, he said is that the only sense affected is the sense of pain. The senses of touch, taste and smell was preserved, he declared.

Sixty-seven per cent of the capital issues raised in England last year went abroad while only six per cent of American capital investments left this country.

Case announced that elections returns would be received by radio and Mah Jong will be played.

That there is danger in the practice of burning refuse in public or private dumps and within the past twenty-four hours the firemen have been called twice to extinguish fires of this nature. Fire Chief James J. Tighe issued warning against this procedure Wednesday. One hundred and eighty feet of hose was laid to extinguish a dump fire Tuesday on a tract of land on Windham Road owned by the American Thread Company. The flames were making rapid headway toward several houses in the neighborhood when the firelads arrived. About nine o'clock Wednesday morning Engine Company No. 1 was called out by a still alarm for a blaze of like nature on Valley street extension, on land owned by Dr. C. H. Girard. One hundred and fifty feet of hose had to be laid here.

John Earle of Providence charged with reckless driving in this city on October 14, was fined $25 and costs, with a remittance of $10 of the fine in police court here Wednesday morning. Earle's attorney pleaded for his client informing Judge Foss that Earle did not realize that an officer was operating the Ford runabout which he thought was attempting to pass him. State Policeman Keith of the Danielson barracks, said that the chase started at Phelps Crossin gand that he caught up with Earle's Cadillac on Main street here. Earle, he stated, drove between 45 and 50 miles an hour, but did not pass any cars and slowed down when he reached the Main street railroad crossing having traveled up lower Main street at the rate of 30 miles an nour. The total assessment of $24.35 was paid.

Undefeated since 1922 Windham High School's eleven will play a cautious game at Recreation Park here Saturday afternoon when they will defend their championship against the hardy crew from Weaver High of Hartford. The fifth chimney fire to be extinguished in four days by local firemen was at the residence occupied by Walter Griggs at 228 High street Wednesday morning. The house is owned by Samuel Bonin. Nine gallons of chemicals were used.

The funeral of Mrs. Rose Potvin was held Wednesday morning from the home of her mother, 27 Temple street. A high mass of requiem at St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock was sung by Rev. H. C. Belec. There was a large attendance and beautiful floral tributes. St. Cecelia choir rendered the Gregorian chant mass, with Mrs. J. F. Gaudreau at the organ. Edward Rocheville sang "L'Heure Breve." Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery where Rev. Father Belec read the committal service. The bearers were Louis Morrisey, Alfred Chalifoux, Albert Lussier, Samuel Goland, Arthur Goland, and Adelard Potvin. Arrangements were by the Hurteau-Bosse Corps.

The Windham Center-North Windham Road will be macadamized next spring according to present plans, which are the culmination of two years of investigation of repairs on the road, an important stretch of highway. The survey work has been completed by civil engineers of the state highway department and they have made a few changes in the lines of the present course of the road, one including a slight shift on land owned by Hattie Whittlesey and Fred Potter. It is expected that bids for the construction work will be advertised next month.

Miss Gertrude H. Turner was tendered a surprise, when ushered into a costume party given in her honor, at the home of her sisters Mrs. H. T. Park where the guest of honor also resides. Mrs. R. C. The driver's license held by John Galleno of 9 Mayo street has been suspended from October 10, according to a notification received by Chief of Police McArthur, Wednesday morning, from the state motor vehicle department.

Mrs. Gretchen Beckwith and Miss Pauline Costello were hostesses when the Social Whist Club held a meeting which took the form of a Hallowe'en party, at the home of Mrs. Beckwith, Tuesday evening. Many original costumes were worn but Mrs. Elizabeth Pickett in a quaint gown and hat won the prize. Mrs. Corinne Kilburn wore a ballet costume, Mrs. Mary Mathieu and Mrs. Marjorie McCarthy went as Canadian huntresses, and Miss Mary Veglard as a Dutch girl. Six tables of whist were in play and prizes were awarded Mrs. Agnest Bocash, first; Mrs. Mary Mathieu, second; Mrs. Mary Brooks, third; and Mrs. Mary Benoit, consolation. After the game, Hallowe'en refreshments were served by the hostesses.

Thirty girls from The Elms met at Mrs. Nora M. Robinson's home on South Windham Road to participate in a farewell party in honor of Mrs. Goodwin, matron who is to leave this week. Mrs. Goodwin has been here since March, 1922. She was presented a framed motto and a ten dollar gold piece. Refreshments were served and music and dancing provided entertainment.

With the qualifying of Gilbert Flynn as town constable Tuesday and the taking of oath of office by John T. Meikle this (Thursday) all four of the democratic constables will have been elected to qualify, the others being William D. Kelley and Gus Sagal. The only republican, so far elected to the office, Theodore Marrotte, has not qualified. Harry W. Avery was elected but cannot hold the office because he is a federal officer and the tie vote between Alfred P. Abbe and Wilbur G. Stevens at the town election has not been settled as yet.

Violet Rebekah Lodge, No. 57, I. O. O. F., held a regular meeting in the I. O. O. F. Hall Tuesday evening. After the transaction of business, there was a rehearsal of the degree team. Many candidates are to be initiated. Supper will be served at 6:30 o'clock at the next meeting, November 4, and assembly officers will make their annual visit.

Henry Potvin and Margaret Roberts, both well beyond middle age, were placed under arrest in a tenement on Union street, Wednesday evening, by Officer Arthur Hurley under charges of intoxication and breach of the peace. Both were locked in the police headquarters over night, for appearance in the police court this (Thursday) morning. A gallon jug partly filled with a mixture of alcohol and water known as "splits" was taken, as further evidence against the couple.

REPUBLICAN RALLY ROUSES GREAT ENTHUSIASM

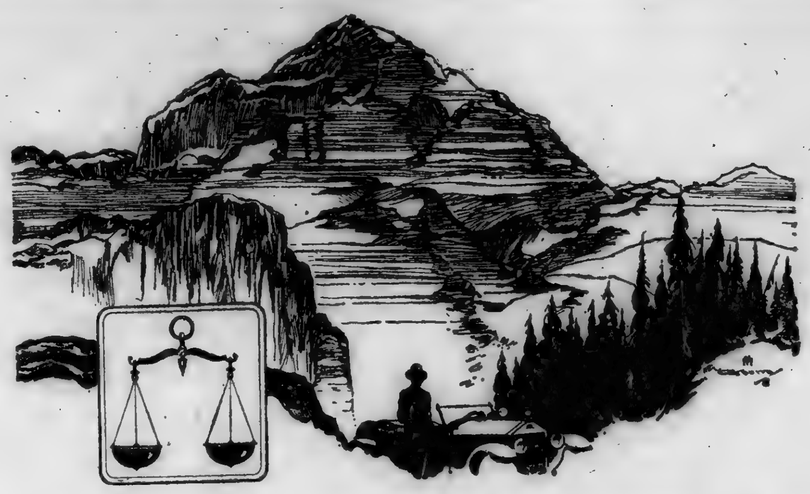
(Special to The Bulletin)

Willimantic, Oct. 22.—Six hundred rallying republicans met Wednesday evening at the town hall and extended Lieut. Gov. Hiram Bingham, candidate for governor, one of the warmest welcomes given any political candidate visiting Willimantic in many years. As the candidate came upon the stage with typical grace and dignity the audience rose and his popularity in Windham was manifested by applause which lasted several minutes. He was accorded another round of handclapping at the conclusion of his address. Judge Otto B. Robinson was chairman of the meeting which opened with the singing of America, under the leadership of Edwin F. Cross. The Lakeside orchestra played, also gave a concert number. Between the speeches the Temple male quartet furnished excellent entertainment, meriting hearty encores. Expressing his personal interest in Windham and eastern Connecticut for the fact that his relatives were originally of Norwich, Candidate Bingham won the attention of his auditors and in a soft, even flow of choicest language led his speech. Expressing admiration of the business methods used by the republican party in keeping Connecticut on pay-as-yougo basis and supplementing this with a summary of the accomplishments of the party in handling the financial affairs of the state, Mr. Bingham cited a few convincing figures. When Gov. Holcomb and his republican colleagues took office, in 1915, the treasurer's records of Connecticut showed a net indebtedness of $11,000,000 incurred by the fear of the democrats during their brief term of power of sacrificing public popularity by raising taxes to meet inevitable current expenses. Since 1915, the republican party under its pay-as-you-go system has completely wiped out that debt, making balances instead of deficits the rule, and establishing Connecticut as the strongest state financially in the Union. Probably eclipsing this great achievement is the fact that all this has been done by the slightest increase in taxation of any of the 48 states, Montana being next highest in line with an increase of 50 per cent. and other states going on higher up to Oregon, with an increase in the same period of time of 360 per cent. Candidate Bingham characterized the democratic tax decrease plans as one of fake promises. There appeared to be no doubt in his mind that the democrats actually plan to take steps which they advertise, but he stated that once taxes are cut, the party in power will of necessity have to borrow money and once again leave the inheritance of an indebtedness to be cleared off by some one else as occurred in 1915. In explaining the much talked of 1 cent gasoline tax the speaker stated that in one year that tax netted the state $1,000,000 and that amount according to law has been applied entirely to road construction and repair. "Who is better fitted to pay for highway upkeep, than the very man who is responsible for the wearing down of roads?" queried the candidate. La Follette's government ownership of railroads and his foolhardy promise of granting increases to railroad workers without establishing surplus receipts to meet this additional expense were scored by the lieutenant governor.

He characterized John W. Davis as an able business man and a clever diplomat, but regards his choice of a running mate in the person of Charles Bryan as a "mighty poor pick," hardly capable of choosing a dependable cabinet. Halting his speech for a few words of tribute to Senator Frank B. Brandegee, Candidate Bingham gave a brief sketch of the private and political life of President Coolidge which brought hearty endorsement, An outburst of applause followed the speaker's recommendation of General Charles G. Dawes, a descendant of Windham settlers, for vice president. The names of Ernest E. Rogers of New London for state treasurer and of John Trumbull, a native of Ashford, for lieutenant governor were also endorsed by the candidate. The exercise of local government to the full was strongly advocated by the speaker. Against proposed amendments to give congress additional power, he gave several examples tending to show that that body had more than its hands full at present. The speaker closed with "Let's keep Coolidge, our old-fashioned New Englander, as our chief executive and let's give him a republican senate and house over which his wisdom will preside!"

Joseph Lussier, editor of La Justice, of Holyoke, Mass., an influential political leader in French-American circles, delivered a fluent address in French, advocating the support of the entire republican ticket. Mr. Lussier is an experienced campaign orator and his remarks were listened to with much interest by the French-speaking members of the audience.

The issue is between the republican and the La Follette party and the democrats are out of the running, was the opening statement launched by Professor C. D. Scattergood of Columbia university, who was replacing John Gibson, congressman from Vermont, as the third speaker of the evening. Professor Scattergood displayed remarkable ability in the handling of figures, as he pointed out that the almost spontaneous reconstruction of the country following the close of the war was due to the protective tariff which keeps men in employment. He gave a statistical review of the achievements in the line of economy and business building of the republican administration. The meeting closed at 10.15 o'clock.



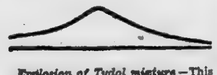
From Nature's perfectly balanced formula comes this natural "anti-knock" gasoline

Scientific tests prove TYDOL a natural anti-knock gasoline

Knocking in an engine is caused by the gasoline mixture exploding too quickly or too violently. There is no knock if the mixture burns progressively and evenly.

The Midgley Indicator, a remarkable scientific instrument, enables us to photograph the progress of the explosion of a gasoline mixture in the combustion chamber.

Explosion of ordinary mixture—The above graph shows the explosion of an ordinary gasoline mixture. The jagged points indicate violent, uneven burning, the cause of motor knocks.



Explosion of Tydol mixture—This graph shows how a Tydol mixture explodes. The smooth, even curve denotes progressive combustion. There is no tendency to knock.

NOTE: Tydol, of course, will not eliminate knocking in motors which are defective mechanically.

Motorists are now being told that they must pay extra for gasoline in order to stop motor knocks. Tydol users save that extra money. If you use Tydol consistently, it is not necessary to doctor your gasoline or pay more than the regular price per gallon. Tydol is a natural anti-knock gasoline.

* * * *

In great research laboratories throughout the country, learned scientists searched for years for the formula of a gasoline that would not knock. But in solving this problem, the brains of man were no match for the wonders of Nature.

While chemists toiled in man-made laboratories, Nature in her own underground laboratories already had perfected the formula they sought. And so Nature produced a crude petroleum oil from which it is possible to refine gasoline having natural anti-knock qualities.

Tydol Economy Gasoline is made from this crude petroleum oil at the Tide Water Refinery at Bayonne, N. J.—and nowhere else.

Tydol is a natural anti-knock gasoline. Tydol also gives you a fast start, a quick pickup, full power and mileage and minimum carbon. Prove Tydol's quality to your own satisfaction. Fill up at any Tydol pump—and pay no more than the regular price per gallon.

COULD NOT WALK BECAUSE OF PAIN

Bad Case of Woman's Illness Remedied by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

St. Louis, Mo.—"I had such a bad case of female trouble that I could not walk because of the pains from inflammation. My back was all done up. I could hardly bend, could not go up stairs because of weakness, and no one could possibly be in worse shape than I was. I have taken 12 bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am a strong woman now and can work down any of my neighbors. They wonder how I can do so much work. I dare say that I have recommended your medicine to a thousand women. A little book was thrown at my door, and that is how I first learned of it."—Mrs. D. M. BEAUCHAMP, 1104 Morrison Avenue, St. Louis, Missouri.

Letters like this bring out the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. They tell of the relief from such pains and ailments after taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

In a recent country-wide canvass of purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, 98 out of every 100 report they were benefited by its use. For sale by druggists everywhere.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theater

If you fail to see The Circus Cowboy at the Breed theater today you will miss an opportunity to see Charles Jones in one of the best pictures he has ever made for William Fox. It is a fast action, colorful romance of the west and the sawdust ring which has all the ingredients of an effective entertainment compound. Jones rides his best in this picture and he performs some feats that are real hair raisers. Marian Nixon as the girl was never sweeter.

Other pictures on the bill include the Fox news and a Pathe comedy.

Palace Theater

Miss Mae Busch, who enacts the title role in A Woman Who Sinned at the Palace theater today, Friday and Saturday, is a veritable fashion show by herself.

The winsome star is first shown as a minister's wife; then, as the mistress of a Wall Street broker. Her gowns, therefore, range from the dainty dress of a country girl to the most elaborate of evening creations.

The gowns worn by Miss Busch in A Woman Who Sinned, presents a splendor of clothes heretofore unequalled on the screen. The gowns are the exclusive fashion shop in Paris. In no way are they reminiscent or suggestive of anything in milady's wants that have ever been shown to feminine eyes before. Although Miss Busch is the possessor of a myriad of expensive gowns, at no time is her histrionic ability overshadowed by her costly clothes.

Mae Busch is the featured player supported by Irene Rich, Morgan Wallace, Rex Lease and other noted film stars.

Also Educational comedy, Exit Caesar, Pathe news and Sport Light complete the program.

Broadway Theater

Another typical all star program of B. F. Keith vaudeville opens at the Broadway theater today for three days.

Frank and Geneva in a dance revue have a diversified program of attractively assembled steps.

Wagring who calls himself The American Pianist is one of the big names in the musical world. His appeal is general.

De Lacy and Williams in Swanking is a comedy of which the dialogue is bright.

A real funny offering is presented by Al Shayne, the singing beauty, who is ably assisted by Frank Donis.

A laugh and a thrill awaits all with the Three Aerial La Ports in comedy aerial gymnasts.

$20 a Week, the Selznick-Distinctive photoplay will be the feature at the Broadway theater, beginning today George Arliss takes the role of a millionaire who becomes disgusted with the thriftlessness of his son and cuts him off with $20 a week allowance. He also limits himself to the same amount.

Burnquist, republican state central committee chairman, that they would also be unable to radiocast Attorney General Stone's address here Friday night.

George Kuhns, president of the company, said, that the program for that evening had been completed and could not be changed at this later date. The La Follette speech was not handled for the same reason, it was said.

DEM. STATE CONVENTION IN NEW HAVEN NOV. 24-25

New Haven, Oct. 22.—The democratic state convention to select a senatorial candidate to contest the vacancy caused by the death of United States Senator Frank B. Brandegee, will be held at New Haven on November 24 and 25, it was officially announced at democratic headquarters here tonight. The date was selected at a conference here this afternoon between Edward M. Yeomans and A. S. Lych, chairman and secretary of the democratic state central committee. Two days were assigned in accordance with the law covering state conventions.

The date for the caucuses to select delegates has been set for November 8.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

While Killingly is fussing around with preparations for political rallies and campaigns are underway for this and that candidate for public office, two of the residents of this town have already cast their votes for president in the election scheduled for November 4. Sounds like a fairy tale, but perfectly true!

William E. Parker, superintendent of schools in this town, and Mrs. Parker voted Wednesday. In this they have attained a special distinction among the residents of Killingly. By attaining it they may possibly lose the zest of election day. One cannot vote twice, it will be recalled, so insofar as they are concerned the matter of the presidential election is settled until 1928.

Mr. and Mrs. Parker are newcomers in Killingly. Prior to their residence here, during the past summer, they lived at Holliston, Mass. Connecticut law requires a year's residence in this state before one is privileged to vote in any of its townships. That regulation would debar them from participation in the coming election were it not for the fact that progressive Massachusetts already has placed in its statutes a provision providing for absentee voting.

Taking advantage of the wise provision of the neighboring state against the possible disfranchisement of any of its qualified electors, no matter where they may happen to be resident, Mr. and Mrs. Parker have marked their ballots for the candidates presented for their choice in the election set for a week from next Tuesday and have mailed them to the proper officials.

Without doubt, they are the only residents of this town who have voted in the presidential election of 1924, and that is indeed a distinction.

The procedure involved in Mr. and Mrs. Parker voting at this time required their appearance before Town Clerk Frank T. Preston of this town. They marked their ballots as they desired, placed them in a sealed envelope, and having had their acts properly certified by Mr. Preston, forwarded the ballots to the town clerk of Hollliston, to be opened on election day.

Wednesday Town Clerk Frank T. Preston was officially notified through a representative of a sheriff of Windham county of the impending special election, set for December 16, to select a successor for United States Senator Frank B. Brandegee.

This election, naturally will be preceded by the holding of a caucus by the republicans of Killingly to name their delegates to a special state convention of the party to nominate a candidate to succeed Senator Brandegee. Attorney E. L. Darbie, chairman of the republican town committee, said Wednesday afternoon that the caucus probably will be held during the latter part of election week. This matter will be decided during the present week by the state central committee. The convention likely will be held on November 24-25, at a place yet to be announced.

Incidentally, the democrats of Killingly also will caucus to name a delegation to the democratic state convention that will nominate that party's candidate for the possible successor to Senator Brandegee.

Length by length, a force of work-ers in the employ of the Crystal Waterway company are forwarding the work of resetting of mains from Judd avenue, northward to Elmville. At the present time after several weeks of operations is about two-thirds completed. Hard digging has slowed up the work to a degree, but nevertheless good progress is being made. It is anticipated that the work will be completed some time in December.

Supporters of the LaFollette-Wheel-er cause will have their innings in the town hall this (Thursday) evening. They will tell the holme folks why they believe their favorites should be elected on November 4. Mrs. Helen Hill Weed, noted for her activities in the interest of the constitutional amendment providing for woman suffrage and a Connecticut resident of prominence will be the principal speaker. Mrs. Hill is a daughter of former Congressman Hill of Connecticut.

Two wise-crackers met down town Wednesday, Says Joe: "I hear they have taken the roof off the state armory." "What's the idea?" says Bill. "'Taint goin to rain any mo," says Joe.

"That's interesting," says Joe, "but did you hear they have stopped The Covered Wagon down in Plainfield?"

"No! Why?"

"To grease the wheels." said Joe.

From all of which it would appear that Joe was the joker of the little party.

PUTNAM

If there is to be an opposition to the establishment of the Cargill Trust company in this city, it is not generally known to the public. Emerging from the bewilderment that has beset this city since the collapse of the First National bank, the public mind seems to be complacent over what is being done on all sides to provide it with adequate commercial banking facilities.

Re-establishing, under another name, a national bank for Putnam has been a matter of pride with many responsible citizens of this community and of other communities whose banking interest are centered here. If in the period of turmoil another group of people equally interested in Putnam have evolved a plan for a trust company here, the fact appears to have aroused little general rancor, whatever the feeling of individuals who have sought approximately the same ends by different routes.

It will not be denied by those that know Putnam well and are familiar with the volume of banking business transacted here that there is not room for two commercial banks. It is forecasted that both will prosper, providing both become realities. The establishment of the Citizens' National bank is already assured. And on November 6th, there will be a hearing at Hartford on the advisability of establishing the Cargill Trust company. Numbers of Connecticut communities doing no more, and in some cases, less than the amount of commercial banking business transacted in this city have two or more commercial banks. It is contended here that Putnam has sufficient business to keep two such institutions going. That being the case, it is not anticipated that there will be serious opposition at the Hartford hearing to the establishing of the proposed trust company. In any event, a fortnight will tell.

At 10.35 Wednesday morning an alarm called out a company with headquarters at the central station to combat a brush fire on land owned by James B. Tatem, in the eastern section of the city. The firemen made a short job of the fire and were back in quarters within 30 minutes. The damage from the fire was immaterial. This single brush fire may serve as another warning to all of the need of being especially careful during the present period of drouth, as to causing fires by negligence with matches, cigarettes, camp fires or in any other manner.

Suit for damages of $25,000 has been brought against Joseph Miller, proprietor of a lunch cart in this city, by Thomas Ellis, one of his employes, at the time the Miller car was wrecked a few weeks ago in the town of Thompson with serious resultant injuries to Ellis, who sustained a bad fracture of the leg, and the death of another member of the party riding in the Miller car. Announcement of the suit came as a surprise. It is contended in Miller's interest that he was driving carefully at the time of the accident and that the untoward happenings is believed to have been due to some defect in the mechanism of the machine. Ellis, who was taken to the Day Kimball hospital after the accident, is understood to be a resident of Bridgeport. He had been employed here by Miller as a lunch wagon chef.

There will be 98 guest rooms in the Putnam inn, where a big addition has been constructed and many improvements are under way, when the work, now far advanced, is completed.

CITIZENS' NATIONAL BANK CHARTER IS APPROVED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Putnam, Oct. 22.—Release was allowed Wednesday of the fact that a charter for the proposed Citizens' National bank of Putnam has been approved by Henry M. Dawes, comptroller of the currency, on terms acceptable to the citizens' committee, which has worked long and arduously to the end now regarded as achieved.

That the application for a charter has been approved was forecasted in this column Tuesday, following the return from Washington, where he was in conference with the comptroller, of Judge Mahlon H. Geissler.

The new organization, which is now busy with its plans to begin business, will occupy the fine building of the defunct First National bank, this building completed and occupied during the spring of this year.

Incidentally, Comptroller Dawes authorized Judge Geissler to make the announcement that the depositors of the First National bank are to receive the first dividend on their involved funds during the week of December 15-25—Christmas week.

The dividend will be at least 20 per cent. If the dividend amounts to 25 per cent., as is possible, the funds made available for release will amount to $500,000. This money has been tied up since August 12.

Wednesday's announcements appear to establish that the aim of Putnam people to have a national bank the stock of which will be owned and controlled by Putnam people has been accomplished. It was stated Wednesday afternoon that three of the largest banks in New England—one of them of Boston, one of Providence and one of Worcester—have pledged their assistance toward the launching of the new bank on its career. The Citizens' National bank of this city will have the aid of the counsel of these banks, the advice and aid of some of their junior officers for so long a period as it may be required.

In addition to this Comptroller Dawes has given his assurance that he will do everything possible to expedite the work of organization and to safeguard the interests of depositors and stockholders.

And now comes the work of collecting the money pledged by subscribers for the stock of the Citizens' National bank. Following a meeting on Tuesday evening of the local committee that has worked for the establishing here of a locally controlled national bank, it was announced Wednesday morning that A. Newton Vaughn has been selected as financial agent to receive payments of subscriptions. In addition to any subscriptions paid to Mr. Vaughn, a teller's window at the First National bank has been set aside for the receiving of subscriptions, to the courtesy of Comptroller Dawes and Receiver Coffin.

Of interest is the fact that numbers of stockholders in the wrecked First National bank are numbered among those who will take stock holdings in the new national banking institution. Members of the citizens' committee have made it clear that they are pleased about this and that it seems a very desirable circumstance.

The fact that the Citizens' National bank, after two months of persistent work and in the face of many disheartening handicaps, is making ready to do business is of vast interest to the people of this city and to those of the surrounding towns that make Putnam a banking center.

It was anticipated Wednesday that pledges for stock in the new institution will be promptly met with payments and that no unusual delay is to be expected in the Citizens' National bank stepping into the place so unfortunately vacated by the First National bank.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes —Most Women Can Have

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep them fit. 15c and 30c.

At Exactly Open Car Cost

You pay exactly open car cost for the all-year comforts of the Coach. Hudson alone can build it. As the largest builder of 6-cylinder closed cars in the world, Hudson exclusively holds the advantages to produce this car and this price.

It creates the one important buying issue today. For no one who knows closed car comforts will be satisfied with an open car, with one-season utility, and diminishing resale value.

That is why the Coach outsells all rivals. Its leadership is not even challenged. Everyone knows it provides highest closed car value. Hudson invented the Coach and its development and experience make its value exclusive.

And even more important in your permanent enjoyment of the Coach, is the famous Super-Six chassis with performance distinction and long lasting reliability not excelled by any car regardless of cost.

REPUBLICAN ACCOMPLISHMENTS.

Lieutenant Governor Bingham, in whom New London county has special interest because of his residence in Salem, spoke straight from the shoulder and in a convincing manner Tuesday night when he dealt with the republican administration of state government.

Well did he say that the republican record is one of accomplishments and not promises. There has been a close application to business methods. There has been a regard for the interests of the taxpayers and the situation today indicates what has been achieved in that direction.

It is within the memory of most people that the state was laboring under a debt of nearly $11,000,000 less than a decade ago. It was the legacy of democratic administrations. It is not to be overlooked at this time that the state is out of debt and that has been accomplished through republican policies of sound administration, and it is to be remembered that this has been accomplished in spite of the demands during the war period. It has been necessary to meet the situation through taxes, but extravagance has not required the continuation of the taxes, and when it is realized that Connecticut increased taxation only 15 per cent while other states were increasing it on an average of 100 per cent and in some cases over 300 per cent., Connecticut has reason to take its hat off to those who have been guiding its affairs.

The record of the republican guidance since 1915 is an open book. It speaks for itself and it cries out in no uncertain terms for the continuation of the good work. Connecticut knows it has been in able hands and Connecticut will insist that it remain there with Hiram Bingham in the governor's chair for the next two years.

After hearing him Norwich was more convinced than ever that Connecticut needs him at the helm. It is a time to continue rather than remove the safeguards.

STOPPING JAY WALKERS.

During the year 1923 it is shown by statistics that there were 14,412 persons killed by automobiles in the death registration area of this country. That represents an increase of nearly 3000 over the previous year, a gain of 2.4 per cent.

Just what were the particular causes of these accidents is not disclosed. The department of commerce has as yet issued no classification of them, but it is interesting just at this time that the police commissioner of New York city should be asking for authority to regulate the pedestrians. He wants full authority over the streets and the sidewalks. The idea of this is to make it possible to prosecute the jay walker.

Without a question there are too many instances in which people crossing the street fail to look out for themselves. They plunge headlong out from behind vehicles, fail to to see what may be coming and really invite accidents. Some do it heedlessly while others take the view that it is up to the drivers of vehicles to look out for human beings.

There was a time when more support was given to this latter view than there is today. This doesn't mean that the pedestrian doesn't have rights that are to be respected, but there is a responsibility which he must assume in behalf of himself, and it is quite important that he should guard against inviting danger. The dangers of the highway are obvious and it is important for those using them to look well to their safety.

What the police commissioner of New York seeks, however, is probably more authority than he will get. It means the placing of too much authority in the hands of the police, where it is subject to both good and bad use. The jay walker quite the same as the speeder needs to be checked, but it doesn't appear as yet that the educational methods of accomplishing it have been exhausted.

THE TRENTON'S ACCIDENT.

Distressing is the loss of life and the injuries that accompanied the premature explosion on the cruiser Trenton. The accident is one that calls for and will get a thorough investigation. From latest reports it doesn't appear that the fault was with the gun or the breech mechanism since it is claimed that the powder had not reached the gun. How it could have been handled in such a manner as to explode it it is folly to guess. The facts of the case must speak for themselves, and the inquiry must do its best to get the facts from those who possess them.

Everything must be done with the idea of preventing anything of the kind in the future, whether the fault lies with the mechanism or with the men. That is the purpose of the inquiry. It is of the utmost importance in connection with the operation of our big ships. Certainly such deplorable affairs do not contribute to the efficiency of our navy. We do not like to think of such happenings in case the vessels should be forced to go into action, and we certainly do not welcome such affairs during the practice periods which are employed for the perfection of the ship's crew.

This, of course, isn't the first instance where fatal accidents have occurred on the warships of this or other countries. There have been too many of them in naval history and it is to be hoped that the investigation will be able to disclose just where the fault was in connection with the Trenton's disaster that all possible means may be taken to prevent anything of the kind in the future. Such loss of life is bad enough in war. It is even worse in times of peace.

COUNTRY DOCTORS.

Just how the small town that is far away from the protective influences of a physician feels over the difficulties experienced in getting a doctor to locate within its limits is indicated by the action taken by a group of towns in western Massachusetts, where four have joined hands and offered a bonus of $5,000 to a physician who will locate there.

The days of the country doctor seem to have passed. It has been the experience of many towns that doctors settle for a time in their midst only to pull up stakes soon after for the city. Unquestionably the attractions of the city are much greater for the doctor. He has an opportunity for greater practice and hospital experience and in these days of telephones, good roads and automobiles there are only a few instances where a doctor isn't within call with the chances of a quicker response than under old time conditions when it was necessary to hitch up and go for the doctor.

Still there is many a country community that would feel more secure with a doctor near at hand. Certainly the lack of them creates an uneasiness, but it is evident that the only way in which they are liable to be obtained is through some such method as that adopted by the Massachusetts towns, which realize that doctors, like other good things, must be paid for. The well as the sick must pay, the expense being placed under a ready to serve charge or possibly considered another good protective tariff.

PROTECTING THE ZR-3.

Even though claims have been offered to the effect that sufficient helium could not be provided for the inflation of the ZR-3, the news report brings the information that practically the entire supply required is now on its way to Lakehurst, N. J., for the big airship.

This is as it should be. A huge sum is involved in the airship which is to become the Los Angeles, even though we did not actually furnish it. It has been delivered here by the use of inflammable hydrogen gas. To continue to employ that lifting power means to subject it to that same danger which has been encountered by blimps and other dirigibles. The efficiency of hydrogen is not to be disputed. The only trouble with it is the fire menace, and certainly if the ZR-3 is worth having it is worth protecting.

No one knows what the outcome of our experiments with the Zeppelin will be, but whatever they are it would be folly to subject it to known dangers when it is possible to provide potential means of prevention through the use of non-inflammable gas.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The presidential campaign is approaching the home stretch.

The great fear now is that October will be inveigled into departing from the middle of the road.

Connecticut knows that all will remain safe and satisfactory with continued republican administration.

After the window screens and awnings come down it isn't long before the storm doors must go up.

November promises to be a busy month with election day, Armistice day and Thanksgiving day certain to get plenty of attention.

Those who used to be preparing for the big Thanksgiving bonfires at this season are now basking in the security of metal ash receivers.

THE BABY AND THE BEE

"Do you know, Ben," said Miss Belinda as she and her brother were enjoying the moonlight on the porch at Hilltop, "I've a good mind to 'practice baby farming,' like Little Buttercup. I suppose you don't remember Little Buttercup."

"My pinafore days were about the same as yours, sis. What's a year or two between brother and sister? But what do you mean—'practice baby farming'?"

"Well, I've had Mrs. Rockwall's little Joyce in the garden with me all day, and—"

"You don't mean to say, Belinda, that Mrs. Rockwall had the crust to park that child with you while she went gallivanting off somewhere?" asked Ben. "She herself says that Joyce is the prize enfant terrible in this part of the U. S. A."

"Yes, she is always saying unkind things about the poor little youngster, right in her presence. She did this morning. She brought Joyce here just after you had started for golf, and she said to me that if it hadn't been for her ball and chain of a brat she could have accepted an invitation from some of the hotel people to drive to Oconomowoc for luncheon. Isn't it dreadful of her to call that curly-headed, blue-eyed, angelic-looking child a brat?"

"But she is, isn't she?" asked Ben. "Of course, you immediately offered to relieve her of her young incumbrance for the day, and of course she rushed into the garden with Joyce. I passed her on the road and I observed that she was considerably ragged out for so early in the morning."

"You're becoming very observing," laughed Miss Belinda. "Well, she said to me that Joyce was a trial to the flesh, wanting to do something every minute, and that she really felt sorry for me, but that some day she hoped to return my kindness. I assured her that I should give Joyce something to do all day, and that I knew we should get on capitally."

"Oh, Belinda, how easy you are! Sometimes I wake up in the night and wonder how you can be such a—such a woolly lamb."

"Thank you, Ben, for not saying goat," remarked Miss Belinda, imperturbably. "But if you fancy I was a martyr today you're quite mistaken. I had a lovely time with Joyce. She was golden good, and I know now that her mother maligns her when she says she is naughty and troublesome. She simply doesn't know how to keep her busy and happy. As soon as her mother left I asked her whether she would like to help the busy bees the way I used to when I was a little girl of 5 and she said, 'Yeth, Mith Belinda.'

"Then I wrapped one end of a stick that I sliced off a shingle with a clean white cloth and I gave her a little can of sugar and water in which to dip it. Then we waited patiently for a beautiful bumblebee to light on it, and I showed her how to carry him from flower to flower for him to take his fill of honey. It was the most fascinating occupation that 5-year-old ever had. Ben, and she was happy as the day was long."

"I'll wager you enjoyed it as much as she did, Belinda."

"Of course I did, and when the original bee became quite intoxicated, we gently laid him aside in a bed of roses, and enticed another. I taught Joyce to say, 'How doth the little bithy bee improve each thinning hour,' and when her mother at last called for her just before supper she rapturously recited the lines to her and told her that she had been playing with bees all day.

"'Playing with bees?' she exclaimed. 'Oh; my poor darling, have you been stung?' then she looked at her perfectly well and beaming child, and burst into reproaches. 'You naughty girl,' she said, 'you ought to know better than to do such a dangerous thing. You ought to be spanked.'

"'But mummy, Mith Belinda throwed me how to help the bumblebee,' explained Joyce, and I wish you had seen the accusing glance Mrs. Rockwall cast upon me, Ben.

"I assured her our little game was most harmless, but she fairly yanked her weeping daughter out of the garden and I've been wishing ever since that kidnapping wasn't considered such a high crime, for Joyce is really a darling."

"I suppose Mrs. Rockwall thanked you kindly, sis?"

"You don't suppose anything of the sort," laughted Miss Belinda. — Exchange.

Stevenson Suffered as He Wrote

His life shadowed and his efforts retarded by ill-health, Robert Louis Stevenson tried to follow the family vocation but had to give it up.

Only child of an eminent lighthouse engineer of Edinburgh, Scotland, he was sickly from birth. He was eight when he nearly died of gastric fever, which left such constitutional weakness that frequently he was so ill that it was thought he would not live to be a man. His education was obtained through private teachers and at a boarding school, but was acquired spasmodically. In search of his mother's health, the family traveled in France, Italy, Germany and Holland.

As the boy's health improved it was believed he would follow the family profession but at 17 he entered Anstruther University as a pupil engineer. He won a medal for a paper suggesting improvements in lighthouse apparatus, and was graduated, but he had to give up engineering because the work was too much of a strain on his physical endurance. Trying for the law, he was admitted to the English bar at 25, but had to abandon the practice of his new profession.

Having shown from childhood a desire to write, he penned his views while travelling in search of health and at 28 published An Inland Voyage, which attracted little attention. His essays received only passing notice.

Alarmed for the health of his fiancee in California, he crossed the Atlantic in the steerage, and was married soon after his arrival at her home.

Returning to Scotland, he wrote Treasure Island, while ill at Devos. Its publication made him a popular writer and he planned many other works, but was taken seriously ill. When sufficiently strong he published A Child's Garden of Verse and Prince Otto. Then came The Strange Case of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde and Kidnapped.

While seeking health at Saranac Lake, New York he began his Master of Ballantree and wrote essays. Starting on a pleasure cruise on the Pacific he was forced by illness to go to Samoa, where he remained until death. He became an aggressive planter and an island political power. And the world loved him for his personality and honored him for his writings.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

This is the 70th birthday anniversary of the Rt. Rev. Frederick F. Reese, bishop of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Georgia and one of the most widely known prelates of his denomination. Born in Baltimore, of Welsh and German ancestry, the future bishop graduating from the University of Virginia in 1875 went to the Berkeley Divinity school for his theological training. His studies were completed under the late Bishop Whittingham of Maryland, by whom he was ordained deacon in 1878. A year later followed his ordination in the priesthood and his appointment as assistant minister of a church in Baltimore. Subsequently he served as rector of Episcopal churches in Portsmouth, Va., Macon, Ga., and Nashville, Tenn., resigning the pulpit of Christ church in Nashville in 1903 to accept election as bishop of Georgia. Previously he had been elected missionary bishop of Wyoming, but had declined the honor.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

The Rabbits Rescued

"Where can the little rabbits be?"
Cried the Old Dog Driver, scratching the tree.
"Let me know by a tap on your wooden tree jail,"
Cried the Yellow Dog Tramp, with a wag of his tail.

Then he and the Old Dog Driver stood perfectly still, each with ears cocked up to catch the faintest sound that the poor little imprisoned rabbits might make. There wasn't that a little tapping noise? It seemed to come from inside of the old hollow tree, tipperty tap, tipperty tap!

Two little figures huddled

Pressing his right ear close against the trunk, the Yellow Dog listened for a minute or three. Then he barked three times right merrily. "They're in there! They're in there!" he shouted, commencing to dig at the roots of the old hollow tree.

"What's the use digging?" asked the Old Dog Driver, "we'd better climb up to the hollow space above."

"Can you climb?" asked the Yellow Dog Tramp, not even pausing in his digging to look at his friend. "Dogs can't climb and rabbits can't fly, if you don't help me dig, little rabbits will die," and he made the dirt fly faster than before and lots faster behind.

At once the Old Dog Driver set to work, and pretty soon, not so very long, they had dug quite a tunnel under the roots, almost under the trunk of the big hollow tree.

"Keep on," urged the Yellow Dog Tramp, as the Old Dog Driver stopped for breath. "I'm sure there's some sort of a passage from the ground up into the tree. Again the Old Dog Driver set to work and pretty soon you could see only the tails of these two good friends. And these you could hardly have seen, had you been there, for the dirt flew out between their hind legs so fast and thick that it seemed like a great cloud of smoke coming from a chimney top.

"Here we are," at last gasped the Yellow Dog Tramp, almost choking with the dust and dirt. "Wait a minute while I wipe my eyes. Yes, here's a pair of stairs leading right up to the branches." The next minute he and the Old Dog Driver were climbing up as fast as their tired legs would take them. By and by, all out of breath, they came to a dark room, the floor of which was covered with dry leaves and moss. At one end a small knothole let in a tiny ray of light. Peering around for a moment, the Yellow Dog Tramp, almost choking with the dust and dirt, suddenly made out in the far corner two little figures huddled together.

"There's Uncle Lucky and Little Jack Rabbit," he shouted, and, with a bound, he was at their side. Whipping his knife from his pocket, the Old Dog Driver cut the ropes that bound the two little bunnies, while the Yellow Dog Tramp untied two handkerchiefs which were fastened over their mouths.

"Goodness gracious meebus!" gasped Uncle Lucky the next minute. "Mighty glad you came in time!"

"Oh, dear," sobbed the bunny boy, "Soon Mother will have her little son again," and throwing his arms around the Yellow Dog Tramp's neck, he let three big tears roll down his back and off the tip of his tail. "Mother won't be lonely now," and he dropped another tear on the kind old tramp dog's silky ear.

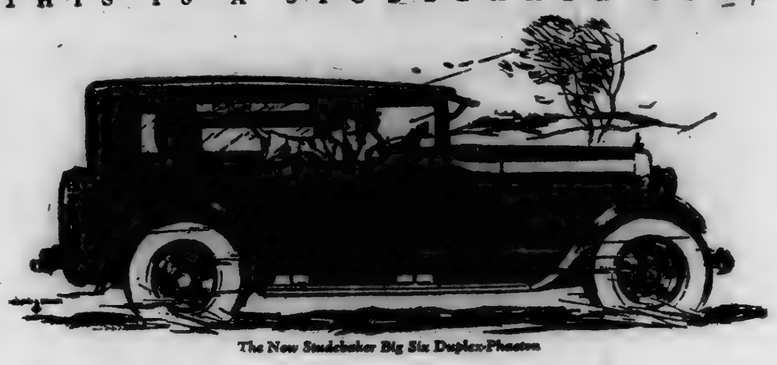
THIS IS A STUDEBAKER YEAR



The New Studebaker Big Six Duplex-Phaeton

Two Cars in One—

An open and closed car combined

STUDEBAKER Duplex—a closed and open car combined. An entirely new-type car—developed by Studebaker and available from no other maker.

It is the most sensational—most talked-of car in America.

One minute you are enjoying the comfort and protection of a closed car—next the unhindered freedom that made the open car so popular. And the change can be made in 30 seconds by simply lowering the roller side enclosures.

Yet with all this two-fold convenience, the Duplex-Phaeton sells for no more than an open car.

The new Studebaker Big Six is strikingly beautiful—with long, low sweeping lines. It is especially designed and powered for seven-passenger service.

The Big Six Duplex-Phaeton is delivered to you with complete equipment. This even includes two highest grade bumpers, extra balloon tire, tube and tire cover—there is nothing else to buy.

But to appreciate this car you must inspect it—drive it. Test its delightful ease of operation—steering mechanism especially designed for its full-sized balloon tires.

Notice the new location of the lighting switch on the steering wheel—and many other new and unusual features.

See this car that has definitely solved the open-closed car problem.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

THE ANNIVERSARY OF CEMENT

To Joseph Aspdin, an unsung stonemason of Leeds, the world pays honor this year for his discovery which literally cements the foundation stones of civilization.

The 100th anniversary of Joseph Aspdin's experiment producing artificial rock, yellow like the rock from the quarries of Portland is marked by the erection in Leeds by the American cement manufacturers of a memorial tablet to one "who made the world his debtor."

"Greater tribute to the vision of Joseph Aspdin are endless white ribbons of concrete highways, the annual increase of which in the United States alone would build three continuous Lincoln highways from New York to San Francisco," says a bulletin of the National Geographic Society from its headquarters in Washington, D. C.

"Cheops' great pyramid at Gizeh covering 13 acres and towering 481 feet, is still considered the world's colossal man-made structure, yet the little lump of stone made by Joseph Aspdin in 1824 has grown so great that the United States is estimated to have poured in a recent year sufficient concrete to erect 30 pyramids like Cheops'. The 90,000,000 cubic feet of the pyramid represent only three-fifths of the concrete in the Panama Canal.

"Aspdin must share with imperial Rome part honor for giving the world liquid stone. Rome used hydraulic cement in her famous aqueducts and it was in search of Rome's secret, lost for ten centuries, that Aspdin and others worked their way toward modern concrete. Roman masons found that by mixing lime with volcanic ash from Pozzuoli near Naples a mortar impervious to water resulted. On this discovery rested much of Rome's glory, for the magnificence and extent of the city was physically impossible without a water system. Unconsciously Aspdin imitated Nature; the volcano was Nature's kiln. The stonemason, by baking his materials in a heat which approximated the volcano's heat, created the principle found in Pozzuoli ash, a substance which hardens on contact with water.

"Although Portland cement is produced in 27 states, the Lehigh valley of Pennsylvania is the Pozzuoli of the United States. Silica, calcium and alumina are the necessary cement ingredients which are contained in rock formations 'made to order' in this valley. The cement industry is the fourth largest user of coal and this fuel is also convenient. Often cement manufacturers use slag from blast furnaces also near-by, so the setting of the Lehigh valley is quite as ideal as the iron ore and coal seam union of Birmingham, Alabama. Freight rates on the heavy natural weight of cement tend to spread out the industry somewhat.

"Crushers in the Lehigh valley take blasted rocks as large as 5 feet wide, 6 feet high and 10 feet long, and munch them readily into bits. Other teeth grind the stone to powder which is mixed with water to form a sloppy 'slurry.' Under air pressure this is blown into the man-made volcano, a cement kiln, the largest of which is half as long as an average city block and has a diameter of 10 feet. This tube is lined with fire brick to withstand the terrific heat resulting from the other end. In the throat of this volcano a reaction occurs, transforming a third of the stone into the active principle of cement. An endless belt brings candescent nodules out of the kiln to more grinders which crush them to the fineness of flour. Six hundred pounds of raw materials and fuel are required for every 376 pound barrel of cement.

"Cement has itself created a separate industry which has important bearing on the prosperity of the southern states. Annually it requires 30 million new cement sacks of finely woven cotton. To make these, 60,000 acres must be grown and 1,600 looms operated every day of the year. Woven in one piece, 30 inches wide, the cloth that goes into these sacks would unroll for 17,000 miles.

"Much as the Roman aqueducts were the necessity that mothered the invention of the first hydraulic cement, canals have produced modern cement. Aspdin's Portland cement was first used extensively in the Thames Tunnel. Early American cement factories can be traced by early American canals, notably the Erie Canal which popularized the product in the United States.

"Aside from its irreplaceable value for a thousand uses, Portland cement is saving millions of dollars to civilization by cutting down the requirements for power. Scientific tests show that it requires nearly three times more power to move a ton over a gravel road, and two times more over a macadam road, compared with the 27.6 pounds necessary on a level stretch of concrete.

"A French gardener's flowerpot with imbedded metal parts was the simple origin of reinforced concrete whose vast possibilities are sounded scarcely more than the mysteries of the heavens. Steel and cement, experts find, are happily mated. As in all good families the qualities one lacks the other has. Concrete is noted for resisting compression and does not easily break down under batterings of weather. Steel protected by cement will not rust away and its elasticity makes possible an ideal building material, strong, light, permanent, fireproof and yet not brittle.

"The highest monument to concretes' value is a great chimney in Japan 15 feet higher than the Washington monument. It withstands frequent earthquakes. Lorado Taft's towering statue to 'Black Haw' above Oregon, Illinois is a true monument to concrete. The material is used for levees on the Mississippi. It is shot from guns for broad surfaces. Ships and barges have been made with it. Skyscrapers find it a stout foundation. Farms alone use nearly one-fourth of the United States' cement for innumerable purposes. In 1914 it went into the front line trenches, and much of it is still in the front line trenches to the sorrow of the farmers. But the most romantic incident of all occurred when the old British ships with cargoes of dry concrete sailed into the harbors of Zeebrugge and Ostend and were sunk to make a concrete stopper to bottle up German submarines."

Stories That Recall Others

Bringing Up Squirrels.

A Norwich woman found two small squirrels, babies. She was unwilling to leave them to be caught and made up her mind to raise them. Soon after a neighbor found another and this was placed with the other two orphans. At a loss to know just what to do she decided to feed them from a bottle and they have taken their milk regularly, one even rolling over on his back and grasping the bottle in his feet as he eats. They will be kept till they are able to look out for themselves when they will be released.

Crippled by Corns? Use "Gets-It"

World's Greatest Corn Remover

It's just wonderful how "Gets-It" ends corns and callouses. Put a few drops of "Gets-It" on a hurting corn and Presto! The pain stops at once forever. No matter how long you've had corns, how bad they may be, whether hard or soft, or what you have tried, believe this—"Gets-It" will end corn pain at once, soon you can lift the corn right off with the fingers. DANGEROUS VARICOSE VEIN CAN BE REDUCED

Never mind what people say, if you have varicose or swollen veins and want to reduce them to normal, go to any live druggist and ask for an original two-ounce bottle of Emerald Oil (full strength). If he hasn't it, he can get it.

Apply it to the enlarged veins as directed and improvement will be noticed in a few days. Continue its use until veins return to normal size. It is guaranteed to reduce swollen veins or money back, and also to reduce swollen glands, goitre and wens.

The Great Danger of High Blood Pressure

New Safe Scientific Method of Treatment Brings Quick Relief.

The great danger of high blood pressure is the ever-present possibility of a blood vessel bursting—apoplexy. This is why insurance companies refuse to insure when high blood pressure symptoms are present.

Dizziness, headaches, heart palpitation, shortness of breath, ringing in the ears are all signs that the blood pressure has reached the danger point.

Bi-a-lin, a doctor's prescription, quickly and safely reduces high blood pressure to normal by clearing out the poisons that clog and obstruct the blood vessels and force the heart to work too hard.

Thus the dangerous symptoms of high blood pressure soon end and you feel bright, alert and full of life and become freed from dangerous complications. Bi-a-lin is harmless, easy to take and may be had at Lee & Osgood Co.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Charles Kendall

Following a long illness Mrs. Abbie Kendall, widow of Charles Kendall, died in Preston early Wednesday morning. She was the daughter of the late Richard O., and Mary Martin Libby and was the sister of the late Richard O. Libby of Broadway. She was an aunt of Pauline Frederick, the well known actress.

Mrs. Kendall was born in Mattawaunsag, Maine, May 5, 1842 and resided there until about 5 years ago when she came to this section to make her home. In her native town Mrs. Kendall was a prominent social worker. She was a member of the Baptist faith. Her only surviving relative is Pauline Frederick.

Miss Mary Daniels.

At half past six in the morning of Wednesday, Oct. 22, Mary Daniels of Franklin passed away, aged 22 years.

Miss Daniels had lived all her life in Franklin. She was known to all as a girl of very great sweetness, modesty and dignity. She was very domestic in her tastes, and did not share over much in the amusements of young people of her own age, but she was the light of her home.

An epidemic of whooping cough which swept the town last winter claimed her as one of its victims, and so lowered her vitality that after weeks and months of suffering, she succumbed.

She leaves to mourn her death, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Daniels, two brothers, Gilbert S. and Henry A., and a married sister, Mrs. Ernest Dashefy, of New London.

Mrs. E. Judson Miner

Mrs. Hattie S. Miner, widow of E. Judson Miner, died at her home in Bozrah Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Mrs. Miner had been in poor health for two years. Although a sufferer from rheumatism, death was due to bronchial pneumonia. Her eyesight had been gradually failing for a year and at the time of her death she was nearly blind.

Mrs. Miner was born in Bozrah, Oct. 18, 1856, the daughter of Isaac and Hannah Hough Johnson. On Nov. 10, 1875 she was united in marriage with E. Judson Miner. Three daughters, Mrs. William Corey, Mrs. Francis Herrick, Mrs. Orrin Maples, and two brothers, Arnold and Arthur Johnson, survive her. One son, Charles Judson Miner, died in infancy. Mrs. Miner was a member of the Bozrah Center Congregational church and for many years was president of the Ladies' Aid Society and took a great interest in all church work. Being a lover of flowers she contributed generously from her garden every Sunday for church decorations. She was devoted to her home and family a kind neighbor and friend, always willing to lend a helping hand. She will be mourned by all who knew her.

FUNERALS.

James Henderson.

The funeral of James Henderson was held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from his home, No. 91 Prospect street, with a large attendance of relatives and friends. Rev. Charles H. Ricketts, pastor of the Greeneville Congregational church, conducted the service. The bearers were Archibald Mitchell, 4th, John Ramage, William Mabrey, William Cruickshank, Alexander Sharp and James H. White. Burial was in Yantic cemetery and a committal service was read by Rev. Mr. Ricketts. Relatives and friends were present from Waterbury, Hartford, Willimantic, New Haven and other cities, and there were many beautiful floral remembrances.

Undertakers Henry Allen and Son had charge of the funeral arrangements.

ORDERS TO PRE-CANCEL AND STAMP CHRISTMAS MAIL

Postmaster General New announced this week that to facilitate the handling of mail at first, second and third class post offices during the Christmas holidays, postmasters are authorized at their option to pre-cancel and affix stamps for the payment of postage on matter of the second, third and fourth classes offered for mailing at their office during December.

The stamps are not to be delivered to the persons presenting the parcels for mailing, but must be affixed to the parcels in each instance by the postmaster or an employe of the post office after the proper postage has been paid. Stamps used in this manner are to be pre-canceled in accordance with the conditions governing the pre-cancellation of postage stamps.

Postmasters are being enjoined to observe the greatest possible precautions to prevent the misuse of such stamps, to exercise careful supervision over their use and the employes handling them, in order that the postal revenues may be properly safeguarded.

WILL QUIETLY OBSERVE 52ND WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Ashley T Boon of 89 Franklin street will recall that they will observe the 52nd anniversary of their marriage today (Thursday), although the celebration will be of the most informal character.

They celebrated their silver wedding anniversary while they were living in New London and two years ago observed their golden wedding day with a big reception at their home in this city.

Meeting of Comfort Circle.

Fifteen members attended a meeting of Comfort Circle of the King's Daughters held Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Edward L. Greene, on Yerrington avenue. The leader, Mrs. Stanton W. Brown, presided. It was voted to sew during the winter for the United Workers. Interesting reports of the state convention at Waterbury were given by the delegates, Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Greene. The next meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. Henry Cole, on 13th street, Greeneville.

NORWICH RED CROSS REPORTS AND ELECTS OFFICERS FOR YEAR

EDWIN A. TRACY
Re-elected Red Cross Chairman

Reports of a good year of work were made at the annual meeting of the Norwich branch of the American Red Cross which was held Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the directors room at the New London County Mutual Fire Insurance company's office on Broadway with chairman Edwin A. Tracy presiding.

Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: chairman, Edwin A. Tracy; vice chairman, Walter F. Lester; secretary, Mrs. Claude V. Pendleton; treasurer, Arthur L. Peale; executive committee, Mrs. Witter K. Tingley, Mrs. C. V. Pendleton, Dr. Hugh B. Campbell, Edward J. Graham, Clarence E. Carpenter, Arthur L. Peale; chairman of auxiliaries, Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham; chairman of home service, Charles F. Wells.

The report showed that of the $1,800 income from membership in the past year, one half had gone to the national Red Cross and the other half had been expended in Norwich for the benefit of the children in the schools and for veterans of the late war. The sum used in the school work had been $500 which was turned over to the school nursing department and has been particularly applied for operations for adenoids among school children. The work for the benefit of veterans of the late war has been carried on through the United Workers.

Plans were perfected for the annual roll call in November in which it is hoped to double the membership of the past year. To accomplish that the Red Cross officers hope that every adult person in the factories, offices and stores of Norwich shall become a member of the local Red Cross branch.

BIRTHDAY CAKES FOR SACHEM CHAPTER ANNIVERSARY

With over 300 members and visiting members present Sachem Chapter, No. 57, Order of the Eastern Star, celebrated its 21st anniversary Wednesday evening at the Masonic Temple. There were visiting members present from Putnam, Danielson, Moosup, Willimantic, Jewett City, New London, Hartford and Providence. The first part of the evening was taken up with the business meeting during which three candidates were initiated in full form by the local degree team. Other important business matters were transacted. It was close to 11 o'clock when the business meeting adjourned for a social hour in the banquet hall of the temple. Here the supper committee of the lodge, Mrs. George Fraser, chairman, supervised the serving of refreshments of ice cream and cake. There were two birthday cakes, one huge one, inscribed, Sachem Chapter No. 57, O. E. S., 21st anniversary, and a smaller cake, decorated with a large gold star, and 21 colored candles which were lighted during the social hour. Miss Isabelle Shenker entertained with a Scotch dialogue and there were piano selections by Mrs. Olive Roberts. This part of the programme was in charge of the entertainment committee, Mrs. Charles Wright, chairman.

The supper committee comprised Mrs. George Fraser, chairman, Mrs. Robert J. Cochran, Mrs. Edmund Hindle, Mrs. George Kramer, Mrs. Anthony Bernard, Mrs. Henry Gee, Mrs. W. R. Malcolm, Mrs. John McDonald, Mrs. Marie Busch. Mrs. Anthony Bernard had charge of the dining room. The waitresses were Mrs. Alfred Linderson, Mrs. William Winterbottom, Miss Mary Crowe, Miss Mildred Crowe, Mrs. Chester Wright, Mrs. Frederick Alter, Miss Hazel Everts, Mrs. Mary Carpenter, Miss Cecille Stevens.

Sachem Chapter has accepted an invitation to attend a masquerade ball to be held next week in Colchester Grange hall by Wooster star lodge of Colchester. Announcement was made that at the next meeting of Sachem Chapter, November 12th, the lodge will entertain the grand officers of the state. There will be a reception at 5 o'clock for the grand officers, this will be followed by a supper at 6 o'clock and the business meeting will be held at 7.45 o'clock. A large attendance is expected at the gathering.

ROTARY PRINCIPLES ARE SUBJECT FOR MEETING

The weekly meeting of the Norwich Rotary club held Wednesday noon at the Wauregan Hotel was devoted strictly to matters pertaining to Rotary and the application of Rotary principles to business and civic life. The meeting was in charge of the educational committee, Lucius Briggs, chairman, William G. Park and Frank P. Welch.

Chairman Briggs, in introducing the topic, referred to the unrest in the country and said that many believed that a religious awakening was necessary, others that a strict enforcement of laws would solve the matter. He said that the philosophy of Rotary would go a long ways toward bringing about better conditions. A Rotarian is supposed to be an active man who lives and thinks Rotary, which teaches us that "He who profits most serve best." It is not what a man thinks that counts it is what he does.

William G. Park was the next speaker and in his talk outlined the various duties of the committees of the Rotary club and urged a more strict adherence to the principles of Rotary.

Frank P. Welch was the final speaker and told of the aims and benefits of Rotary which are to encourage and foster:

(a) The ideal of SERVICE as the basis of all worthy enterprise.

(b) High ethical standards in business and professions.

(c) The application of the ideal of service by every Rotarian to his personal business and community life.

(d) The development of acquaintance as an opportunity for service.

(e) The recognition of the worthiness of all useful occupations and the dignifying by each Rotarian of his occupation as an opportunity to serve society.

(f) The advancement of understanding, good-will, and international peace through a world fellowship of business and professional men united in the Rotary ideal of service.

At the conclusion of the talks the committee was given a hearty vote of appreciation.

At the business session vice president E. LaRue Bliven presided in the absence of Dr. Hugh B. Campbell, president. Clinton E. Lane acted as song leader and several of the new songs were given a thorough tryout. The right hand of fellowship was extended to one new member, Charles A. Saxton reported for the committee in charge of the Rotary club's participation in the Armistice Day parade.

James L. Case spoke of the meeting of the Chamber of Commerce on Oct. 30th at which George Smith of Baltimore would be the speaker. The meeting closed with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner.

FREEMAN DECLINES THE PROHIBITION ENDORSEMENT

The secretary of state has received a letter from Richard N. Freeman of New London, who is the republican candidate for congress in the Second district, in which Mr. Freeman says that he declines the endorsement of his candidacy by the prohibition party and that he does not wish his name to appear on the prohibition ticket. Mr. Freeman emphasizes that he was nominated by the republican party and that he does not want the endorsement of the prohibitionists.

Deputy Secretary Elmer H. Lounsbury, on the receipt of Mr. Freeman's letter, took his name off the prohibition ticket and notified the prohibition state executive committee. He has been informed by that committee that William P. Barstow of Plainville, who had been nominated by the prohibitionists for congress, but who withdrew his name, had reconsidered the matter in the light of Mr. Freeman's decision and had consented to have his name restored to the ticket. Mr. Lounsbury received that notification over the phone, but until he receives a statement signed by Mr. Rohenthal, the chairman of the prohibition party, that the restoration of Mr. Barstow's name was agreeable to the party and was duly authorized, his name will remain off the ticket.

Report on Communicable Diseases

According to the weekly morbidity report of the state department of health for the week ending October 20, Norwich reported three cases of diphtheria and one case of scarlet fever. Communicable diseases reported from towns in eastern Connecticut for the week are as follows:

Diphtheria—Norwich 3; Stonington 2; Waterford 1; Stafford Springs 1.

Scarlet fever—Colchester, New London, Norwich and Putnam, one each.

Whooping cough—New London 5.

NORWICH RADIO CLUB EFFECTS REORGANIZATION

In the interests of the amateur radio enthusiast, the Norwich Radio club has reorganized under a new staff of officers and is planning an extensive programme for the coming winter. The object of the club is to help the owner of the radio, whether his radio be a one-tube set or a super-heterodyne, through research work, not necessarily technical work, but the eliminating of local interference such as power leaks, rectifying oscillating sets and other things that cause annoyance to the radio listener. The club wishes to cooperate with every radio owner to regulate proper receiving and broadcasting so that everyone may enjoy the radio programmes without interference. The club is also willing to encourage and help the amateur in building his own set and in any way help to get better results.

An enthusiastic meeting was held Wednesday evening at the Thayer building at which the following officers were elected: President, Joseph A. French; first vice president, Harold E. Robbins; second vice president, Vincent S. Welsh; secretary, William M. Wyman; treasurer, Louis J. Smith, assistant secretary and treasurer, Jean Kieffer; Percy J. Cruthers was retiring president and will leave shortly for Chicago. The committees appointed were: House rules, Jean Kieffer, chairman, Ulmer M. Jewett and Charles E. Coleman; social, William M. Wyman, chairman, Raymond F. Allen and Vincent S. Welsh.

Five new members were voted in at the meeting, Charles E. Coleman, Raymond F. Allen, Herbert F. Burdick, Ulmer M. Jewett and Harold E. Robbins.

Previous to the meeting Wednesday evening an open meeting of the club was held at which Mayor Milo R. Waters, Fire Chief Howard L. Stanton, Dr. Hugh B. Campbell and Joseph A. French spoke. Mayor Waters spoke enthusiastically on radio, saying that while he knew nothing about it technically, he had come to be a very enthusiastic member of the radio audience and thought that a club of such a nature as this could be of great help to local radio fans.

Chief Stanton, himself interested in radio, not only as a pastime but commercially, said that he would heartily endorse any organization that would further radio in the community. He spoke of how the radio is becoming more and more used in police and fire departments throughout the country.

Dr. Hugh B. Campbell, president of the Norwich Rotary club, told of the enjoyment of the patients at the Norwich state sanatorium with the radio at that institution. Dr. Campbell said that many members of the Rotary club were owners of radios and that he could safely say that they would heartily endorse such a club.

Joseph A. French, president of the club, outlined the club policies, saying that he was certain that the power companies in this section of the state would heartily cooperate in eliminating power leaks, provided the club would point them out. He said that the club as a whole and any individual member would be only too glad to give instruction in the proper use of radio receiving sets to get the best results, not in a technical or theoretical way but in a practical way.

Following the talks there was a practical demonstration of two sets, one a portable set and the other a super-heterodyne set, both made by members of the club. The portable set was made by Jean Kieffer and weighs 18 pounds complete. Mr. Kieffer took this set to Paris with him recently and was able to keep in touch with America at all times. The set can receive from 130 to 35,000 meters.

The super heterodyne was constructed by Mr. French and embodies the feature of getting the plate supply from the city current thus eliminating the B batteries. This is done by a transformer that builds up the city power from 110 to 180 volts and at the same time rectifies it from A. C. to D. C. These demonstrations proved very interesting and go to show what can be done by the radio enthusiast through cooperation with his club.

BOZRAH SCHOOL STANDARDS MAKE FOR EFFICIENCY

Advanced methods in the schools of Bozrah which have been put into practice for the last few years have brought the schools of that town up to better standards each year and have had the loyal support of the people of the community.

The town has a school registration of less than 200 and maintains seven schools in six buildings. The community is partly agricultural and partly industrial. Three of the schools are composed of children whose homes represent, in the main, agricultural interests while the other four are, for the major part, connected with the industrial interests of the town. With this diversity of home conditions the schools naturally vary in the type of activities followed, for it has been the policy of the schools to correlate the school and home so far as possible.

The school administrative body consists of a board of education of three members: John F. Field, chairman; Mrs. Mary E. Sweeney, secretary, Mrs. Clara Gilman. This board meets each month and considers the school problems with the state supervising agent.

The seven teachers of the town are all teachers of experience and are whole heartedly entering into the promotion of educational advancement for their community.

In addition to the regular curriculum activities of the system special work is being carried on under the direction and cooperation of the board of education.

At Leffingwell is a state model rural school. The school has all grades and is working out the problems of the course of study in a demonstrable way for the benefit of visiting teachers. This work is being done by Miss Alice A. Bishop, a well trained and highly efficient teacher who is ever mindful of her service and strives unceasingly for the advancement of her school and work. Nearly every day of the week finds a group of teachers there for observation and conferences.

Another activity which is being developed to a greater extent this year is one in which the board of education and the state department of physical education and health are cooperating. Realizing that the physical development of the child must not be neglected, the town has very wisely for several years, employed a school health teacher and nurse. This work is being carried on most effectively by Miss Frances Kingberger, R. N., who is a nurse of training and health director of experience.

In conjunction with Miss Kingberger's department, the state department of physical education and health has inaugurated a three year program which will do much for the children of Bozrah.

The work of physical activities is being directed by Miss Vivian Collins of the state office who visits the schools twice each month, while the health program is being directed by Allen G. Ireland, M. D., head of the state department of physical education and health assisting Miss Kingberger, the local director.

Her Blonde Hair Was Darkening

—But New Light-Hair Shampoo Brought Back Its Natural Rich Golden Color and Gleaming Luster.

Her blonde hair was becoming dull, streaky, faded and lusterless. She had tried nearly everything to bring back its original beauty. All had failed. Then her hairdresser recommended Blondex, the wonderful new shampoo, prepared for blonde and light hair—only. Just one shampoo and her hair became much lighter. Then in an unbelievably short time it was the same charming blonde shade that formerly was so much admired. Her friends soon noticed the marvelous change. Now, you, too, can bring back the natural color to darkened blonde hair. If your hair is already beautifully blonde, Blondex will keep it that way. Acts in a perfectly natural way. Leaves no oil behind to form sticky films, on which dirt and dust collect—causing light hair to darken. Gives a wonderful thick lather. Makes hair soft and silky. No injurious dyes or chemicals. Highly recommended for children's hair. Your dealer will promptly return its small cost if you are not more than delighted with results. Get Blondex today, at all good dealers such as:

EXTENSIVE PLANS BEING MADE FOR BIG INDOOR TRACK MEETS THIS WINTER

New York, Oct. 22—(By the A. P.)—Although plans for the indoor track and field season are still in the formative stage, prospects point to an unusually brilliant program with international competition that will bring many Olympic stars into the limelight.

Outstanding in interest is the expected invasion of Paavo Nurmi, great Finnish runner and hero of four Olympic triumphs, and the probability that he will match strides with his rival countryman, Willie Ritola, Joie Ray, the former American mile champion and Ray Baker, present national mile titleholder.

Nurmi has informed friends that he will come here the latter part of December to prepare for an indoor campaign here but as yet he has not formally entered any meets. The Millrose A. A. is seeking the famous Finn's participation in its two-day carnival at Madison Square Garden, January 27 and 28, and there are indications that Nurmi will make his American debut there. Ritola, who returned several days ago to this country, where he held numerous records and titles before going back to his native land for the Olympics, is said to anticipate an active indoor season although it is understood he plans to go back to Finland later in the winter to make his permanent home there. Ritola, however, probably would welcome a chance to meet Nurmi on the boards. They were keen rivals in the Olympics last summer and Ritola, with the benefit of greater experience at indoor running, would make it interesting for his record-breaking countryman.

Many track followers also are of the opinion that Ray, in spite of his disappointing showing outdoors this year, particularly at the Olympics, where he was not in best condition will stage a come-back indoors. The little Illinois A. C. Star has hung up many of his past performances on the boards and would have an additional incentive in the prospect of again facing Nurmi, who has outclassed the American in the past two Olympic meets.

Another international feature also sought for the Millrose meet, is a walking contest which would bring together Ugo Frigerio, Olympic champion, Wallie Plant, American star, and George H. Goulding, veteran Canadian and Olympic titleholder in 1912.

Goulding, who recently was restored to amateur ranks by Canadian athletic authorities, still holds world's records, Frigerio proved himself the peer of the world best as they were gathered at the Olympics of 1920 and 1924, while Plant, who did not compete in the international games this year at Paris, is recognized as the premier heel and toe expert in the United States now.

Revival of indoor marathon racing on the spectacular scale which followed the 1908 Olympics may materialize in Albin Strenross, 40-year old Finn who won this year's Olympic distance classic, accepts an invitation to accompany Nurmi here. Strenross would face competition from several Canadians who made an excellent showing at Paris, while the United States also has a promising group of long distance men, headed by Clarence Demar, Melrose, Mass., veteran, who was third in the Olympic race; Frank Wendling of Buffalo; Frank Zuna, of Newark, N. J., Charles Mellow of Chicago; Ralph Williams and Joel Linder of Quincy, Mass.

BASEBALL BANQUET AT NEW LONDON THIS EVENING

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, Oct. 23.—Final arrangements have been completed for the fourth annual City Baseball league banquet, which will take place this (Thursday) evening at the Hotel Mohican. The only thing which held up the committee from going ahead sooner to arrange the banquet, was the non-arrival of the Spalding trophy which will be awarded the league winning Knights of Columbus nine. Besides the trophy, a gift for each individual player on the nine will be made. This gift is a silver baseball, which may be used for ornamental purposes dangling from the watch chain of the players.

The committee which is headed by the league president, William C. Fox, and league secretary, Attorney J. James Floyd, deserves much credit for their diligent pursuit of the league matters which will make this fourth get-together of this league a success. A sumptuous repast will be had by all the players who have participated in one or more games played during the past summer. Besides the regular league officials, city dignitaries will also be present. Among those to add the list is City Manager William S. Holt. Invitations have also been extended to officers of the Industrial League.

Financially the league was a success as well in other ways. All the expenses for the banquet will be deducted from the league treasury, and the remainder will be divided with 40 per cent. for the winner, 30 per cent. for second place, 20 per cent. for third place and 10 per cent. for fourth place.

NEW LONDON BOWLING TEAMS AT MOOSUP AND TAFTVILLE

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, Oct. 23.—New London bowling teams, leaving the Whaling city this (Thursday) evening for conquests of territories up the river are well up in the standing of the teams entered in the league. In fact the Peerless five by virtue of two victories out of three from the league leading Moosup combination, wrested the top honors from the former occupants of the pinnacle position. And once again the Peerless are scheduled to meet the bowling team which they so rudely pushed out of first place on Monday. But playing on foreign alleys, the outcome may not be as favorable to the locals as it is desired to be.

Fresh from a three-game victory over Taftville on Monday, the Lawrence will also send its bowlers deep into foreign territory. Taftville will be accommodated for a match on their own alleys, and an attempt will no doubt be made to wreak revenge for the inflicting three-string defeat received at the hands of the Lawrence on Monday. The Lawrence bowlers do not like the idea of letting the Peerless five grab off all the honors, and are making preparations for a come back.

The Peerless bowlers, now entrenched in the top position are reluctant to be forced out. The bowling displayed by the five has the earmarks of real championship form, only encountered from a team with experienced rollers of duc pins. A chance to continue their good bowling will put them further out of reach of the other teams entered in the league.

PRINCETON PREPARES FOR BATTLE WITH NOTRE DAME

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 22.—The Tiger football outfit in full force under the generalship of Brad Dinsmore, who distinguished himself in that role last week against the navy today continued battering away against an all-star eleven composed of Princeton players of bygone days using Notre Dame tactics.

Knute Rockne's powerful aggregation, still mindful of its victory over the Army Saturday in New York and its easy victory over Princeton last year, will battle the Tiger here Saturday in what Coach "Bill" Roper considers Princeton's most difficult test.

Roper believes the forceful fighting qualities of his team will play an important factor in solving the rather bothersome trick plays of the smooth-running formations that promise to give Notre Dame plenty of trouble.

Evidence, however, that the Princeton tutor does not undegrestimate the great power at the command of Rockne is given by the fact that all week the Tiger varsity behind locked gates has been taught new plays, and at the same time has learned the solution of the westerners' attack as used against the Army.

YALE VARSITY SCORES TWICE ON FRESHMEN

New Haven, Oct. 22.—For the first time in two years, the Yale varsity played against the Yale freshmen in a practice game at Pratt field this afternoon, the varsity winning by two touchdowns. The freshmen at one point of the game held the varsity for downs on the freshmen's five yard line, but their satisfaction was short-lived. Ordway immediately punted for the freshmen to Bench on the freshmen's 40 yard line and on the next play Pond on an end run took the ball over for a touchdown. Cottle kicked a goal.

The second touchdown was made by the varsity after a series of line plunges as the result of which Bench took the ball over for six points. Cottle again kicked the goal. The ball was kept in the freshmen territory practically all of the game. The varsity goal line was never threatened.

The varsity played without Captain Lovejoy, who watched the game from the sidelines and without Allen. Those two men were not injured but were given a rest Burt played in Lovejoy's place while Scott went in in place of Allen. Root, who started the game at right tackle, was injured on the third play, and his place was taken by Butterworth.

PACIFIC COAST GOLFERS MAY QUALIFY AT HOME

New York, Oct. 22—The qualifying play for the 1925 national open golf championship, which has been awarded to the Worcester, Mass., country club, may be held in three divisions for the benefit of niblick wielders in the east, middle west and far west.

Last season, sectional qualifying tournaments were conducted in the east and middle west, with the survivors going into the finals at Detroit. Now it is urged that the plan be extended for the benefit of Pacific coast aspirants, who were forced to make the trip to Chicago last summer to seek qualifying places.

The attitude of the Professional Golfers' Association, which conducted the qualifying tournament of 1924, may be determined when this body holds a meeting here next month.

RICHARDS AND HUNTER TO COMPETE FOR MEXICAN TITLE

New York, Oct. 22.—Vincent Richards and Francis T. Hunter, Olympic tennis champions who probably have established a new record for international competition this year, now are on their way to Mexico to take part in the national tournament there.

Richards won the Mexican singles title last year, defeating Manuel Alonson, spectacular Spaniard, in the finals. He will defend his crown against a field which also will include the Kinsey Brothers, of San Francisco, holders of the national doubles title, and probably other California stars. Richards and Hunter will pair in the doubles as they have through a campaign that has carried them over a good part of the globe this year.

FACULTY EASES UP ON STUDY REQUIREMENTS

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 22.—The Harvard varsity football team lost one of its opponents today when the faculty of arts and sciences announced that students would not have to tackle the November hour examinations on a make or break basis. Hitherto, those who failed on these examinations and the hour tests in April were placed on probation and made ineligible for sports participation. Hereafter only those who flunk the mid-year's and final examination will be subject to the ban. Freshmen are excepted from the ruling.

WEEKS DEFENDS COOLIDGE'S PART IN BOSTON POLICE STRIKE

New York, Oct. 22—The part taken by President Coolidge in breaking the Boston police strike, which occurred when the president was governor of Massachusetts was defended in a statement issued by John W. Weeks, secretary of war, and made public by republican headquarters here. Secretary Weeks' statement was issued as a reply to a statement of former Mayor Peters of Boston, that Mr. Coolidge had refused to call out the state guard to break the strike.

"Mr. Coolidge informed Mayor Peters that it was within the mayor's authority to call out the state troops in the Boston district and that if more were needed, he as state executive, would see that they went," the secretary said. Mr. Coolidge would not have taken part in the strike at all, Mr. Weeks said, but for the fact that Mayor Peters did not use the power at his command but instead went to his country home on the night of the strike.

The secretary declared that Mayor Peters sought to deny facts which had remained unquestioned for five years and that this denial came at a "time when the president, as chief executive of the nation, can hardly enter into a controversy."

REP. RALLY OF NEGRO VOTERS IN WATERBURY

Waterbury, Oct. 22—Attorney James N. Cobb of Washington, D. C., former assistant district attorney general, was the principal speaker at a republican rally of negro voters held here tonight. The negro lawyer recounted the debt which his race owes to the republican party and urged the election of President Calvin Coolidge. Mrs. M. A. Johnson, negress, an organizer in the state republican campaign also addressed he meeting and several candidates for state offices made brief speeches.

Those who spoke at the meeting in addition to the principal speaker and Mrs. Johnson, were Maurice Gruskay, candidate for state senator from the 16th district; John Sherwood, candidate for representative; Mrs. Harry S. Coe, candidate for representative, and Ernest Anderson, candidate for senator from the 15th district. Chairman Edward W. Goss, of the republican town committee, also spoke. James P. Glynn, candidate for congressman, was slated to speak but could not attend. Dr. F. S. Whittington, as chairman of the meeting, was introduced by Rev. I. W. Reed.

DE VALERA IS DEFIANT TO NORTHERN GOVERNMENT

Dublin, Oct. 22—Addressing a crowd at Newry tonight prior to his departure for Ulster, Eamon De Valera answered a challenge to the northern government to arrest him if he crossed the border.

Mr. De Valera said he was elected a representative for County Down and that no man worthy of the people could ignore that challenge. Mr. De Valera declared he always had stood for unity in Ireland and that if the Catholics of the six counties wanted to secede, he would oppose them as strongly as he had opposed Sir James Craig, the Ulster premier. If the north was determined to fight for partition, Mr. De Valera said the determined men of the south would win in the final contest.

Federal Judge Winslow of the United States district court for the southern district of New York, was appointed receiver for the Selznick Distributing Corporation, petitioned into involuntary bankruptcy by three creditors, totaling $3,000.

ALL-AMATEUR BOXING CARNIVAL TO BE PUT ON AT DANIELSON NEXT MONTH

Frankie Barber of Danielson, one of the leading sport promoters in the eastern part of the state, is planning a strictly amateur boxing carnival to be held around the 20th of November. The object of this carnival is to determine the amateur champions of the various classes in the eastern part of the state. This is the first amateur boxing carnival that has ever been staged in Eastern Connecticut and will give some of the youngsters a chance to perform in public without forfeiting their amateur standing.

There are a number of good boxers in Eastern Connecticut who are now held back because only professional bouts have been held in Eastern Connecticut. Several have been entered in the national amateur championship bouts at Boston in years past but there has been no local amateur shows in which they could perform. There are a number of good boxers in the high schools in Eastern Connecticut who have been afraid to go on a professional card because of forfeiting their amateur standing.

The bouts that Mr. Barber will put on will be three rounds, four and six rounds, short enough to allow a large number of contestants to appear in one evening. After the first night Mr. Barber intends to match the winners in the various classes for another night and thus by a series of elimination bouts arrive at the amateur champion of each class.

Mr. Barber wants all the amateurs in the eastern part of the state to file their applications with him as soon as possible so that the drawing for the bouts can be made. Each boxer in making his application should state his age and weight, that is his best boxing weight. All applications should be sent to Frank Barber, Danielson Casino, Danielson, Conn.

Mr. Barber is also planning a professional show early in November when Baltimore Joe Gans will meet another and faster opponent. Gans made a creditable showing in his bout with Gill last week and boxing fans are anxious to see him in action against a boy of more experience than Gill.

TESTIFIED LIQUOR WAS SOLD IN POLICE STATION

Boston, Oct. 22.—Testimony that liquor was sold in the Salisbury police station in the presence of Harold F. Congdon, then chief of the department and that the witness at the chief's direction had assisted in the unloading of a shipment of alcohol, was offered in court today by Warren S. Frothingham, former Salisbury officer. The trial was resumed in federal court here today by Chief Congdon, who pleaded nolo at the opening of the trial, and five others charged with conspiracy in alleged rum-running activities in the vicinity of Salisbury.

Harry F. Burnham, acting chief of the Plum Island coast guard crew, Dennis J. Kelliher, of Salisbury and Newburyport, Herman L. Rich, of Newburyport, and Carl Voss, of Gloucester, have entered pleas of not guilty. Everett R. George, a selectman, of Salisbury, joined with Congdon, who was also a selectman, in pleading nolo. Ruel S. Getchell, another selectman and Anthony Caramangno have pleaded guilty.

Frothingham testified that on one occasion when he was at the Salisbury police station, a man not known to him ame in saying he wished to purchase some gin. "The chief said, 'Oh, he's all right.'" Frothingham told the court. The man paid and was given a quart of gin. On another occasion Frothingham said that Congdon told him to get his automobile and aid in moving a load of liquor, and at another time, he aided in removing 1,500 gallons of alcohol which had been piled on Salisbury beach. The witness testified that he had seen in all, four cargoes of liquor landed.

LIPTON TO MAKE ANOTHER EFFORT FOR AMERICA'S CUP

New York, Oct. 22.—Sir Thomas Lipton, Irish sportsman who has failed in four attempts to win the America's cup in yachting, will make another effort in 1926, he said today upon his arrival on the Leviathan for a six weeks' visit to this country.

"I have definitely decided to challenge again," he said, "but could not do it this year because an international conference of yachtsmen now being held in London has not yet decided upon the specifications for universal regulations to be observed in future races."

The new Lipton boat will be named "Shamrock V" following the first four yachts of the same name which failed to lift the cup in 1899, 1901, 1903, and 1920.

"I think I will capture the cup in this attempt and I believe that my victory would be as popular in America as in England," the veteran sportsman said. "If I fail, however, I am not saying that I won't be back again. I'm only 75, you know."

The successful merchant scoffed at the necessity of a college training for success.

"If I were a young fellow today and had my life to live over again, I'd get a job in a grocery store and learn the business. Everybody must eat. I went through college three times each week in Scotland. I carried groceries to the kitchen which was on the top floor."

BURGLARY DISCLOSED BY ARRESTS FOR TRESPASSING

Boston, Oct. 22—Joseph Antico and Rebecca M. Hughson, arrested for trespassing at Readville early today, were found to be loaded down with articles taken from a shop that had been broken into and were charged with burglary. The man carried a revolver. Police, who said they admitted the robbery, were investigating other recent breaks in Hyde Park and Readville to determine whether they were responsible.

FORMER MINISTER TO BE TRIED FOR MURDER OF WIFE

Mount Vernon, Ill., Oct. 22—Lawrence M. Hight, former Methodist Episcopal minister of Ina, will be tried in circuit court here October 29, not for the murder of his wife Anna, and Wilfred Sweeten, with whose widow he has been jointly indicted on two charges of murder, but to test his sanity. This ruling was made today by Judge J. C. Kern, when Hight's attorney requested the sanity trial before a jury.

APPEALS FOR RIGHT OF TRIAL BY JURY

Dr. Charles G. Rankin of Glastonbury, who was convicted of performing an illegal operation on 17-year-old Rose Piccolo, and was sentenced by Judge John R. Booth of the superior court to serve from one to three years in state prison, in pursuing his appeal to the supreme court on the ground that he was denied his constitutional right of jury trial.

When Dr. Rankin was presented before the superior criminal court in September to answer to the charge he was represented by Judge Daniel A. Markham as counsel. The day that Dr. Rankin was called upon to plead to the charge, Judge Markham was not in the court room, but his son, John A. Markham, also a lawyer, was there, and Dr. Rankin pleaded not guilty. The state's attorney inquired if Dr. Rankin elected to be tried to the court or the jury, as there had been some conference on that subject between Judge Markham and State's Attorney Alcorn. Following a hurried consultation with Dr. Rankin, after the question was asked, the younger Markham said that it was desired to postpone the trial for a few weeks to allow his father to take his first vacation in many years, and he wanted the trial to go over to November.

Judge Booth and Mr. Alcorn intimated that would be out of the question and after a little more conference Mr. Markham said Dr. Rankin would be tried to the court and Judge Booth fixed the date for October 7. When that date arrived Judge Markham was on hand and withdrew Dr. Rankin's election for trial to the court and claimed his constitutional right of jury trial. There followed a warm passage between the state's attorney and Judge Markham, which went so far as the questioning of each other's veracity, but Judge Booth dealt with the situation from another angle. He said that if the jury had not been excused for the term he would be inclined to grant Dr. Rankin's request, but the court was of the opinion that by his election the doctor had waived his right to jury trial, and could not renew it simply by withdrawing his election. Judge Booth decided that the trial should go on at 2 o'clock that afternoon before him without a jury. At the end of the trial Judge Booth found Dr. Rankin guilty.

Notice of appeal was filed, a stay of execution was granted and Dr. Rankin was liberated on bond of $5,000, on which former Selectman Christian F. Handel of Glastonbury was surety. The appeal is being perfected. Dr. Rankin's lawyers have filed a request for a finding from the court and the state's attorney's office has filed a counter-finding.

LITTLE CREDENCE GIVEN TO HOLDUP REPORT

Investigation by the police of a holdup and robbery report made by Mrs. Anne Ezugda of 68 Roath street have brought the authorities to the conclusion that there is little to support Mrs. Ezugda's claim of a holdup.

According to the police, the woman claims that a masked man came into her house compelled her to show him where her money was in a bureau drawer, from which he took four one dollar bills, and left the house after tying her hands to a chair. She claims she managed to untie herself and then made report of the holdup Saturday night. In discounting her story, the police point to the fact that she had located the holdup on two different nights, that the piece of clothesline she showed them was not large enough to tie her up as she describes, and that she is a large able bodied woman who would not be likely to submit without a struggle and she shows no marks of the experience she claims to have gone through.

Universalist Harvest Supper

The Real Balloon Tire Discovery—Supertwist

You're probably thinking about buying Balloon tires.

As you know, Balloon tires are much larger than ordinary tires and run at lower air pressure. They smooth out bumps, save your car and its occupants.

But to be practical, a Balloon tire must stand up and give good mileage under the constant flexing and bending to which it is subjected.

The durability of Goodyear Balloon Tires is assured by a new invention—Supertwist Cord.

Supertwist is an extra durable cord fabric developed by Goodyear especially for Balloon tires. Its superiority lies in its greater elasticity. Supertwist will stretch farther than ordinary cord before it breaks. Hence it protects Goodyear Balloon Tires against stone bruise and rupture.

We have Goodyear Supertwist Cord Balloons for the new small diameter wheels or to fit the wheels now on your car, without change.

WILL OF SENATOR F. B. BRANDEGEE FOUND AT NEW LONDON IS INVALID

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Oct. 22.—Since the death of United States Senator Frank Bosworth Brandegee, Attorney Charles B. Whittlesey and former law partner of Senator Brandegee, has been making a search of private papers belonging to the dead senator and in possession of the attorney, in the hope that a will would be found, for it was generally believed that Senator Brandegee had left such a document. However, to date no such instrument has been found, although a will executed by Senator Brandegee in 1895 was found; but this is invalid, because of both the executor and the beneficiary being dead. The instrument named Senator Brandegee's father, the late Augustus Brandegee, executor, and named the sister of Senator Brandegee, Helen Brandegee, sole heir. W. Don Lundy, secretary to Senator Brandegee for several years, is also making a search of the effects of the dead senator at Washington.

Deputy Inspector M. E. Snow, of the state motor vehicle department, yesterday afternoon at a hearing at the court house restored six licenses, and suspended one for another month, to complete a three months' suspension. Three other motorists summoned to appear failed to present themselves. The autoists to have their licenses returned were Walter Petka, Norwich; Morton Pierce, R. F. D. No. 3, Norwich Town; Fred S. Mitchell, Clark's Falls; Tony Bibik, Montville, and Jay R. Shaver, Norwich. Tony Lynch, Groton, and William E. Frank, submarine base, and Raymond E. Cassidy, Howard street, were the operators who failed to appear. Kirol Laputz, East Lyme, whose license has been suspended two months will be permitted to obtain a renewal in another month.

Miss Agnes O'Neill has returned to her home, 33 Jay street, after having spent a fortnight with relatives in New York.

Miss Esther Turner, Binghamton, N. Y., who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. James Andrews, Grand street, was summoned to her home yesterday because of the serious illness of her mother.

Groton's new schoolhouse, Col. Ledyard school, was opened this morning when the 190 students who have pursued studies at the Groton Heights school moved to the new structure. The building contains nine class rooms. The children marched from the Groton Heights school to the Col. Ledyard school and were received by James E. Griswold, chairman of the school board, and Charles M. Adams, representing the board.

Frank W. Henry, of Benham road, Groton, and Miss Helen Morrison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen J. Morrison, Groton park, were married this morning at 9 o'clock at Sacred Heart church, Groton. The nuptial ceremony was solemnized by Rev. William J. Fox, pastor of the church. Lawrence Henry of Rye, N. Y., brother of the groom was best man, and Miss Frances Morrison, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid.

The west side of lower Bank street for a distance of some 300 feet, is torn up now, to allow the laying of new cement walks, repairing a section of the street which was neglected when the sidewalks were laid a few years ago. When the work is completed that section, which is the most traveled in the city, will be in better condition than it has ever been in.

The police reported only a solitary drunk under arrest at 9.30 this evening.

Sergeant James C. Sullivan and Patrolman Babcock are on duty in the police office during the two weeks in which Capt. Charles A. Pinney is on his vacation. The night desk is in charge of Lieutenant Beebe and Sergeant Frank Howard up to midnight, when Sergeant Gaffney is in command of the force.

At the meeting of Brainard Masonic lodge last evening a handsome bronze tablet erected to the memory of the members of the lodge who served in the army and navy during the world war was unveiled. The attendance was large and the ceremonial was very impressive. Many of the men who went into the service of the government bearing arms were represented at the meeting by relatives and all of them by friends.

Sailors and soldiers who are also radiomen and electricians in the government service at Fort Wright, at the submarine base and on ships at the state pier, flashed into trouble, when they took bulbs from the electric lamps that illumine the way for pedestrians at Hamilton street, a stetion that is of Stygian darkness when the electrics fail to light the way. There were five young men in a ranr that was presented in the police court this morning for offensive conduct and behavior. Joseph Fleming and George E. Preston admitted that they were rightly accused, but J. M. Sleeper, Ed Dros and William Grimmes denied that they had offended. Fleming is a radio operator and electrician at Wright and was on a steamer at the pier at the foot of John street. He took the blame for taking a bulb from a street light, and he and Preston, the latter from the submarine base, represented that the whole party had been at the coast guard academy and that in returning they saw what was regarded as a peculiar bulb and light. Discussion arose as to whether the lamp was of 110 or 220 candle power. The matter was argued by the embryo electricians. To settle the dispute one of the party, Fleming, took the bulb out of the lamp, which had a Siamese connection and which thus affected the other lights and left all in darkness in that particular section. The young men started off to examine the bulb they had taken under an arm lamp, but before they could do that they were stopped by Policeman John P. Sullivan, who was on duty to watch for just such offenders as the soldiers and sailors proved to be. The whole of the party was taken to the police station and there they gave a bond each that allowed them to sleep away from the station cells. Judge Prince disposed of their cases this morning by suspending judgment in two of them, finding the others of the party not guilty. The youths were given some good advice.

Abraham Shapiro was fined $5 for denying Mrs. William Skaling information as to the number of his registration, when the Shapiro car was in collision with Mrs. Skaling's machine. Shapiro had a clever defense in claiming that he would have shown his registration and his operating license had not the woman hastily left the site of the collision. Shapiro arranged to pay for any damage that his car had occasioned.

Joe Silvia paid a fine of $25 for recklessness in running his car into the ranks of the state police detail, on the day of the Brandegee funeral last week. Silvia made one or more of the officers hustle to avoid his machine when he drove out of Granite street. He declared that he supposed the entire detail had gotten by the corner as he saw a break in the ranks.

John Gentilella was in court, to answer for an alleged violation of the liquor law in selling; but a motion for a continuance to get important witnesses into court was granted, and the case went over till Saturday.

The seizure of the British schooner, Over the Top, as a rum-runner, Monday, by the crew of the revenue cutter Tampa, will develop a question of international law for the court to decide, it turned out here this afternoon at a continued hearing of Capt. M. B. Westhaver, master of the schooner and his crew of six men, before United States Commissioner Earl Mathewson of Norwich. The bond of Capt. Westhaver and that of the super-cargo was fixed yesterday at $10,000 each, but today the bail was reduced to $1000 each. The crew, who yesterday, were held in bail of $1000 each, today were required to furnish a smaller bond, $300, each. Capt. Westhaver and his crew were represented by a New York attorney, who provided surety for the entire members of the crew.

The schooner, which had a cargo of 6000 cases of whiskey and alcohol, and which is now under guard at the United States Coast Guard pier, was seized off Block Island and brought into port. The seizure was made under the existing treaty between the United States and foreign countries that should a foreign craft be found liquor-laden and within an hour's sailing distance from the American coast, the craft would be operated in violation of the prohibition law and in violation of the agreement of the treaty. Captain Westhaver claims that he was within his rights to sail his vessel when the schooner was seized, as she was more than an hour's sailing distance from shore. The case will be tried before the United States district court at Hartford next month.

Miss Anna Sullivan of Westerly; Frederick Raymond, Sound View; Miss Nina Green, Westerly, and Alphonse Swire, Bank street, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were discharged today.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today caused the operator's license of Dennis Patterson, 76 State street, to be suspended.

Deputy Collector of Customs Joseph C. Comstock and Mrs. Comstock, who have been at their cottage at Black Point for several months, have returned to their residence on Hempstead street for the winter.

Patrolman Henry Hick in making his round through Church street, near Meridian street, early this morning found an abandoned bicycle. The wheel was taken to the police station.

Jacob Linicus Jr., of Boston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Linicus, 57 Mott avenue, Neptune Park, and Miss Rose Dillon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Dillon, 242 Ocean avenue, were married at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the rectory of St. Joseph's church, the ceremony being performed by Rev. William C. Fitzsimons, the pastor. Bert Smith of Boston, was best man and Miss Norberta Dillon, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. Following the wedding a luncheon was served at the residence of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Linicus left late this afternoon on a wedding trip, which will include a visit to Canadian cities. Mr. and Mrs. Linicus will make their home in Boston.

John Rooney, a fellow who has worked about in restaurants, generally as a dishwasher or handy man in the kitchen, was released today from Lawrence hospital, where he has been under treatment a fortnight or so for injuries sustained when attacked and beaten without cause by James Murphy, a youth of about 24. According to the police and others who claim information as to the affair, the attack was unwarranted in the extreme. Rooney had abstained from intoxicating liquor for a considerable time. That did not hinder him from getting into trouble. He had a bottle of liquor which he declared was given to him by a worker in the Pequot section that he might have it in time of need, but that time had not come and Murphy took possession of it. He then beat the old man, also, it is alleged, cut him twice in the body with a pocket knife. He then took what money Rooney had, which was about a dollar in change. A charge of intoxication was lodged against Rooney and he was allowed to go to the hospital. When he left there today he was committed to jail till Saturday, when the case comes to trial. Rooney will thus be kept away from any influences that may be resorted to, that he may not know what occurred when he was attacked. The charge against Murphy is one that may send him to state prison.

Mrs. Charles Miller of Hartford spent yesterday and today visiting her mother, Mrs. Mary E. Kelley, of Pearl street.

Rebecca West, 85, widow of James S. Rogers, died this morning at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Mary R. Gardner, 18 Blackhall street. Mrs. Rogers had been in ill health a long time. Her husband, a former city sheriff, died about twenty-five years ago.

Miss Ida Richmann returned to her home, 177 North Bank street, today, after having been under treatment several days at Home Memorial hospital.

WOMEN'S ORGANIZATIONS TO PARADE IN BOSTON SATURDAY

Boston, Oct. 22.—The holding on Saturday of a great parade of women's organizations, known as the "march of allegiance" appears to be assured today when Howard Coonley, president of the Boston chamber of commerce, announced that the directors of that organization would take no action to stop the parade. The demonstration, organized by the Massachusetts Women's Christian Temperance Union, now in annual convention here, included a stop at the state house where the women would take the oath of allegiance administered by Mrs. Gifford Pinchot, wife of the governor of Pennsylvania.

The report early today that the retail trade board of the chamber of commerce had protested to the street commissioners against the holding of a parade in congested downtown streets on Saturday afternoon brought numerous appeals to the commissioners from women's organizations interested in the program. A hearing was set by the board for tomorrow. Later it became known that the W. C. T. U. had arranged a short route for the parade avoiding crowded thoroughfares.

In addition to the W. C. T. U. Women's organizations from all parts of the state will take part in the demonstration, it was announced. Similar parades are to be held in every state in the Union.

Dr. E. C. Hall, of New Haven, was elected state medical examiner for a term of five years at the 74th semi-annual meeting of the Connecticut Homeopathic Medical society in Derby.

COOLIDGE IS TO MAKE AN EXTENDED ADDRESS TONIGHT

Washington, Oct. 22.—President Coolidge directed his attention mainly today to completing the address he will deliver here tomorrow night before the eastern division of the chamber of commerce of the United States, in which he is expected to sum up his views on government affairs.

This will be the last extended address of the president before election and detailed arrangements have been made to have it radiocast to every section of the country through one of the most extensive broadcasting systems yet set up. He will start speaking about 9.30 o'clock, eastern standard time.

Among several callers at the White House today was William R. Wilcox, chairman of the republican national committee in the 1916 campaign, who drew an enthusiastic picture of the republican political outlook in New York. Members of the Retail Grocers organizations of New England and New York also were received by the president.

CONFIDENCE IN FUTURE OF TRANSCONTINENTAL AIR MAIL

New York, Oct. 22.—Confidence that the transcontinental air mail, which has brought San Francisco within 34 hours of New York, is here to stay, was expressed tonight by Col. Paul Henderson, second assistant postmaster general in charge of mail transportation, to the college of engineering, New York University, in an address on the problems of air post.

Col. Henderson, who is largely responsible for the successful establishment of the cross-country air mail service, expressed the hope that authority soon would be obtained for extension of the service. He predicted a nation-wide connecting up of all important commercial and industrial centers, with the air mail operating at night between such of those centers as are approximately 1,000 to 1,400 miles apart.

"Air transportation is not cheap," said Col. Henderson. "It is very expensive. There still remains much to be done before universal, nation-wide air mail service may be looked for. We do not intend to stand still.

"We hope to be permitted to add to this transcontinental route, first, by the scheduling of other operations over it during the 24-hour period. We hope soon to be operating out of New York each night for delivery in Chicago the next morning. We hope to secure authority for lateral extensions to this transcontinental run. Unquestionably, as the designers of airplanes develop better commercial vehicles of the air, we will be able to reduce our schedule time between the Atlantic and the Pacific. We will be able to increase the frequency of our dispatches.

"In the last analysis, efficiency of transportation may be measured by its cost per ton-mile, its regularity and dependability, and its speed. The present cost of operation the air mail service is $2.63 per ton-mile. This is altogether too expensive. From now forward, the most urgent task of the post office department is to attempt to bring down this cost per ton-mile. This means ships with greater carrying ability.

"I predict air transportation at a cost of less than 30 cents a ton-mile, with speeds approximating 100 miles an hour. I also predict the carrying of certain classes of merchandise in the air, and ultimately, the carrying of passengers."

SENTENCED IN NEW HAVEN ON MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE

New Haven, Oct. 22.—Rocco Papallo, of Meriden, was sentenced to state's prison for not less than 10 nor more than 15 years by Judge George E. Hinman in criminal superior court today after he had pleaded guilty to a charge of manslaughter. It was charged that on February 29, last Papallo claimed that Macri struck the first blow. The grand jury indicted him for murder in the second degree but at a conference between the state's attorney and counsel for the defendant, a compromise was reached and the charge of murder was changed to manslaughter.

Walter Lord, proprietor of the Double Beach house, who had pleaded nolo contendere before Judge John R. Booth in the common pleas court, to two counts of liquor violations, was fined $400 and sentenced to 30 days in jail. The evidence was secured by Bridgman detectives. Judge Booth fined Lord $200 on each of the counts and one count the hotel proprietor was sentenced to 30 days in jail which he must serve. On the second count another 30 days in jail was decreed, but with the provision that execution thereon be suspended for one year.

IMBRIE STONED TO DEATH AS HE LAY UNCONSCIOUS

New York, Oct. 22.—How Robert Imbrie, American consul at Teheran, was stoned to death by natives as he lay unconscious upon an operating table, was related today by Joseph F. Kornfeld, United States minister to Persia, just resigned, who returned on the Leviathan with a report of the tragedy which he will submit to the state department at Washington.

NAVAL OFFICERS CONTEST GEN. McCARL'S RULING

Washington, Oct. 22.—Officers of the navy who have disagreed with Comptroller General McCarl's ruling which withheld from them allowances for heat, light, and quarters for dependants went into court here today to test Mr. McCarl's powers in the same action, the plaintiff seeks to force the navy disbursing officers to pay the officers amounts alleged to be due.

The suit, filed in the District of Columbia supreme court, is for an injunction to prevent further alleged obstruction on the part of Secretary Wilbur, Lieutenant Benjamin L. Lankford, disbursing officer, and Mr McCarl in the effort of Commander John F. Cox, to receive allowances alleged to be due him. Justice Hoehling issued a show cause order requiring the three officials named to file answer October 31.

The controversy resulting from Mr. McCarl's ruling, made last March 14, is thus thrown into open court and, for the first time, the powers of the comptroller general, as defined in the budget and accounting act, are subjected to judicial appraisal.

MARKET WAS ACTIVE.

New York, Oct. 22.—Stock prices made furthe recovery in today's active market despite the renewed weakness of Bethlehem Steel and the sugar shares. Rails continued to lead the advance although marked strength was also shown by a number of industrials and public utilities. Total sales crossed the million share mark for the first time since last Tuesday.

Bethlehem Steel opened at 40 1-2, broke to a new year's low at 37 3-4 and the rallied to 38 1-2, off 1 5-8 on the day. Recent liquidation of this issue has been based on forecasts of a poor quarterly report due tomorrow. Republic Steel duplicated its low of 42. United States Steel continued to show resistance to selling pressure, closing 3-8 higher at 107 3-8.

The weekly steel trade reviews again reported a conservatice attitude on the part of buyers.

Buying of the rails was influenced by the increases in net earnings shown in the first few September statements to be published and by the merger and dividend possibilities of some of the low priced carriers. New 1924 peak prices in this group were established by Frisco common, Colorado and Southern, Chicago Great Western preferred, Rutland preferred and Pittsburgh and West Virginia preferred.

Another interesting development in the rail group was the streneth shown by New Haven, which closed 3 1-4 points higher at 25 3-8. St. Paul preferred crossed 21 and then fell back to 20 1-4 up 3-4 on the day. Oother active rails to show net gainst of a point or more were Erie common, Northern Pacific, Union Pacific, Kansas City Southern and Pere Marquette.

The demand for public utilities centered in such issues as Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit, General Electric, American Water Works, and Public Service Corporation of New Jersey, up 1 to 3 points.

Sears Roebuck, which enjoyed a brisk advance yesterday, fell back nearly two points on profit-taking but good buying persisted in other merchandising issues, notably H. R. Mallison. Julius Kayser, Kinney and Co., common and preferred, Kresge Department Stores and Cullett Peabody, up 1 to 2 1-2 points. American Sugar Refining broke 3 1-2 points to a new low at 37 3-4 in the final hour. New bottom prices also were established by Cuban Cane common, American Beet Sugar preferred, Great Western Sugar and Ponta Alegre Sugar.

Urgent short coverings in American Can sent that issue up to 132 7-8 but it reacted later to 131 3-4, where it was up 1 to 1-4 on the day. Other conspicuous strong spots were Fisk Rubbe first preferred, Nash Motors, American Express and Fisher Body.

Call money appears to be temporarily stabilized at two per cent., which rate has been maintained all week. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged with business quiet.

Foreign exchange rates displayed moderate strength. Sterling was in demand by banking interests, ruling at about a cent higher around $4.50 1-2. French francs were quoted just below 5 1-4 cents. Danish kroner advanced 12 points to 17.27 cents. Other exchanges were largely nominal.

CURB MARKET.

New York, Oct. 22.—Steady accumulation of the oil shares, seveari of which touched new high prices on the current movement, featured today's irregularly higher curb market.

Recent buying of the Petroleum issues has been based on the steady decrease in crude production and the increase in gasoline production and oil exports. Net gains of a point or two were established by Imperial of Canada, Prairie Oil and Gas, Cities Service common and Standard Oils of Indiana and New York. Standard Oil of Nebraska jumped more than ten points on a few odd lot sales.

Chief speculative interest in the industrial goup centered in United Bakeries, which soared to 119 7-8 and then eased to 119, for a net gain of 3 points on the day. Radio isues held steady. Public utilities showed mixed changes, Commonwealth advancing 1 1-2 to 102 1-2 and Middle West Utilities sagging a point.

BOND MARKET.

New York, Oct. 22.—Bond prices today worked into higher ground under the leadership of the railroad issues which responded to a general revival of buying interest. Influenced partly by the favorable earnings shown in the first September reports published and by the rise in railroad shares, a wide varietd of liens scored gains of 1 to 3 points.

Renewed demand for the new German bonds also developed today following the establishment of a new high premium in the Londo nmaket. On an expanded volume of trading the price of the issue snapped back to 94 1-2.

An unusual feature of the tradins in the railroad list was the brisk demand for obligations of two carriers confronted with large refunding programmes—the St. Paul and New Haven railroads. Gains by nine of the New Haven issues ranged from 1 to 3 points, the 3 1-2s of 1947 achieving a new 1924 high price at 56. Active liens of the St. Paul Railway were from one to two points higher.

Buying of other rail mortgages was particularly effective in the issues of the western roads, such as Burlington general 4s, Frisco adjustment 6s, Denver and Rio Grande refunding 5s and Chicago and Terre Haute income 5s, as well as New York Central general 3½s and Western Maryland 4s.

Public offering will be made tomorrow of $15,000,000 Cuban Dominican Sugar Company twenty year 7 1-2 per cent. bonds at 97 1-2 to yield about 7.75 per cent. The latest prospective foreign borrowers were said to be the governments of Czecho Slovakia and Jugo Slavia, the first of which is expected to float a loan of $30,000,000 to $50,000,000

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, Oct. 22.—Influenced by activity of export demand together with increasing complaints of drought in Argentina, the wheat market here tended upward in prices most of the time today. Closing quotations for wheat, although unsettled, showed 1-2c to 7-8c gain, December $1.47 1-8 to $1.47 1-4 and May $1.51 1-4 to $1.51 3-8. Corn finished at 3-8c to 3-4c and oats 1-8c to 1-2c off and provisions varying from 32c setback to a rise of 22c.

It was estimated that new export business in wheat today amounted to 1,500,000 bushels. Besides the market during the early dealings was affected by knowledge that yesterday's purchases for Europe had turned out to be much larger than most traders had supposed.

Higher premiums for cash wheat at Minneapolis and Duluth gave additional encouragement to traders on the buying side of the Chicago market. In this connection, it was a generally accepted view that the main factor in cash wheat weakness lately had been that the grain was coming forward at a more rapid rate than circumstances appeared to warrant.

Excessive marketing of livestock was largely responsible for the weakness of corn and oats values. In addition, fine weather continued, and farm reserves of corn were unofficially figured at 40,000,000 bushels more than was the case a year ago.

In line with the hog market, provisions averaged lower.

EKONK

Ekonk grange hall was filled to the doors, Wednesday evening, when the Community club was called to order by the president, Rev. Truman Childs. A pleasing program was given by members from Ekonk, Wylie district and Sterling Hill. Refreshments were served and a social hour followed.

Friday evening was observed as ladies' night in the grange and all the officers' chairs were filled by the sisters. The hall was prettily decorated and an interesting program was given. The next meeting will be gentlemen's night and all are anxious to learn who wins in the contest, as the losing side must furnish a supper. Mrs. Hilliard, Mrs. Arthur Love and Edwin S. Gallup are the judges.

Rev. Truman Childs and Rev. Emmons White took an auto drive to Wickford, R. I., last week Wednesday.

Mrs. Blanche Byles and Miss Florence Douglas attended church in Plainfield Sunday and Mrs. Byles sang a solo.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Irons of Waterloo, N. Y., motored from their home to Mrs. Ida Frink's last week and spent a day. They were on their way to Worcester to visit Mr. Irons' brother, who is critically ill.

The Ladies' Aid society met with Mrs. Elsig Frink Thursday afternoon and set together some blocks for a quilt.

The members of Sterling Hill Sunday school have been having a contest over attendance. The losing side furnished an entertainment and supper recently.

WESTERLY

Israel Morin, 31, took his life by shooting himself in the left ear, while alone in his home, 10 Cleveland street, Clarkville, Wednesday morning. The body was discovered by his mother-in-law, Mrs. Catherine Billings, who, residing on the first floor and noticing an unusual stillness about 10 o'clock, went to the second floor and found Mr. Morin lying on the floor of the bedroom. Dr. Charles F. Crandall was summoned but the man was dead.

As a machinist Morin had been in the employ of the William Clark mill of the American Thread company for 17 years, being among a number of the mill employes who were laid off some time ago. He had not worked since last Thursday, previous to that time for seven weeks he was in the employ of Fred W. Harvey, a Pawcatuck plumber. Despondency is thought to have been the motive for the act for he was reported to have told fellow workmen that "he was going to end it all soon." After Mrs. Morin had left for her work at the William Clark mill, Mr. Morin dressed their small son and the latter had left for school and it is thought the suicide was committed soon after. The Stonington Medical Examiner Dr. Charles M. Gray of Mystic, was notified of the circumstance by Dr. Crandall.

A gash over the right eye extending down the cheek and neck which required nine stitches to close, and a cut on the throat four inches long, from the broken glass of a windshield, were sustained Wednesday noon, by Earl Reynolds, 18, of Mechanic street, Pawcatuck. The accident happened when as he stepped in the path to avoid being knocked down by the Buick automobile, 190,512, N. Y., of Joseph Bell, brother of A. W. Bell, superintendent of the William Clark mill, he jumped on the hood and his head broke more than half of the windshield. Reynolds was going from his work at the C. B. Cottrell and Sons press works when the injuries were sustained and was taken to the office of Dr. M. H. Scanlon who gave the necessary medical treatment after which he was taken to the home of his mother, Mrs. Margaret Reynolds on Mechanic street. Patrolman Francis McMahon of Pawcatuck made investigation and ascertained that the automobile was not traveling at an excessive rate of speed.

Assistant Manager Lewis Stanton of the Westerly branch of the Industrial Trust company, has returned after a short vacation.

Rev. and Mrs. Marvin S. Stocking, of Grace Methodist Episcopal parsonage, returned home Tuesday night, from a visit in Auburn, Me.

Deborah chapter, No. 9, Order of the Eastern Star, Mrs. Nora G. Fowler, matron, held a state meeting in the Masonic rooms Tuesday evening. Degree work and a business session was followed by lunch in the templar armory.

Miss Janet Clark of Wakefield, was a visitor the first of the week on her return home from an auto trip which included a tour of western New York state and a stop at Niagara Falls.

At the Broad Street Christian church on Wednesday evening was held the annual church roll call. A roast beef supper was served.

Miss Helen Cannon, Misses Capuccio and Louis Cheney returned Wednesday morning to Boston, after a visit in Westerly and Pawcatuck.

This (Thursday) evening in Providence at the Masonic temple will be held the semi-annual meeting of the Masonic Past Masters' association of Rhode Island, of which Wilbur A. Scott is president. Dinner will be followed by the meeting.

Judge Leonard R. Nickerson of Cheshire, of the superior court, addressed more than a hundred and fifty members of the Westerly Masonic club in their rooms on High street Wednesday night on the subject of "Citizenship."

The Girls' Friendly society of Christ Episcopal church Tuesday evening presented the second entertainment in their seris whn Miss Mildred Smith of Boston proved delifhtful as a reader and in characteristic impersonations, was forced to respond to many encores and captivated her audience in every number.

Mrs. Jessie Davison, soprano, accompanied by Mrs. Charles Larkin, completed the evening's entertainment. Mrs. Davison was in fine voice and gave a group of boat songs which were greatly enjoyed.

Narragansett Council, No. 21, Knights of Columbus, met in their rooms Tuesday evening when committees were appointed as follows to have charge of the business managment of the musical comedy Bimbo, which will be presented next month:

Publicity committee: Russell Lenihan, chairman; C. Leon Higgins, Joseph Delaney, William Geary, Michael Connors, Thomas Shea, Thomas F. Lenihan, William J. Quinlan, George Quattromani, John Schiller.

The marriage of Miss Annie Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Anderson of Wilford court, West Side, and Frank Tuttle, also fo Pawcatuck, took place Saturday afternoon in Stonington, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Dwight C. Stone. Trey were attended by Miss Sylvia Pickhover and Walter Keenan. Mr. and Mrs. Tuttle are on a two weeks wedding trip to Nova Scotia and will reside in Westerly.

STONINGTON

Because of the heavy expense involved in maintaining the Pawcatuck night school for non-English speaking foreigners it is not likely that classes will be opened this fall on the West Side. Supt. W. R. Snyder of the town schools thinks it would be unwise to start such a school this year unless it is postively known that the attendance would be large enough to make conducting one worth while. Possibly foreign born residents interested in learning to read and write in English will petition the town to reopen the night school. Unless this is done, the Stonington school committee will not voluntarily open the school.

The sittings of the registrars of voters have been completed for the purpose of correcting the several voting lists which will be left with the town clerk Friday, Oct. 24. All the lists are large this year.

The World Wide Guild of the First Baptist church is making rag dolls to be sent to mission hospitals.

Conrad Rock of Mystic and Miss Lulu Clark of New London were married Saturday at 8 p. m., by Rev. Dwight C. Stone of Stonington at the Parsonage by the Sea. They were attended by Miss Ruth Taylor and Edward Killan of New London.

At a meeting of Stonington fire district Monday evening in Topers hall it was decided to proceed with the cash installation of fire hydrants as soon as possible and to use every endeavor to have them in before cold weather.

McGamm Bros have started the work of cementing the new sidewalk to be in front of Chesebro's store on Water street.

There was a large and appreciative gathering in Fort's hall on Water street Monday evening at the whist in honor of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Joseph. It was given by the party of young men and women who have enjoyed trips this summer on Mr. and Mrs. Joseph's launch Flavia to Block Island and Fisher's Island and to New London. There were between 60 and 70 present. First prizes were won by Mrs. McGrath and Capt. Burdick. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph were presented a beautiful Oriental rug and a handsome set of china for use on the yacht. Mr. Joseph accepted the gifts in an appreciative speech and said he hope that they would go on some more trips next summer. There was a lunch of sandwiches, cake, coffee and punch.

Hobart Bosworth of Waterbury was a caller here Monday.

Cullen Madison from Boston was in town Monday.

While grading for the sidewalk at the entrance to Chesebro's store in Water street workmen came across the foundation of the former democratic flag pole, which was cut down long ago. The stump of chestnut is solid and recalled to the minds of many borough residents, days of former campaigns when banners were displayed across Water street.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germ that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

BOLTON

Charles N. Loomis, 84, one of Bolton's oldest and most highly respected citizens, died at his home Friday noon.
Mr. Loomis was born in Bolton Sept. 17, 1840, the son of George Trumbull and Sarah Northam Loomis. They had two other children, George Loomis of Westerly, R. I., and William H. Loomis of this place, both of whom are dead. Except for short stays in New Jersey, and at Andover, Mr. Loomis has always lived in Bolton and has always been a farmer.
In November, 1866, he married Elizabeth C. Hickman of Philadelphia, three children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Loomis. Mr. Loomis has twice been representative from Bolton, has held many town offices, was town treasurer and a member of the board of relief at the time of his death. He has been a deacon of the Congregational church many years, was a charter member of Bolton grange.
Mr. Loomis' health and strength has been failing for some time, but he was confined to his bed less than a week, and his mind remained clear to the end. Mr. Loomis was at all times a friend to all, looking for a chance to do a kindness to friend or stranger alike. He is survived by his wife, three children, Miss Adelia N. Loomis, who resided at home, Mrs. William E. Stetson of Cromwell, and Charles N. Loomis Jr., of Pawtucket, R. I., and three grandchildren, Miss Katherine Stetson, Clarence Stetson of Cromwell and Northam Loomis of Pawtucket, R. I. The funeral was held at the Congregational church Monday afternoon, Rev. Frederick C. Taylor, pastor of the church officiated. Burial was in the Bolton cemetery.
At the special town meeting Monday to vote off a tie for assessor for three years between James Fletcher and Nathan C. Maine, Mr. Maine was elected by a majority of two votes.
The selectmen and town clerk met Saturday and made voters.
A. Jesse Wood, who came to Boston nine years ago seriously ill with tuberculosis, and later returned to his parents in England, writes Bolton friends of having a serious attack of pneumonia last spring, has now gone to work and considers himself well.
Miss Mary Ellis of Gilead is a guest of her cousins, Judge J. White Sumner and Clement M. Sumner.
Prof. and Mrs. Samuel M. Alvord attended the football game in New Haven Saturday.
Elmer J. Finley of Forest Hills Gardens, L. I., came to Bolton Thursday, for a few days' hunting trip.
Dr. James Naylar, George Ulrich and Louis Middleburger of Hartford were guests of John Toomey last week for the hunting.
Miss Elizabeth Pose is on the honor roll at the Hartford High school.
Miss Helen Taylor of Holyoke, Mass., spent the week-end with her parents, Rev. and Mrs. Frederick C. Taylor.
Mrs. R. Kneeland Jones drove to Northfield, Mass., last week to spend the week-end with her sister, Miss Ruth Jones, who is a pupil at the Moody school.
Howard Sumner of Rockville spent Sunday with his cousin, Leslie S. Bolton.

STAFFORD SPRINGS

Joe Meurisse of Stafford street was fined $2 and costs, amounting in all to $12.86 by Judge Heald in the borough court, Tuesday morning, on a charge of breach of the peace.
The testimony showed that he had been throwing stones and otherwise annoying his neighbors.
Philip Dow, principal of Stafford High school, has gone to Gray, Maine, to attend the funeral of his father. During his absence Rev. E. A. Legg is substituting at the high school.
The marriage of Raymond Campo and Miss Jennie Daigle was solemnized at St. Edward's church Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock, by Rev. Felix J. O'Neill.

A CAUSE OF WOMEN'S ILLS

Women Often Think They Have Heart Trouble, Indigestion, Nervous Prostration, Etc, When Its Simply Iron Starvation of the Blood.

Many women believe they are weak and nervous as a result of age, worry and overwork; they think that their disturbed digestion, headaches, heart palpitation, shortness of breath, pains across the back, etc., are due to some serious disease instead of the real cause—iron starvation of the blood. This is proven by the fact that when many of these same women take organic iron for awhile all their alarming symptoms quickly disappear and they become strong robust and healthy. Iron is absolutely necessary to enable your blood to change food into living cells and tissue. Without it nothing you eat does you the proper amount of good—you do not get the strength out of it.
If you are not strong and well do not wait until you go all to pieces and collapse in a state of nervous prostration, but take some organic iron—Nuxated Iron—at once. But be sure it's organic iron and not metallic iron which people usually take and which is made merely by the action of strong acids on small pieces of iron. Organic NUXATED IRON is like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples and it often increases the bodily and mental vigor of weak, worn-out women in two weeks' time.
Beware of substitutes. Look for the word "Nuxated" on every package and the letters N. I. on every tablet. Your money will be refunded by the manufacturers if you do not obtain perfectly satisfactory results. At all druggists.

NORWICH TOWN

The second meeting this season of the Ladies' Home Missionary society of the First Congregational church, is to be held Friday afternoon at the parsonage on Elm avenue, with the vice president Mrs. Gurdon F. Bailey as hostess.
Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey pastor of the First Congregational church, is to be the officiating clergyman at the Sheltering Arms service Sunday afternoon. It is expected that members of the choir will provide the singing.
The state highway leading from the Soldiers' Monument through Norwich Town, received its fall coat of tarvia last week under direction of State Supervisor of Repairs, Henry T. Gorman.
Mrs. George A. Peck of Otrobando avenue spent a day recently at her former home in Colchester as guest of her sisters, Miss Annie Smith and Miss Rose Smith.
Miss Sarah Markham of East Hampton has returned, folwing a visit of two weeks at the home of her sister, Mrs. Gebrge Peck of Plain Hill.
A niece of Mrs. Peck, Miss Amy Markham of East Hampton, was her guest recently for a day, Miss Sarah Markham with whom she makes her home returning with her niece.
Other guests for a day at the Peck home included Miss Ella Skinner of Mohegan and Miss Irene

TAFTVILLE

A pretty fall wedding took place Monday morning at Sacred Heart church when Miss Amelia Lague, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph [illegible] avenue, became the wife of Edgar Archambeault, son of Mr. and Mrs. Archambeault of Norwich. The ceremony was performed by the nuptial high mass was celebrated by Rev. U. O. Beliveau of the church, in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends of the young couple. A reception and wedding breakfast followed at the home of the bride's parents after the church ceremony. There was a large display of gifts received by the bride. Mr. Archambeault has been a resident of the village a number of years and is employed as an automobile mechanic. His bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lague, and is popular among the young people of the village. After a short wedding trip, the newly married couple will reside in Taftville.

The section of North A street between North Second avenue and North B avenue is undergoing grading and repairs.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McAuley and family are moving from South Second avenue to North B street.

As the local mills are idle this week those who hunt at all, are having a fine opportunity to enjoy the sport, that their hunting likes, exhibit them. Most of those returning with empty game bags are said, reporting that there is a shortage of grouse in the nearby woods. But as the season progresses, it is believed that there will be a sufficient number of "flight birds" to help the shortage.

The new cement walk in front of the Wauregan school grounds on Merchants avenue has been completed and adds to the attractive and neat appearance of the street.

Mr. and Mrs. Adelphi Dubreuil and family moved this week from South Fifth avenue to a house on Norwich avenue.

Ameda Hamel of the Ponemah House has resigned his position with the No. 4 weaving department of the Ponemah company.

Miss Louise Rousseau of Webster, Mass., has been spending a few days with friends in town.

Orvis Paul of South B street has purchased a new foxhound.

Miss Rose Stevens of South C street who has been a patient at the Backus hospital, has returned to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Prime Dugas of South A street.

Edward Duprey of South B street shot a large gray fox Tuesday at Bog Meadow.

Edward T. Fenley of Providence, R. I., was a business caller in the village Wednesday.

Orvis Canatara of North A street has purchased a new automobile.

FOUR WIVES SEEKING DIVORCE MAKE CLAIMS OF DESERTION

Four suits for divorce, returnable before the superior court in November, were filed Wednesday at the office of the clerk of the court, Judge George E. Parsons.

Myra Hewlitt Kearney of Stonington seeks divorce from Joseph Kearney, formerly of that town, but now of parts unknown, whom she married June 30, 1920. She alleges that she was deserted Feb. 17, 1921, and she asks for change of name to Myra Hewlitt.

On the ground of desertion since June 1, 1921, Frances Apolito De Nardis of New London asks divorce from Cornelius De Nardis, now of parts unknown. They were married April 23, 1921. She asks to have her name changed to Frances Apolito.

Sophia Skucyzlas Stryczek of Griswold seeks divorce from John Stryczek, now of parts unknown, and the custody of their seven-year-old son. The couple were married Sept. 10, 1914, and she alleges she was deserted Sept. 7, 1921.

Missing For Seven Years.

Francesca Trampeni Moretti of New London alleges that she was deserted Aug. 5, 1917, by Francisco Moretti, formerly of Buffalo, N. Y., and now of parts unknown. Nothing has been heard of him by her for seven years or by anyone else that she knows of. They were married on Aug. 22, 1910. She asks the custody of their thirteen-year-old son.

Foreclosure in Taftville.

Foreclosure of a $2,000 mortgage of five tracts of land in Taftville is sought in a suit by Sol Novick of New York, Meyer and Morris Novick of Norwich against Peter Pisarko, John Diskant and Vera Pokutney, all of Norwich. Pisarko has a one-half interest and each of the other defendants a one-quarter interest. The terms of the mortgage which is dated Aug. 28, 1923, were for a payment of $666.67 two years after date and $666.66 three years after date, with interest and all taxes. It is claimed that the first installment, due Aug. 28, 1924, has not been paid. The land covered by the mortgage deed is a 21-acre tract on the Canterbury turnpike, another tract on the same road, a tract on the Old Canterbury road, a barn lot on School street, and an orchard lot on the Old Canterbury road.

LOSE LARGE BEQUESTS UNDER INVALID WILL

(Special to the Bulletin)

Stafford Springs, Oct. 22—At a hearing in the probate court Tuesday morning, a document purporting to be the will of Edith G. Cushman who died Oct. 4th was decided by Judge O'Connell to be invalid. The document was drawn in the handwriting of Miss Cushman and was attested by only two witnesses, while the statute requires three. The witnesses were Maud G. Booth and Estella F. Bartlett and the former was also named as one of the legatees.

Miss Cushman attempted to dispose of an estate of about $15,000 among the bequests being several to religious and charitable institutions. The local bequests included $2,000 to Johnson Memorial hospital; the Methodist church $500; the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Methodist church $500; the Woman's Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist church $500; the Stafford Red Cross Nursing Committee $100; the Holmes Fund cared for by a committee from the Universalist church, Stafford $2,000; Stafford High school alumni scholarship fund $100; Stafford public library $500 and her library; the Sunday school of the Methodist church $100.

In addition to the bequest of $2,000 to the Johnson Memorial hospital the hospital was made residuary legatee. Other bequests were: The Connecticut Children's Aid Society $2,000; Newington Home for Crippled Children $2,000; Seaside Sanatorium for Children at Niantic $1,000; Boston Medical Mission, Hall St., Boston $100; Sibley Hospital, Washington, D. C., $500; Lucy Webb Training school, Washington, D. C., $500.

The document, which is declared by the probate court to have no force as a will, was dated March 12, 1923.

F. G. Sanford was named as executor.

Under the ruling of the probate court the estate is intestate and it will have to be administered as if there were no will and distribution will be to the next of kin, as provided by statute.

Miss Cushman had been a teacher in the public schools for several years, and for a number of years prior to her death she had charge of the kindergarten department in the borough school.

LOST 10 COWS; 3 HORSES IN COLCHESTER FIRE

The livestock loss of Frank Wasniewski of Colchester when his barn was burned last Saturday night was much more serious than at first reported, when it was stated that only two calves were burned.

Mrs. Wasniewski states that only two calves were saved and one of these will probably have to be killed. He lost three horses, ten cows, the barn, all the hay, the silo and the silo cutter.

FIRE DOES DAMAGE IN MYSTIC RESIDENCE

(Special to the Bulletin)

Mystic, Oct. 22—The old Jesse Crary house on Gravel street, now occupied by a family by the name of Vinal, was considerably damaged by fire and water this afternoon through a fire that broke out about 3:30 in a room on the second story. The local fire companies responded quickly to the alarm and kept the fire from spreading to the lower part of the house.

RELIEF CORPS WHIST AT BUCKINGHAM MEMORIAL

SEIZE STILLS OPERATING IN SALEM AND LEDYARD

Two simultaneous liquor raids in Ledyard and Salem Tuesday afternoon in which stills were confiscated while in operation resulted in the arrests of the proprietors, charged with illegal manufacture.

John Czerkotz of Salem and Max Schulman of Ledyard were the victims and the latter went to jail Tuesday night in default of a $100 fine imposed by Justice Walter M. Buckingham of the Ledyard court. His family later paid the fine and Schulman now is serving 15 days which was attached to the sentence.

The raid in Salem was conducted by State Policemen Stanton and Honeyman, who discovered one of the most unique outfits taken in months. A 35-gallon still located in the man's house was in operation when the road was effected but a barrel just outside of the house contained the brew being manufactured. A pipe led from the still inside into the barrel through the outside partition of the house and the richly colored fluid dripping into the barrel was the first sight the policemen beheld. They thereupon entered the house and placed Czerkotz under arrest. The still and the 25-gallon barrel, which was almost full of the newly manufactured liquor was seized as evidence.

Czerkotz will appear tonight (Thursday) before Justice Hackett in Salem court. When arrested he claimed he was making the stuff for his own consumption. The liquor under a gravity test showed 140 proof.

At the home in Ledyard of Max Schulman besides the still Albright and Bodnick seized about a gallon of moonshine and a small quantity of mash.

GIVEN $20 FINE ON CHARGE OF THEFT

There were only three cases for Deputy Judge H. H. Pettis to dispose of in the city court Wednesday morning. One man fined $5 and costs for intoxication was unable to pay and went to jail. Anna Loomis, 32, of West Thames street, was fined $20 and costs on a charge of theft. The accused entered a demurrer to the charge but it was overruled by Judge Pettis. The woman was charged with taking a ten dollar bill from a local man in a restaurant Tuesday morning. They were members of a party of four or five. The complainant laid the money on the table intending to pay the check for the crowd. Another man in the party paid the check and the complainant alleged that the woman got hold of his ten dollar bill and refused to give it up. The accused paid $29.94.

For lack of sufficient evidence the court discharged David Cohan of Taftville, charged with driving a team on the public highway without having a light. Cohan contested the charge.

INITIATED TWELVE IN MERCIER ASSEMBLY, C. L. OF C

A regular meeting of Mercier Assembly, Catholic Ladies of Columbus, was held Tuesday evening in T. A. B. hall. Owing to the large number present the rooms could not accommodate all and the T. A. B. society very generously offered the use of their rooms for the initiation ceremony. A class of 12 candidates was initiated.

It was voted to cooperate with the Knights of Columbus in arranging a Christmas festival for the children of Norwich and Miss Sadie Kilroy was appointed chairman of the assembly's committee. Arrangements were completed for the banquet to be held by the assembly this (Thursday) evening at the Wauregan house. Progress was reported on the plans for the Armistice day celebration.

GAVE "MINSTREL SERENADE" AT TUBERCULOSIS SANATORIUM

About 150 patients of the Norwich State Tuberculosis sanatorium were entertained Tuesday evening when men in the cast of the Minstrel Serenade, staged recently at the Broadway theatre by the Norwich Lions club, gave that part of their program. Wives and friends of the Lions' club members were guests at the performance and Miss Viola Cumsick, head nurse at the sanatorium acted as hostess.

The programme was given in the men's infirmary and was very cleverly produced by 21 who participated. It is expected that the second part of the show will be given next week at the sanatorium for the benefit of the patients.

A. O. H. AUXILIARY MADE GIFT TO A MEMBER

The members of Division No. 18, Ladies Auxiliary, A. O. H., gathered Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Chester J. Ryan, Palmer street, to wish her luck and happiness in her new home. The entertainment programme for the evening was in charge of Miss Margaret Monaher, Mrs. John Niles, Mrs. James P. Fox, Miss Mollie Carroll, Miss May Kilday and Mrs. Grace Mumford. On behalf of the division Miss Mary Hartle, the president presented Mrs. Ryan a beautiful table lamp.

Hallowe'en Whist.

An enjoyable whist party in the form of "Hallowe'en" was held Tuesday evening at the home of Dr. and Mrs. F. D. Coles, of 758 Boswell avenue. There were prizes which were taken by Miss Rosa Rogler and Miss Laura Baer. Mrs. Coles served refreshments of sandwiches, assorted cake, fruit punch and candy, and was assisted by Mrs. L. J. Gladue and Miss Hattie Clark.

NORWICH MAN ADVISES NEW YORK CHEF

A recipe for old-fashioned succotash was unknown to the chef at The Old Homestead, a restaurant in New City, where Monday night the Norwich Society of New York held their banquet. Howard C. Russ came to the rescue and guided the cooking. No business program interfered with the goodfellowship of the evening. Acquaintances were renewed and a dinner enjoyed of strictly New England cooking all the way through.

Francis P. Bent, director of investigations of the Municipal Board of Estimate, who lately widened his fame by broadcasting from the City Hall Station WCNY, relinquished that duty for the evening in order to come and tell the members some happy and unusual reminiscences. After the dinner President William B. Klein also spoke and remarks were made by several of the society. Regrets were received from a number of the members who expressed their regret at not being able to attend the affair.

The menu was the following:

Guilford Ct oysters, cocktail a la Homestead
Celery, Olives, Old Fashioned Cold Slaw
Rhode Island Clam Chowder
Green River salmon, Hollandaise
Pomme Persillinde
Sea food combination, a la Neptune
New England fricassee chicken
New England succotash
Lettuce and tomato salad a la Russe
Old fashioned New England apple pie, Connecticut apples and grapes
Demi tasse Fromage
Cigars, cigarettes, Wayne county Cider

Among those present were:

William B. Klein, W. T. McNamara, Francis P. Bent, Arthur P. McWilliams, Anthony B. Arnold, Harold Thresher, C. Fred Messinger, Charles N. Hurlburt, John Breckenridge, Frank A. Lester, J. Olin Howe, J. H. Albertson, Howard C. Russ, J. S. Storms, C. LeRoy Storms, John W. Ulmer, Charles F. Noyes, Raymond E. Stefferson, Hugh F. McLaughlin, Edgar L. Messenger, J. W. Farrell, A. G. Lynch, P. O'Brien, John F. Nolan, W. G. Dolbeare, Jerry T. Riordan, Charles R. Nichols, M. W. Alling, Louis R. Dressler, Edwin S. Willard, E. J. Crawford, F. B. Lewis, William F. Converse, Charles A. Beach, James A. Somers, M. D., Louis J. Chomansky, Edward H. Miller, Louis M. Alofsin, M. D., Louis Lahn, M. D., Eugene C. Oelze.

The officers of the society are:

William B. Klein, president; Harold Hayward Thresher, vice president; William G. Gaylord, treasurer; William T. McNamara, secretary; executive committee: Edward C. Ely, Charles A. Beach, James H. Albertson, Dr. James A. Somers, John S. Burke.

The meetings are becoming increasingly popular. The secretary is particularly anxious to get in touch with any Norwich men who recently have come to the metropolis, and is desirous that they write him, William T. McNamara, 75 Cliff street, New York City.

JOINT PARISH TEA FOR BISHOP TUTTLE MEMORIAL

For the benefit of the Bishop Tuttle Memorial House to be built at St. Louis a joint parish tea was held on Wednesday afternoon by Trinity Episcopal and Christ Episcopal churches at Christ church. The tea was held from 3 to 5 o'clock and was a very successful event.

Tea was served by Miss Katherine Kent and Mrs. J. Eldred Brown assisted by the young ladies of both parishes.

Killed Dog At Trading Cove.

An Airedale dog at Trading Cove that has had a habit of running at and barking at automobiles was deliberately killed there on a recent evening by an automobilist who drove his machine across the road to get the dog. This time, however, the dog was not making any demonstration at the machine but was on the opposite side of the road so that it was apparent to A. J. Connelly, the owner of the dog, who was watching at the time, that the driver intended to kill the animal.

The dog was found dead afterwards in the lot below the high wall on Trading Cove hill.

NORWICH MAN IS ASSAULTED AND ROBBED

Joseph Menard, 64, of this city, was assaulted and robbed of $17 Monday night by three men at the rear of the Consumers' Coal Company on West street, Woonsocket. He received a fractured jaw in the struggle. Found nearly unconscious by Timothy Wrenn of 113 Olo street, he was taken to police headquarters and later to the Woonsocket hospital.

Dr. Adelbert H. Monty, who attended him at the hospital, stated that in addition to the fractured jaw, lacerations and bruises were sustained. Captain John S. Gilchrist and Inspector John F. Crowley investigated.

Mr. Menard arrived in Woonsocket Saturday, staying at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Charles Dumas, 222 Bernon street. Monday he prepared to leave the city, taking a suit case with him, and three men enticed him to the Fairmount section. The suit case was found where the assault was committed.

Workmen's Compensation.

Workmen's compensation agreements as follows have been approved by Commissioner J. J. Donohue:

Turello Bros., New London, employer, and Joseph N. Cable, New London, employe, contusions and lacerations of leg, at rate of $13.20.

Imperial Garage, Nowich, employer, and Leo Le Blanc, 313 Central avenue, employe, broken wrist, at rate of $6.

Sellas & Co., Norwich, employer, and Nicholas Stiles, 178 Cliff street, employe, right hand burned, at rate of $18.

American Woolen Co., Norwich mill, employer, and Michael Morras, 16 Benjamin street, employe, rash on hands and arms, at rate of $15.

Fined For Reckless Driving.

Samuel Sanford of Salisbury was fined $25 and costs on a reckless driving charge before Justice William Smiddy of Montville Tuesday evening. He was arrested last week by State Policeman Albright.

POETRY

Open Season

O God, be with your birds tonight!
The startled wing, incarnate flight,
The bright eye questing down the dark,
Reheating breast, fair rounded mark,
Where volleyed shot, insensate, blind,
Soft, bleeding harborage flies to find,
The while rough wakened certitude,
Inherent fears, a fluttering brood,
Incise the draining veins, to cry
"We know. This is the hour to die."

Swifter than light or omened sound
The message from the invaded ground,
Where man keeps murderous holiday
And marks them in their poised diena
The while his onslaughts rend and
Their habitations of the air.

Poor bloody plume and dangling head!
In you what beauties, too, are dead
That miracled gem, the shining eye,
Made to reflect immensity
And flash bright pageants to the brain
That never now shall thrill again!
Such a divine cognition, hurled
To nothingness, destroys a world.

And loves are slain, and young, shy mates
In tremendous downs, and purfled throats
Are smeared with one dread viscous hue
Abhorred since fabled Eden knew.
Life's hidden river could be freed
From channeled ease, to weep "I bleed!"
O heart that drives me, draw me back
To the swift safeties of my track
And curb me with your rythmic will!

But the invaded heart is still.
While the gray dawn comes quietly
Up the round reaches of the sky.
It seems not anything has heard
The story of a slaughtered bird.
—Alice Brown in Boston Transcript.

The Last Furrow

Mellow the grapes are—
Purple as gloamings that flee;
Yellow the corn in the husk,
And scarlet the leaves on the tree.

Wide-winged the geese go—
Swift and crying and crossing the stars
Foreseeing the snow,
The hoar-frost that lies on the bars.

This is the royal time;
The patridges are out of their covers
Each morning a rhyme,
And the sun and the hill are as lovers
The cattle in stall;
The pasture forsaken and lone;
Fire-light in the hall,
And the thistle-seeds withered and blown.

The last furrow turned,
With the great moon watching all white
The oxen can rest now,
For the ponds will be frozen tonight.
—By Theodore Roberts.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE MAKES PLAIN OUR PRESENT SYSTEM IS ONLY ONE ADAPTED TO NEEDS OF FREE REPUBLIC

Chief Executive Declares His Attitude on Practically Every Phase of Government Affairs — Advises That Public Ownership Would be a Perilous Undertaking—American Policy Always Has Been That the People Should Own the Government, Not That the Government Should Own the People—Warns That Delegating to Congress Powers Now Vested in the Supreme Court Would Give Congress the Power to Destroy States, Abolish the Presidential Office and Close Courts—Would Abrogate the Constitution, and Make the Will of Congress Supreme—Maintains That Without Protective Tariff American Industry Cannot Exist, American Wages Cannot Be Paid, and American Standard of Living Cannot Be Maintained.

Washington, Oct. 23. — President Coolidge set forth tonight policies of administration under which he purposes that the government will maintain peace, promote economy, provide a protective tariff, assist the farmer, leave the people in possession of their property, and maintain the integrity of the courts."

In the last extended address he expects to make before election and the most comprehensive he has delivered since his speech of acceptance of the republican nomination, the president declared his stand on practically every phase of government affairs. He discussed campaign issues, in some instances for the first time.

Mr Coolidge spoke before the eastern division of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States meeting here in the chamber's new building and the address was carried by radio to almost every section of the country.

Summarizing the administration's programme which he said had "brought an era of more than average prosperity," the president called attention that despite the "natural supposition that every well wisher of the country would be anxious to maintain the present established order of things," there are now proposed "at least two of the most revolutionary changes—government ownership of transportation and limitation of the powers of the supreme court.

Public ownership, he described as a "most perilous undertaking, both to the welfare of business and the independence of the people. If powers of the supreme court were limited as proposed, he said, "the historian would close the chapter with the comment that the people had shown they were incapable of self-government and the American republic had proved a failure."

Mr. Coolidge said further reduction in federal taxes was possible on the basis of the estimated government budget for next year and he outlined as his "common sense" method of taxation:

"Getting all we can out of the rich by making the rates moderate and stimulating business to provide work and icrease the earnings of the poor."

In foreign affairs the president promised co-operation in the interest of peace; declared for constitutional covenants outlawing aggressive warfare, and reaffirmed his proposal for adherence to the permanent court of international justice. He announced opposition, however, to participation by the government in international conferences discussing questions of "purely our own domestic affairs," to the cancellation of war debts owed this nation and to the entrance of the United States to the League of Nations.

No other "sound and practical" policy in foreign affairs has been pre-

French Internal Loan.

Paris, Oct. 23.—The government's intention to issue a loan of 4,000,000,000 francs to relieve the treasury was confirmed today by the Temps. No special parliamentary authorization is needed for the issue, it is said, as parliament, in December, 1923, authorized the issuance of loans up to 13,000,000,000 francs in 1924.

GOVERNOR TO BE ASKED TO PROHIBIT HUNTING

Hartford, Oct. 23.—Governor Templeton is to be requested to prohibit hunting in the state until weather conditions change, by State Forester Austin F. Hawes, and Superintendent John W. Titcomb of the state fish and game department, unless hunters exercise more caution while in the woods. Numerous reports of fires set by hunters are being received at these departments and unless this is stopped a ban on all hunting for several weeks will be necessary.

The governor has power under state statutes, to suspend hunting privileges in the state during dry seasons. This power was exercised by Governor Lake, who ordered all hunting stopped for a month during the fall of 1922.

A report from Leonard N. Tarr, meteorologist at the United States weather bureau at New Haven says that "the present low humidity and brisk northerly winds make the atmospheric conditions dangerous. People should be careful about starting fires in the open, except early in the morning or late in the afternoon."

A fire at Andover recently was set by a carelessly dropped cigarette of a hunter. The blaze was discovered by a woman who was forced to run about one-half mile to secure aid in putting out the fire.

CONVICT SHAUGHNESSY ACTED AS OWN ATTORNEY

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 23.—Herbert P. Shaughnessy of Roxbuhy, now serving a prison term for larceny of an automobile, acted as his own attorney in Middlesex superior court today and brought about indefinite postponement of his trial on an indictment charging robbery while armed. Shaughenessy demanded time to retain counsel, declaring that he had not been notified of the indictment until today.

"I am a convict, but I know my rights," he said. District Attorney Arthur K. Reading did not oppose Shaughnessy's request which was granted by Judge Lawton.

With Shaughnessy appeared Edward J. McCormack, George W. Williams and Thomas E. Davies, indicted as accessories before and after the fact of the robbery of $15,000 from the Guaranty Trust company of Cambridge last May. State Sentaor John W. McCormack of South Boston, appearing on behalf of his brother, one of the defendants, objected to having his client tried together with Shaughnessy, who, he said, was a principal. The motion was overruled. The court placed twelve government witnesses under personal bonds of $100 each to guarantee their appearance when required.

NEW PRESIDENT OF THE HARVARD ALUMNI ASS'N

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 23. — Dr. Charles Hall Grandgent of Cambridge, graduate of Harvard in 1883 and professor of Romance Languages at the university since 1896, has been chosen as president of the Harvard Alumni association to succeed Court Justice Edward Terry Sanford, '85, of Knoxville, Tenn., and Washington, it was announced today.

The election of Professor Grandgent took place at the annual October meeting of the directors of the association. Arthur Woods of New York, former police commissioner of that city, and Horton Batchelder of Windsor, Conn., headmaster of Loomis Institute, were elected vice presidents.

Professor Grandgent is the first president of the association to be chosen from the Harvard faculty since the election of Dean Le Baron R. Briggs in 1913. Other members of the faculty who have sevred in the same capacity are President Emeritus Charles W. Eliot, Professor Charles Eliot Norton and UProfessor John C. Gray of the law school.

EN YU-SANG'S FORCES NOW IN CONTROL OF PEKING

Peking, Otc. 23.—(By the A. P.)—A brigade fo En Yu-Sang's Eleventh division quietly and unexpectedly entered and occupied Peking last night, and this morning completely controls the capital.

All communicants are cut, the city gates are shut and proclamations are posted saying:

"Feng Yu-Sang doesn't want to make war which is ruining the country and, causing the loss of many lives. Feng has called a conference between the government and the other side with a view of stopping the war. His is bringing his troops back to Peking for garrison duty and asks the people that order be preserved."

The city is quiet and peaceful.

DENIED MOTION FILED BY ECLECTIC PHYSICIANS

Bridgeport, Oct. 23.—Judge L. P. Waldo Marvin, in superior court today, denied a motion filed by five suspended eclectic physicians that the report of State Referee Marcus H. Holcomb be referred back to him for additional findings of fact.

SHENANDOAH RECROSSES THE PERILOUS ROCKY MOUNTAINS

Aboard the U. S. S. Shenandoah today, leaving a clear course for the return of the big dirigible to her hangar at Lakehurst, N. J.

Arizona and the worst of the rockies were left behind when Redeo, N. M., was reached at 2:30 o'clock. The big ship had groaned and strained as it drove into the eddies whirling over the peaks. The wind currents rushed through the mountain passes like mill races.

The ship sped at fifty miles an hour over the ranges of Arizona at an altitude of 6,500 feet. Turning southward at Benson at 10:40 p. m. last night, the Shenandoah had followed the railroad southeast towards the Mexican border. After a short stop at Bisbee was seen glistening under the moonlight and in a few minutes had been passed. The lights of the mines, the sketchy outline of its two streets, Tombstone Canyon and Jeremy Gulch showed that the city was Bisbee. The nose of the ship was pointed upward until it was on a 6,700 foot level and another 175 pound tank of gasoline was dropped through the keel bottom to lighten the load. The Shenandoah turned and was over Naco at 12.50 a. m. Another turn with a broad swing over the Mexican border and she was again speeding eastward toward Douglas and its smelters were passed at 1:27 a. m.

The return trip across the rockies was almost as dramatic as the westward journey. Along the 680 feet of the Shenandoah's glistening body, on either side of the nine inch cat walk, the big gas bags seemed ready to burst against the network of cord as the helium expanded in the rarified altitude. In the navigating car Lieutenant Commander Lansdowne, captain of the Shenandoah, Lieutenant Commander Hancock, the executive officer, and the officers on watch were straining their eyes into the darkness guiding the ship as it sped on its uncharted course of the air.

UNCONCIOUS IN MOTOR BOAT ADRIFT IN THE SOUND

Guilford, Oct. 23—Unconscious in his motor boat which was seen drifting about in Long Island sound yesterday Samuel Fuller, 29, keeper of Faulner's Island Lighthouse, was rescued by Fred Braffire, assistant keeper at the light who had noticed the craft. Fuller had been hurt when the sticker he wore had been caught by the engine fly wheel. The garment had been twisted about the waist drawing Fuller to the floor of the boat. The motor had stopped.

Braffire brought Fuller here and Dr. G. F. Anderson set five breaks in his right arm.

Had the assistant keeper not seen the drifting motor boat there was the possibility of further drift out into the sound toward the sound entrance and out into the ocean.

JURY IN KLAN MURDER CASE DISCHARGED

New York, Oct. 24.—Unable to agree after more than 13 hours' deliberation, the jury considering the case of Patrick Ryan in the Kings county supreme court on a charge of murdering Ferdinand Downs, a member of the Ku Klux Klan, was discharged by Justice Lewis at 12.40 o'clock this morning.

INCOMES OF MEMBERS OF THE GOULD FAMILY

New York, Oct. 23. — Incomes of three members of the Gould family were held up out of respect to the marriage clause in the will of their father, Jay Gould, according to information obtained from Edwin Gould today in the hearing of the $82,000,000 accounting suit before Referee O'Corman.

A codicil to the will declared that if any of the children married without his consent during his lifetime, or after his death without the consent of a majority of the trustees, they would forfeit one-half their share of the estate.

Edwin Gould testified that the trustees had impounded the income of George, principal objector to the present accounting, although he did not think that the action was taken on account of the marriage clause. Half of Howard Gould's income was withheld, he said. It was developed that the Bankers Trust company had held up the incomes of Mrs. Helen Gould Shepard under the clause and of her general liability as trustee. There will never be any question about Edwin's marriage, his counsel stated in answer to questions.

The witness was asked regarding the marriage of his sister, Anne, to Prince Heli De Sagan, now the Duke of Tullyrand, and said that he thought the trustees had consented to it and he also "thought" that he attended the wedding abroad. He would have to look up his records to be sure about his attendance, he said.

At the morning session Mr. Gould admitted that $7,500,000 of the estate's funds had been put into the Colorado Fuel & Iron Co., to aid John D. Rockefeller in his efforts to rehabilitate the concern. Some of the estate's best bonds and securities had been sold to make the purchase, he addmitted. All the estate has to show for it now are the bonds of the Colorado Industrial company and the common stock of the Colorado Fuel & Iron Co., attorneys discovered by questioning.

PEABODY, MASS., FIREMEN WERE BURNED BY LIME

Peabody, Mass., Oct. 23.—Ten firemen were more or less painfully burned by lime which spattered when the water struck it, from the walls of the plaster-board department building of the American Glue company's plant last night. Due to the character of the work at this plant, considerable lime collects on walls, beams and rafters. When fire was discovered, an alarm was sounded and the firemen directed several streams of water into the building, which, on striking the lime, spattered in every direction, causing burns on necks and faces of painful character, which were dressed at the hospital. The monetary loss was small.

OBITUARY.

Col. Sydney M. Hedges.

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 23.—Colonel Sydney M. Hedges, former commander of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston and a member of Governor Brackett's staff, died suddenly last night at his home here. He was 80 years old. He was born in St. Louis in 1844, received his early education in the schools of Cincinnati, and had been in business at various times in Chicago, New York and Hartford, Conn.

Colonel Hedges had been in the life insurance business in Boston since 1879.

Three Boys Were Killed in School Bus

Bus Was Struck by an Interurban Car Near Lorain, Ohio — Fifteen Were Injured.

Madisonville, Ky., Oct. 23.—Three lives definitely was established today as the toll of an explosion in the mine near here of the Hart Coal corporation. Two bodies were found crushed under a five-foot cave-in of slate which had been dislodged by the blast. The first body was recovered earlier in the day.

The victims all were residents of Madisonville.

Seventeen men were in the workings at the time of the blast. Nine of the survivors escaped through an abandoned shaft and the other five were brought out early today.

SENATOR LAFOLLETTE REPLIES TO CRITICS

Grand Rapids, Mich., Oct. 23.—Senator Robert M. LaFollette in an address here tonight replied to critics who he said are contending that he is "destructive' and without a constructive programme.

The independent presidential candidate declared that "the issue in this election is between constructive men and destructive men.

"It is between those who would bring in prosperity through equal opportunity," he said, "and those who would destroy it, as they have during the past four years, by monopoly privilege, which has all but destroyed the industrial and the agricultural life of the nation."

Mr. LaFollette told of his campaign trip through Illinois, Missouri, Iowa, Minnesota, South Dakota and Nebraska and delared that these states are "all but bankrupt."

"There has been no such general bankruptcy in sixty years time. Conditions are appalling. A generation will be required to repair the devastation calamities that have come to those people under the policies for which the republican and democratic partiesh ave been responsible during the last quarter of a century and especially during the last six years."

"The republican party," he continued, "claims that it alone is safe and sane; that it alone has a constructive policy; that it alone can be trusted with your votes."

STATUS OF LAFOLLETTE PARTY IN SENATORIAL ELECTION

Hartford, Oct. 23.—It will be necessary for the LaFollette-Wheeler progressive party to secure signers to a special petition if that party desires a place on the ballot at the special election for United States senator. This opinion was given to L. T. Treischam today at the office of the secretary of state. He declared that he does not agree with this opinion as he is sure that the party's vote at the regular election on November 4 will allow it a place at succeeding elections.

He was informed at the secretary's office that the party must take the same steps to secure recognition at the special election as it took to obtain a place on the ballot for the regular election. The third party petition asked that only presidential electors' names be put on the ballot. The state law regarding nomination reads that "no party designation shall be printed on any ballot at any election unless the party designation shall have been on such ballot at the last previous election for the same office or offices."

Mr. Treischman declared that he was not certain what steps would be taken to put the party's candidate on the ballot without recourse to petition but that if necessary an injunction would be asked to show cause wry the party candidacy should not be allowed.

UNREST IS REPORTED THROUGHOUT BRAZIL

Buenos Aires, Oct. 23.—Following the Brazilion government's official announcement that it had halted a new revolutionary movement, which was to have broken out in Rio Janeiro last Tuesday, advices reaching here from Brazilian points tell of much unrest throughout the country and indicate that the political situation has again assumed a serious aspect.

One of the despatches received by La Nacion stated that "the present situation is as serious in Rio Janeiro as in the rest of the country. Rigid censorship has been resumed, as formerly, and the sending of more ample news on the situation is difficult."

A despatch from Rivera, Uruguay, which borders on the Brazilian state of Rio Grande Do Sul, declares that the border inhabitants are constantly alarmed over rumors of an insurrectionary movement and that many of the Brazilian farmers have driven their livestock into Uruguay for safety.

The Rivera despatch also stated that a number of Brazilian troops garrisoned at Livramenta, Brazil, have departed suddenly for the interior.

FLOOD OF APPLICATIONS TO MAKE HOME MADE WINES

New Haven, Oct. 23.—Robert O. Eaton, collector of internal revenue fro the New Haven district, in a statement issued tonight, said that applications for the manufacture of home made wines are being received in such large numbers this year that it is almost impossible to handle them. Huge quantities of grapes from every part of the east are rolling into the city in carliad shipments every day, a survey by the revenue department showed. Permits for the manufacture of wine are being issued by the New Haven office at the rate of $200 a day, it was said.

Duplicates of every permit issued by the department are forwarded to the prohibition enforcement bureau where they are placed in the hands of a special squad whose duty it is to visit the homes and test the vintage for its alcoholic contents.

TROLLEY CAR INJURIES FATAL TO ELDERLY MAN

New Haven, Oct. 23.—Creighton Todd, 75 years old, a life-long resident of Mount Carmel, died in the New Haven hospital tonight from multiple injuries received when he was struck by a trolley car a short time before. Mr. Todd left home to visit a neighbor nearby and it is believed that he was walking in the car track. He leaves a widow.

"Drys" Leading in Ontario Plebiscite

Vote That Beer and Liquor For Beverage Purpose Cannot Be Sold in Sealed Packages.

Toronto, Oct. 23.—At 11.30 o'clock tonight the "drys" had overcome an adverse majority which at one time was as high as 70,000 and had piled up a majority of their own of 3,053 over the "wets". The vote at that time from 5,460 sub election districts out of a total of 7332, was 444,408 for the Ontario temperance act and 441,355 for government control.

PRINCE OF WALES RODE IN PELL-MELL DRAG HUNT

Hamilton, Mass., Oct. 23.—The Prince of Wales, recovered from his recent slight illness, rode to the hounds of the Myopia Hunt club today in a pell-mell drag hunt that took 60 riders over eight miles of broken country, finished first with a steady seat and then, after a tea and a change of clothes was a guest at the dinner-dance that marked the last social event of his stay on this continent. The prince will leave New England early tomorrow morning for New York from which port he will embark for England, sailing on the Olympic just after midnight.

Looking a bit worn and tired, the prince arrived at Lowell from Montreal in the forenoon. He motored to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bayard Tuckerman, Jr., Sayin Hill farm, where he was a house guest and renewed there an acquaintance begun on the Meltonby Mowbray hunting fields in England.

A hasty visit by motor to the Myopia Hunt club house was followed by a ride through the wods and meadows on Desert Queen, the pick of the Tuckerman stables, to the home of Francis R. Appleton. The prince lunched at Appleton Farms and then the hunt was started. Tea at the Tuckermans', where the prince sat down with the hunting set of the countryside and others, followed the drag. Tonight the prince attended a dinner-dance at Gravelly Brook Farms, the home of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Lawrence.

DAWES WARNS OF THE ATTACK ON CONSTITUTION

Wilmington, Del., Oct. 23.—Declaring the west was aroused and the women of the country generally were alert, Charles G. Dawes, republican candidate for vice president, speaking here tonight, called on the men of the east "to awake to a recognition of the vicious attack being made on the American Constitution."

Mr. Dawes urged the voters of the eastern states "to do your duty in this fight for they'll do their duty in the great northwest where they realize that there is an issue at stake."

"There is one class of citizens that is awake to the great issue, and that is the American woman," he declared. "She realizes this issue—this attack on the Constitution by a mobilization of extreme radicalism—comes close to the home.

"The pin-heads of the political committees have been advising me to preach one thing in one section of the country and another thing in another section, not to speak in Colorado on irrigation as an economic factor in the settlement of agricultural questions for fear of losing votes, and not to discuss this and that thing here and not something else somewhere else. Not so with the woman in this campaign. They are not putting votes above principles."

TUMULTY MAKES PUBLIC LETTER FROM WILSON

Washington, Oct. 23.—In connection with his exchange of statements with Gov. Walker, of Georgia, resulting from alleged charges by the governor before a Ku Klux Klan gathering that Joseph P. Tumulty, as secretary to former President Wilson, has sought to use his office in the interest of the Catholic church, Mr. Tumulty made public here tonight a letter written by Mr. Wilson from the White House under date of January 19, 1914. The letter, Mr. Tumulty said, was in reply to a communication charging that his secretary was withholding part of the president's correspondence from him "on account of religious predilections."

"I beg leave to assure you," Mr. Wilson said, "that the impression that any part of my correspondence is withheld from me in any circumstances by my secretary on account of religious predilections on his part is absurdly and utterly false."

WATERBURY AUTO-BUS ANTI-PETITION IS DENIED

Hartford, Oct. 23.—The petition of residents of Central avenue, Waterbury, for an order forbidding the Connecticut company to operate motor buses on that avenue has been denied by the public utilities commission. The petitioners asked that the line be re-routed. The commission replied that the present line is the most practical and least objectionable to accomplish the object. "Persons residing in central areas must expect some noise in the operation of the present day heavy traffic," the commission finds.

The commission has ordered the Connecticut company to use every reasonable means to diminish the disturbance caused by the mechanical [illegible] of its buses.

FOREIGN POLICY DEFENSE BY SECRETARY HUGHES

Answers Criticisms Made by Davis and Lafollette—Asserts There Have Been No Secret Commitments, and Trend Toward Inperialism—Insists That the League of Nations is Not a Campaign Issue—Avers That the Desire of the Coolidge Administration is to Take Every Practical Step For World Cooperation.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 23—A sweeping defense of the foreign policy of the Coolidge administration was delivered here tonight by Secretary Hughes.

In a campaign speech answering one by one the criticisms made against his department by John W. Davis and Robert M. LaFollette, the secretary of state denied that "secret commitments," had been negotiated abroad: declared there had been no trend toward a foreign policy based on imperialism; asserted that those who attempt to belittle the work of the arms conference only belittle themselves; insisted that the league of nations was not a campaign issue; and reaffirmed the desire of the administration to take every practicable step for world cooperation.

Touching briefly on domestic issues, Hughes said that neither the democratic party nor the independent ticket now expected to win on November 4, and that there were many evidence of a combination to throw the election into congress. He repeated that the democratic organization had gone to pieces in both the east and the west, and said the LaFollette group was "trying to run away," from government ownership and other issues of its own creation.

"With respect to the conduct of foreign affairs," he continued, "our opponents have sought every possible ground of attack, but their mistakes and misrepresentations have deprived their efforts of effect.

No Secret Commitments

"It has been charged recklessly and falsely by the third party that we have made secret commitments. We have no secret commitments with any country. It has been asserted that our policies in this hemisphere are imperialistic. The contrary is readily shown by our withdrawal from Santo Domingo and our constant endeavors, as illustrated by the conference held in Washington of the Central American republics, to promote their peace and stability. We are not seeking a protectorate or overlordship but desire to see our sister republics secure in independence and constitutional government.

"It is charged that this government is engaged in negotiating concessions for our citizens. This is untrue. We maintain the principle of the open door, or equality of commercial opportunity, to the end that our citizens shall not suffer unjust discriminations but shall have the fair opportunity to which they are entitled. With this opportunity they make their own contracts on their own terms. Let it also be remembered that the use of American arms is never pledged for the fulfillment of foreign loans or amendments. Our relations with Mexico.

MAY TAX ADMISSION AT POLITICAL MEETINGS

Washington, Oct. 23.—Internal revenue officials have received and are considering formal inquiries from two collectors of internal revenue whether a federal administration tax should be levied on political meetings to which an admission is charged.

The question arose last night in Peoria, Ill., where a deputy collector declared that the ten per cent. tax on all admissions by the federal government should be applied to receipts from a meeting held in behalf of the independent presidential candidacies of Senators LaFollette and Wheeler. C. A. McDermott, the deputy collector, however, passed the question along to the collector of internal revenue at Chicago who has now put it up to the treasury.

Deputy Commissioner Estes, of the bureau of internal revenue in charge of such tax collections, said tonight that he had yet no announcement to make concerning the statutes governing the case in question. He did, however, cite exemptions to the admissions taxes contained in the tax law, and these exemptions make no mention of political meetings to which an admission is charged.

The law provides that a tax of one cent shall be levied for each ten cents or fraction thereof of the admission fee above fifty cents. As for exemptions, the law says that no tax shall be levied on admissions all the proceeds of which inure exclusively to the benefit of religious, educational or charitable institutions, societies or organizations, any post of the American Legion or the world's auxiliary unit thereon, societies for the prevention of cruelty to children, or animals, or societies conducted for the sole purpose of maintaining symphony orchestras and receiving substantial support from voluntary contributions, or of improving any city, town, or other municipality, or of maintaining a co-operative or community center moving picture theatre, or national guard organizations, reserve officers' associations, or members of the municipal police or fire departments or their dependents.

PETITION FOR JIT BETWEEN ROCKVILLE AND HARTFORD

Rockville, Oct. 23.—Judge John E. Fisk, who last spring, appeared before the public utilities commission as the corporation counsel of the city of Rockville, threatened to file a petition for jitney lines between Rockville and Hartford if the interurban line between those two points was abandoned, carried out his threat today. The judge appeared before the commission today as the counsel for the Hartford Bus company and petitioned for two jitney lines between Rockville and Hartford. The first line would start at Rockville and take in Ogdens, Talcottville, Oakland and Wapping before reaching Hartford. The second line would run from Rockville to South Manchester, touching Vernon Center, Dobsonville, Talcottville and Manchester. It is planned to make seven round trips a day on the Hartford line.

The interurban line, which was abandoned a few weeks ago, ran from Hartford to Rockville partly over the New Haven tracks and partly over the tracks of the Connecticut company. It was ordered discontinued by the public utilities commission after a two and half years fight.

U. OF W. FOOTBALL PLAYER ACCIDENTALLY ELECTROCUTED

Madison, Wisconsin, Oct. 23.—While experimenting in the electrical engineering department at the University of Wisconsin, Herbert O. Opitz, 24, fullback on the university football squad, came into contact with a live wire today and was electrocuted.

Preparations were under way tonight for removing the body to Elkhorn, Wis., the student's home.

Opitz accidentally picked up an electrical condenser while holding a second one in his hand. Six hundred volts passed through his body, laboratory officials said, rendering him unconscious. He died two hours later in the university hospital.

Opitz was doing extra work in preparation for leaving with the varsity team for Ann Arbor when he was killed.

DOHENYS ON STAND IN NAVAL OIL RESERVE SUIT

Los Angeles, Oct. 23.—Mrs. E. L. Doheny, wife of the oil magnate, called to the stand today by the government in its suit for the cancellation of contracts and leases in the Elk Hills Naval Reserve, testified that the missing signature torn from the promissory note for $100,000 was in the possession of Frank J. Hogan, counsel for the oil magnate.

E. L. Doheny, Sr., and his son, E. L. Doheny, Jr., when called to the witness stand, both made formal statements refusing to testify on the ground that their evidence may might serve fodder to be used against them in the trials pending because of their indictment in Washington, D. C.

The note with the signature missing had previously been introduced and the handwriting on it had been identified as that of Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior. The note was made payable to Edward L. Doheny.

The government charges this note was a receipt for $100,000 given Fall in a little bag in connection with an alleged conspiracy to fraudulently grant to the Doheny concern leases out of which Doheny estimated a profit of $100,000,000 would accrue to his interests.

Ernest K. Hill, recently clerk of the senate public lands committee and now assistant secretary to Senator Lenroot, testified that the note handed him by Owen J. Roberts, government prosecutor, was the same note produced in the hearing of the senate committee investigating the oil leases in Elk Hills and Teapot Dome.

Theodore Mack, stenographer in the department of the interior at the time Fall was secretary, identified the handwriting in the body of the note as that of Fall.

Roberts then introduced the note as an exhibit of the government, noting that the portion on which the signature should have been torn off. the text of the note follows:

"November 30, 1921.

"On demand—I promise to pay to the order of E. L. Doheny one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000) at New York or Los Angeles, value received, with ——— interest."

Following presentation of the note, Roberts introduced cattle vouchers signed by Fall and other evidence to indicate that Fall went from Washington to El Paso immediately after the time dated in the note.

J. E. Benton, vice president and cashier of the First National bank of El Paso, produced evidence to show that Fall had accounts in the El Paso bank.

FOUR BANDITS ARE TO BE EXECUTED IN OTTAWA TODAY

Ottawa, Oct. 23. — Mike Valentino and Leo Davis will remain behind in the death cell when their four companions in banditry, go forth to the Bordeaux jail gallows at Montreal at dawn tomorrow to hang for the murder of an armored car driver during the $50,000 bank of Hochelaga robbery.

The sentence of death imposed upon Valentino and Davis was commuted to life imprisonment today at an emergency sitting of the cabinet. Further than to save the lives of these two the cabinet refused to interfere with the scheduled executions.

It was held that the reprieved men had been mere tools in the robbery and murder. Tony Frank, Louis Morel, Guiseppe Serafini and Frank Gambino are to be hanged.

LOUIS KLEIN IDENTIFIED BY HIS HOLD-UP VICTIM

New York, Oct. 23.—Louis Kivlat, one of four men suspected of having robbed Mrs. Helen Heyworth, fiancee of "Dapper Don" Collins, and Alfred Hannon, her companion, in her apartment Sunday night, was identified in court today as Louis Klein as the man who held him up recently and robbed him of $25 at the point of a gun.

Detectives reported to the court that Mrs. Heyworth had been found but is confined to bed and cannot appear before Saturday.

Hannan did not appear today.

Intoxication and breach of the peace charges were preferred against Henry Potvin and Mrs. Margaret Roberts in the police court, Thursday morning. Potvin pleaded guilty. Mrs. Roberts stared at Potvin in a bewildered manner and when the latter told her what was required of her she pleaded not guilty. The arrest was made by Officer Arthur Hurley who heard a woman's screams on Jackson street and found Mrs. Roberts lying on the ground in a yard. Potvin stood over her and both were using the most profane language. A jug partly filled with alcohol and water was found in the house. The woman left the matter of defense to Potvin who said that the woman was his housekeeper and that he had secured the liquor which had made both lose their heads. He accepted the entire blame for the affair. In his case Judge Foss imposed a fine of $10 and costs, amounting to $14.15 with a fifteen day suspended jail sentence. Potvin was placed on probation for three months. A fine of $5 and costs, amounting to $13.15 was imposed on the Roberts woman, in addition to a three months' probation term.

"Bobbie" Fitzgerald, 22, colored, well known in police circles throughout eastern Connecticut was charged with vagrancy in the police court, Thursday morning and pleaded guilty. It was Bobbie's third appearance before the local court on a similar charge. Fitzgerald said that he did not have a home and he reminded the court that since he was 17 years old he had been before the court for various misdemeanors. He was given sixty days in jail. Fitzgerald has been about town for about a month and a half, working part of the time on a nearby farm.

At St. Michael's church in Hartford Thursday morning, Miss Katherine E. Ronan, daughter of Francis Ronan of this city was united in marriage with Daniel O'Connor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel O'Connor of Hartford. There were many relatives and friends present at the ceremony which was performed by Rev. John Dillon of Shallow, a friend of the groom. Rev. Father Dillon celebrated the nuptial high mass. John Barry and Miss Mabelle Barnes, both of Hartford, were soloists during the mass. Mendelssohn's Wedding March was played as the party entered the edifice. The bride was given in marriage by her father. Miss Marguerite Cotter of this city was maid of honor. John O'Connor, a brother of the groom was best man. Louis and Harry Ronan were ushers. The bride wore white bridal satin trimmed with Spanish lace. She wore a tulle veil caught with a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of bride roses and lillies of the valley. The maid of honor's gown was of shaded burnt orange chiffon, trimmed with gold lace. She wore a picture hat of gold lace, trimmed with burnt orange and black lace streamers. Her bouquet was of Pernet roses and asparagus. Some thirteen of the guests were from this city. Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the Bond hotel in Hartford. Mr. and Mrs. O'Connor will reside at 421 West Preston street, Hartford.

At five o'clock Wednesday afternoon, Miss Marion Rafferty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Rafferty of Church street and Rudolph Willrad of Chattanooga, Tenn., were united in marriage at St. Joseph's rectory by Rev. Charles M. Kelley. The bride was given in marriage by her father. The witnesses were Miss Emma Britton of this city and Edwin Booth of New Haven, a classmate of the groom. The bride is a graduate of Windham High school, Willimantic Normal school and Columbia university. She formerly taught in the ... department of the normal school here and for three years past has been doing the same work in the Western State Normal college at Kalamazoo, Mich. In conjunction with its annual home service appeal for funds the local corps of the Salvation Army issues the following budget of the corps for the year: Rent for house and place of worship, $1,040; light and heat $200; salary for Capt. and Mrs. Perrett $1,522; assistant's salary $468; janitor $96, maint. of house and place of worship, $528; officers' sick benefit fund $41.66; mission work $250; officers' travel $200; telephone, printing, etc. $100; Young mission work $105.20; insurance on furniture $25; local debt $50; Christmas tree for poor children $150; winter relief $250; corps band $100; furniture $160; total $5,340. Captain Perrett stated that the corps has an ordinary income of $1,980. The rent item is to pay the interest on a heavy mortgage and for insurance on the citadel on Walnut street.

The wash-board surface of upper Main street from opposite the Jordan Auto company building to the forks at the poor farm is being leveled off with scrapers and patted down with steam roller, by a force of men of the street department, under Supt. John Sullivan. That macadam section of the main thoroughfare has probably been a bigger source of profane language than the oldest Ford car on the market. The continual passing of heavy traffic had wrinkled up the road so that driving over the stretch gave one the impression that the entire rear end of the car was being roughly extracted. The work in question has been going on for two or three days and there is already a noticeable difference in riding over the roadbed.

ACIDS IN STOMACH CAUSE INDIGESTION

Create Gas, Sourness and Pain
How to Treat

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach and not as some believe to a lack of digestive juices. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestents are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

People passing up over the state road north of Jewett City were interested in the flag and staff system, being used at detours Thursday. Some of the older ones recall how the staff system was in use at the New London railroad drawbridge over the Thames. In the days when the bridge was first constructed and was single iron, no engine driver might cross the bridge unless he had the staff in his engine cab. By means of this system, simple yet effectual, no accident ever occurred on the bridge. In Plainfield, one of the detours was through Walter Kingsley's back yard. Cars had to be given the red flag of right of way before allowed to proceed.

Jim Crary's lynx story has just sort of leaked out, and from all viewpoints with the single exception of that the animal itself, it is a good one.

Jim lives in a sort of off-the-road section of Pachaug and during the lynx scare of a recent winter, he prepared himself with heavy armament, so as to be able to ward off a possible attack. Not long ago, James was awakened in the dead of the night, with a blood curdling caterwauling ringing in his ears and coming from the vicinity of his coops.

At this point it is well to state that Mr. Crary is a dead shot, and it is even hinted that he has given Bill Hart instructions, in some of his difficult two-gun acts. Rising quietly, he grasped his trusty arm, and slipping on his hip rubber boots, stole quietly to the coop by an unfrequented path. Sure enough, there was the creature, standing on its hind elgs peering into the single window at the back of the largest coop.

The gun had been loaded for three months, with every night, visions of just what was about to happen, come to disturb Jim's usually peaceful slumber. Careful aim was taken, the rusty trigger finally gave to the pressure of Jim's finger. Then the charge of heavy buckshot, went in one direction, meanwhile Mr. Crary moved rapidly in the other. A shadowy form was seen making lively tracks for the swamp. Somehow, Jim says, he didn't feel very anxious to follow just then, dressed only in nightshirt and rubber boots. So he didn't.

Next day, upon investigation, there clinging to an overhanging tree limb, was the indisputable evidence of the midnight marauder's untimely end. Not for months did Jim have much to say about his adventure. Anyway the lynx or whatever it was, didn't come again. A visitor to the farm recently, was taken to the swamp, and there, sure as shooting still clinging to the limb, is a skeleton of some sort of animal, evidently of the feline extraction.

POISON GAS WORKS IN PEACE TIME

War has no monopoly on the devastation of poison gas. The U. S. census reports show that within the registration area of the United States there were 1,778 deaths in 1921, and 2,039 in 1922, from the "absorption of irrespirable, irritating or poisonous gas." These deaths are in addition to the suicides by gas which numbered 1,401 in 1921, and 1,448 in 1922. The most important gas involved in such poisoning is carbon monoxide which is present in some kinds of illuminating gas, in the exhaust from automobiles, and in the fumes from gas stoves, oil heaters, coal furnaces or other fires, says the weekly bulletin of the state health department of health.

At this season of the year when doors are being closed, houses shut up, garages closed, shops closed up and ventilation of inclosed places generally lessened to keep out the cold, the danger of carbon monoxide poisoning is greatly increased. Especially is this true since certain auxiliary ways of heating rooms quickly are often put into use. When the little oil heater is lighted it is not the using up of oxygen in the air that poisons people but it is the liberation of carbon incompletely oxidized in the form of carbon monoxide. If th ecarbon were completely oxidized to form carbon dioxide such damage would not result.

Carbon monoxide acts as a "poison" in a peculiar way. It does not exert a direct destructive effort, but merely combines with the hemoglobin of the blood and prevents the blood from carrying oxygen to the tissues. The victims die of asphyxiation. The actual cause of death is the same in carbon monoxide poisoning as in strangulation or drowning. It is merely a lack of oxygen.

The symptoms of carbon monoxide poisoning are quite marked, and often come on suddenly in the acute cases. Sometimes the victim's knees give way and he falls down to become unconscious at once. While the onset may be as sudden as a stroke of lightning, there is usually some warning such as pressure and throbbing in the head, blurred sight, roaring in the ears, pain in the stomach, a sweetish taste in the mouth, or nausea. In some cases where the warning signs occur, the mind is so dulled that the warning is not heeded. Pneumonia is a very important after-affect of carbon monoxide poisoning and when it occurs it usually develops from one to three days after the accident.

In addition to pneumonia the nervous and mental symptoms following carbon monoxide poisoning are highly important. Most of our information concerning them comes from British sources as very little has been written in America on the subject. Some of the English authors believe that nerve tissue is often damaged as a result of carbon monoxide poisoning. The damage may be explained as deterioration due to being temporarily deprived of the proper supply of oxygen.

As a result of this injury there may be mental impairment, especially loss of memory, loss of initiative, inability to work hard, depression, dullness, premature senility, childishness and change of disposition. Thus it appears that persons who recover from acute poisoning may suffer serious damage from the accident. A relapsing form of carbon monoxide poisoning is also described in which persons apparently recover from the first effect of the poison, remain in fair health for a period and then develop serious symptoms that may lead to death or insanity.

The symptoms of chronic poisoning due to continual exposure to small amounts of carbon monoxide gas are less clearly defined. Some French writers have proposed to call the mental disorders of chronic carbon monoxide poisoning the "insanity of cooks" or the "dizziness of cooks." The symptoms occur among cooks who breathe the fumes from gas stoves devoid of flues and from slow combustion coal stoves not properly ventilated through chimneys. Chronic poisoning is a constant hazard for garage workers. The disappearance of anemia and headache in poor people who are sent to the country has been explained on the ground that they have thus escaped from carbon monoxide air to pure air.

One of the most pronounbed and common symptoms of mild poisoning is headache.

The prevention of such poisoning consists in having all the fumes and gases from furnaces, oil stoves, gas stoves, heaters, etc., carried to the outside air through properly constructed flues and chimneys. Such fumes should not be allowed to escape inside the house. Then, too, care should be taken in regard to artificial or illuminating gas which, before it is burned, is poisonous in very small amounts. Fortunately artificial gas may usually be detected by a characteristic odor. The gas company should be notified at once when such odor is noticed. It is said that flexible gas tubing rapidly becomes porous so that it is safer to have all gas connections made with metal pipe.

In addition to the danger to human life there is an economic factor worth considering. The liberation of carbon monoxide with the exhaust of a gasoline engine or in the fumes from any kind of fire, indicates that the fuel is incompletely burned and that part of the energy it contains is not utilized. Adjustment of the fire in a furnace or stove, or of the carburetor in a gas engine, may be so made as to utilize a greater portion of the fuel and thus reduce the waste. Careful attention to certain important details in regard to fires in stoves and furnaces will save both life and money.

TREATMENT FOR POULTRY PARALYSIS

Poultry paralysis has again appeared in several flocks particularly among the young stock. The birds lose color, lose flesh, in some cases become lame and occasionally become blind. In most of these flocks the post mortem reveals very little or no worm infection. Some poultry authorities seem to be quite certain that this is a disease of the nervous system rather than worm infection or a nutritional problem. Very little can be done in the way of treating a nervous disorder in chickens, but worm infection can be treated and faulty nutrition can be corrected. If either wound worms or tape worms are present the treatment recommended on the poultry calendar should be given. If the digestive tract shows severe irritation but no worms are present the flock may be treated as follows:

Formula for Tonic; pulverized gentian 1 pound, pulverized ginger 1-4 pound, pulverized iron sulphate 1-2 pound, pulverized saltpeter 1-4 pound.

Use one pint to each one hundred pounds of mash. Another treatment that has given fair results under some conditions is the Douglas mixture made up as follows:

Sulphate of iron 1-2 pound; sulphuric acid 1 ounce.

Mix with two gallons of water, let stand twenty-four hours and use only the clear liquid. Use one teaspoonful to each pint of drinking water. Individual assistance will be given if possible to all who report severe outbreaks of this kind.

As pullets are moved to winter quarters do not make the mistake of closing the house up too tightly. Many of these pullets have been roosting in open colony houses or in trees and if confined too closely are apt to become overheated and catch cold when allowed to go out in the morning. All pullets moved to winter quarters should be taught to roost and not allowed to crowd in the corners. Crowding in the corners is almost sure to cause overheating and colds. — Connecticut Agricultural College Review.

RIDDING SHEEP OF STOMACH WORMS TOLD IN EXHIBIT

A panel exhibit depicting the life history, damages, and treatment of stomach worms of sheep, prepared by the United States department of agriculture, shows impressively the seriousness of this pest.

It is shown that stomach worms, which are common parasites of sheep, are highly destructive to lambs, and often wipe out profits from sheep raising. They cause weakness, scours, and death, and are most prevalent in permanent pastures. Various ailments described by such terms as "paper skin" and "poverty jaw" are caused by the worms. Fortunately, the remedy for the stomach worm is simple and inexpensive. Bluestone solution, properly used, prevents stomach-worm injury. The exhibit describes also the life history of the worms and gives directions for using the remedy.

Improvement in flesh and wool strength and healthier lambs, and earlier marketability are some of the benefits resulting from stomach-worm riddance, says the panel.

Responsible parties agreeing to pay transportation charges both ways may borrow the exhibit for limited periods. Applications will be filled in the order received.

The panel is 5 feet long and 2 feet 4 inches high. The shipping box in which it comes may be used as a table on which to display the panel. One hundred pounds is the shipping weight of the entire equipment.

CARING FOR THE BARNYARD MANURE

There are many ways advocated for properly caring for barnyard manures, but all are based on the same principals. First, manure should be put on cement or some other hard floor that will prevent the liquid from seeping through. Second, it should be piled compactly so that air cannot get in. When air is allowed to enter, fermentation starts, thus causing a big loss in nitrogen. Third, it should be kept moist, for two reasons; first, it keeps the temperature down, thus helping to prevent destructive decomposition of the ammonia compounds and second, it helps to prevent fermentation.

Where one cannot have the ideal conditions he may wish, it will be wise to use some sort of preservatives which help to retain the ammonia and prevent its escape in the air. Probably the best substance in this section is acid phosphate. This material in ton lots can generally be bought for $1.00 per 100 pounds. It contains about 16 per cent of phosphoric acid, which is worth the cost in its fertilizer value alone. In fact, it is a good policy to use it with manure under most any conditions. Fifty pounds of this material added to a spreader load of manure will make practically a balanced fertilizer containing about equal proportions of nitrogen, phosphoric acid and potash.

When the manure is piled, it should not be piled in small heaps, but should be piled in deep and long piles with practically straight sides. If possible, have it tramped down by hogs running over it. If left in piles without cover, the pile should slope in toward the center, so that rain will remain on top, thus keeping the air out. When a pile of fresh manure is to be piled up in the field, if possible, first put down about a foot of well-rotted manure, as this will help to preserve the fresh manure better.

MAKING VINEGAR IN THE HOME

Vinegar as ordinarily produced in the farm is made of apple juice, although there is no good reason why grapes, peaches, or pears should not be used when their prices are not prohibitive, says the United States department of agriculture, in Farmers' Bulletin 1424, Making Vinegar in the Home and on the Farm, just issued. Vinegar can be made from any fruit, or, in fact, from any material which contains enough sugar and is in no way objectionable. Large quantities of fruits of various kinds are wasted each year which might readily be made into vinegar of good quality. The methods of making vinegar from all of the more or less common fruits of the farm are discussed in the bulletin.

Whether it is done on a small scale in the home, on a large scale on the farm, or on a still larger scale in the factory, the production of vinegar is the result of two distinct fermentation. In making vinegar from apples, the fruit must be washed clean, must be free from rotten spots, and must not be green. The apples should be crushed rather than ground. The fine grinding makes it difficult to extract all of the juice. Pressing must be slowly and as much as possible of the juice extracted. From 2 to 3 gallons of juice should be obtained from a bushel of apples.

After the juice is obtained it should stand for a day or two in loosely covered barrels or other covered receptacles for sedimentation, after which it is carefully drawn off, preferably by the use of a siphon, and transferred to other containers for alcoholic fermentation. These containers should not be filled more than three-fourths full.

Compressed yeast is added in the proportion of 1 small cake for each 5 gallons of juice. The yeast should be well macerated and stirred into the whole.

When the alcoholic fermentation is complete the second fermentation may be brought about in one of three ways. The three ways are described in the bulletin. The slow barrel process for the second, or acetic fermentation will be found to be a simple one. Briefly the second fermentation consists of drawing the juice from the first fermentation over into clean barrels by a siphon, filling them about two-thirds full, and adding to the whole about 2 gallon of good vinegar to each barrel. The alcohol of the yeast-fermented juice is thus turned into acetic acid. This process should be allowed to proceed until a strong vinegar is produced. If a good starter has been added and the whole maintained in contact with the air at the proper temperature of 70 degrees F., it will be complete in from 3 to 6 months.

Anyone planning to make vinegar in large quantities for sale should obtain information about prohibition laws and regulations from the Federal prohibition director of the state.

BUY ONLY THE AMERICAN CLOVER SEED

Reports coming from the principal seed marketing centers, Cleveland, Minneapolis, St. Louis, Kansas City and Milwaukee on September 15, indicate a small clover seed crop this season. Rains were abundant in the middle west throughtout the summer and caused a rank growth of the second crop and prevented seed formation. Harvesting has been difficult in many sections due to unfavorable weather. Complete and accurate information on the production will not be available for a few weeks. However, price fluctuations on the large markets indicate a crop shortage as great or greater than last year.

There is no carry over of American grown seed this season. Much foreign seed is reported left from the large European crop grown a year ago. The American clover seed crop has been decreasing the past several years irrespective of seasonal influences. Certainly the situation demands extreme caution in purchasing clover seed for next season's use, just as it did a year ago. Irrespective of general crop conditions, there will be good native seed on the market with a statement of origin and a guarantee covering that statement. No farmer can afford to buy any other.—J. S. Owens, Crops Specialist, Extension Service.

And some people even seem to be proud of the fact that they have nothing to be proud of.

Breed Theater

The Bandolero, (The Bandit,) an unusual picture of love and hate in Spain, directed by Tom Terriss, is the feature attraction at the Breed theater today and tomorrow. The exterior photography was made in Cuba and Spain, and gives the production not only extremely beautiful natural settings, but also a remarkable atmosphere of realism. The story, adapted by Mr. Terriss from the novel by Paul Gwynne, is full of action. It is a motion picture more than ordinarily worth seeing.

Pedro de Cordoba is romantically effective in the title role; Renee Adoree, charmingly beautiful, leaves nothing to be desired in her appealing role; Gustav von Seyffertitz is always one of the most delightfully mean villans on the screen, and Manuel Granado, who makes his film debut in this picture, lives up to the promises made for him. Altogether, this offering by Metro Goldwyn should not be overlooked by any one who enjoys thrills and beauty in the theatre.

William Duncan will also be seen in The Fast Express and the Pathe news and a Sunshine comedy make up the remainder of the bill.

Mammoth Bridge, Whist, Mah Jongg

Much interest is being shown in the mammoth bridge, whist, and mah jongg party which is to be held at the state armory on McKinley avenue, on the afternoon of Friday, November the seventh, under the auspices of the Auxiliary of the William W. Backus hospital.

Coming at this time when the public mind is recalling the sacrifices and sufferings of the past conflict, it is especially fitting to take all steps which may tend to lessen the suffering around us. Therefore, since the proceeds of this party will be used to secure some of the many smaller necessities of the hospital, this opportunity of cooperating in the work of the auxiliary, as well as the social side, will be very welcome.

The prizes which are being donated without individual solicitation, are being sent to Mrs. William H. Dawley of Robbins Court. Already many attractive ones have been given and others will be very acceptable.

Those desiring to reserve tables can do so, telephoning to Mrs. Willis Austin, who is chairman of the table hostesses, of whom a full list will be published later.

Impregnable Bank

A series of bank robberies in southern Illinois stirred the officials of the bank at Millstadt to action, and it was decided to keep the bank's doors locked at all times—even during business hours. Customers are required to rap for admission. After the cashier satisfies himself as to the identity of a patron, he is permitted to enter, a string releasing a latch which is pulled from the teller's cage.

Instead of remaining at the bottom of the ladder some men crawl farther down.

Records of the Day

Mme. Jeritza has recorded Elsa's Dream. This week she sings Elsa's song to the night winds from Lonengrin—Euch Lüften die mein Klagen. With Braslau's reply to her lover from Wagner on the other side—Du bist der Lenz (Thou art the Spring) we have a pair of Wagner's great love songs sung with marvelous purity of style and natural sympathy.

Hugo Kreisler's 'cello unites with the piano, here presided over by his brother Fritz, in two famil. and lovely numbers, Rubinstein's Melody in F with its clear, singing melody is in interesting contrast with the quaint half-droll measures of La Cinquantaine (The Golden Wedding.

Paderewski is heard this week in Chopin's Funeral March and Schubert's Hark, Hark the Lark, an unusual pairing, the more interesting for that fact. Of course, you have heard these compositions before, but notice how the great pianist achieves new interpretative effects, giving the base of the first number the rhythm and quality of a distant drum. Masterly left-hand technic sustains the melody and rhythm of the second.

Weber's Euryanthe is not even a recollection as an opera, but the splendid overture survives it. Rudolph Ganz and his orchestra make a brilliant record of it, clearly entitling the composer to a secure niche as an historic master of his art.

We imagine that a concert based on hymns alone—solos, male and female, voices, ensemble, instrumental solos orchestral and whatever other handling you can conceive, would attract a large attendance. However, we naturally think of the human voice as the medulm for hymns, particularly when we hear Trinity Choir and Trinity Quartet respectively sing two of the finest this week. Day Is Dying in the West and Break Thou the Bread of Life are two particularly appealing records.

Bold, masculine harmonies prevail throughout Peerless Quartet's singing of Where the Dreamy Wabash Flows and Follow the Swallow. Home Sweet Home appears, and there are vocal imitations of comedy instrumental effects.

Aileen Stanley sings Somebody Loves Me, the charming fox-trot song from George White's Scandals, with which is paired a song with a throb of two by Aileen and Billy Murray in duet. All Alone With You in a Little Rendezvous has a coaxing melody.

Tell Me, Dreamy Eyes and My Twilight Rose are two of the best heard, both fox-trots, puctuated by ... nal orchestration and faultless rhythm.

Beale Street Blues by George Olsen and His Music is in honor of the street in Memphis, Tenn., whence arose the indigo effects. Boll Weevil Blues has plenty of provocation which gets into this record by International Novelty orchestra.

The Troubadours make two waltz ... with the strings prominent ... Delaware has celesta effects ... Roses has ... Vienna ...tch

Broadway Theater Now Playing

For the last of this week at the Broadway theater, a superb show of B. F. Keith vaudeville and pictures were presented to the usually capacity crowds.

Franks and Generva in A Dance Revue had an offering far above the ordinary.

Waring, the American Pianist, has a knowledge of music that gave great satisfaction to all.

A bright and capably presented comedy skit called Swanking was presented by De Lacy and Williams.

Al Shayne, the singing beauty, assisted by Frank Donia, goes after laughs and to say that he knows how to get them is putting it mildly.

The three Aerial La Ports offered comedy aerial gymnasts for the closing number.

George Arliss, Taylor Holes, and Edith Roberts furnished fine entertainment in the photoplay $30 a Week.

Broadway

The circus is coming to town! Bigger and better than ever! The most marvelous aggregation of wild animals in captivity! See the death-defying leap of Madame Zaza, the excruciatingly funny clowns, the antics of the pachyderms, commonly called elephants, etc., etc. Peanuts, popcorn and pink lemonade! Hurray! The parade is coming.

Now, don't get excited folks, the circus we have in mind is in the new Paramount picture, The Side Show of Life that is to be shown at the Broadway theater next Sunday. Willis Goldbeck and Julie Herne adapted it from the Mountebank, the absorbing novel by William J. Locke.

Palace Theater

A Woman Who Sinned, the Finis Fox production which opened at the Palace theater yesterday is a gripping story of a woman's redemption. It carries elements of appeal in its pathos, heart interest nd melodramatic conflict.

The story, briefly, is as follows: George Ransdell a Wall street gambler, a rotter who makes life miserable for his wife, becomes enamored of a young wife of a middleaged clergyman. He lures the young wife to his yacht.

Added attractions, Educational's latest two reel comedy Exit Cæsar, Pathe news and Sport Light complete this high class program.

Starting Sunday night Oct. 26, In Hollywood with Potash and Perlmutter and first two episodes of the sensational police serial, Into the Net, with Edna Murphy and Jack Mulhall, written by Richard E. Enright commissioner of police of New York City.

One Tree Sells for $2,500

Perhaps the highest price ever paid for a single tree was that paid for a pecan from Kosciusko, Miss. It is 16 years old and its value as timber is negligible, but it was bought by a nurseryman for grafting purposes, because the tree, which has been bearing nine years, produces such large pecans that 25 of them weigh a pound. The nursery company will strip the tree of all grafting parts and use them for improving other stock.

ONE FRIEND TELLS ANOTHER

The fame of a successful remedy is often spread far and wide by women telling one another of its merits, as is evidenced by a letter written by Mrs. Delbert Bush of Masena, N. Y. She writes: "I was in such a bad condition I could hardly walk, a friend who had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound with excellent results advised me to try it. It has given me back my health and I cannot praise it enough." There are women everywhere who have been benefited by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and gladly tell their friends and neighbors about it.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Needham B. Brown, agent here for several years of the Whitestone Mills of the American Woolen Company, the plant at Elmville, has been appointed agent of the same corporation at their Shawsheen mills, at Andover, Mass. Mr. and Mrs. Brown and their children are to move from Elmville at once. The Whitestone mills have been closed since the spring of this year. The Shawsheen plant is a model mill of the American Woolen company and his appointment as agent there is a distinct advance for Mr. Brown, a successful manufacturer.

Louis Golen, 35, a native of Poland, died at his home in Goodyear Wednesday. Mr. Golen has been a resident of this country for a long term of years and has been engaged as a mill worker. He leaves his wife and five children. His death occurred after a comparatively brief illness with pneumonia.

Thousands of bushels of the splendid apples grown in this territory this season are being picked now and shipped to cold storage plants in Providence and other cities. Apple crops of eastern Windham county have been improved marvelously during the past few years as the result of proper attention to trees, including spraying, and find a ready market in large centers of population. Only a small proportion of each crop is consumed at home. At the present time contractors who buy the apples on the trees, pick the fruit, pack it and ship away, most of it going by motor trucks, are busy in the orchards. The apple crop in eastern Windham county has been satisfactory this year.

For the second week in succession, the Quinebaug mill has been operating this week. Since late spring the mill has been run only alternate weeks. The change to two successive weeks of work has encouraged the employes. While the cotton goods market is not such as yet to arouse great enthusiasm, there are evidences of a better feeling. This also is true of other lines and on every hand during the past fortnight one hears the remark "I find business a little better and promising for the future."

Mrs. Helen Hill Weed, who spoke at the town hall here Thursday evening, was heard by an audience assembled at a LaFollette-Wheeler rally in Moosup Wednesday evening. Entitled to serious attention for her own abilities, Mrs. Weed is of special interest to her audiences because she is a daughter of former Congressman Hill, a representative sent to Washington in years gone by the republicans of Connecticut. Mrs. Weed is a candidate for a nomination for United States Senator from Connecticut to succeed the late Frank B. Brandegee.

Only two political rallies intervene for Killingly before election day. One rally will be held by the republicans, one by the democrats of Killingly. The LaFollette-Wheeler rally was held on Thursday night. These three rallies will constitute all the outward show attendant upon the presidential election of 1924 in Killingly. And probably it is just as well. Find the voter, if you can, who has not already fixedly determined who gets his, or her vote on November 4. No amount of ballyhoo is going to change this.

Added to a stamp collection in Danielson Thursday was an issue of the Irish Free State which came through on a communication to a professional man here.

All the amateur boxers in eastern Connecticut are about to have their day in court. For that privilege, all they have to do is to register with Frank Barber with a view to taking part in a tournament to take place at the Casino here in November.

Black cats, pumpkin moonshines and all the other things that help add to the staging of Hallowe'en are finding a ready sale in Danielson this week.

The contested divorce case of Jessie B. Ide vs. George W. Ide, Brooklyn residents, was on trial in the superior court Thursday, as told in the Putnam news in this paper this morning.

Killingly will be accountable for only a tiny proportion of the $500,000 that Connecticut will have to spend for the special election on December 16, to select a successor to U. S. Senator Frank B. Brandegee.

Two additional officers are now included in the squad of state police at the Danielson barracks, making a total of nine stationed here.

Frozen radiators on automobiles were reported Thursday morning by owners who left their machines standing out during the night. The temperature dropped to 24 degrees.

Orrin Bates, town clerk of Sterling, died Thursday at a Worcester hospital, where he had been a patient for weeks. Mr. Bates was one of the best known residents of the town of Sterling.

There are 2840 voters registered in the town of Killingly.

Walter A. Jansen of Lowell was a visitor with friends in Danielson on Thursday.

Yet to be seen in this territory: An automobile with a campaign marker reading "Vote for LaFollette."

PUTNAM

Jessie B. Ide of Danielson was granted a decree of divorce and alimony of $500 by Judge Maltbie, in the superior court at Putnam, Thursday afternoon from her husband, George W. Ide of Brooklyn. The case was down as a contested divorce, but before the case came to trial there was an agreement as to the amount of alimony and the defense was withdrawn. Attorney Charles L. Torrey stated to the court that should the divorce be granted his client, the husband, had agreed to pay $500, $100 within a week and $100 a month until the whole amount is paid. This was agreed to by Attorney A. G. Bill, for the plaintiff.

Mrs. Ide testified that she was married in Bristol, Conn., Aug. 7, 1889, and she and her husband went to live with her parents in Chaplin. They subsequently went to Brooklyn to live. Mrs. Ide said that her husband cursed her, struck her, choked her and threw things at her. Once he cut her head in three places, necessitating the wounds being sewn up by a physician. After this he left her and stayed away until her sister went and brought him back. Another time she returned from Willimantic, cold and hungry, and when she called her husband's dog from the couch so that she could sit down her husband cursed her, struck her and put his feet on her chest, badly injuring her.

Another incident she related was when her husband struck her over the head with a lighted lantern and threw a rocking chair at her, whic it her, and he threatened to throw another chair at her. One night he asked her what time it was and when she told him he called her a liar and after she got into bed he said that he might just as well break her neck then as any other time. Her outcries brought her son to the room and the son pulled her husband off.

One night she went to bed and when her husband came home he told her she could stay there that night, but that if she didn't get out the next day he would take a shot gun to her. He kept telling her that she would have to get out or he would take the gun to her. Last March she left him and has since made her home with her son in Danielson.

Two sons, Russell and Roland Ide corroborated their mother's testimony as to acts of cruelty and stated that their mother was under the doctor's care for a nervous trouble brought on by her husband's abuse.

Following the granting of the decree the September term of court at Putnam adjourned without day.

The citizens' committee—the group to be credited with the achievement of making possible what will be the Citizens' National bank of Putnam—met Thursday night to discuss various subjects pertaining to the establishment of the institution that they have sponsored.

The committee is concerned now with signing of subscribers and collecting from them the money pledged when they agreed, a number of weeks ago, to take stock in a new national bank that would be representative of Putnam and the communities whose banking interests are centered here and the control of which would be local.

Good progress was reported to the meeting relative to having subscribers meet what may be considered their obligations. The Citizens' National bank is to have a capital stock of $150,000 and a paid in surplus of $75,000. Up to Thursday noon more than one-quarter of the amount required to start are bank had paid in and checks were coming in from hour to hour as subscribers found it convenient to meet their pledges. There is no question at all that all the necessary money to insure the prompt establishment of the new national bank will be promptly forthcoming and that the institution will be a reality within a very few weeks.

Thursday morning, it was stated that some who pledged subscriptions for the stock when the new bank first was proposed have come forward with increases of subscriptions, now that a charter for the bank is assured. Pledges for subscriptions taken weeks ago totaled well over $200,000, and that much more money than that was offered as available to aid in establishing a new national bank here. All the good will that prompted the subscriptions and the offers of others remains.

It is the hope of the citizens' committee that 50 per cent of the amount of money required to warrant the opening of the new bank will be paid in within the next few days That is the minimum requirement. In all probability it will be liberally exceeded.

With the ready money to meet the government's requirements there need not be great delay in placing the Citizens' National bank in a position where ti will function to the advantage of the people of the territory of which Putnam is the banking center.

The new bank will occupy the banking house of the First National bank, under a lease that will run for three years, this lease including an option of purchase, which, it is felt with every confidence, will be exercised in due time.

Banking by the new institution will proceed at the First National bank building while the affairs of the old bank are being liquidated within the same walls.

Of interest Thursday was the announcement that holders of safe deposit boxes in the First National bank will be allowed to continue the use of such boxes during all the period that must ensue between the establishment of the new bank and the settlement of the affairs of the old one.

Putnam has brightened perceptably during the past 48 hours, as the result of the good news that a charter will be granted the Citizens' National bank. The prospect seems to have stabilized the city in a greater degree than anything that has happened in recent weeks. It has been taken as an evidence of a definite turn in the tide toward such normalcy in its commercial banking affairs as every city likes to enjoy.

Judge William A. Maltbie will preside at Willimantic this (Friday) morning at a session of the superior court to be opened at 11.15. Short calendar matters and the assignment of cases will occupy the session hours.

In the case of Metcalfe vs. Manhassett Mfg. Co., counsel will present the application of the receivers for an order accepting the final reports of the receivers, confirming their account and providing for the termination of the receivership in Connecticut. Application of the receivers for final discharge in Connecticut also will be heard and approval sought of an instrument transferring assets to the receivers of the corporation in Massachusetts.

I. S. Lisbor, representing a furrier's establishment engaged in manufacturing in this city, was fined $60 and costs, a total of $70.14, when presented before Judge M. H. Geissler in the city court Thursday morning, to answer to charges, on three different counts, of violating the law of the state forbidding the employment of minor females in establishment such as he represents over eight hours in any given working day. Lisbor was fined $20 on each of three counts. His manufacturing establishment was inspected some time since by a representative of a state department charged with such duty and he was warned as to the consequences of violating the provisions of the statutes referred to. Lisbor paid the fine and costs assessed against him.

Following funeral services at St. Mary's church here at 9 o'clock, on Thursday morning, the body of Mrs. Mary Kenary, wife of John Kenary, was taken to Millbury, Mass., for burial.

Mrs. Kenary died at her home here Tuesday morning. Although Mrs. Kenary had been in impaired health for a number of years she was about as usual Monday and apparently was as well as usual when she retired. During the night she became critically ill and died the following morning.

Mrs. Kenary was born in Grafton, Mass., the daughter of James and Ellen Hughes Jamison. September 24, 1885, she was united in marriage with John Kenary. Mr. Kenary came to Putnam in 1907, and two years later his family was removed to this city and since has resided here. During all the years of his residence in Putnam Mr. Kenary has been employed as an overseer of weaving in a manufacturing plant.

Mrs. Kenary leaves her husband and three children—John, Jr., a resident of Worcester; Mrs. Minnie O'Neill of Dayville and Miss Grace Kenary of this city. She also leaves three sisters and a brother, all resident in Massachusetts.

Following a meeting held the previous evening at the Baptist church, it was announced Thursday morning that action by the meeting on a proposal to terminate the pastorate of Rev. John C. Stoddard had been indefinitely postponed.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Barber have returned to Middletown, having been guests here of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Letters. During his stay here Mr. Barber, a former superintendent of schools in this city, was the principal speaker at a Congregational Sunday school conference at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Arnold. Hidden Treasures was his subject.

Mrs. W. J. Bartlett left Thursday to join her daughters, Misses Dorcas and Ruth Bartlett, at Marrs Hill, Me., where they are appearing on a winter vaudeville circuit. Mrs. Bartlett will remain with her daughters during their appearances at a few towns on the Maine circuit.

Windham County Y. M. C. A. has been assigned 40 delegates to the Older Boys' conference which is to open at Meriden today (Friday) and continue its sessions through Saturday and Sunday. Secretary John H. Corbett of thsi city will be in attendance.

All the schools of Putnam will be closed today (Friday) that the teachers may attend the state convention at Hartford.

The Southbridge High school team will be here Saturday to meet the football team of Putnam High school.

The season's first issue of the Blue and White Banner, the Putnam High schoolo publication, has made its appearance.

Sheriff Charles A. Gates of Willimantic was in Putnam Thursday in attendance upon the session of the superior court.

PLAINFIELD

Miss Celia Israel and Miss Marion Lee left on the afternoon train Thursday for New London to spend the week-end with Miss Julia Lee at the Memorial hospital.

Miss Mary Burke, Miss Helen Philips, Miss Helen Peterson, Miss Margaret Sullivan, Elizabeth Dodge, Miss Nellie Doyle, Mrs. Charles Jerome, Mrs. E. Lathrop, Mrs. A. Buel and Cecil Butler, elementary school teachers, motored to New London where they will attend the teachers' convention today (Friday.)

Rita Jodwin of the New Village, while playing in the basement of the local grammar school fractured her right knee cap. Miss Kirby attended her.

In the public school of Plainfield, the children are properly trained in leaving the school buildings and the fire drills are executed in a systematic and rapid manner.

Donald Burke motored to Hartford on a business trip Thursday.

Elton Nolan motored to Providence on business this week.

Henry Dodge has returned to New Haven where he is employed after spending a week with his relatives at Plainfield.

Daniel Connell was a business caller in Waterbury Thursday.

Many fans attended the match game between the Odd Fellows and K. of C. teams in the Community House last evening. After the match lunch was served. Members of the teams planned to hold a real old time harvest husking party later in the month.

Emil Allard successfully defended his title as the town cue-stick champ against Charles Hyman in the Commun House Thursday evening. Mr. Allard has held this title the past three years.

Miss Yvette Noel is confined at her home, 806 Pleasant street with the mumps.

Cases of the mumps seem to be running through the town of Plainfield as many of the children are kept out of school with this ailment.

DIVORCE IS GRANTED TO DR. HARRY M. LEE

Dr. Harry M. Lee of New London was granted a divorce from his wife, Adelene Palmer Lee and custody of their nine year old daughter, Adelene, by Judge Leonard J. Nickerson in the superior court at New London Thursday. The divorce was granted on the grounds of desertion.

The couple were married on Jan. 21, 1913. Mrs. Lee before her marriage being Adelene Palmer. Their marital difficulties first came to light three years ago when Mrs. Lee brought suit in the superior court for sole custody of the daughter. Mrs. Lee at that time claimed that Dr. Lee was unfit to have charge of the daughter.

The case ended with a court order which provided for both parents sharing possession of the daughter. Mrs. Lee filed suit for divorce from the surgeon, alleging intolerable cruelty but the petition was denied in the superior court on July 21, 1922. A few months ago Mrs. Lee appeared in court and alleged that she was not allowed to see her daughter as had been ordered by the court. A conference was held between the attorneys and principals which resulted in a written agreement between Dr. Lee and his wife, specifying the time when each should have the custody of the daughter.

Following this action on the part of Mrs. Lee, Dr. Lee added another link to the long chain of legal steps when he filed suit for divorce. He alleged that his wife had deserted him on May 16, 1921, and asked that the custody of the daughter be given to him.

Two months ago Mrs. Lee retaliated by bringing two suits of $25,000 each against the surgeon. In the first she claimed that her husband unlawfully assumed ownership of property belonging to her simply because she had placed it in his hands so that he could secure a mortgage on it, and in the second she alleged that she had been forced to expend $19,000 of her own money for her own support during the past six years and asks that she be reimbursed. She charges that Dr. Lee failed to provide even the necessities of life. These two cases are yet to be tried.

POINTING TO COOLIDGE.

The nationwide presidential poll being made by the Literary Digest continues to furnish interesting facts. It has now reached the point where there have been over 2,300,000 votes cast and of that number nearly 1,900,000 have signified their intentions of voting for Calvin Coolidge, or 56.22 per cent of the total expression. In all but 13 states President Coolidge has the lead. In twelve of them John W. Davis is the leader, he having the southern tier of states, while one state, Wisconsin, indicates support of La Follette.

West Virginia, Oklahoma, California, Iowa, both of the Dakotas, Minnesota and Colorado, all continue to show a good majority for the president, he in fact having more votes than the other two candidates combined. By a margin of 19 votes Kentucky goes this week for Davis, who has nearly overtaken La Follette in their respective totals throughout the country.

For the week there has been a fractional gain in his percentage of the popular vote by the president, with Davis showing a 1.01 per cent gain and La Follette a loss of 1.16 per cent, or nearly as large a loss as the week before.

The Coolidge vote of 1,293,378 represents a larger support than was accorded the republican candidate four years ago from the same number of voters. The inference to be gained from the poll is that the country recognizes the importance of insuring safety and common sense through the retention of Calvin Coolidge at the helm of the ship of state.

The plain duty of the voters is to see that this forecast is made good on election day, and furthermore to send to congress men who will stand back of the administration and not devote their efforts to blocking the government and tying the hands of the president.

THE THIRD PARTY CANDIDACY.

When Martin W. Littleton set out to bare the candidacy of Robert M. La Follette before the American Defense society he prefaced it with a thorough investigation. It was not a case of snap judgment. He made it clear that while suspicion indicated this or that he sought more convincing proof, and he was able to present evidence which indicated even a greater touch between the forces of disorder and revolution than has hitherto been done.

It has been known how much the communists desired La Follette for their leader. It is known that Debs has urged his candidacy and the keeping of the red flag flying, but Mr. Littleton has delved into the communist records as they dovetail with the third party leader beginning with La Follette's trip to Russia and reveals the character of the game that the Wisconsin senator is playing.

The relationship between the forces of disorder, the combination of discontents that is backing La Follette and his and other attacks upon the Constitution were all carefully analyzed. It was a scathing arraignment upon a candidacy which had long been planned and planned for the purpose of rallying the radical groups, one of which the speaker pointed out had declared for patriotism as a screen for anarchy.

Mr. Littleton has probably thrown new light upon the La Follette movement to many and there can be no wonder that he was unable to resist the opportunity to refer to La Follette and Wheeler as having the distinction of being the "only two men who ever offered themselves for the first offices of the country who hoisted the white flag in times of war and the red flag in times of peace." Equally pointed is his claim that the La Follette candidacy was "manufactured in June, 1924, by the combination of revolutionary forces which are pledged to the overthrow of this government, in one way or another."

MAKE ALIENS REGISTER.

Bootlegging of liquor is not the only way in which the laws of this country are being defied. That such disregard for the law of the land has resulted in a weakening of respect for other laws has been claimed, but whether that is the cause of it or not there can be little question but what there is just about as much disrespect for the immigration law as there is for the prohibition law. Bootlegging of aliens is a profitable business, while it also lends encouragement to self smuggling.

According to the latest information aliens are coming across the Canadian border at the rate of 300,000 a year. This is in excess of the quotas permitted under the law and the longer it continues the worse it can be expected to get.

Are we going to check this defiance of the law by posting a string of sentries the entire length of the boundary between this country and Canada? Perhaps that will become necessary if enforcement of the immigration law is to be undertaken in that manner.

It is a well known fact that once the aliens, who are prevented from entering because of the immigration laws, gain access to the country there is small chance that they will ever be discovered. They can laugh at the law if they can find an unguarded point along the border and slip across, or can be set down on some lonely point along the coast. Detection is most unlikely, and when they snap their fingers at the law in such a manner can they be expected to show any respect for laws in general?

Law enforcement along the border is difficult, but these wholesale violations simply call for the most effective handling of the situation possible. If it is so that bootlegging and smuggling of aliens cannot be prevented it is certainly high time that all aliens in the country were required to register. By this method it would be possible to place a much desired check upon the wholesale violations.

WATER AND RAIL TRANSPORTATION.

At the last session of congress there was presented and favorably acted upon by the senate the Gooding bill which would prohibit the transcontinental railroad lines of the country from so lowering the rates on the cross country freight that it would put the steamship lines out of business.

There always has been and there probably always will be a competition between rail and water transportation. The opening of the Panama canal has been a great inducement to the building of a greatly increased traffic between coasts by steamship lines. What this has been is disclosed by the large increase in receipts by the canal. Not all the increase in business through that waterway has come from the coast to coast traffic of American steamship lines, but it has materially aided it. The proposed legislation is for the purpose of preventing the destruction of that business which the steamships are doing.

The contention has been that if such advantages as the huge outlay for the construction of the canal were to be given to the steamship lines that the railroads ought not to be retarded in their fight to protect themselves and to offset so far as possible to competition which they can meet in no other way.

On the other hand it has been strongly maintained that it should not be possible to carry freight by rail across the country for a lower rate than to cover half or any part of that distance.

Likewise it has been insisted that nothing should be permitted that will stand in the way of a proper development of water transportation on rivers, on canals and along the coasts. There is unquestionably a national interest in waterway transportation. The fact is that both water and rail transportation are necessary and there must be the disposition to live and let live. There is no desire for unfair methods or ruinous practices, and for that reason the particular piece of legislation is due for that serious consideration which it deserves.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The man on the corner says: No complaint is being heard over a poor yield in the crop of leaves.

It doesn't take long to pick up those few details connected with the operation of the heater.

Even though the grocer who was locked in an ice box got hot over it that wouldn't prevent him from becoming thoroughly chilled.

That's a stinging indictment which Martin Littleton has brought against the La Follette candidacy.

La Follette likes to talk against Wall street, but Henry Ford says La Follette plays Wall street's game.

Decidedly indigestible to the democrats and La Follette are the straw ballot figures as presented by the Literary Digest.

With the increase in the automobile deaths there is some satisfaction that the number of deaths on the gridirons is lower than it used to be.

It is just as well to let it be known that this end of the state isn't lacking in well seasoned timber for the vacancy caused by Senator Brandegee's death.

It may be as claimed that a college education is worth $72,000, but many a graduate has difficulty in finding a market.

The more talk there is about the election being thrown into congress the more determined should the voters become that they are going to settle that matter themselves. Voting for Coolidge will do it.

MAKING UP HIS MIND

Exactly like something glittering and frosted in a glass case, too expensive for ordinary persons—except as they might admire hopelessly!

Young Hartley Weaver decided this point in the instant it took him to cross the sidewalk to Aline's car from which she had beckoned him as he stepped from the door of the big office building. It was a particularly immaculate limousine with a richness of dark blue sheen and a softness of upholstery and a ramrodness of chauffeur altogether irritating to young Mr. Weaver, who earned precisely $250 a month. And as for Aline there was not a change or improvement any one could possibly imagine—her grooming was perfect, her clothes were the exact clothes suited to her beauty, her expression was as lively and sweet as though she were homely and had to work hard at ther job. She bent on him a gaze saying that he was the only person in the world in whom she was interested—but he had seen her look just that way at others, so his heartbeat stayed normal. He could not regulate his eyes, however, as he greeted her and she looked oddly satisfied.

"Hello, Hart!" she said gayly. "Hop in and talk to me while I take you wherever you're going!"

"Can't," young Weaver to his amazement heard himself refusing shortly. "Gotta—gotta see a man!"

"Well!" said Aline rather blankly. Then she rallied. "You can't see him till you get where he is," she reminded him artfully. "Any objection to riding as against walking?"

"Yes, I have!" HartleyWeaver said emphatically. Everything was very clear now. It had all come over him as he crossed the walk. He leaned in at the open door and looked at the girl levelly. "That's the difference between us, Alice," he said low enough to shut out the chauffeur's ears. "You ride—I walk. I've been forgetting it all these months and I've forgotten that eventually I had to get out and walk as usual. Why you—I'll bet you've forgotten how to walk a mile! And walking is just a figure of speech!"

Aline sat back against the cushions very quietly and watched his face. She was casual, yet her expression was that of one moving carefully. "One can acquire new—er—pastimes," she said idly and smiled.

The young man's lips set grimly. "Some pastimes become trials if permanent," he said shortly. "Especially if one has grown soft and accustomed to flowery beds of ease, so to speak! Look at your hands!"

She turned them about, regarding them whimsically. "They're very nice," she approved brightly. "Maybe you wouldn't think it but they have muscles and bones and tendons just like any other girl's hands and they work precisely after the same fashion!"

"H'm!" Mr. Weaver ejaculated skeptically. "Did you ever scrub a floor?" he inquired brutally. Her gaze did not falter.

"No," she admitted. "I could if I had to, and it would be a good, clean floor when I got through and my hands wouldn't look so worse—ever hear of patent self-wringing mops?"

"Mops!" groaned young Weaver, taking in the girl before him. They looked long at one another and something flickered in the eyes of both.

"Where are you going?" she demanded as he withdrew his head from the car and looked at his watch.

Young Weaver straightened his good-looking shoulders and smiled with great cheer. "I?" he inquired. "Well, I am on my way to a self-help cafeteria where I can lunch plentifully and economically. I go there every day because I have to save money and count the pennies. Once in a while I splurge and take some girl to the Pinkstone and spend six or seven bucks on luncheon—note that it becomes luncheon instead of lunch. I can't do that very often, however. No doubt you are on your way there now or to some other eating place where waiters move softly, the tables are candle-lighted and you and the others who go there can have things in aspic and en and au and a la and Pierre sniffs at a dollar tip!"

"We did have good times at those luncheons, didn't we?" agreed Aline smiling. She spoke as of something past and unregretted. She made preparations to get out of the car.

"Where are you going?" demanded Hartley Weaver in his turn. She stood beside him on the walk, regarding the limousine thoughtfully. "I shan't want you any more, Charles," she told the chauffeur. "You may go on home."

There was something touching in her face as she looked up at him, letting him have her eyes full. "Why, I'm going to lunch at that cafeteria with you Hartley," she said in apparent surprise. "I—I'll walk with you!"

Kingsley, the Life Insurance Salesman

On a farm in an isolated section near little Alburg, Vt., Darwin P. Kingsley was born and so poor was the family that all had to help provide the mere necessities of life. There was practically no time for pleasure and books were few.

Attending the district school, a mile from home, in winter and working on the farm in summer, the boy followed the suggestion of the family doctor to acquire a good education. At 17 he entered Swanton Academy for one winter term and Barre Academy for a spring term, working between the terms as a farm laborer.

Passing the entrance examination of the University of Vermont at Burlington, he worked all summer, but when time for the opening of the fall term arrived, he had earned only $45. The farmer for whom he worked loaned the rest of the money, but stipulated that the boy take out life insurance in his favor to protect the loan. By strictest economy Kingsley kept his expenses to $340 the first two years earning part of the sum by teaching, farming and doing other work.

Graduated at 24, he went West. Settling in Grand Junction, Colo., he became owner of a newspaper. He was elected state auditor of Colorado three years later and his knowledge of insurance matters attracted the attention of the New York Life Insurance Company.

Returning to New England, he became a life insurance salesman. Beginning at the bottom, at 31, he soon was managing the Boston office, then was given charge of several states and afterward was called to New York to take up the agency management. At 41 he was made vice president and at 50 was elected president.

Kingsley greatly developed the company. He was elected president of the New York Chamber of Commerce, is director of many banks and other concerns and is among the leading insurance men of the country. He also is director of the University of Vermont, through which he worked his way.

"Many men fail because they never try with all that is in them," he says.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Women explorers have become fairly numerous within recent years, but none has attained a greater reputation in this field than has Lady (Richmond) Brown, an Englishwoman, who has made discoveries in parts of Central America where no white woman has ever been before. She undertook her journey, having been told by her physician, after a serious illness, that she would never be able to do anything strenuous again! Lady Brown, accompanied by only one companion, was captured by a tribe of Indians, whose chief told them that no strange mortal beings were allowed to enter his country. The explorers, there, had to convince the natives that they were spirits sent to heal them. Lady Brown finally returned to England with many interesting trophies from the jungle. Now she is planning another trip with the object of exploring a tract of land where white people, it has been said, can only live for seven days at a time.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

The Parana

Canada has a Kicking Horse River; Argentina has the Parana which performs that way, and just now is indulging in its perennial delta trick of tearing down islands and rearing up new ones.

A trip up this beautiful, eccentric stream is described by William R. Barbour in the following communication to the National Geographic society:

"We left Buenos Aires one cool, showery morning in December (early summer) on the side-wheel, twelve-foot-draft steamer Berna, and after being out of sight of land for hours, in a turbid, muddy sea, reached the confluence of the Uruguay and Parana rivers and turned northwest up the latter. The stream was miles wide, the color of coffee with cream, and broken by numberless marshy islands. The shores on the left were covered with plantations of poplar and willow.

"Next morning we made our first stop at Rosario, the second largest city of Argentina and a notable shipping point for grain and flaxseed. It is located on high clay bluffs west of the river along whose banks there lie huge grain warehouses and elevators which cut off our view of the city proper, with its 250,000 people, a large part of whom are Italians. The water beside the Rosario docks is deep enough for ocean freighters, and the city serves as port of outlet for a great agricultural section.

"About sunset, imposing white stuccoed church towers came into sight ahead, and rounding a great bend we came to Parana, capital of the province of Entre Rios. It is a town upward of 50,000 people, and exports large amounts of hides and cereals; its wharves are equipped with traveling cranes and backed by solidly built concrete warehouses.

"When day came the character of the country had changed. On each side stretched endless reaches of low, partially inundated country, densely wooded with strange tropical trees, interspersed with an occasional 'feather-duster' palm. The wide flood was dotted with islands, large and small, among which the buoyed channel meandered. Camalotes, which the Spanish dictionary defines as 'river plants in South America resembling a floating island,' began to drift by. Usually only a few would be joined together, but occasionally our boat would swing abruptly aside to avoid patches which had collected about some floating uprooted tree to form islands fifty feet across.

"These camalotes make their appearance in the times of high water, being carried out into the current from the adjacent swamps. They always harbor many snakes. In 1905 a great flood brought so many of these 'islands' down the river that they stranded on the banks near Buenos Aires and thus constituted a public menace. Thousands of snakes, with an occasional wild boar or other animal which had become marooned, went ashore into the thickets between Palermo Park and the river, and a large force of policemen armed with machetes had to be put to work killing them.

"By the third morning the territory of the Chaco lay to the west of us, its largely unexplored swamps and jungles covering an area of at least 200,000 square miles, in northern Argentina, western Paraguay, and southwestern Bolivia. Were it not the home of the quebracho, that tree which is so important a source of tannin, the region would be even less known than it is.

"In the forenoon we reached Corrientes, capital of the province of the same name. It is a typically Spanish looking, sleepy old place, with its one-storied whitewashed brick homes showing only blank walls to the narrow, filthy, roughly cobbled streets.

"Immediately above the city the river is very wide, but, thanks to high water, we were able to stay close to the west shore, behind a string of islands. Fresh-water gulls, small cranes, and large, dull-blue kingfishers vied for interest with the alligators basking on the sunny banks.

"Soon we reached the confluence of the Parana and Paraguay rivers, and continued up the latter."

A white cobra, the first ever seen there, has been added to the London zoo. He is five feet long and pure white except for pink eyes and tongue. When angered he turns a brownish red.

OBSTACLES

Now thank the Lord for obstacles, which teach us how to climb,
Which make our hearts and muscles strong and prove the worth of time,
Which train us how to persevere great objects to attain.
Which build in us the stamina none could without them gain,
Which force us to abandon the dull road in which we plod
And thus discover heights of dream lit by the smiles of God,
Which show us how the hearts of men all beat in brotherhood,
So all are glad to help along a man of purpose good,
And give us that most godlike gift of all which bless the soul—
The wish to help a brother who is weaker to his goal.

Now thank the Lord for obstacles from which we learn to live,
Not selfishly, but worthily, to conquor but to give,
To gain that sturdy courage which deserves respect of men
And that diviner kindness which deserves affection. When We look upon life's smoothest ways serene and sweet they seem—
But smoothed and curbed and leveled ways are never paths of dream.
They build no strength, they never give the vision of the height,
The height where one has climbed with faith and won a place by right.
It's only obstacles which thrill and make our hearts respond—
It's looking up at obstacles we find the skies beyond!

Stories That Recall Others

No Frills For Her.

Mr. and Mrs. K. and their small daughter, Ethel, recently had dinner at the hotel. Everything went well until the end of the meal.

When the finger bowls were brought father and mother dipped their fingers in the orthodox way. Ethel watched them. By this time the waiter had brought one for the little girl. Pushing the bowl aside she said: "Don't bring me that; bring me a washrag."

Women Study Law at Night

While university enrollment statistics could tell an interesting story on the number of women students studying law, one school cities its own example as showing the popularity of the law among working women. This one school, located in the New England section, has more than 400 women enrolled in its courses and of these 125 enrolled in the fall of 1924. Many of the women are studying law as an accessory in other professions, it is said.

OBITUARY

Hibberd Denison Bill

The death of Hibberd Denison Bill, 77, formerly of this city, occurred this week at the home of his niece, Mrs. John Rhodes Lewis, 427 South Union street, Lawrence, Mass. He is survived by a sister, Mrs. W. A. Richmond of 78 Prospect street, this city.

At the funeral service, Rev. George E. Lombard of the South Congregational church will officiate and burial will be in East Hampton, Mass.

Mrs. John C. Stevens

The death of Isabella D. Morse, wife of John C. Stevens, occurred Thursday afternoon about 1 o'clock at her home at Baltic, following illness which had been serious since Tuesday. Mrs. Stevens was born 65 years ago on May 31st at St Bridget, Canada, and was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Morse. She was married at Orford, N. H., to Mr. Stevens. Following their marriage they lived in Orford, then in Providence for a number of years and for the last 25 years they had lived in Baltic. Her death occurred on the 46th anniversary of their wedding. Besides her husband she is survived by two sons, Clarence and Roswell, and many nieces and nephews.

She had been an active member of the Baltic Methodist church, president of the Ladies' Aid society for seven consecutive years and treasurer for five years. In Providence she had belonged to Degree of Pocohontas and had taken an active part in its work. A kindly and helpful neighbor and friend and a loving wife and mother, her loss will bring sorrow to a wide circle of friends in the community.

ARMISTICE DAY PARADE WILL HAVE 14 BANDS

Announcement was made Thursday by Arthur E. Story, chairman of the Armistice Day parade committee, that the parade will start promptly at 2 o'clock. As 59 organizations have accepted invitations to take part in the parade, and as there will be 14 bands in line the committee has not yet completed the details of positions for the various groups. This matter is being taken up by the committee and the parade formation will be announced within the near future.

Already there are guarantees of 5,500 in line and this number may be swelled to 6,000. The committee is receiving splendid support from the public everywhere and there is no reason why the local celebration should not eclipse anything of the kind ever attempted in Norwich.

GEORGE GRANT IS RECOVERING FROM INJURIES

Friends of George G. Grant of Providence street, Taftville will be pleased to learn that he is making steady recovery from the injuries he received when attacked by one of his prize bulls recently. Mr. Grant was at his farm in Thamesville about a week ago when the bull charged him and severely injured him. Had it not been for Mr. Grant's dog he probably would have been fatally injured.

Sterling Poultry Wins Prizes

At Pawtuxet Valley fair birds exhibited by B. D. Parkhurst of Sterling made an enviable showing, taking prizes as follows:

Dark Cornish Indian, first cock and first hen. White Cornish Indian, first cock and first hen; nineteen birds competing.

Last year these birds won four firsts at Pawtuxet Valley fair.

At the Rhode Island poultry show at Providence the Dark Cornish Indian won first cock and first hen, special on shoppe and special for best Cornish bird in the show.

Stove Pipe Started Fire

An overheated stove pipe set fire to the beaver board partitions at the Go-Gas station on West Main street about 9 o'clock Thursday morning and the fire department responded to a telephone call quickly extinguishing the fire with a 25-gallon tank of chemical. The wood frames on which the beaver board is nailed also caught fire and there was considerable smoke. The damage was slight.

Will Attend Yale-Brown Game

Arrangements have been made for the members of the Employed Boys Brotherhood of the Norwich Y. M. C. A., to attend the Yale-Brown football game in New Haven, Saturday. The boys are to leave at the Y. M. C. A. building at 11 in the morning and will make the trip in automobiles which will be furnished by association members. Between 30 and 40 are expected to go.

Capital Stock Increase

The Gager-Crawford company of New London has increased its capital from $20,000 to $25,000.

There's hardly anything more useless than a matchless matchbox.

BANQUET CELEBRATES MERCIER ASSEMBLY'S FIFTH ANNIVERSARY

With covers laid for 165 in the Wauregan house dining room, Mercier Assembly No. 12, Catholic Ladies of Columbus, celebrated its fifth anniversary Thursday evening at 8 o'clock, making the gathering the most notable and successful social event in the history of the Assembly. The first chaplain of the Assembly, Rev. W. H. Kennedy, of South Coventry, the present chaplain, Rev. W. A. Keefe, state officers and officers of the Assemblies in New London and Baltic, were guests of honor, and were heard in inspiring addresses of congratulation over the record of the past and of encouragement for the future.

The assembly colors, yellow and white, ruled in the table decorations which were carried out in a particularly dainty and attractive effect, with wide bands of yellow along the tables, yellow bows at the ends, candelabra with yellow candles, and at each place novel shaped paper caps which the members wore. Large clusters of white chrysanthemums completed the table decorations.

After grace by Father Keefe, the banquet was served, with community singing between the courses led by Miss Rosana Peloquin.

Miss Mary H. Maloney, the president, filled the place of toastmistress and welcomed the members and guests in a graceful speech, which was followed by a solo, Zara, by Miss Elinor Donovan, who gave as an encore, Love Is a Merchant.

The Prophecies were written and read by Mrs. John J. Murphy and the History, which had been written by Miss Helen Twomey and Miss Rosanna Peloquin, was read by Miss Peloquin, both being received with enthusiastic applause.

Father Keefe addressed the gathering with warm words of commendation for the progressive spirit of the organization, and calling upon them at times to show an Americanism that is 100 per cent. and to co-operate in charitable work with the Connecticut council of Catholic Women in this district.

Father Kennedy interested his hearers in his reminiscenses of the early days of five years ago and the struggles of the young organization that were now rewarded in its great growth and strength shown at the present day.

Others to speak were Mrs. J. Carroll of New Haven, honorary state president; Miss M. Crane of Hartford, state recording secretary; Mrs. Annie Henley of New London, past state treasurer; Miss Margaret Dutton of this city, state treasurer; Mrs. John Drey of Joynt Assembly, New London; Mrs. John Woods of Hoey Assembly, Baltic; Mrs. J. J. Casey, first honorary president of Mercier Assembly; Mrs. Hannah Elerman, honorary president; Miss Irene Gallivan, vice president; and Miss Mae Riley, under whom as general chairman, the banquet arrangements were so successfully carried out. John P. Corcoran, a guest of honor for the evening, was also heard in brief remarks.

In recognition of the admirable record that has been made by Miss Maloney as president, the Assembly presented her a beautiful basket of pink roses, the presentation being made by the vice president, Miss Irene Gallivan. A handsome birthday cake, in yellow and white, with candles, the gift of the past presidents, was borne into the room and presented to Miss Maloney, who in turn presented it to the Assembly.

Music during the banquet was furnished by Jackson's orchestra, which also played for the dancing from 10.30 to midnight for which gentlemen friends of the members had been invited.

The committees which carried out the arrangements for the successful celebration were the following:

Banquet committee: Miss Mae Riley, chairman, Miss Irene Gallivan, Mrs. Nellie McHale, Miss Maud Quinley, Miss Alice Hoar, Miss Alice Buckley, Miss Catherine Kane, Miss Julia Sweeney, Mrs. Hannah Elerman, Mrs. Margaret Dutton, Miss Katherine Hanratian, Miss Mabel McCarthy, Miss Elinore Fitzgerald, Miss Agnes Bresnahan, Miss Mary Casey, Miss Annie Stanton, Miss Annie Sullivan, Miss Elizabeth Hoar, Miss Margaret Desmond, Miss Katherine Peloquin, Miss Katherine Finnegan, Mrs. J. J. Casey, Mrs. T. F. McVeigh, Mrs. M. Murphy, Miss Mary Hamil, Miss Bessie McVeigh, Miss Etta Ward, Miss Mae Gallivan, Miss Helen Twomey, Miss Irene Welch, Miss Loretta Sheedy, Mrs. Joseph Farrell, Miss Katherine Murphy.

Reception committee: The officers, Miss Mary Maloney, Miss Annie Stanton, Miss Maud Quinley, Miss Irene Gallivan, Miss Mae Riley.

Prophecies committee: Miss Bessie McVeigh, chairman, Mrs. John Murphy, Mrs. Nellie McHale, Miss Etta Ward, Mrs. P. H. Sweeney, Mrs. Elizabeth M. Sheridan, Mrs. Margaret Dutton, Mrs. Hannah Elerman, Miss N. Nagle.

Decorations committee: Mrs. Thomas F. McVeigh, chairman, Mrs. Margaret Dutton, Mrs. John J. Murphy, Miss Margaret Desmond, Miss Helen Twomey, Miss Irene Gallivan, Miss Mae Gallivan, Miss Irene Welch, Miss Bessie McVeigh, Mrs. J. J. Casey, Mrs. P. H. Sweeney, Miss Margaret Kane, Miss Katherine Hannahan, Mrs. Joseph Farrell, Mrs. N. McHale.

Invitation committee: Mrs. Margaret Dutton, chairman, Mrs. John J. Murphy.

Tickets at door: Miss Loretta Sheedy, Miss Maud Quinley.

MORSE SAYS SUIT IS "STRIKE" ACTION

"It's only a 'strike' suit," was the comment made Thursday by Harry Morse, manager of the Noank shipyard, on the suit for $100,000 being brought against his father Charles W. Morse; his brother, Benjamin; Captain Mark L. Gilbert, formerly of Mystic, and others, by Mrs. Adelaide C. Nelson, of Philadelphia, as the result of the death of her son, Lawrence, who went down with entire crew of eighteen when the steamship Frederick sank in 1916. Mr. Morse said he has been informed that Silas P. Axtel, counsel for Mrs. Nelson, five years ago, offered to settle for $1,000.

According to Mr. Morse, who is not involved in the suit, but who was connected with his father in the operation of the shipyard at Noank, the Frederick flew the United States flag and in order to clear port was favorably inspected by the government inspectors before she steamed out for her voyage to Russia. The steamer was in good condition, he explained, and was last heard from at Louisburg, N. S., off Cape Breton, where she stopped for coal. She carried a general cargo consisting of iron, steel, barbed wire, autos and other products.

The ship disappeared and no information has been obtained as to what became of her, but Mr. Morse said he believed she was probably torpedoed or else struck a floating mine.

Mr. Morse, explaining Captain Gilbert's connection with the suit, said the captain at the time was a broker, probably financially interested in the shipment to Russia. Mr. Morse declared he has not heard from Mr. Gilbert in five years. Charles W. Morse lives in New York and his son, Benamin, resides in Boston.

The case is now being tried in the federal district court in New York city. The principal argument is being made as to the admissability as evidence of a message found in a bottle said to have been thrown overboard by Nelson before the ship sank. The bottle was found one year after the disaster.

SOUTH COVENTRY NATIVE DIES AT AGE OF 95

Loren H. Robertson, for sixty-seven years an employe at Colt's factory, Hartford, died Thursday morning at the home of his daughter, Mrs. George H. Phelps, No. 331 White St., Hartford. He was 95 years old, and until recently had been in fair health for one of his advanced years. He was born in South Coventry, March 31, 1829, the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Elijah Robertson. He was the last survivor of the family of nine children.

He leaves, besides his daughters, two nephews, George H. Robertson of South Coventry and William H. Robertson of Rockford, Ill.; and a niece, Mrs. Lillian Beardsley of Loomis, Cal.

STERLING TOWN CLERK DIES IN WORCESTER

Orren W. Bates, 65, town clerk of Sterling, Conn., for thirty years died in the Memorial hospital at Worcester, Thursday, after a long illness. Mr. Bates was for a long period of years one of the most active democrats in his part of the state. He went to the general assembly several times, and was a commissioner of the county during the administration of Governor Luzon B. Morris. He attended many party state conventions and local conventions, and had held several town offices. He was an undertaker.

INSTRUCT SCHOOL CHILDREN IN LIGHTING CONTEST

About 200 school children and their parents attended the lecture in the town hall Thursday evening on proper lighting for the home by Miss Ruth Hill of the General Electric Co. In addition to bringing out valuable information on how the home should be lighted to the best advantage the meeting proved a big help to the hundred or more boys and girls who are entered in the home lighting contest being conducted under the direction of the electrical industry of the United States and Canada.

The meeting was presided over by James L. Case, president of the board of gas and electrical commissioners of the city. Mr. Case welcomed those present and said from the number in attendance the boys and girls of the schools of Norwich must be interested in the contest. The object of the contest, he said, is not principally to give away prizes but to help the children conserve their eyesight. Mr. Case called attention to the fact that because of improper lighting in homes many boys and girls have to wear glasses. One object of the contest is to have you boys and girls point out to your parents where the lighting in their homes is improper, said Mr. Case.

Mr. Case then presented Mayor Milo R. Waters who was loudly applauded by the audience. Mayor Waters said he was glad to be present at such a meeting. The mayor called attention to the value of the city's gas and electric plant and spoke briefly of improper lighting facilities in general.

He was followed by Edward J. Graham, superintendent of schools, who briefly addressed the gathering. In this study there are two things I am going to mention. First, you will become better acquainted with electric lighting facilities. Second, the most important part of the work, you are going to learn to use electric lights so as to conserve your eyesight.

Mr. Graham called attention to the fact that 21 per cent. of all the children born in the country districts have eye defects and that only 13 per cent. of all the children born in the cities have eye defects. This shows that the poorer lighting facilities in the country homes seem to effect eyesight.

Mr. Case then spoke of the conditions of the contest which are as follows:

1. Study the lessons in the Home Lighting Primer.
2. Investigate the light equipment in your own home, and in the homes of two of your friends, and report this investigation in the Primer.
3. Select the fixtures you would use from fixture pages, cut them out and paste them neatly in the proper position on the pictures of the rooms in the Primer so that each room will be properly lighted.
4. Write an essay (not more than 600 words) telling what changes you would make in the lighting of your own home if you wanted to have it lighted properly. Tell why you would make such changes. Write in ink on one side of the paper only.

After speaking of the splendid $15,000 model electric home which is to be given as the first of the international prizes, Mr. Case told of the local prizes offered. They are as follows:

Norwich Free Academy: First $50; second $30; third $20; fourth $15 next five prizes $5 each.

Grammar Schools: First $30; second $20; third $15; fourth $10 next thirteen prizes $5 each.

Frederick W. Bliss, electrical expert of Providence, was introduced by Mr. Case. Mr. Bliss said the contest is based on the fact that the eye is one of the most important organs of the body. After speaking of the makeup of the eye he said that in the United States there are about 65,000 people who have no eyesight and that there are a great many more people whose eyes are of little use to them. In the connection with the proper use of electric lights he said that the white hot filament lamps should be modified by shades so that the light from the filament will not go directly to the eye.

Miss Ruth Hill, a graduate of Wellesley and connected with the Edison Lamp Works of the General Electric company in New Jersey, was the final speaker. With the aid of charts she illustrated how electric lights can be used to the best advantage. A revolving cylinder covered with letters, at first poorly lighted and then brightly lighted, was used to emphasize proper lighting methods.

Miss Hill showed the reason why electric lamps should be shaded and illustrated different styles of shades. She explained and illustrated the difference between direct lighting and indirect lighting systems and spoke of the importance of keeping lighting fixtures clean.

Numerous charts used showed the proper lighting system for each room of the home as compared with improper lighting systems, and in closing illustrated the use of colored lamps and shades showing how different colored lights and shades change the appearance of other colors in the room.

The meeting came to a close about 8.45 o'clock.

The home lighting contest is open to the school children of the United states and Canada.

Any child may compete who is regularly enrolled in a public, private or parochial school who will be ten years old or older on December 31, 1924, and whose work in school shall be equivalent to the generally accepted elementary or high school course of study. The studies may be academic, commercial or technical.

The essay and primer must be handed to the local judges on the date specified by the local committee. The local judges will select the children who will compete for the international prizes. They will then hand the work of the children to the international judges not later than December 15, 1924, the final date for entry in the international contest. The winners of the international prizes will be announced not later than May 1 1925. Each prize winner will be notified by mail, and a complete list of prize winners will be published.

The work of each contestant for the international prizes will be judged for the following:

1. Knowledge of the lessons as shown by the essay.
2. By the pasting of the fixtures in the drawing of the rooms in the primer.
3. Originality of ideas and clarity of language in the essay.
4. Thoroughness and neatness of work.

The local contest is sponsored by the Norwich Electrical league, Eaton Chase Co., McGrory Bros., New York Electric Co., Norwich Electric Co., O'Neil Electric Co., Norwich Gas and Electrical Dept.

The Norwich judges are: Miss Louise Howe, Rev. A. H. Abbott, F. C. Cary, T. J. Kelly, Judge A. F. Libby.

DECLARES AMERICA HAS ESTRANGED JAPANESE

Speaking Thursday evening at the Central Baptist church prayer meeting, Dr. Charles H. Tenny of Japan declared that America had lost its opportunity to influence the Japanese through the abrupt action of the United States senate in the matter of Japanese exclusion. Before the world war he said, Germany had been the model for Japan, but after the war the people of the Island Empire turned toward America, but that friendly feeling had now all been lost, the dominance of American ideals was gone and ill advised legislation by the senate has done an incalculable harm. It has all but killed the peace programme in Japan which the liberal movement there was fostering as opposed to militarism after 1918.

Japan, he said, is not so much resentful as disappointed that the nation that she looked upon as her friend has gone back on her. He stated that Japan had scrupulously kept the gentlemen's agreement that had prevented the immigration of Japanese laborers and that it was a colossal pity that the senate had not been willing to listen to the advice of President Coolidge and Secretary Hughes. Besides other effects upon the Japanese, a barrier to Christianity has been raised that it is almost impossible even for the Japanese churches to overcome.

He spoke upon Japan's double tragedy, the earthquake and exclusion, and related instances of the terrible devastation that had been wrought by the earthquake and fire of a year ago in September.

NORWICH LIONS GO TO MERIDEN CELEBRATION

Dr. Charles W. Solomon was extended the right hand of fellowship at the weekly meeting of the Norwich Lions club Thursday noon at the Wauregan hotel. President George A. Finn presided at the meeting and Lion George Fullerton was the song leader for the day. Considerable time was spent during the meeting in practicing new songs. The club completed final arrangements for the local representation at the Meriden Lions club charter night celebration. About 35 Lions left here at 5.30 o'clock for the Meriden celebration held Thursday night. The attention of the club was called to the regular monthly meeting of the Norwich chamber of commerce to be held next Thursday evening.

There was a discussion relative to a case of welfare work and it was referred to the welfare committee to dispose of. The meeting closed with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner.

ROCKVILLE JERSEY COW WITH REMARKABLE RECORD

Agnes of Meadowbrook, 4th, 365,566, a Jersey cow owned by John K. Kingsbury of Rockville, has just completed a test in which she produced 751.68 pounds of butter fat and 14,796 pounds of milk in 365 days. She was started on the test when 6 years and 4 months old, and has been in the fifty pound list in each of the twelve months. She had been tested as a senior 4-year old when she made a very creditable record.

Agnes belongs to an illustrious family. She is one of sixteen daughters of Pogis, 98th, of Hood farm, 90,942, that appear in the Register of Merit. Her dam is also a Register of Merit cow, Agnes of Meadowbrook 192264, and she has one daughter, Rachel's Owl's Amy, 458,029, which has a record butter-fat made as a junior 2-year old.

Civil Engineers to Meet

The autumn meeting of the Connecticut Society of Civil Engineers, of which Leon E. Peck of Hartford is president, will be held on October 30. The day will be spent in inspecting the Hartford water department's filtration plant in West Hartford and its Nepaug water supply system in New Hartford, special attention to be paid to the Nepaug dam which is 156 feet high and cost about $540,000. The members will meet at the Union station at noon and motor to these properties.

At 4.30 an inspection will be made of the old Newgate prison originally a copper mine in 1707. A turkey dinner will be served at Newgate lodge and an address will be given by Richard T. Higgins, chairman of the public utilities commission on "Public Utility Problems."

Gets His Fourth Coon.

Dennis Rainville, H. J. Gibbs and William Leary of Yantic had a profitable coon hunt Thursday night after Mr. Rainville's dog Rowdy the Second. Although Mr. Rainville has had the dog only two weeks this is the fourth coon to its credit and the heaviest, weighing 20 pounds.

Ellington Wants Dividing Line

Ellington and Rockville are to be more clearly divided if the people of Ellington have their way for at the town meeting Ellington voted to instruct the selectmen to establish a line between Ellington and Rockville, beginning at Ellington avenue and going west. This was not done through any hard feelings, but merely for taxation purposes.

On Supper Committee

Included on the supper committee for the anniversary of Sachem chapter, No. 57, O. E. S., Wednesday evening were Mrs. Herman Stelzner, Mrs. Jennie Rogers and Mrs. William Kramer.

SEIZURE OF ALCOHOL IS TO RESULT IN ARRESTS

Bridgeport, Oct. 23.—Arrests in connection with the seizure of 2,000 gallons of grain alcohol in the East End freight yards on Tuesday will probably be made tomorrow or Saturday, it was stated this evening by federal prohibition agents. Three men are involved in the case, it is believed. Federal agents obtained yesterday a warrant from United States Commissioner Hugh J. Lavery for one of the persons involved in the case. It was stated that evidence warranting the arrest of two others in connection with the case will be available tomorrow.

Manufacturing a Lake.

A heavy blast, fired in the Pertang stone quarries, one of the largest workings in central Pennsylvania, turned the quarry into a permanent lake overnight. The charge blew a hole in the bottom of the rock and struck a spring, which in 24 hours made a lake approximately 400 feet long, 100 feet in width and from 5 to 70 feet in depth. Assistant State Geologist R. W. Stone expressed the opinion that the lagoon is permanent. 25'1..lty'

FOSTER IS STAR OF OPENING NIGHT OF INDUSTRIAL BOWLING LEAGUE

The Industrial league at the Aetna alleys got off to a great start Thursday evening when the six teams that rolled smashed the pins to all points of the compass. Never has so much interest been shown in a bowling league in this city and enthusiasm ran high from the first ball until the last. Each team had its supporters and the Majestic building fairly rocked with their cheering.

The Yantic Woolen team took two games from the Connecticut Co. and in the first string set up a mark of 826 for high team single. The Corticelli team after winning the first string by two pins dropped the remaining games to the U. S. Finishing [illegible]. The real match of the evening was between the two Thamesville [illegible] teams, the Winchester mill [illegible] two games from the Norwich woolen mill. In this match Mike Foster had a field day and no spare [illegible] possible for him, and with 151 [illegible] first string he hung up a mark that will stand for some time in the league. His next two strings both [illegible] the 100-mark gave him a total of 370 for the three strings, a real husky total for the other boys in the league to shoot at. Mike's freak delivery was working in rear form during the first string and his control of the ball was uncanny.

The scores for the matches follows:

MOOSUP WINS THREE STRAIGHT FROM PEERLESS

The Moosup team went back into the lead in the Eastern Connecticut bowling league Thursday evening when the Peerless five of New London was defeated three straight games. Moosup outclassed the Whalers in the first two strings but the last string resulted in a tie game at 497 each. To decide the match each man rolled two games and the combined score of each team conuted, Moosup getting 128 and the Peerless 95. WESTERLY-CHAPMAN GAME AT NEW LONDON TODAY

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, Oct. 23—Friday evening at sundown will mark the termination of what is expected to be the hardest fought football contest ever recorded in the annals of Eastern Connecticut league games. With both Chapman Technical High and Westerly High, scheduled to give a performance on Morgan Park, a more propitious time could not be selected, nor more careful consideration by the team managers. With a prize, first rank in the league standing awaiting the winning team, there is no doubt but all friendly feelings towards the making of each team will be cast to the winds for this game at least.

Never enthusiasm among Tech students could not have been shown over the enthusiasm which was manifested by the Tech students during the past week. Interest is running high as the result of this contest and with every one of the Tech regulars expected to be in the fray a sight such as was never seen before will greet the Rhode Island invaders. The spirit of the Tech team can not be quelled, and the student body urging the team on to greater efforts, seems likely to culminate in a Red and Black victory and the coveted position—league leadership.

The work of the squad during the past week was conscientious and in all ways satisfactory to insure a victory to say the least. In fact there is an intimation that Tech is so confident of a victory that a sort of celebration is being planned at night to wind up the affair in a consummate manner. Only the whistle of the referee is patiently awaited by Tech's eleven hustlers, and from the minute of the first whistle, Westerly will be given all the fight they are capable of handling.

The lineup of the team will be as follows:

Chapman Tech	Westerly
Right End
Aquillo	Capalbo
Right Tackle
Cruise	Brindel
Right Guard
Caron	DeRocco
Center
Martin	Sarson
Left Guard
Pongetti	Sucietti
Left Tackle
Hewitt	Novogroski
Left End
Caruse	Rossi
Quarterback
Everts	Melkle
Right Halfback
Williams	Salimeno
Left Halfback
Brown	Turco
Fullback
Kannenberg	Fiddes

TAFTVILLE TAKES TWO GAMES FROM LAWRENCE

The Taftville team after losing the first string at the Taftville Alleys Thursday evening came back strong and nosed out the Lawrence Five of New London in the next two strings. The scores were exceptionally low for league bowling, the Lawrence getting only 1377 for a total pinfall and Taftville doing little better with 1414. Dugas took the individual honors with 114 for high single and 310 for high total. The score:

YALE VARSITY PERFECTING DEFENSE TO FORWARDS

New Haven, Oct. 23—The Yale varsity, preparing now for its game with Brown next Saturday, had a long dummy scrimmage against the second team today and both the first and second teams tried out defenses to the forward pass, in which department of the game the Yale team showed that it was weak against Dartmouth last Saturday.

Pond, who has been working hard all season at halfback and fullback on the varsity, was given a rest today and his place in the lineup was taken by Kline. Pond is not injured and will be back in the practice tomorrow.

Root, who has been playing varsity tackle since the Dartmouth game, and who was injured yesterday in the scrimmage, was in his football togs at the field today, but did not take part in the practice. The doctors say he will be able to play against Brown on Saturday. His place today was taken by Ben Butterworth.

Some changes were made in the second varsity team today. Wadsworth, who has been quarterback of the third team, was moved up to halfback of the second team. Wienecke, who was first tried out at quarterback, has been shifted to halfback. He has been out of the game for a few days with a bad foot.

FIRPO DECLINES OFFERS MADE BY RICKARD

New York, Oct. 23—Luis Firpo has balked at efforts of Tex Rickard to sign him for a match with Quintin Romero, the Chilian heavyweight, or George Godfrey, Philaseephia negro fighter.

The promoter wants to put on Firpo with either of these men at Madison Square Garden the first week of December, but so far the Argentine, still involved in legal complications growing out of deportation proceedings against him, has declined to sign articles.

Firpo indicated he still harbored resentment against Romero for the latter's alleged disparaging remarks last spring when Luis refused to meet the Chilean in South America. Firpo told Rickard's matchmaker he was disinclined to fight Romero on this account.

Whether his defeat by Willis is an influencing factor or not, Firpo intimated in opposing a Godfrey match, that he was not eager for another mixed bout.

Pending the outcome of government litigation, Firpo will make no definite plans, but if he is cleared of the charges against him, Rickard believes the temperamental South American will consent to terms for several matches during the winter here.

ACADEMY CLASHES WITH STONINGTON TOMORROW

The Academy football eleven has ended preparations for the game with the Stonington High school team which is to be played on the Academy campus tomorrow.

The local boys have gone into practice for this game in a snappy, flashing style. There is no more waiting done by the Academy line for the assault to begin. The boys get there fast, actually stopping plays on the opposing team before they get going. They played fairly well against the hard-fighting Westerly eleven and with workouts of this week to aid them they should be greatly improved.

Coach Aitken's charges are all in fine condition and are fully confident that they will be on the larger end of the score at the end of the game. Busch who had handed in his uniform last week for disobeying training rules has been reinstated by the coach with the promise of the player to live up to orders for the rest of the season.

Practise during the week has consisted in outdoor sessions and indoor blackboard instructions. The outdoor session was made up of the usual drill in the fundamentals and in new attacking formations. Old plays were polished up and new plays were perfected. The team closed practice with snappy signal drills.

The outlook for the Academy is bright and with a large cheering squad to urge the team on, nothing but victory can be in store for the locals.

WHITE SOX AND GIANTS IN EXHIBITION AT LIVERPOOL

Liverpool, Oct. 23—(By the A. P.)—A crowd of more than 2,500 today witnessed the opening European exhibition game between the Chicago White Sox and the New York Giants. The Sox won by a score of 16 to 11. The game was played at the Everton football grounds.

This is the way a British press agency described the game:

"Many who had not previously witnessed a ball game were astounded by the prodigious hitting of the American batsmen, the ball frequently falling into the stands. The play was exceedingly fast, but the smart fielding of the Chicago side was the downfall of the New Yorkers. The latter held the lead until the sixth inning, but the Sox gathered four runs in the sixth to lead by a 7 to 6.

"The seventh inning gave the Sox the most commanding lead of 16 runs to 7, but they failed to increase this in the following two innings where the Giants put on four additional runs to be beaten by five runs. Mostil of the Sox, playing at left field, made some wonderful catches in the outfield. On one occasion he had to lean over the barrier in an attempt to hold the ball.

"Ruel was the outstanding batsman. He often drove the ball among the spectators in the stands. Kamm, at right field, also played a fine game, while Robertson was the best of the pitchers."

The score by innings:

Giants	1	0	0	1	2	1	1	1	3	—11
White Sox	3	1	0	0	0	4	8	0	0	—16

TIGERS HOLD SECRET PRACTICE FOR NOTRE DAME

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 23—Until well after dusk, behind the closed and guarded gates of University field, the Princeton football team went through a long and vigorous practice session winding up its work for the all-important test with Notre Dame in Palmer stadium Saturday.

Coach "Skull" Roper expressed himself as satisfactorily impressed with the Tiger's showing and confident that this year the orange and black will force Knute Rockne's trained men to the most distance limits.

With the exception of the center position, the Princeton lineup has been definitely decided, McMillan, and Bartel are in a battle for the pivotal place and Roper, impressed with the latters performance against the Navy, declares he will only send McMillan into action if it is evident that weight in the Tiger line is needed.

Work today was divided between drilling both an effective defense poser as well as offensive. The coaches feel that speed will play no little part in the game and therefore in talks to the squad this element has been emphasized.

Samual Ewing, substitute back, too, may see action Saturday for if the ball is advanced sufficiently close to Notre Dame's goal Roper is ready to send the Philadelphia drop kicker into the game to place the oval between the posts as he did last Saturday and turned what appeared to be a 14-14 tie with the navy into a three point triumph for Princeton.

HARVARD SQUAD INTACT FOR DARTMOUTH GAME

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 23—The longest drill session of the year with a practically complete varsity squad, marked Harvard's practice today in preparation for the Dartmouth game. Captain Greenough was back at tackle, Edward Bradford returned to left end and John Adie returned to center. All had been out of the line-up since the Holy Cross game, Dunker, tackle, recently ill with diphtheria, and McGlone, a quarterback, whose knee is troubling him, will not play, it is expected.

Special traffic arrangements have been laid down with the cooperation of the Boston, Cambridge and metropolitan district police to handle the capacity crowd of 51,000 persons which the game will draw to the stadium. After 4 o'clock Boylston and North Harvard street, Cambridge and the Anderson Bridge will be closed to automobiles. The Cottage Farm Bridge will be "one way" towards Boston and the temporary bridge below, "one way," towards Cambridge before and after the game from 1:30 to 2:30 and from 4:30 to 5:30. The game is to start at 2:00.

Looking for Games

Team of New London averaging about 125 pounds would like to arrange a game for this Sunday, Oct. 26th, with some team in or around Norwich. Any team desiring to play kindly write to Mgr. M. J. Sullivan, Harrison Street, New London, Ct.

DOLAN WILL FILE SUIT AGAINST LANDIS WITHIN A SHORT TIME

New York, Oct. 23.—"Cozy" Dolan took another step today in his fight to clear himself of charges that he was implicated with Jimmy O'Connell in the attempt to bribe Heinie Sand, Philadelphia shortstop.

In the office of his counsel, W. J. Fallon, who intends to bring suit against Commissioner Landis and organized baseball, Dolan reenacted the scene of the examination by Landis and related his version of the conversation which took place at the hearing which resulted in his banishment.

The former giant coach reiterated his denial of any knowledge of the alleged bribery deal and reassured his innocence of any wrong-doing. Dolan also disclosed that his final hearing before Landis almost ended in blows when he became involved in a heated verbal exchange with the commissioner.

"Landis rushed across the room, pointed a finger at me and exclaimed, 'Dolan, you are guilty,'" the former coach declared in recounting the details of what took place during the commissioner's closeing exclamation.

"I am not guilty. I don't remember anything about it," Dolan said he replied. "We stood facing each other and Landis apparently interpreted my attitude as threatening him and he said:

"If you came here looking for a fight, get out."

After Dolan had been quizzed for an hour by a score of newspapermen, Fallon declared he would press his legal efforts to clear Dolan, restore him to good standing in baseball and obtain his share of the world's series money, he said he expected to file papers within three or four days.

Promising a "thorough airing" of many angles of the case, Fallon said that he would summon Landis, President Heydler of the National league, O'Connell and Frank Frisch, George Kelly and Ross Young, the three Giant stars named by O'Connell in his confession but exonerated by tahe Commissioner. If necessary Fallon said he would call all other members of the team.

"If Commissioner Landis were fair and wanted to give this man a fair trial he would give to the press a stenographic copy of O'Connell's confession and Dolan's testimony.

"It seems to me that Commissioner Landis can't place much faith in O'Connell's confession when he convicted Dolan, and exonerated Frisch, Young and Kelly, all of whom were mentioned by the outfield as being implicated in the alleged bribe.

"It appears that Landis' decision in Dolan's case was based purely on the indefiniteness of Dolan's answers to his questions and O'Connell's charges. Landis, I am convinced, misinterpreted Dolan's statement that he didn't remember." I think Dolan has made it clear that by this he meant he knew nothing about the bribery at all and used this term of expression as an absolute denial instead of a hazy memory as Landis evidently interpreted it.

Dolan said that when he was called before Landis and questioned relative to the alleged bribery he was so stunned by what Landis was driving at that it was impossible for him to make an emphatic denial other than to say he didn't remember.

He said that Landis' stenographer read just that part of O'Connell's testimony to him which involved him. He said that in the part that was read and the names of Frisch, and Young were not mentioned. Dolan also said that he has not talked with O'Connell concerning the charges and that except for the brief time he was in Landis' room at the hotel when O'Connell was present he has not seen the blacklisted outfielder.

THE RAINBOW DECLARED WINNER OF GOLD CUP

New York, Oct. 23.—The American Power Boat association at its annual meeting here today sustained the report of the committee which declared the Rainbow, victor in last year's gold cup race, ineligible for the first prize, and placed the laurel upon the sunwale of the Baby Bootlegger flying the colors of the Columbia Yacht club, which makes the latter club the defender in 1925 and brings the power boat classic of the world to eastern waters next year for the first time since 1915.

Officers were elected at today's meeting, the racing rules revised and other rules clarified in which officers said was one of the most peaceful meetings of the association ever held.

Horace E. Dodge, son of the late Horace E. Dodge, Detroit manufacturer, inaugurated a new race for next season with an endowment of $25,000, the interest of which will be used to defray the expenses of a Horace E. Dodge memorial cup race for the inter-class title. Two races will be held each year, one at Miami, Fla., and the other in or near New York. The dates for the Miami event were set for March 20 and 21 but the dates for the New York race are not yet decided.

DARTMOUTH TEAM LEAVES FOR CAMBRIDGE INVASION

Hanover, N. H., Oct. 23—Dartmouth's varsity football squad with its members all reported in good physical condition, left Hanover late today for Cambridge, Mass., where the green will meet Harvard in the stadium Saturday. Two shifts have been made in the team "A" lineup since the 14-14 tie with Yale last week. Halleran has supplanted Goldstein at tackle in practice, while Dooley has been playing quarterback on the seconds. Fallon has held the first team berth in practice.

happily re-established, are most cordial. The statements, sometimes ignorant and sometime apparently malicious, as to our relations with Latin-America have brought condemnation upon those who circulate them, for in truth our relations with the Latin American republics have never been on so good a footing as today.

Refutes Charges of Davis

"Equally futile has been the attempt to depreciate our endeavors which we have made with gratifying success for the promotion of peace. What do our opponents of the democratic party think they will gain by belittling the Washington conference on limitation of armament? Mr. Davis at the outset saw fit to speak of the conference as 'of doubtful value' and later with ill-judged observations he referred slightingly to the naval treaty which the leaders of the democratic party had acclaimed in the senate with the highest praise. Now Mr. Davis is compelled to depreciate his own depreciations of this work. But he still is so anxious to emphasize what the conference did not do, that he is utterly unable to estimate what was actually done, and his latest utterance on this point seems to me to be the most inexplicable and unworthy of all.

"The president, in a recent letter on navy day, observed that under the agreements we are entitled to maintain a navy equal to that of any other power. Then, Mr. Davis, invoking Ethan Allen, the Great Jehovah and the continental congress, acclaimed 'When did we need an agreement with any power to maintain such a navy as we desired?' Does that represent that spirit and purpose of the democratic candidate? Is that, then, his attitude toward limitation of armament?

"Of course, with our resources we could have built any navy we pleased if we cared to spend the money. Great Britain and Japan could also build, and we could each of us have piled up expenditures for construction and maintenance in a baleful competition in building the instruments of naval warfare. But if you are to have an agreement for limitation of armament, you must have some standard of relative strength. The Washington conference treaty took the existing relative strength of the three great naval powers and based the agreement to stop competition upon this standard. This gave us, as the president said, a right to be second to none. For the first time Great Britain acceded to a definite equality with another power.

"It is constantly apparent that the center of attack of our opponents, with respect to the foreign relations, is that the government has not joined the league of nations. But what does the democratic party propose? Does it propose that we join the league of nations? Quite he contrary. It was afraid to do so.

About the League of Nations.

"The democratic party definitely proposes that we should not join the League of Nations until a mandate has been received from the people through a referendum to that effect. The democratic candidate has accepted the platform and he is bound by it. In view of the circumstances of its adoption he has no moral right to ask for votes on any other basis.

"The democratic platform calls for a referendum. What sort of one? What is the question to be preferred? Does it state the terms of joining the league? Not at all. The question is: Shall the United States become a member of the league upon such reservations and amendments to the covenant as the president and senate may agree upon." Does Mr. Davis say what reservations he would favor? Does he discuss his platform? He tried to perform the impossible feat of standing on it and running away from it at the same time.

"It would seem to be proper to take account of the fact that the league is not an issue in this campaign. This is 1924 not 1920. It is apparent that as this goverament is not a member of the league we cannot act as though it were. Of course this does not satisfy the zealous advocates of the league. This is emphasized that this government did not attend the conference held at Barcelona, under the auspices of the league in the early spring of 1921, on communications and transit. It is interesting to note that the invitation to attend this conference was received by the democratic administration. The first invitation was sent to this government in September, 1920. The answer was given on January 3, 1921, by Norman H. Davis, acting secretary of state, in an instruction to John W. Davis, then American ambassador at London. This instruction said:

"You will state that inasmuch as the United States is not a member of the League of Nations, this government does not deem it practicable to appoint a representative to attend the conference.'

"It is not necessary for me to speak of the permanent court of international justice for my recommendation to President Harding is well known, as well as the public statements I have made in support of his recommendations to the senate. President Coolidge has stated his position unequivocally and it has been endorsed by the republican platform.

Geneva Conference.

"The assertion has been made that we refused an inviation to attend the recent 'conference' at Geneva where the questions of disarmament and peace were discussed. This is a misleading statement. The so-called 'conference' was simply the regular annual meeting of the assembly of the League of Nations and of course, not being a member of the league, this government, was not invited to attend it. What we were invited to attend was a meeting of a committee for the purpose of dealing with the convention on traffic in arms; the proposed convention of traffic in arms has nothing directly to do with disarmament. As we had disclosed our position on all points it was not at all necessary that we should say, as we did say, that we were disposed to favor joining in an international conference.

"We are participating in the work of the committee to secure restrictions on prohibition of opium and coco leave, and the manufacture and distribution of narcotic drugs, in the efforts to suppress traffic in women and children, in the studies of anthra and standardization of antitoxic serums.

Proceeded With Treaties.

"Also ill-considered and unjustified are the observations of our opponents in relations to mandates. As associates in the war we had as equal right with respect to the disposition and administration of these territories. Our right and interest could not be dealt with without our consent, and that consent under our form of government could only be made by treaty approved by the senate. We have proceeded with the negotiation of these treaties. The delay has not been caused by us nor has it affected the administration of the mandated territories which has gone on.

"Our influence in the cause of peace is constantly exerted and it is none the less effectively exerted because we do not embroil ourselves in European political interests. In connection with the recent effort to promote economic recuperation, and the outlook is for prosperous times at home. Every uncertainty that now exists can be removed by the election of President Coolidge."

BIG INCREASE IN CHINESE POPULATION IN NEW HAVEN

New Haven, Oct. 23.—Government operatives, making a survey of the Chinese residents of this city, have discovered that the Chinese population here has trebled in the last 12 months, it was announced tonight. Because of Tong outbreaks in many of the cities throughout the country, city and state police are cooperating with the federal agents in preventing a clash here, which they stated tonight they feared was possible.

New Haven is considered by the Chinese as neutral ground, the government agents said, and they are of the belief that many fugitives from the Tong clashes in New York city are in hiding here. The Chinese leaders here have issued denials that their followers are members of either of the warring Tongs. More than 400 Chinese were found to be making their homes here, the government agents reported.

ATTEMPTED ROBBERY OF BANK AT JAMAICA, VT.

Brattleboro, Vt., Oct. 23.—Burglars entered the Jamaica Savings Bank at Jamaica, before daybreak this morning and made an unsuccessful attempt to break open the safe. They broke through the steel wire door into the cashier's room and scattered papers about but found nothing of value to them. On leaving the building they pried open the front door with an iron bar.

John S. Robinson, cashier, who lives next door to the bank, lighted a lamp at 3 o'clock and it is thought this may have frightened the burglars away. The break was discovered when Mr. Robinson went to the bank this morning. Blood was found on the bank floor and the sidewalk.

Sheriff Frank L. Wellman and State's Attorney Arthur V. D. Piper of this place are making an investigation. The break is believed to be the work of amateurs. Photographs of finger prints are being made by an expert. James Muzzy of Jamaica is president of the institution.

COL. BINGHAM ADDRESSED REP. RALLY IN NEWTOWN

Newtown, Oct. 23.—Referring to the fact that democrats from his home town have often voted for him in the past, Lieutenant-Governor Hiram Bingham, republican candidate for governor, told 500 republican voters at a rally this evening "to go and vote at the next election for Charles G. Morris, the democratic candidate for governor from your home town."

Asserting that Senator aL Follette has made his own platform, nominated himself for office, and appointed his running mate, Congressman Schuyler Merritt referred to the progressive party as "the ideal of Senator La Follette to capitalize grievances, not through constructive, but through destructive methods."

BOSTON POLICE SEARCH FOR MISSING WOMAN

Boston, Oct. 23.—The Boston police were searching today for a young woman giving the name of Edith Berns of New York, who disappeared yesterday from a Boston hotel, leaving a note indicating an intention to commit suicide. A letter addressed to the police was found in her room. It said that the writer had been disappointed in the man she loved and requested that reports of the incident be withheld from Boston and New York newspapers.

The girl's disappearance became known when a telegram addressed to her reached the hotel. It was signed with a man's given name, and said that the writer had "sacrificed all" and could do no more.

BRIDGEPORT ECONOMIC IN SENATORIAL ELECTION

Bridgeport, Oct. 23.—Civic and business organization leaders today volunteered to serve as election officials in order to save for the city a portion of the $7,500, which it is estimated will be required to run the special senatorial election here on December 16. An issue of deficiency notes will be required to meet expenses.

Among those who will volunteer, if desired, are: George E. Crawford, president of the chamber of commerce; T. J. Parks, president of the Kiwanis club; Louis M. Pawlett, secretary of the Rotary club; Maurice Perry, president of the Exchange club; Attorney W. W. Bent, former president of the Lions club; William E. Burnham, president of the board of apportionment, and Mayor F. William Behrens.

ROW AT MEETING OF NEW HAVEN REP. COMMITTEE

New Haven, Oct. 23.—During a meeting of the republican town committee tonight in which there were frequent clashes between the Ullman and Willard forces, Hugh F. Reilly, ward chairman of the 27th ward, leaped to his feet in the crowded room and aimed a blow at Major Louis Ullman. Instantly the entire assembly was on its feet and the two men were separated.

The trouble was said to have been the result of the chairman of the meeting removing several of the Willard supporters in ward positions and replacing them with Ullman men. Reilly, who was one of the men removed, demanded an explanation and a heated argument between the ward chairman and Mr. Ullman followed.

AN EFFORT TO MAINTAIN OLD-FASHIONED HOME LIFE

New Britain, Oct. 23.—Mrs. Frederick M. Peasley, director of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, speaking at the fall meeting of the Connecticut Federation of Women's Clubs here today, declared that the national organization is planning to combat "the tendencies that seem likely to disrupt American homes" and will strive to maintain the ideals of old fashioned home life. She said that the general organization also would launch a campaign against billboards.

FARMERS MUST LEARN FROM OTHERS

(Written Specially For The Bulletin)

As a rule the American farmer has a perfectly good opinion of himself. It might, perhaps, be said with equal truth that every American seems to have that opinion of himself, whether he be farmer or farmhand or banker or grocer or blacksmith or chemist or school teacher or factory operative or baseball player or railroad man or what-not.

But we're just a bunch of farmers talking by ourselves and about ourselves. The subject, thus restricted, is big enough to afford ample room for reproof, instruction and exhortation, without wandering off into other pales.

As I started out by saying, the average American farmer has a rather exalted and highly complimentary opinion of himself. He is hardly a docile creature. Sometimes, he is much more inclined to be bumptious. He is more apt to consider himself competent to teach others than to regard himself as a learner from others. He seems, somehow, to have absorbed the notion that American ways of farming are more advanced, more intelligent, more efficient—altogether more desirable than any foreign ways, anywhere. He rather assumes the attitude of mentor to the farming world. Instead of seeking to learn from others, he expects others to sit humbly at his feet and, after learning his pluperfect methods, go home and copy them. As for himself, he isn't inclined to take kindly to new ideas or new ways. Why should he when he regards the existing methods as the best in existence, if not actually the best possible?

Herein lies one reason why he is losing his inheritance. For it is written that the meek shall inherit the earth. And very few farmers are distinguished for their meekness. Rather, quite the opposite.

Now you and I are both farmers—old hayseeds in baggy-kneed overalls and with fingers crooked to the grasp of hoe or plow handle. Therefore, we may say things about ourselves and to each other which human nature would resent if they were uttered by outsiders. That is why I am emboldened to take the tone I have this morning. You won't take offense at what another old farmer says, even if it is uncomplimentary, as you might if the same thing was said by some city man or college professor.

Whether anything I can say or you or any other human being may say will have any effect is another question. Also it is a question which I little concern myself. Some fire or accident has set a solitary farmer as watchman. It is his business to cry out and give alarm when he sees fit. Then, having done his duty, whether those he has warned take heed or will forbear is between them and their province. He has, at least, washed his skirts of responsibility.

The idea which so many New England farmers seem to hold that we are unusually free, exceptionally intelligent progressively progressive and all that is one which might have had some foundation fifty or a hundred years ago. But it gravely and almost disastrously misrepresents the situation of today.

First, consider our "freedom." In the multitude of more or less crazy laws which more or less idiotic legislatures pour forth annually at the behest of this, that or the other bloc of myopic reformers or uplifters, we farmers are so enmeshed and entangled and circumscribed that our forefathers, who fought the Revolution as a protest against one or two comparatively modest attempts by England to restrict our freedom, if they could come back and try to live under our game laws and our weapons laws and our road laws and our school laws and our birth-to-death licensing system, etc., would consider us slaves in very truth. By our own supineness and the weak-kneed opportunism of our elected legislators we have allowed ourselves to be shackled and fettered in our incomings and our outgoings, till some of us feel that it is hardly safe to blow our noses till we have taken legal advice as to whether or no such action is not forbidden by some section of some paragraph of some law.

In fact, a competent lawyer who had, for his own amusement, made a years-long study of the subject, recently told me that he had never yet met a single man who regularly obeyed all the laws imposed for his restraint. Not that all men were criminals; far from it. But the laws were so numerous, so complicated, so blind, so nernickety and so incomprehensible, even to trained lawyers, that men were constantly breaking one or another, often in perfect ignorance of the fact, sometimes because the law was intolerable tyranny. As a matter of personal belief, he declared that he didn't think one-half of the laws which had been passed in his own state were obeyed or understood or ever enforced.

So much for our boasted "freedom," which turns out to be, after all, just superimposed despotism, tempered by lawlessness. We are, some of us, much depressed over what the headliners term a "wave of lawlessness" overspreading the country. Perhaps, if our laws were such as common people could understand and honest people indorse and good citizens join in enforcing, there might be less lawlessness. As it is, we live under such a fog and in such a maze of intricate and uninterpretable regulations that we can hardly step without breaking some one or another. And, as it is the first step that counts, the breaking of a second and a third and a dozenth comes easily.

In the second place a whole lot of us are convinced that we New England farmers are exceptionally intelligent. We get the idea, perhaps, from comparing ourselves with the off-scourings and out-sweepings of Europe which that thrifty continent has been for years dumping on us. Few of us have travelled abroad to see with our own eyes what sort of men the real farmers of England and France and Germany and Italy are. The few who have thus been overseas and have come back—farmers, I mean—have, so far as I have met them, come home with a tremendous lot of their original cock-a-doodle-doo squeezed out of them. I well recall one who, after only a forty days' trip to Old England, spent almost wholly in traveling over English farms, returned with an almost hang-dog air of humility. "We haven't got out of the A-B-C class," he said to me.

He promptly proceeded to put into trial just one English method on one six-acre field. In three years he increased the dry-hay yield of that six acres from about eight-tons to more than twenty-four tons. Moreover, he kept this up for six or eight years. Then he died and the field passed to the ownership of a characteristic New England farmer, who simply sneered at the idea that we could learn anything from old-fogy and backward English hay-growers. So he returned to the local practice. Last I knew the yield of those six acres was all drawn in in three loads. And the horses weren't overworked, at that.

Another item of our New England farming creed is that we're the most progressive farmers on earth.

We certainly rank ahead of East Indian tillers who still plow with crooked sticks, or Chinese farmers who depend upon wooden spades to turn the soil. But are we more progressive than the farmers of England or France or Germany or Denmark or Sweden or similar foreign countries? Not long ago, I recall summarizing some of the facts about Danish agriculture as set forth by a voyager who had spent years in that country sifting them out. No need to repeat the details. The general effect produced on the mind of this American observer was summed up in his conclusion that the Danish farmer, today, including all sorts, big and little, has a higher standard of production, a more efficient system of management, a more modern installation, and lives in a fuller degree of comfort and attainment than any comparable body of farmers in this country.

Just as one illustration: Fully one half of all the farms in Denmark, small or large, are equipped with electric power. Not just electric lights, nine out of every ten have them. But fifty percent have electric power. Even up in Sweden, fully forty per cent of farms are thus electrified.

Denmark and Sweden, like us, have felt the labor pinch. The work which used to be done by hands no hands are now attainable to do. Wages in both countries are three times what they were before the war, while prices for farm produce have been boosted to no comparable degree. Instead of throwing up their hands in despair and cursing their fate as too many of us are inclined to do, the truly progressive farmers of Denmark called in the aid of electric power and electric appliances, whether on dairy farms or bacon-raising piggeries or vegetable or grain fields—and accually increased their output. If the mountain wouldn't come to Mahomet, these Mahomets calmly went to the mountain and anexed it. At last available reports the electric motors already installed on Danish farms represented power equal to the work of two million men. And more were being put in, daily. Meantime, where's New England?

Now, it is very comfortable to have and hold a simply gorgeous opinion of one's own intelligence and progressiveness. The man who is able to say on all occasions and with perfect self-confidence: "I am Sir Oracle, and when I ope my lips let no dog bark."—that man certainly must glow all over with self-satisfaction. But the real question in farming is not one of self-satisfaction; it is one of profitable production. If our overweening confidence in our own progressiveness leads us to overlook the steps of actual progress, whose fault is it if we fall into second rank? Whose fault it is if the other fellow, less conceited but more observing and up-to-date, takes precedence of us?

When the 2,000-years-old fields of Germany produce bigger crops of potatoes and beets, etc., than our newest and richest soils; when the even older lands of Italy beat us all hollow in the output of fruits and vegetables; when Danish farmers, living on a bleak and thin-soiled sort of sore thumb sticking out into the windy North sea, can outstrip us in the same sort of products in which New England might be expected to specialize,—why, then, it seems to me it's high time for us to stop patting ourselves on the back and begin scratching our heads to see if we can stimulate the gray matter within.

The simple truth is that we've been fed up on buncombe. We're had politicians and office-seekers and "labor" agitators and other demagogues soft-soap and beslobber us so long and so profusely that we've, some of us, got swelled heads.

Swelled biceps and effervescent brains would be of more practical value.

In his famous poem James Russell Lowell covered the farm situation, as well as the political, when he wrote:

"New occasions teach new duties;
Time makes ancient good uncouth;
They must upward still, and onward,
Who would keep abreast of Truth;
Lo, before us gleam her camp-fires!

Not behind us; not in some past time when, perhaps, we may have been in the foremost files. It will not be by reminiscing over what used to be or how we used to lead that we shall regain the vanguard, but by a true and forceful progressiveness which, do not forget, always begins with and founds itself upon eagerness to learn.

The very first step towards such true progressiveness is the candid and humble admission that we have much to find out and that there are others competent to teach. We have got to disabuse our minds of the idea that we are the salt of the earth and its only salt.

If you think I really like writing after this fashion, you've got another think coming. I don't enjoy rubbing a cat's fur the wrong way. But, sometimes, that's the only means of getting at the fleas hidden in it.

THE FARMER.

The October meeting of the auxiliary of the Woman's Home Missionary society was held at the home of Mrs. Monett A. Lawson in the Long Cove section, Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. Lawson arranged the program. The president, Mrs. W. D. Woodward, presided. The meteing opened with singing hymn, Consecration, Mrs. Lawson at the piano; scripture reading and prayer by Mrs. Woodward, closing with the Lord's prayer, in unison. The secretary, Mrs. Fanny A. Molthrop read the roll call and minutes of the last meeting. The first chapter in the book, Adventures in Brotherhood, was read in paragraphs by Mrs. Woodward, Mrs. Carl B. Lawson, Mrs. Molthrop and Mrs. R. Irving Hurlbutt. A poem, The Ideal City, was read by Mrs. Lucy A. Hurlbutt. A mission story, It Is My Work—Mine, was by Mrs. Henry W. Hurlbutt. The enigmas were conducted by Mrs. J. A. Birch and Mrs. Lawson gave the enigma numbers, attached to small Hallowe'en favors of black cats, or black owls. After adjournment a social hour followed and the hostess served cheese sandwiches wafers, cake and tea. Mrs. Lawson was assisted in serving by Mrs. Carl B. Lawson and the former's daughters, Misses Marjorie Gates and Virginia Lawson, Mrs. R. Irving Hurlbutt and Mrs. Carl B. Lawson provied transportation for those who rode.

At a court held at the Country club late Tuesday afternoon before Justice of the Peace Walter M. Buckingham and Grand Juror Allen Shaw Bush, Max Schuman, of Ledyard, arrested by the state police, was charged with manufacturing liquor contrary to law. Schuiman was fined $100 and costs, amounting to $114.95. A still and about a quart of moonshine was brought into court as evidence. As Schulman was without funds he was taken to the New London county jail.

Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham, the chairman of the auxiliaries of the Norwich Red Cross, attended a meeting of the board of directors in that city Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Chester E. Dimick of Gales Ferry was at a conference of the associates, of the New Haven branch of the Girls' Friendly Society at St. Paul's parish house, New Haven, on Thursday evening. Mrs. Dimick is attending the thirty-first annual meeting of this society in Danbury today (Friday) and Saturday.

Fred E. Richards of Long Cove, who, while picking apples, at his farm, suffered four broken ribs and was taken to the Home Memorial hospital, New London, about three weeks ago, is making favorable improvement toward recovery.

Rev. and Mrs. Truman H. Woodward of Wapping, who were married in September, motored here Monday and were guests of the former's parents, Rev. and Mrs. W. D. Woodward.

Rev. and Mrs. J. B. Ackley of Burnside, who have been guests this week of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Colver at the submarine base, returned Tuesday. Rev. Mr. Ackley was a former pastor of Gales Ferry M. E. church.

Randolph Mathewson of Pittsfield, Mass., is a guest of his sister, Miss Susan Mathewson.

Mrs. Charles Hoyt and brother Willard Maynard of New York, who has been spending a few weeks here, with her, have sold their house in the village, the home of their mother, to late Mrs. Lydia S. Maynard, to Walter T. Clark of Norwich, county agent of the farm bureau, and have moved their household goods to the cottage of Stephen H. Norman. Mr. Clark is to have improvements made in the house before occupying the place.

Motor parties, recently calling at the home of Mrs. Fred E. Richards at Long Cove, included Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Yerrington of Norwich and Mrs. Allen Penhallow, and daughter, Miss Susan Penhallow, with a friend from New London.

Mrs. and Mrs. Harmon L. Perkins and daughter, Mrs J. A. Birch of the village with Mrs. Stephen Perkins of Brier Hill, were guests of Mrs. Perkins' brother, Edgar I. Chapman of Groton, on an automobile trip to Point Judith this week.

There are no sessions of the schools today (Friday) that the teachers, Miss Evelyn E. Whipple and Mrs. Rufus W. Hurlbutt may attend the New London session of the state teachers' convention.

At a meeting Friday evening of Ledyard grange from this section Mr. and Mrs. Avery Main, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Davison, with Mrs. Samuel L. Lester joined the grange. Local members attending were Mr. and Mrs. R. Irving Hurlbutt, Mrs. Alton Stoddard and Miss Mabel Smith. A surprise observance of the birthday of Overseer Billings T. Avery was a feature when Mr. Avery received a birthday cake and other gifts.

The Men's Pinochle club of Gales Ferry held its first meeting of the season at the Country club Wednesday evening.

Frank W. Brewster of Norwich was a visitor, Wednesday, at Rose Lawn farm, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Latham E. Smith.

Don't let constipation make you an invalid —relieve it with Kellogg's Bran

Few people realize how dangerous is constipation until this dread disease tears down their health. Did you know that more than forty serious diseases can be traced to constipation?

Keep your health, or restore it, with Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled. It brings relief in mild and chronic cases of constipation. It is effective because it is ALL bran. That is why it is recommended so highly by doctors. They know that only ALL bran can bring 100 per cent results. Part bran is, at best, only a halfway measure.

If eaten regularly, Kellogg's Bran will bring permanent relief—even in the most chronic case. It is guaranteed to do so. If it fails, your grocer will return your money.

Because it is ALL bran it sweeps, cleans and purifies the intestine. Like nature, it acts naturally. It makes the intestine function regularly.

Eat it every day—two tablespoonfuls—in chronic cases, with every meal. Eat it with milk or cream. Sprinkle it over other cereals. Cook it with hot cereals. Enjoy it in those wonderful recipes given on every package.

The flavor of Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is delicious. It is crisp, nut-like. Quite different from ordinary brans, which are so unpalatable. Kellogg's Bran is made in Battle Creek and served by the leading hotels and clubs everywhere. Sold by all grocers.

Melodious Instrumental

Euryanthe—Overture, Part 1 (Weber) / Euryanthe—Overture, Part 2	Rudolph Ganz and St. Louis Symphony Orch.	55229	1.50

Weber's Euryanthe, as an opera, has been almost forgotten; but the splendid musicianly overture remains.

Sacred Selections

Day is Dying in the West / Break Thou the Bread of Life	Trinity Choir / Trinity Quartet	19417	.75

The hymn—perhaps the deepest expression, in music, of the human spirit—is rarely sung so beautifully as here.

Light Vocal Selections

Somebody Loves Me (from "Geo. White's Scandals") / All Alone With You in a Little Rendezvous	Aileen Stanley / Aileen Stanley-Billy Murray	19454	.75

A charming fox trot song and a duet of the "heart appeal" type with excellent vocal harmonies.

Where the Dreamy Wabash Flows / Follow the Swallow	Peerless Quartet / Peerless Quartet	19455	.75

Popular male quartets, with comedy musical effects. Admirably sung, with bold, masculine harmonies.

Dance Records

Tell Me Dreamy Eyes—Fox Trot / My Twilight Rose—Fox Trot (from "Marjorie")	Paul Whiteman and His Orchestra	19456	.75

Typical Whiteman dance numbers—unusual orchestration, interesting novelties and faultless dance rhythm.

Dreamy Delaware—Waltz / June Brought the Roses—Waltz	The Troubadours / The Troubadours	19458	.75

Waltzes with the desired string tone prominent. The first has celesta effects; the second bits of "Vienna catch."

Beale Street Blues—Fox Trot / Boll Weevil Blues—Fox Trot	George Olsen and His Music / International Novelty Orch.	19457	.75

Blues fox trots in the genuine Simon-pure, lower Mississippi manner. The second has a weird vocal refrain.

The cultivated strawberries now grown in Europe and America owe their size to their Chilean ancestors. Up to 1714 large fruited strawberries were not known in Europe, the native berries being small but of good flavor. In that year a Frenchman brought plants from Chile. These were crossed with native varieties and with the Virginia strawberry introduced into Europe early in the previous century. By this crossing plants were developed which combined large size with delicate flavor.

WESTERLY

Miss Elizabeth Lena of Westerly and Misses Viola and Janet Stillman of Pawcatuck were visitors in Providence Thursday.

Mrs. Harry B. Agard of Westerly was in East Greenwich, R. I., Thursday and visited the public schools.

The public schools of Pawcatuck as well as other public schools in the town of Stonington were closed on Thursday to give the teachers an opportunity to visit other public schools. Many Stonington teachers went to New London to visit the public schools in that place. Today (Friday) the Stonington schools will be closed for another day for the teachers' state convention at New London.

A regular session of the Third district court, Judge Michael J. Turano, will be held in the district court rooms this (Friday) morning. For the past few weeks sessions of the Washington county superior court have conflicted with the district court and cases have bene put over. Although no cases were tried last week some cases are marked for trial this Friday on the court calendar.

Officer George H. Champlin was in Stonington borough Thursday morning.

A wedding of interest to Westerly and Hopkinton people was that which took place at 40 Linden street, Schenectady, N. Y., the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur D. Fox, Saturday afternoon, Oct. 18 at 4.30, when their daughter, Edna Gladys, was united in marriage with Francis Pierce Brightman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter P. Brightman of Westerly, by Rev. Gordon H. Baker, pastor of the First Baptist church of Schenectady. The double ring service was used.

While the wedding march from Lohengrin was played by Mrs. Otto Selke, the sister of the bride, two tiny nieces, Misses June Selke and Virginia Fox, carrying baskets of sweetheart roses and maiden hair ferns, headed the bridal procession. The maid of honor, Miss Alexis Flemming, followed. Then came the bridesmaid, Miss Edith Lovejoy, the groom's best man, Spencer Fox, a brother of the bride. The bride followed unattended. The bride followed unattended. They were met under a bower of smilax in the bay window of the living room by the minister, groom and best man, who was Hugh R. McKean of Houston, Tex.

The bride wore white canton crepe, a tulle veil trimmed with orange blossoms and carried Ophelia roses with showers of lilies of the valley. The maid of honor wore powder blue canton crepe and carried yellow roses, and the bridesmaid was in yellow canton crepe and carried pink roses. The bride's traveling dress was powder blue satin-back crepe.

The house was decorated with smilax, ferns and white chrysanthemums. A lunch was served to the guests after which Mr. and Mrs. Brightman started on a short wedding trip.

Mrs. Cavalier sang O, Promise Me at the beginning and I Love You Dearly, at the end of the ceremony.

Stolen and not heard from for a week, a Buick coupe owned by Dr. Thomas E. Robinson of 92 High street, which was stolen in New London a week ago Tuesday night, where Dr. Robinson was stending a Knight Templar banquet, has been located in Rye, N. Y. Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown of this town received a communication from Robert W. Johnston of the Automobile Underwriters' Detective bureau at police headquarters in Providence, stating that a Buick coupe bearing the Rhode Island registration number 3016 had been reported abandoned by Chief of Police William H. Balls, of Rye.

Chief Brown had telephone communication with Chief Balls Thursday afternoon and was informed that the coupe had been found abandoned in Rye, but is in good condition. An overcoat and hat which were left in the machine at New London were still in the car.

It is the opinion of the police that the car was stolen by parties who were desirous of getting out of the Whaling City and after reaching Rye decided to abandon the maching. No attempt was made to disfigure the number plates or otherwise change the appearance.

With many relatives and friends assembled, Miss Mary Elizabeth Cowell of 450 Cambridge street, Fall River, Mass., and Joseph Henry O'Keefe, son of Mr. and Mrs. William O'Keefe of Richmond street, Westerly, were united in marriage Monday morning at Sts. Peter And Paul church in Fall River, by the pastor, Rev. Fr. Kelly. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Reva Cowell and David O'Keefe of Westerly, a brother of the groom, was best man.

Following the ceremony at the church, a reception was held at the home of the bride's father for about 100 guests.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Keefe are on a wedding trip to New York. Upon their return, they will make their home on Stillman avenue, Westerly.

The eleventh annual roll call and get-together of the First Baptist church was held Wednesday evening, about 200 being present.

A. G. Martin presided and addresses were made by Rev. J. G. Osborne of Mystic and Rev. Byron U. Hatfield, pastor of the local church. Rev. Mr. Osborne stressed the individual member's responsibility to the church.

Following the business meeting refreshments were served. The evening's program was as follows: Singing of hymn No. 128; prayer by Pastor Hatfield; anthem by the choir; address of welcome, A. G. Martin, chairman; trio by the choir; address by Rev. J. J. Osborne of Mystic; solo, Miss Alice Boss; address by Rev. B. U. Hatfield; singing of hymn No. 134; social hour and refreshments.

At the Broad Street Christian church, Wednesday evening, in the church parlors, was held the annual roll call and reunion, at which 123 responses were received. The tables had been prepared by the Ladies' Aid society and a hot roast beef supper was served to the members and their friends at 6.30. Later the roll of the members was called and the following officers chosen: President, Chas. M. Kebbe; vice president, Charles H. Ledward; clerk, Samuel Girven; treasurer, Orlando R Smith; trustees for three years, William Grant and Edward Card.

The reports of the officers proved the church to be in a healthy condition, the several organizations connected with it reporting progress. There was a musical program and remarks by the officers and brief addresses were made.

OBITUARY

Oren W. Bates

Sterling, Oct. 23—Oren W. Bates, 6... town clerk for thirty years, died in the Memorial Hospital at Worcester today after a long illness. Mr. Bates was for a long period of years one of the most active democrats in this part of the state. He went to the general assembly several times, and was a commissioner of the county during the administration of Governor Luzon B. Morris. He attended many party state conventions and local conventions and had held several town offices. He was an undertaker.

Adolph Crauer, 52, the man who first ventured into Galveston, when, in 1900, that city was ravaged by a great tidal wave, and flashed the first news of the catastrophe to the outside world, died in San Antonio.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE MAKES PLAIN

rested, Mr. Coolidge declared, adding that "we have been willing to assume the responsibility for leading the nation and the world in this direction, without first seeking through a costly, futile and unconstitutional referendum to find out whether it would be popular."

In agriculture, the president said he was ready to open the investigation into farming conditions he had proposed as a means of determining a legislative programme of aid. This had been withheld temporarily, he said, at the advice of farm leaders lest the investigation become involved in partisan politics.

Recalling benefits he said had accrued from the existing tariff law, Mr. Coolidge insisted that without a protective tariff, "American industry cannot exist, American wages cannot be paid, the American standard of living cannot be maintained."

The address, in part, follows:

Human Welfare.

"This is an organization formed to promote the economic welfare of the United States. In its purpose it is thoroughly representative of American life. It is my opinion that a true economic development of our country can only rest upon the broad foundation of ministering to human welfare. It must contribute to peace abroad and must be supported by security, industry, economy, charity, education and religious convictions at home. It cannot thrive upon sectionalism or privilege, but must take into consideration all quarters of the land and all the elements of society.

"I am in favor of all the arts of peace, but I cannot be oblivious to the fact that the most miserable failure which a government can inflict upon the people is a lack of order and security. Unless a government be strong enough to maintain public confidence in the observance of the orderly processes of law, we not only have no economic development but an immediate cessation of all enterprise and a substantial destruction of all values. We must have local police protection, supported by such an army and navy as will insure domestic tranquility at home and a wholesome regard for the rights of our citizens abroad. We do not maintain armed forces as a threat or menace to any except wrong-doers. With us they are purely instruments of peace and good order.

Foreign Policy.

"We have a well defined foreign policy known of all men who will give it candid consideration. It has as its foundation peace with independence. We have abstained from joining the League of Nations mainly for the purpose of avoiding political entanglements and committing ourselves to the assumption of the obligations of others, which have been created without authority and in which we have no direct interest. Under our constitution we cannot, by treaty, pledge or limit the future action of the congress. But we have not refused to help, we have not refused to cooperate, we have not refused to act, whenever circumstances have arisen under which we could render assistance.

"An outstanding example of such action on our part are the treaties which resulted from the epoch-making Washington conferences. Another is our participation in the London conference, which resulted in the adoption of the Dawes plan, for the financing of which our private citizens subscribed many times over the amount necessary to float the German loan. All these acts have been practical, effective methods for the restoration of Europe. We propose adherence to the permanent Court of International Justice, under any desired condition or limitations which may seem practical and which can reasonably be anticipated will be agreed to by other interested nations. Such action would give our support to a tribunal before which we could never be brought without our consent, but to which international disagreements could be voluntarily submitted.

Limitation of Armaments

"We stand committed to the policy of international conferences, as specific occasions arise, to consider definitely stated international problems, to provide further limitation of armaments, and to propose plans for the codification of international law. But this government is opposed to the discussion in any international body or conference of questions which concern our own purely domestic affairs. Personally, I view with favor the attempt to devise constitutional covenants which would look to the outlawing of aggresive war. We are opposed to the cancellation of the debts due to us from abroad and shall continue to seek their further liquidation.

"No other sound and practical policy has been presented. In its pursuance we have maintained our ancient traditions; we have secured peace; we have limited naval armaments; we have provided a plan and furnished finances for a European settlement; and we propose to continue our efforts to promote international justice under international law, through international conferences, advancing towards the goal of outlawing aggressive war. We have been willing to assume the responsibility of leading the nation and the world in this direction, without first seeking through a costly, futile and unconstitutional referendum to find out whether it would be popular. The government is willing to be judged on the result of these stupendous accomplishments, either according to the standard of financial advantage or of moral purpose.

Financial Policy

"The prosperity of the people is intimately bound up with the financial policy of the government. To my mind, the practice of public economy and insistence upon its rigid and drastic enforcement is a prime necessity of the people of the United States. In fact, the necessity is world-wide. That nation which demonstrates that it has sufficient self-control to adopt this course will immediately become the leader in the financial world. That leadership is easily within American grasp. But to secure it requires prompt action and constant vigilance.

"Recent compilations disclose that the present yearly cost of national and local governments has reached the staggering sum of over $10,000,000,000. The national government pays out one third, the local governments two-thirds of this amount. This is about the sum that all the American farmers receive for all their output for a year. It is 23 per cent. of all wages and salaries of industrial plants in the census of manufactures.

"The present policy of the government has been to pay off the national debt and reduce the national expenditures. Since June 30, 1921 the national government has reduced its yearly expenditures about $2,000,000,000. It has paid off about two and three quarters billions of dollars of its debt and reduced its annual interest by over $130,000,000. It is estimated that the taxpayers of this country by these actions, have been relieved each day by about $6,000,000. It is anticipated that in spite of some new items of cost the budget of next year can be considerably less than the appropriations of the present year. In 1920 the per capita tax was nearly $54, in 1924 it was under $30, and by 1926 it should be under $27. That means that so far as the national government is concerned the burden of taxes has been cut in two.

Economy to Benefit All

"A policy of economy has as its sole object the benefit of all the people. Just prior to elections a great deal of talk is made about the taxes of the poor and the rich. It can fairly be said that the national government does not tax the earnings of the poor family. Earnings of $2,500 are entirely exempt, and on $5,000 they would pay but $37.50. The claim can scarcely be made that the poor are obliged to pay direct taxes to the national government. All talk then about taking direct taxes off the rich and leaving them on the poor is simply misleading. But every student is well aware that the public in general, which is mostly made up of people of moderate means, do and must indirectly pay the expenses of the government.

"The great corporations, the banks, the railroads—all the great incomes—do and must collect their money from the people. All our food, clothing, shelter and fuel pays a tax to the government and the people who earn the wages of the nation do and must pay these taxes when they buy these necessaries. This simple fact determined what must be a sound policy of taxation. It should be at a rate which will produce the largest amount of taxation from large incomes, and by doing the utmost to stimulate enterprise and business afford the wage earners ample employment with good pay, in order that they may the better bear the burden of indirect taxation. All experience shows that a larger amount of money can be collected from large incomes at a moderate rate than at a high rate. When the rate is too high, large incomes disappear, leaving all the burden of taxes on the wage earners and people of small means; getting all we can out of the rich by making the rates moderate and stimulating business to provide work and increase the earnings of the poor seems to me to be the commonsense method of taxation. The estimated income and expenses of the government for the coming fiscal year indicate that we can have a further reduction in taxes. But we can only secure this result by continuing our policy of drastic economy.

Revenue From Tariff.

"A very material part of our revenue comes from the tariff, which is now running at the rate of about $550,000,000 per year. This is notwithstanding the fact that we have the lowest tariff which the republican party has enacted since 1890, and that it is even lower than the democratic tariff of 1894. Nearly 67 per cent of our imports are on the free list, while the average duty on all imports is less than 15 per cent. Under it, in spite of prophesies to the contrary, our foreign trade has greatly increased. It has been constantly asserted that what the farmer buys is protected and what he sells is not protected. Almost everything that is used in the business of farming as a matter of fact is on the free list, while almost everything that the farmer raises is protected, from the nuts and citrus fruits of the Pacific coast, through the sugar, grain and animal products of the central west, to the dairy and tobacco products of the east. Without such protection many of these farm products would be destroyed by foreign competition. When we turn to our industrial life, we find that the wages both in rate and buying power of the American workman are more than twice that of the best paid foreign labor. Compared to 1913 the advance in the wages of union labor is 99 per cent, while in the ordinary living costs it is only about 69 per cent. American industry cannot exist, American wages cannot be paid, the American standard of living cannot be maintained without a protective tariff.

More Than Average Prosperity.

"Under this policy of peace economy, reduction of taxes and protection, the business of the country has very generally revived and brought us into an era of more than average prosperity. Agriculture, however, not only suffered first, and in many respects most, but has been the last to recover. In spite of the fact that prices for the great staples of wheat, corn and animal products are now at a much more encouraging level, nevertheless the farmer has not been able to restore in one season the losses he has encountered in the four preceding seasons. Agriculture must be placed on a permanently profitable basis where it can enjoy economic equality with other industry.

"Much discussion has been made regarding the government policy of deflation. There has been much debate whether raising discount rates by the federal reserve board up to 7 per cent was the reason for the collapse in farm values. I do not wish to consider that question. But I should like to have it made plain that this action took place before this administration came into power, and whatever damage there was had already been done. It has been the policy of the present administration constantly to favor the reduction of discount rates. This has been done, until they now range from 3 per cent to 4 1-2 per cent. This administration has constantly sought to prevent further deflation by encouraging all kinds of business in order to restore prices of agricultural products, to a point where they would show a fair profit. The general business depression had reached its lowest depths in the spring of 1921, and since that time there has been a gradual recovery which has now spread to agricultural products. If a mistake was made, it was not made by this administration. The government is now proceeding in the opposite direction.

Must Guard Against Depression.

"Advantage must be taken of the present period of relief to provide, by the adoption of sound business methods and sound legislation, against the recurrence of such disastrous depression. This is not a political question, it is an economic question. It is not a sectional question, it is a national question. It does not relate merely to the welfare of those who live on the farms, it influences the welfare of all the people of our country. I have withheld the calling of an agricultural conference on the advice of some of the leaders in the farm organizations. But I stand committed to this proposal. I believe it holds out the best promise of a wise solution and the best method of a substantial agreement among the farm organizations themselves of what they desire in the way of government action. I therefore propose to call such conference, to consist of some of the leaders in the farm organizations and some of the prominent representatives of farm economics in our agricultural colleges, to formulate a program for legislation to be presented to the congress which we can all support. The farmers have suffered enough from those who have attempted to barter their votes for unsound remedies. I want their business put on a sound basis by thorough and scientific study, where it can exist on an equality with other businesses.

Our Present Foreign Trade.

"What we may hope for in this direction is illustrated by our present foreign trade. In 1913 both imports and exports were but $4,200,000,000. After the war the trade of the whole world collapsed, but we have brought our foreign trade up to about $8,000,000,000. Translated into pre-war prices this would be about $5,200,000,000.

"When we look for an example of benefitting consumers, we shall find it in the bituminous coal industry. Three years ago there were about 9,000 mines, or 30 per cent more mines and miners than could be given regular employment. The department of commerce found there was need of more cars, more summer storage and more industrial peace. These have been accomplished, with the result that while in the profiteering period of 1920 run-of-mine coal averaged $5.64 a ton notwithstanding the strike of 1922, it averaged $3.67 per ton, and for the year ending June 30th it averaged $2.23 per ton. This industry has been organized, but not monopolized, it has between 7,000 and 8,000 competing mines, and no person or group controls more than two per cent or 3 per cent of the production.

"It is impossible to escape the conclusion that the general economic condition of the country is good. While business and agriculture have not fully recovered the losses caused by the world-wide depression which always follows war, they are now on a fairly profitable basis. It would be natural to suppose that every well wisher of the country would be anxious to maintain the present established order of things, which has given to the people of America a position superior to that ever before held by any people on earth. But in spite of the extraordinary results which have been accomplished, there is not only a large amount of criticism, but proposals to make at least two of the most revolutionary changes.

People Must Control Property

"It has always been the theory of our institutions that the people should own the government and not that the government should own the people. The policy cannot be maintained unless the people continue to own and control their own property. The most important property of the country is transportation and water power. It is not only very large in amount, but is of the greatest strategic value. It could be used in such a way as to assume virtual control of all other business of any importance. It is proposed that these properties should be brought under public ownership.

"Responsible public commissions have valued these at about $35,000,000,000. Such a cost would more than double all our public debts. Any deficit in earnings would have to be made up out of taxes. We did that during the war at a cost of $1,600,000,000. With the goverament in possession of such a great engine, with two and three quarters millions of employees, spending $9,000,000,000 or $10,000,000,000 each year, holding virtually the power of life and death, what chance would the rest of the people of this country have! It would appear to be perfectly obvious that if these properties are taken off the tax list by public ownership, the other property of the nation must pay their yearly tax of some $600,000,000. In the thinly settled agricultural regions this would make an increase of 30 per cent. or 40 per cent. on local taxation. Measured by our experience, by efficiency of service, by rate of wages paid, we have everything to lose and nothing to gain by public ownership. It would be a most perilous undertaking, both to the welfare of business and the independence of the people.

Supreme Court Citadel of Justic

"Another principle in which the American people have always strongly believed and which they have stoutly maintained, is a judicial as against a political determination of causes. When our constitution was adopted it established the Supreme Court of the United States to be the very citadel of justice. Its members are appointed for life in order that they may be devoted entirely to the administration of justice according to law, and as independent and impartial as it is possible for men to be. One of their chief duties is to protect the rights of the individual. Our government is anything but absolute. It is strictly limited. It has only these powers which are conferred upon them by the constitution. That Constitution distinctly declares that the president and the congress are prohibited from doing certain things, the central thought of which is that no one shall be deprived of life, liberty or property without due process of law. There is provision against unlawful searches and seizures, in order that the people may be secure in their persons, houses, papers and effects, also against making any law respecting an establishment of religion or abridging the freedom of speech or of the press, and including the right to trial by jury, with many other provisions for the protection of the individual from impositions which other governments had constantly inflicted upon them. This is in accordance with our theory that the people are born with certain inalienable rights which no government should have any power to take from them.

Preserve Rights of States

"The same privileges that belong to the individual are likewise guaranteed to the minority and to the several states. We have made our constitution the supreme law of the land and whenever the congress, the president or a state legislature or governor, violates it, anyone who is injured has the right to appeal to the supreme court and have such violation prevented. What better method could there be for preserving the rights of the people and of the states. It is not necessary to prove that the supreme court never made a mistake. But if this power is taken away from them, it is necessary to prove that those who are to exercise it would be likely to make fewer mistakes.

"It is proposed to place this power which is must be remembered is that of life and death, in the hands of the congress. That would give to that body power to violate all the rights which I have just mentioned, the power to destroy the states, abolish the presidential office, close the courts, and make the will of the congress absolute. Is it supposed, that in the exercise of this power they would be more impartial, more independent, than the judges of the supreme court, it seems to me that this would be a device more nearly calculated to take away the rights of the people and leave them subject to all the influences which might be exerted on the congress by the power and wealth of vested interests on one day and the passing whim of popular passion on another day. The poor and the weak would be trampeled under foot. Under such a condition, life, liberty and property and the freedom of religion, speech and the press, would have very little security. In time of national peril our government would have no balance wheel. If this system should be adopted and put into effect, the historian would close the chapter with the comment that the people had shown they were incapable of self-government and the American republic had proved a failure. If we are unable to maintain the guarantees of freedom in this land, where on earth can they be maintained?

Needs of a Free Republic

"Our present system is the only one that is adapted to the needs of a free republic, the only one which holds out any promise of providing the security and stability necessary alike for our economic development and the protection of the poor and the weak.

"There are some of the methods by which I believe the economic welfare of the people of our country can be advanced. The government can help to maintain peace, to promote economy, to provide a protective tariff, to assist the farmers, to leave the people in the possession of their own property, and to maintain the integrity of the courts. But after all, success must depend on individual effort. It is our theory that the people make the government, not that the government makes the people. Unless there abides in them the spirit of industry, and thrift, of sacrifice and self-denial, of courage and enterprise, and a belief in the reality of truth and justice, all the efforts of the government will be in vain. I believe in the existence of these virtues. I do not think the fathers of the land are going to barter away their property or their liberty. I do not think the mothers of the land are going to abandon the rich heritage that belongs to their children. The American people have faith in themselves. It is justified by their history. They have faith in their government. It is justified by its works. They know it is neither corrupt nor inefficient. They are not likely to be deceived by those who constantly assail our institutions. The intelligence, the courage, the faith of the people will support America. Against that support no effort for destruction can prevail."

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

Glad Reception

Where did the last story end, little reader? Wasn't it just at the moment when the Kind Yellow Dog Tramp and the good Old Dog Driver found the two little rabbits bound and ragged in the big hollow tree where Hooty Tooty Owl had his home? Of course it was, so here we go, my typewriter and I, to tell you what happened just as soon as the two little rabbits had stretched their legs and wiggled their pink noses. Down the stairs inside the big hollow trunk they hopped, very carefully of course, until they came to the big tunnel which their two kind friends had made under the roots. Then, out into the sunlight, clipperty clip.

"There's Mother," Shouted the Bunny Boy.

"Goodness gracious meebus, what a lovely world it is!" exclaimed dear Uncle Lucky, as a little bird began to sing and Mr. Merry Sun winked and blinked through the leafy branches, for it was now morning, although I forgot to mention before that it had taken the two old dogs all night to dig the tunnel under the old hollow tree.

"Let's get home as quickly as we can," cried the bunny boy. "I must kiss the tears away in mother's pretty eyes."

"And Little Miss Mousie will be so provoked to think I never came home to supper," sighed the old gentleman rabbit. "I hope she saved a piece of angel cake. Dear, dear. I dislike to keep a lady waiting, especially if she's the sunshine of my heart and lives in my little white housie."

"Here's the Luckymobile," all of a sudden shouted the Old Dog Driver. "Uncle Lucky, you'd better drive home with your small nephew, and I'll take the Yellow Dog Tramp back to my house for breakfast." So off they went two by two, the Luckymobile going like the wind, and the billy goats doing their best to take the two good old dogs safely and quickly back to home, sweet home. Nobody waited a moment to learn or to explain how the two little rabbits had been caught and imprisoned by Hooty Tooty Owl in the Hollow Tree. That was over now. All they wanted to do was to hurry home for breakfast and relieve Lady Love and Little Miss Mousie from worry and fret, and maybe a kiss and a smile to forget.

"There's mother," all of a sudden shouted the bunny boy, as they sped over the Sunny Meadow. Sure enough, at the little gate in the white picket fence stood Lady Love, shading her eyes with her right paw.

"Home again, home again, Happiness comes after pain."

sang the pretty canary bird as the little bunny mother hugged her bunny boy to her heart.

"Can't stop a minute," shouted kind Uncle Lucky, "Little Miss Mousie is waiting for me, and anxious to give me my nice turnip tea," and away drove the dear old gentleman rabbit to his comfortable house on the corner of Lettuce avenue and Carrot street, Rabbitville.

"Maybe she'll give me a scolding," sighed dear Uncle Lucky as he rolled up Lettuce avenue. Into the open gate he turned just as his tiny housekeeper ran out of the front door. Without stopping she scampered across the lawn, and, as the old gentleman rabbit hopped out of the Luckymobile, she gave little squeaks of joy. "Dear, dear, dearest me, but I'm glad you're safe!" she said. And in the next story I'll tell you some more about Little Jack Rabbit and his friends.

GULBRANSEN Demonstration Week

Try Gulbransen pedalling. So effortless that a baby pushing down the pedals gave the idea for the Gulbransen Trade-mark.

Four Gulbransen Instruction rolls furnished with every Gulbransen. These are exclusive with Gulbransen—highly interesting and simple to master. They teach, in a few evenings' time, the basis of correct playing.

Nationally Advertised. The Gulbransen is regularly advertised in The Saturday Evening Post, The American Magazine and The Literary Digest—an additional guaranty of its high standing in the commercial world.

We advertise the four models of the Gulbransen at the four nationally established cash prices. The Community model is $450. The Suburban model is $530. The Country Seat model is $615. The White House model is $700. Generous terms may be arranged, interest being charged on deferred payments. Naturally the more expensive models are better. But the most inexpensive model made, the Community at $450, is a splendidly built, dependable instrument that we are proud to put in any home.

If you want a good dependable instrument that you can play, made by a reputable manufacturer, and sold at a fair price, come in and let us show you the GULBRANSEN.

Compare before you decide.

WE HAVE a surprise for you. We have an instrument played by music roll and pedals, on which you can register your personal touch on the keys, just as you would in hand-playing. We have an instrument on which you can accent the melody and subdue the accompaniment.

Or you can use any ordinary song roll and play the accompaniment only, without playing the melody notes at all! You can play any regular player roll in seven different keys! The instrument that will do these things is the Gulbransen Registering Piano, of which we are making a special demonstration this week.

Come in—we want to show you this latest achievement in the music world—the famous Gulbransen about which you have read in the Saturday Evening Post, The Literary Digest and the American Magazine. Don't hesitate—come in today!

This store features the "Easy to Play" Gulbransen Registering Piano because we know our Gulbransen customers are the most satisfied customers we have.

Not only is the Gulbransen mechanically satisfactory, but it's also a musical achievement and inspiration.

When you become a Gulbransen owner we will assist you in every way to get the fullest possibilities out of your Gulbransen.

Make use of our tuning and service departments.

Remember that your present piano, if you have one, ought to be tuned at least twice a year.

$25
First Payment on your GULBRANSEN

The Melody Indicator is a patented and exclusive Gulbransen feature.

It shows at a glance whether notes are in bass or treble, so you will know where to accent them.

Play any roll. Even the finest electric reproducing player rolls may be played on your Gulbransen.

You are not restricted in your choice of rolls.

Singers, note this. In playing song rolls you can play any ordinary song roll as an accompaniment—eliminating the melody entirely. This is possible only on the Gulbransen Registering Piano.

BRANDEGEE CREDITOR WANTS WILL TO BE PROBATED AT NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Oct. 23.—A creditor of the late Senator Frank B. Brandegee today made application to the probate court that an instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of the dead senator be admitted and praying that letters of administration with the will annexed be granted. In accordance with the law made and provided in such matters, Judge Arthur B. Calkins has assigned a hearing on the same for next Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. The will referred to, it is believed, is the document found among the dead senator's papers in custody of Attorney Charles B. Whittlesey earlier in the week, but because of the death of the executor named therein, Senator Brandegee's father, Augustus Brandegee and the death of the beneficiary, sister of the senator, the document is invalidated.

Benjamin Peabody, of Westerly, and Mrs. William Addison, also of Westerly, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Frank Eldridge, a carpenter residing at 8 Beckwith street, is a patient at Home Memorial hospital suffering from probable internal injuries, sustained this morning when he fell a distance of 20 feet. It will not be determined for a day or two whether the internal organs are injured. Beckwith was employed on work at the structure 105 Bank street, which was damaged by fire several months ago. Shortly after entering upon his labors he went to a veranda in the rear of the third story, where there is no railing to provide protection. In walking about the veranda Beckwith either lost his balance or stumbled for he pitched over the side and fell to the ground, landing on his side. Beckwith was given medical attention and then rushed to the hospital.

The funeral of Louis J. Martin was held this morning at 8 o'clock at St. Mathias' chapel, Flanders, the mass of requiem being sung by Rev. Edward Flynn. The body was forwarded to Pittsfield, Mass., where burial will take place.

Waldo Chambers, a sailor, stationed at the submarine base, and Miss Mary Rose, of New York, were married yesterday afternoon at the parsonage of the Groton Heights Baptist church, Rev. George R. Atha officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Chambers will make their home in New London.

William Peckham, 76, of Old Lyme, died at Lawrence hospital late yesterday from a fractured skull sustained an hour before when he was thrown from the buggy in which he was riding and against a telephone pole, at Old Lyme. He is survived by a son and daughter, the latter being Richard Peckham, Black Hall.

Mr. Peckham was driving his horse in front of the residence of Charles R. Noyes when the animal took fright and plunged along the highway at furious speed. In his mad dash the animal caused the buggy to crash against the pole, hurling Mr. Peckham against the pole and to the ground. He was picked up unconscious and rushed to the New London hospital, but he died a short time after being admitted.

Mrs. L. L. Sullivan, 266 Ocean avenue, this afternoon lodged complaint with the post office authorities that mail deposited in a letter box at her home by a letter carrier had been stolen. Postmaster Walter M. Slocum turned the complaint over to the police, but Sergeant John Cavanaugh failed to discover a clue that would lead to the identity of the thief.

Miss Grace Povey, of the force of assistants at the public library, has resumed her duties, having spent a week at Jaffrey, N. H.

There is no change in the condition today of William H. Morris, seriously ill at the residence of his son, George R. Morris, 116 Ocean avenue.

Mrs. Addie M. MacDonald, 89, wife of Louis J. MacDonald, died last night at her home, Thames street, Groton. Mrs. MacDonald had been ill some time.

Misses Theodora and Virginia Palmer, Pequot avenue, are spending a few days in New York.

There is likelihood that within a week or two there will be missing from the city's voting list the names of a number of voters who heretofore have enjoyed the privilege of casting their ballots in city, state and national elections. The reason for the omission of the names is because a score or more voters have been found guilty in the course of the commission of a felony and the conviction automatically disfranchises the voter. A list of the persons so convicted is being prepared and will be handed over to the selectmen, who have charge of the preparation and compiling of the voting lists.

An out of town concern has caused a number of slot machines to be placed in fruit, confectionery and grocery stores about the city, the machines apparently being a new form of gambling, but of a kind that seems to appeal to patrons of such forms of chance. The agents of the company have rented a store on North Bank street from which place the machines are distributed. The authorities are conducting an investigation to determine whether the machines are legally operated.

The converted yacht Marguerite, owned by Charles N. Dunn, of Brooklyn, was released by revenue department officials here this afternoon and early this evening the craft will get under way and start for New York. The release of the Marguerite was made at the instance of the revenue department's office at Bridgeport.

The Marguerite was seized off Montauk Point, a fortnight ago, by the crew of the revenue cutter Tampa, together with 6,000 cases of alcohol and 300 cases of Scotch whiskey. The yacht's cargo was transferred from the craft to the customs house, prior to the departure of the craft for New York. Dunn is at liberty, having furnished bail of $1500 for his appearance before the United States District court at Hartford in December.

The addition of some 6000 gallons of alcohol and 300 cases of Scotch whiskey to the quantity in storage in the customhouse as confiscated liquor makes the old stone building on Bank street fairly bulge with its contents. The latest liquor added to the volume stored came from the converted yacht Marguerite. Before that stock was placed in storage there were some 3000 cases of liquor there. The stuff is frequently shipped to New York and to Bridgeport, but what disposition is made of it then is not known here. It is supposed that the liquor is disposed of to hospitals at a very low figure. The faked liquor is destroyed. It may be taken for granted that a shipload of the liquor will be shipped away at an early date. A watchman is kept on duty constantly to guard the liquor that it may be kept safe until such time as the government disposes of it. Every bottle or small deposited in a letter box at her case of the liquor that is received at the custom house is receipted for when it goes into storage and a receipt is given for it when it is taken away so that every drop of it is accounted for.

There is said to be a lot of money in this city ready for betting on the election the 4th of November. But few wagers have been made, nevertheless, for the small number that would risk their cash on the result want such odds that no one will give what is wanted. In this betting Smith is a slight favorite for governor. There is not a few wagers that the republicans will control the next congress, both in the senate and in the house. In Connecticut it is believed Bingham will win, and there is any amount of money to be wagered on the result of the election.

The police report that New London has not often known such a season of quiet in police circles as is prevalent now. They say that there are almost as few people on the streets at night as there are in the close winter season. The record of arrests this month bids fair to be the smallest in more than a year, the officers say. But as to this there is much of uncertainty, for it is a well established fact that a quiet season is followed by lively times in police circles. There is still another week of the month and until that has passed no one can tell what the record is to be.

Mrs. Lauriano Navarro, and Mrs. Carl Sarinnella and infant daughter, both of Groton, patients at Lawrence Memorial Associated hospital, were dismissed today.

An automobile owned and operated by Dr. Stuart J. Lawson, 116 Federal street, and a machine, owned and operated by Morris Spector, 96 Quarry street, were in a collision on Hempstead street, corner of Federal street, this afternoon. Both cars were damaged.

The funeral of Miss Elizabeth C. Mahan, daughter of Mrs. Margaret Whittlesey Mahan and the late Bryan F. Mahan, was held this afternoon at 3.30 o'clock at the residence of her mother, 189 Broad street and was attended by many friends. The services were conducted by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ and Dr. Benjamin T. Marshall, president of Connecticut College for Women, where Miss Mahan was a student two years. The floral tributes were beautiful. The bearers were Arthur, Charles, Gordon, Norman and Francis Mahan, brothers of Miss Mahan, and Chappell Whittlesey. Burial was in the family plot in Cedar Grove cemetery.

A Ford sedan owned by Samuel Hyde, house detective at the Hotel Mohican, was stolen from States street some time today. The machine was parked in front of the Thames club about 7.30 o'clock this forenoon and shortly before 3 o'clock this afternoon when Hyde went to take possession of the car, it had been stolen. Hyde reported his loss to the police.

This evening, after the police of the surrounding cities and the state police at Groton and Centerbrook had been notified of the theft of the car, the machine was found in the rear of the National Bank of Commerce. It is believed that some of Hyde's friends removed the car from its parking space as a joke.

Funeral services for Mrs. Jennie Gardner Burr, wife of Adebert L. Burr, took place this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock at her home, 34 Warren street and was attended by a large gathering of mourners. Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ, officiated. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today caused the operator's license of Norman N. Hicks 56 Morgan street to be returned to the owner.

An automobile truck operated by Cornelius D. Lynch, 78 West street collided with one of the city's big automobile trucks this morning at the corner of State and Bank streets. Neither truck was seriously damaged.

David Hollis, 43 Church street, appeared at the police station last night and claimed the bicycle found in the street early yesterday morning on Church street, near Meridian street by Patrolman Henry Hick.

Mrs. Daboll, 94 Ocean avenue, complained to the police this forenoon because of the conduct of a group of youths, who pass the residence of the complainant nightly, between 7.30 and 8.30 o'clock and who are noisy and use vile language.

Miss Edna Green, who has been confined to her residence, Home street, for a week by illness resumed her duties today as stenographer in the office of City Clerk Julian D. Moran.

PROGRESS IN CAMPAIGN FUND INVESTIGATION

Washington, Oct. 23—Testimony indicating the manner in which the republican national committee has set up organizations within the various industries, businesses and professions to raise campaign funds from men within those fields of endeavor was given today to the senate campaign fund investigating committee.

At the same time the committee received from republican national headquarters supplemental statement regarding contributions showing that the total received as of October 15 was only $800,000 below the maximum of $3,000,000 which Chairman Butler has stated he expects and hopes to raise for the conduct of the present campaign. These statements covered the period from October 10 to 15, and showed receipts of approximately $500,000 within those five days.

There also came to the attention of the senate investigators rumors that $100,000 is being sent into Montana independent of the republican national committeeman and the republican state chairman for use against Senator Thomas J. Walsh, democratic prosecutor of the oil inquiry, who is a candidate for re-election. Chairman Borah said there would be a full investigation.

Another development of the day was a request from counsel for Senator Robert M. LaFollette that the republican state chairman of New York, New Jersey, Illinois and Ohio be called for questioning as to whether there have been "canceled" contributions from big business men.

Samuel Utermeyer said he regarded it as significant that there was missing from the republican list of contributors such names as those of Elbert H. Gray, of the United States Steel Corporation; J. P. Morgan, the Rockefellers, and the heads of the Standard Oil companies, all of whom, he asserted, are well known as republicans.

A man can't be thankful if he's caught with the goods on him.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKET WAS IRREGULAR.

New York, Oct. 23.—The upward movement of stock prices was impeded today by the short selling of sugars and certain specialties and profit taking in some of the rails, oils and other recent strong spots, with the result that the general list presented an highly irregular appearance. With the buying movement in certain groups temporarily having spent its force, the volume of business naturally fell off, the day's sales aggregating about 900,000 shares.

Trade news was largely favorable. It included the publication of statistics showing a decrease in crude production for the fifth consecutive week and the establishment of a new high record for this year in the freight car loadings for the second week in October. The significant feature of the freight traffic report was the fact that loadings of general merchandise and less-than-carload freight were the largest of any week in history.

Recent selling of Bethlehem Steel was explained by the publication of the close of the market of the report for the third quarter which showed net income, before dividends, of only $102,167, as against $1,278,277 in the preceding quarter and $4,490,603 in the third quarter of 1923. Some encouragement was derived from the fact that present operations running at the rate of 65 per cent of capacity were more than double the low rate of 31 per cent in July. Bethlehem Steel common closed 3-4 higher at 39 1-4 as against the record low of 37 3-4 established yesterday. United States Steel common yielded fractionally to 107.

A bullish demonstration in Maxwell Motor issues sent the A stock up nearly five points to 66 1-2 and the B up 1 1-2 to 21 1-4, each at new 1924 highs. Brisk accumulation of Fleischmann brought about a jump of more than four points to 76 7-8, also a new top. Some of the ordinarily inactive specialties to break through their previous maximum prices were Brown Shoe preferred, Orpheum Circuit, International Nickel and Remington Typewriter first preferred.

Kansas City Southern assumed the leadership of the railroad group, moving up nearly two points to a record high at 24 3-8 and then easing slightly. Good buying also was noted in New York Central, Lehigh Valley, and Rock Island 6 per cent. preferred, up 1 to 2 points. Wabash preferred A and New Haven yielded to a profit taking.

Copper, oil and merchandising issues gave fairly good exhibitions of group strength. American Smelting and Woolworth each climbed more than two points while G. R. Kinney and Company, Julius Kayser, H. R. Mallinson, Pacific and Associated Oils, General Asphalt, Utah and Anaconda coppers continued their rise to higher ground.

American Woolen was hammered down more than 3 points to 52 1-2 on unconfirmed rumors that the company would have to write off a large loss of inventory adjustments, rallying a point from the low at the close. Sugars continued to yield to predictions of price cuts, American Sugar Refining creating another new low at 36 5-8 and then rallying above 38 for a small fractional gain on the day.

Call money ruled unchanged at 2 per cent. The time money and commercial paper markets were quiet with rates holding steady.

Foreign exchange rates turned slightly reactionary in dull trading, demand sterling dropping about a cent to around $4.49 1-2 while French francs ruled around 5.22 cents, off about two points. South American exchanges were firm.

BOND MARKET.

New York, Oct. 23.—Bond prices drifted aimlessly in today's quiet trading session. Railroad issues worked moderately higher and sugar company bonds were conspicuously weak, but prices in other departments of the list fluctuated within extremely narrow limits.

Reports of heavy freight traffic for the week ended Oct. 11, during which car loadings reached a new peak for the year, provided the incentive for fresh buying of railroad obligations. Maximum gains were limited to a point, but there was a steady demand for New York Central, St. Paul, Seaboard, "Katy" and Frisco liens.

Weakness of the sugar issues were attributed to reports of heavy stocks of the commodity held by Germany and other European countries. Several bonds, including Vertientes 7s dropped to new 1924 levels. Others such as Punta Alegre 7s, Manati 7 1-2s and Camaguey 7s declined from fractions to two points, the sugar list generally following the downward trend of the stocks of these companies.

The rest of the industrial group was buoyed up by a firm underlying demand for such divorse issues as Republic Steel 5s, American Chain 6s, American Smelting 5s, Annex Rubber 8s and Virginia-Carolina Chemical 7 per cent certificates.

German bonds were fairly active above 94 and other foreign obligations held firm. Wall Street heard that Sweden was negotiating with international bankers for a long term loan of $25,000,000 to $30,000,000 to rulace short term credits.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—Lively selling that accompanied reporst of rain in Argentina gave a decided setback to the price of wheat today. Closing quotations on wheat were heavy, 1 3-8c to 2 5-8c net lower, December 1.44 5-8 to 1.44 3-4 on May 1.48 to 1.49 1-8, with corn 1 1-4 to 2 1-4c down, oats 1-4c to 1c off and provisions varying from 35c decline to 25c gain.

Wheat finished at almost the bottom prices of the day. Only a moderate temporary response was apparent from export buying said to aggregate 2,000,00 bushles, a decline at Liverpool having a decided tendency to emphasize the weakness of the market in Chicago despite gossip here that the Argentine drought had done at least some irreparable damage, and that Argentina this season might yet prove to be another Canada. As an offset, bears contended that with better weather both in Argentina and Canada it would hardly be surprising if the 1924 top price on wheat had already been seen.

Most of today's buying of future deliveries of wheat was said to be in the May delivery, and there was evidence of considerable liquidation of December holdings. On the other hand, gossip was also current that a majority of exporters were at present about even in the future market, and that further export business would be reflected in immediate purchases of nearby future deliveries.

Corn and oats gave way chiefly as a result of sympathy with wheat weakness. Heavy frosts were reported over part of the main corn belt, and there were disappointing husking returns from various sections. Such news, however, failed to rally the corn market in view of reports that country offerings were increasing especially southwest.

Provisions averaged lower with grain.

CURB MARKET.

New York, Oct. 23.—Further accumulation of the oil shares, based on the publication of statistics showing a decrease in crude production for the fifth consecutive week was the outstanding development in today's curb market.

Several pipe line shares such as Illinois, Eureka, Buckeye, Northern, Southern and New York transit advanced 1 1-2 to 5 points while imperial of Canada, South Pennsylvania and Standard Oil of Nebraska gained a point or so. Many other active shares improved fractionally.

Radio shares, with few exceptions, lost ground on profit taking. Duhilier and Ware dropping about a point each. United Bakeries continued its advance, selling above 121 and then slipping back to 120 where it was up one point on the day. Dus. Goodyear Tire and Swift International were heavy.

Middle west utilities profited 2 5-8 points of yesterday's 3 point gain, most of the other public utilities moving within narrow and irregular limits.

MYSTIC

Father Murphy council, Knights of Columbus, recently voted to give a big musical show, the first event of its kind undertaken by the local council in over three years. Rehearsals will be directed by James Nisson, John Sheedy and Allie Harvey, all of New London, who have had much experience along this line. The coming show is to be called the Rev. J. F. Murphy council, K. of C. Revue.

Rehearsals began Monday night under the direction of L. E. Bauman for the musical comedy, Bimbo, which is to be presented for the benefit of the Mystic Community House. Parts have already been assigned to Margaret Duhaime, Walter Jackson, Mrs. Joseph G. Tyler, Frank Hobart and Ingrid Peterson.

Those who attended the Methodist church Sunday evening were greatly interested in hearing Mrs. Charles Vickery in her presentation of Pandita Ramabai, a story of Hindu life, which she gave in a very realistic manner. An informal reception to Mrs. Vickery followed the service.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wales of Amherst, Mass., and Mrs. A. H. Foote and son Elmer of Colchester have been guests this week of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Denison.

Winfred Dick and Albert Neff are to represent the Methodist Sunday school at the older boys' conference at Meriden next week. Elinor Chapman and Agnes Wilson are delegates to the Older Girls' Conference, at New Britain.

Miss Anna Wilcox has returned from a visit with Norfolk, Va., friends.

Mrs. Martha E. Stinson has returned from a visit with relatives in Preston City.

School children are much interested these days in the making of lanterns, and some of those made by the girls' club, Bonnes Amies, are on exhibition in Barstow's window. This work is being done under the direction of Miss Paine, director of the Mystic Community House, and instruction in the art of making lanterns will be given in the afternoon this week and next. A lantern parade is being planned for Friday night, Oct. 31.

At a meeting this (Friday) evening of the Epworth League plans will be made for attending the circuit convention in Noank next Tuesday.

The Garden club is to meet next Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. L. P. Allyn and this will be the last meeting of the season.

Pupils at Mystic Academy have become interested in the idea of beautifying the village and are raising money for the purpose of planting shrubs, etc., which will make the village more attractive.

Mrs. Charles H. Reynolds entertained a party of friends at dinner Tuesday at the Reynolds cottage at Lantern Hill, those present being: Mrs. Gertrude W. Thompson, Mrs. E. A. Harrison, Mrs. Florence Boylen, Mrs. Eva Grinnell, Mrs. Minnie Paine, Mrs. Sadie Wheeler, Mrs. Abbie Noyes, Mrs. Eliza Schoonover, Mrs. Adella B. Gray and Mrs. Harriet Kinney.

Mrs. Uranah Baker Mattison, in her 94th year, went to Providence by automobile Thursday to visit her sister, Mrs. Amy A. Baker, who is observing her 99th birthday today (Friday.) Another sister, Mrs. Martha Thompson, who also resides in Providence, and who is in her 83rd year is to be in the party. Mrs. Mattison's visit is to be a surprise to both her sisters, and she will probably remain until Sunday before returning home, being accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Fannie M. Kent.

Arthur Perry, who has had a long illness in a New York hospital, accompanied by Mrs. Perry has arrived at their home on West Mystic avenue. Mr. Perry is steadily recovering.

Miss Elizabeth Thorpe has gone to Boston for a visit with relatives.

Mrs. Charles Reynolds and Mrs. Jennie Ryley are visiting their brother, Everett Noyes at Gales Ferry.

Miss Ruth Dodd motored to Boston Thursday with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Chesebro were in Greeneville Wednesday.

Frank E. Hobart has been appointed superintendent of the Groton & Stonington Traction Co., to take the place of W. Lester O'Brien, who recently resigned to go to Rochester, N. Y. Mr. Hobart has been in the employ of the company for a number of years and his promotion to superintendent is bringing him the congratulations of friends.

Mrs. R. D. Bradley and granddaughter, Arline Leonard, have returned from a visit in Westfield, N. J.

Harmon Bradley of Westfield, N. J. is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Bradley.

An alarm was rung in Wednesday afternoon for a fire in the Vinal residence on Gravel street, formerly the property of the late Jesse D. Crary. The fire which lasted about an hour is said to have started in the ell and is thought due to an overheated fireplace. The flames broke throughout the roof and caused considerable damage and there was also considerable damage from water. The loss is estimated at $2,000.

At the meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. B. F. Davis, the opening son was "Prohibition Dawn" and was followed by devotional exercises. After singing White Ribbon Rally Song, the roll was called. At the request of the president, Mrs. W. H. Lamb, Mrs. Wallace A. Phillips nad Miss Nettie Noyes each paid a splendid tribute to Mrs. J. Edwin Thompson. As treasurer to succeed the late Mrs. Thompsen Mrs. Byron Billings was chosen. The remainder of the meeting was given over to reports of the state convention in Bristol last week, reports being given by Mrs. A. E. Cutler, Mrs. C. E. Newbury and Mrs. W. A. Phillips. The next meeting of the union is a parlor meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. Edward A. Smith, Fair Acres, on the Old Mystic road, the program in charge of Mrs. Wilfred Rollinson.

Miss Geneva Rathbun is home from Milford for over the week-end.

There were no sessions of school at the Broadway school yesterday, it being teachers' visiting day, and there will be none today because of the teachers' convention in New London.

Mrs. Alice Clarke is ill at her home on Elm street.

A series of special sermons is being prepared by Rev. J. Garfield Sallis on "Great Questions for Christians of Today" will probably include the following: How Should I Vote for party, for principle, or for personality? How May I Keep Well? How Shall I Us My Money? and How can I have a good time?

H. P. Redfield of Clinton was a business caller here Thursday.

When a man insists that he knows what he is talking about, make him prove it.

PRESIDENT'S LETTER ON NAVY DAY OBSERVANCE

President Coolidge is cordially endorsing the observance of navy day on Monday, October 27th, when the submarine base at Groton will hold "open house" and will welcome all visitors. In the morning all the activities of the base will be open to inspection.
The letter of President Coolidge endorsing the observance of the day is as follows:
"For several years past, under the auspices of the Navy League of the United States, October 27th, has been observed as 'Navy Day.' The date was selected, as I understood, because it is also the anniversary of the birth of President Theodore Roosevelt. It is particularly fitting to observe Navy Day on the anniversary of the great president, who was so long devoted to the interests of the naval establishment.
"Some of the most interesting and valuable of his historic writings dealt with the proud record of our navy. Later he served as one of the civil administrators, and finally as president, and therefore its commander-in-chief, he made the navy a particularly potent force for the preservation of peace and the prosecution of many worthy purposes. I am, therefore, gratified to know that the same day is this year to be observed once more as Navy Day, for we shall thus do honor to the memory of a great American and a great president and at the same time recall the glorious service of our navy from its earliest beginnings.
"We have recently entered upon an epoc in which, by international agreement, our navy assumes a new relationship to the problem of sea power in the world. Under the terms of the Washington conference the leading sea powers have united in the agreement that the United States is entitled to maintain a navy equal to that of other powers. Thus we are assured of a naval rank second to none, while at the same time, under the provisions for limitation of naval armaments, this rank is assured to us without engaging in a competition of maritime construction and at a far less cost than would have been possible under the old regime of competitive building.
"Thus to fix our security on the seas and at the same time reduce greatly the expense of the navy is an achievement of international faith and understanding which has been counted one of the notable accomplishments of diplomatic negotiations.
"It must be occasion of pride to all friends of the navy that the momentous step toward the perpetuation of peace was taken in the realm of naval policy. That it will prove only the beginning of an international programme involving continuing reductions of armament by land, by sea and in the air, is the earnest hope of all who desire the abolition of war.
"Our American navy has always been much more than an arm of wartime defense. Its contributions to the arts of peace have been manifold and of utmost importance. The great steel industry of the country owes its initial modern development to the requirements of the navy at a time when the special kinds of steel required by naval construction were not produced here.
"Likewise the navy has been at the front in developing aerial navigation, with all its possibilities of usefulness to the civil community. The statement has been made, and I think effectively supported, that all the money spent on the navy has been returned to the community several times over in direct stimulus given to industrial development.
"In many departments of science and investigation the navy has taken a leading and highly important part. It has made possible much of the accomplishment in charting the seas and making them safe for commerce. It has assisted in those studies of weather and climate, of air and sea currents, which have produced results of the utmost practical value.
"During the recent flight of the army aviators around the world the cruisers and destroyers of the navy patrolled the maritime courses over which the flyers passed. The great airship Shenandoah was constructed by the navy. Its success has kept us fully apace with other nations in the art of aero transportation. The art is yet in its infancy and, though we cannot conjecture what its ultimate developments may be, we can realize that they are certain to be of profound usefulness and significance. The depths of the oceans have been sounded and the floors of the seas have been mapped by the scientific specialists of the navy.
"It is through such activities as these that the vast possibilities of the sea as a reservoir of food and other necessaries of mankind will ultimately come to be fully realized and exploited. The navy always has taken a leading part and interest in exploitations and in the studies of newly discovered regions, particularly in the polar and Pacific areas. It has participated likewise in the study of astronomical phenomena, through which much valuable data have been added to the resources of the science.
"These are merely suggestions of a few of the services of the navy to peace and the arts and sciences of peace. We may be sure that such services will continue to be multiplied in the future. We cannot doubt that they will continue to justify the maintenance of the full naval capacity to which we have agreed under the terms of the Washington conference. We may be very sure that in the future as in the past, the navy's services to industry and the arts of peace and science will continue completely to justify its maintenance in the highest efficiency."

GIVEN COMPENSATION FOR LOSS OF HIS ARM

In the workman's compensation claim of Steve Cekala of 146 North Bank street, New London, against the New England Carpet Lining Co., an award has been made by Commissioner J. J. Donohue that compensation is to be paid from July 23 until such time as proper employment in furnished and then for 156 weeks at $10 a week for the loss of his right arm. Medical and surgical expenses are also to be paid.
The man had his right arm torn off near the elbow on July 24, 1924 while endeavoring to remove some dirt from a "lapping" machine. His claim was contested on the ground of gross negligence, but the commissioner found that while he might have used bad judgment in the way he went at the work was not serious of wilful misconduct.

COMPENSATION AWARD FOR INJURED FOOT

Mary Fioriana of 24 Water street, Mystic, who twisted her ankle while coming down stairs last April at the Rossie Velvet Co. mill, where she was employed, has been given a workman's compensation award by Commissioner J. J. Donohue. She was in the hospital from May to September and was advised that her foot, or at least the astralagus, ought to be removed, but she would not consent. She is awarded $6.78 per week from May 12 to Aug. 1, 1924, when payments are suspended during her refusal to accept what is deemed necessary, according to the method of service. Her doctors' and hospital bills are also to be paid.
Regret will never head of indemnation.

TAFTVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Coffey were pleasantly surprised at their home in Occum, Wednesday evening, the occasion being the first anniversary of their marriage. The evening passed quickly with games and piano and victrola selections, and the company sat down to a delicious supper at nine o'clock. A number of gifts were received by Mr. and Mrs. Coffey. Among those present were Miss Eva LaRoche, Miss Mary Chrzan, Miss Emily Bernal, Miss Antonia Bernal, Miss Anna Fortier, Miss Helen Towers, Miss Maybelle Towers, Miss Mary Coffey, Miss Annie Coffey, Miss Ethel Richards, Miss Medora Boucher, Miss Alice Tebeau, Miss Eva Tebeau, Mrs. Ernest Leonard, Mrs. Winifred Smith, Mrs. James Pearson, Mrs. Lewis Meditze, Mrs. Michael Coffey and Mrs. Wilfred Peltier.

Chief Ranger William Smith presided at the semi-monthly meeting of Court Wequonnoc Foresters of America, which was held Thursday evening at the court rooms in St. Louis hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Frechette have returned from their wedding trip and are at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Robillard of South B street.

Miss Mary Murphy has returned to St. Francis' hospital, Hartford, after spending a few days with her mother, Mrs. Anthony Murphy, of Merchants avenue.

Miss Helen C. Aberg and Miss Dorothy Wood, students at the Willimantic State Normal school, are at their homes in town for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Ulmer Jewett and son, of North Third avenue are occupying their new home in Thamesville.

Statesew J. Hatton of Providence, R. I., was a caller on friends in town Thursday.

A meeting of the Aawakiya Camp Fire Girls was held Thursday evening in the parlors of the Taftville Congregational church, with the guardian, Mrs. E. Tracy Clark and the assistant guardian, Miss Elsie Heap, in charge.

The Thursday Evening Basketry class met Thursday evening in the Red Cross rooms in the Ponemah building.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Petelle and family are moving out of their house on Terrace avenue.

The regular weekly conclave of Castle Perilous, K. O. K. A., was omitted this week, as the esquires of the Castle are to make a pilgrimage to Fort Griswold in Groton following their conclave to held Saturday afternoon. The trip is to be made by automobile, if the weather permits.

The various sub-committes appointed by the committee in charge of the fair of the Taftville Congregational church, are already at work on their programmes. The fair this year is to be a two night event with entertainments on each night. The various societies connected with the church, are to have charge of the different booths, as in former years.

THREE AUTO ACCIDENT VICTIMS BRING SUITS FOR $40,000

Damages aggregating $40,000 are sought in a suit brought in the superior court here against Albert S. Hoffman of New Britain by three persons who were injured in an automobile accident in the town of Colchester last August. The writs were filed at the clerk's office here Thursday.

Alleging that the automobile in which she was riding was struck and demolished and she was severely and permanently injured, Mary Gunning of Groton has brought suit for $10,000 damages against Albert S. Hoffman of New Britain.

On Aug. 31, 1924, the plaintiff was riding in the automobile of Patrick F. Gunning of Groton, which was operated by Florence Terry of New London and which was proceeding downhill at a point on the Hartford-New London turnpike in the town of Colchester. The Hoffman machine, which was driven by Raymond Hoffman was coming up the hill and it is claimed that it pulled out on a curve at a high rate of speed to pass another machine ahead of it and crashed into the Gunning car, all the occupants of which were injured and the car was demolished.

The plaintiff, Mary Gunning was taken to the Backus hospital in this city, with a fractured shoulder blade, upper lip and nose severely cut, all her lower teeth knocked out and bruises and abrasions on her body, face and one leg.

Florence Terry of New London, driver of the Gunning car, who was under the instruction of Patrick F. Gunning, has brought suit for $20,000 damages for the injuries she received. She has been in the hospital ever since the accident, receiving treatment at the Backus hospital first and the Hartford hospital later, by a specialist in orthopedic surgery. She suffered a double fracture of the lower jaw, concussion of the brain, cuts and bruises, lost five back teeth from her lower jaw and will lose at least four front teeth.

Patrick F. Gunning, owner of the car, which was then valued at $2,265, sues for $10,000 damages for the injuries he received. He was rendered unconscious, receiving a concussion of the brain, severe laceration obliquely on the forehead, laceration over the right temporal region, laceration of the nose, wrenched left knee and numerous body and muscle bruises. As a result of the injuries he claims he will be lame and incapacitated for some time to come.

SAYS HE SAW CHAPMAN AND SHEAN IN HADDAM

Gerald Chapman and Walter E. Shean worked in Middlesex county as chimney sweeps about a week before the robbery in New Britain that had as its climax the murder of Officer James Skelly, according to the story told Middletown police by Swain Johnson of Haddam. Mr. Johnson identified the pair from photographs at police headquarters, and his description of the men coincided with those given Middletown police by the New Britain department.

Chapman is the notorious bandit who directed a million-dollar mail robbery in New York more than a year ago and who escaped from Atlanta soon after his commitment. He was next heard of when with Walter E. Shean, of Springfield, Mass., he robbed the dry goods store of Davidson and Leventhal of New Britain early Sunday morning, October 11. Surprised by police, the pair engaged in a gun battle, and during the shooting Officer Skelly fell mortally wounded. Shean was arrested as he walked out of an alley toward a waiting automobile, but Chapman made his escape and is now the object of a nation-wide police search.

Mr. Johnson is positive in his identification, and his description of Chapman's mannerisms seem to indicate that his story is correct. The dapper Gerald wore his pinch-nez glasses, together with a pair of overalls and seemed excitable and nervous. With him and Shean were two other men, one of whom was an Italian. They went to Haddam in a Dodge sedan and remained in the vicinity of the Johnson home for about half an hour. During that time they cleaned a chimney in a neighbor's home.

Mr. Johnson said he had not intended to go to Hartford to identify Shean, who is being held in the county jail for trial, but was willing to do so if the policemen requested him. Police might be interested in learning something more of the two companions, in view of the fact that they might know something more than Shean has disclosed.

INCOME TAX PUBLICITY WILL NOT SHOW INCOMES

Internal Revenue Collector Robert O. Eaton of the District of Connecticut announced Thursday that in compliance with the act providing for the disclosing for public scrutiny of the income tax paid by individuals or corporations these figures will be available in the collector's office at Hartford in the future. The income return will not be disclosed but the name and address and the amount of tax paid by any payer will be given out. Collector Eaton pointed out that this will not be any indication as to any person's income as a person whose income is from dividends might not be assessed for any tax. No information will be given out except in the collector's office and no mail requests for information will be answered. An office deputy has been assigned to the work of answering inquiries.

will send the village coon hunters out for quarry now that the cold nights are hers. Several villagers who engage in this sport each year have bought some fine coon dogs, many of them coming from southern kennels, and they are anxious to see how they will work when they are unleashed for the running. It is customary for a successful hunter to give a coon supper to all his friends, so a great many more people than the hunters themselves are interested in coon hunting.

The annual meeting and election of officers of Taftville Chapter, American Red Cross was held Wednesday evening in Ponemah hall.

WOMEN'S GARMENT STORES COOPERATE ON COAT WEEK

The Norwich stores handling womens and misses coats are proving their progressiveness by combining in an effort to promote coat week from Friday, October 24th to Saturday, November 1st. The object of coat week is to show the women of this vicinity conclusive reasons why they should buy their coats in Norwich and why they should buy now.

The combined investment of all the stores in women's coats amounts to over $200,000. It is contended that with such an immense stock from which to select any woman should find just the coat she wants. The same coats in style, color or fabric are to be found in Norwich that are featured by the largest leading stores of the country, for local merchants buy from the same manufacturers and most of them have excellent New York connection who are constantly on the lookout for the last minute good styles. Because of lower expense the local merchant can usually undersell the large city store on the same garment.

Now is the ideal time to buy a coat for all the stocks are complete. The selection covers a wider range than at any other time of the year.

One of the things dearest to a woman's heart is to possess a garment that is individual or original in style. Now is the time to buy just such coats before they are picked over and while the assortments are so extensive.

Many women make a mistake in waiting for clearance or mark down sales. These sales serve an excellent purpose but a real good desirable wanted type of coat is never marked down. When a garment is in a clearance sale it is because it is a sticker and does not sell hence the average woman who loves to look well dressed will not wait for the stickers or undesirables.

While this has been an unusually pleasant warm fall the cold winter days are just ahead. The wise shopper will buy her coat now rather than wait for the cold weather rush.

During coat week all the stores cooperating in this event will give 10 per cent. off on all coats. The stores in the coat week event are: Caron's; Manhattan Ladies' Shop; The Boston Store: Porteous & Mitchell; Worth Specialty Shop; Barney's; Gotthelf; Maurice Sample Shop; Princess Shop; Brennan's; White Star Clothing Co.; Eagle Clothing Co.; Broadway Smart Shop.

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER FOR MISS CLARA GOYETTE

A miscellaneous shower was tendered Miss Clara Goyette at her home 162 Norwich avenue, Tuesday evening in honor of her approaching marriage to William Blanchette, Jr., which will take place Monday morning, October 27, at 8 o'clock, at Sacred Heart church, Taftville.

Games were played and piano selections were rendered by Miss Dora Marchant, Miss Alice Frechette and Miss Blanche Lucier. A violin solo was rendered by Miss Imelda Raymond and Miss Leona Belanger.

At a later hour refreshments were served consisting of sandwiches, coffee, cake and ice cream, by the hostesses, Mrs. Clarinda Goyette and Mrs. W. LeBranc.

ELLINOR COOK RECITAL ... FOR MISSION MEETING

Congregational Women of New London and Windham counties are much interested in the semi-annual meeting of the Woman's Congregational Home Mission Union of Connecticut, to be held this fall at Danielson on Wednesday, Oct. 29.

Among the good things the program offers is one of Miss Ellinor Cook's recitals. Miss Cook charmed her Norwich audience last year when she appeared before the Norwich Music Association in her program of folk songs. Next Wednesday she is expected to give a cycle of songs describing the life of a peasant girl of Eastern Europe from infancy until after her marriage.

Miss Cook's wonderful personality appeals to all and eastern Connecticut is fortunate in having this opportunity to enjoy her again.

BIBLE STUDY CLASS BEGINS AT Y. M. C. A.

The opening Bible study session at the Y. M. C. A. for men was held Wednesday evening when a substantial supper preceded the study, the topic of which was, "The First Disciples," the scripture used was John 1:35-51. Among the points brought out in the discussion were the following: John was the man chosen "to prepare the way" for Jesus, a sort of go-between between man and Jesus. Every Christian should, in a certain sense, be one to prepare the way for others to find the Christ. Two strong points in John the Baptist were, first, that he stuck to his job, and that he maintained a beautiful humility, unlike too many who have the place of leadership. The first two disciples were won by Jesus, because He was so friendly and open and his wonderful personality was so winning. Andrew, the first disciple demonstrated his interest and enthusiasm by hunting up another man to bring to Jesus, and that man was his own brother. Often the last person a Christian speaks to regarding religious matters is a member of his own household, but Andrew personally brought his own brother to the Christ. Jesus at once measured Simon by indicating to him that he had confidence that he would become a strong, solid disciple which finally became true of Simon. Many a man fails because no one expresses confidence in him. Jesus next sought Philip, because he knew that Philip had great possibilities for service for the kingdom, and Philip measured well up to Jesus' expectations, for he at once went hunting for Nathaniel, and with gentle persuasion he finally brought him to Jesus. Nathaniel, though a doubter, was honest in his doubting, and with open mind, he came to the Nazarene, and very soon became convinced that he was in the presence of the Messiah. Jesus paid Nathaniel a great compliment in these words: "Behold an Israelite in whom is no guile." Jesus constantly spoke of the good points of men rather than their bad points, for He doubtless believed that every man has some good in him. Men usually, or too often, speak of the weak points of others rather than their good points, and the bad rather than the good is usually published. It should be otherwise. The first disciples of Jesus were almost entirely secured by personal influence, and this is really the normal and best way still to secure disciples of Jesus. The question is why do not more Christian men engage in personal work for their Master?

The hour was enjoyed by all the men present and the first meeting of the class was promising for a good interest in Bible study.

The class will meet each Wednesday at 6.15 o'clock.

CONFUSION IN PUBLICITY OF INCOME TAX PAYMENTS

Collectors of Internal Revenue Differ in Views as to the Meaning of the Law Stipulating That Returns Must Be Made Available to Public Inspection—Treasury Officials Have Stipulated That It is Unlawful to Print or Publish Any of the Details, and Affirm That the Total Income or Total Tax Constitute a Detail — New York Newspapers Have Disregarded the Warning and Have Printed Partial Lists of Income Taxpayers and the Amounts They Paid.

Washington, Oct. 24.—After a night [illegible] conferences during which they waded through an avalanche of interpretations and pleadings, for [illegible] Washington officials themselves almost [illegible] on the puzzle [illegible] papers may safely publish [illegible] regard to the income tax [illegible] American people.

[illegible] statement of a definite [illegible] forthcoming during the [illegible] morning by Acting Attorney General James M. Beck that [illegible] publishing the facts, [illegible] official lists opened to [illegible] yesterday, "must do [illegible] responsibility." There [illegible] disagreement everywhere [illegible] of the department of [illegible] the treasury. Persistent [illegible] seeking some specific con- [illegible] of the two sections of law [illegible] usually met with a grin and [illegible] "There are the two sections [illegible] we do about it?"

[illegible] confusion permeated [illegible] of the several collectors [illegible] revenue, who had differed [illegible] to the meaning of the [illegible] the law stipulating that [illegible] must be made available [illegible] inspection. In some offices, [illegible] reports reaching the [illegible] anybody might take a look [illegible] official records, examine as [illegible] desired and take note [illegible] figures they wished; in others [illegible] access was restrained and [illegible] himself was passing on [illegible] reasonableness of the request to [illegible] the records.

[illegible] of the treasury, including [illegible] Mellon and Under Secretary [illegible] pointed to the section [illegible] re-enacted in the new statute, [illegible] has called attention in an [illegible] statement last night, stipulating [illegible] was unlawful to print or [illegible] of the details, and each [illegible] that the total income or [illegible] tax paid most assuredly [illegible] details. But beyond this [illegible] not go.

[illegible] Blair, of the bureau [illegible] revenue, sent telegrams [illegible] last night, instructing [illegible] the warning carried [illegible] particular section conspicuously [illegible] offices. He stood on [illegible] today and would make [illegible] further utterance or offer any view as to [illegible] of the other section regarding [illegible] records must be [illegible] inspection.

[illegible] reports for some ex- [illegible] Mellon early in the [illegible] that it was not [illegible] job to inform the public [illegible] provision of the tax; that its [illegible] charged with the collection of the [illegible] levied under the statute's provisions.

[illegible] was no comment at the [illegible] when it was suggested the [illegible] of the law make it mandatory [illegible] internal revenue collectors [illegible] facts concerning their returns [illegible] liabilities. While the treasury [illegible] that it had nothing to do [illegible] phase of the law, officials [illegible] department of justice said the [illegible] internal revenue in any [illegible] would be derelict in [illegible] failed to call such a [illegible] attention of the fed- [illegible]

[illegible] of the problem— [illegible] the treatment of [illegible] inspection of the returns [illegible] tonight to give the [illegible] kind of trouble that [illegible] to clear up.

[illegible] officials said there [illegible] reason for refusing a [illegible] "legitimate" request [illegible] to define the [illegible] phrase. They [illegible] the internal revenue [illegible] the request was [illegible] his discretion but [illegible] situation jumbled, no [illegible] a definite statement [illegible]

[illegible] papers, on advice of [illegible] authorities, printed all [illegible] passed. Some of them [illegible] they regarded their [illegible] and entertained no [illegible] the outcome. Some [illegible] according to re- [illegible] the treasury, took [illegible] view that if one person were [illegible] entitled to inspect the record, the [illegible] could be construed as laying [illegible] against others learning [illegible] through the press. [illegible] officials believed that a test [illegible] the courts offered the only [illegible] of the puzzle. While the [illegible] differences in the opinion [illegible] tended to that end, the de- [illegible] of justice will not move [illegible] zone thoroughly into the [illegible] Mr. Beck said. He felt that it [illegible] important a question for a [illegible] conclusion and already has [illegible] several experts in the department [illegible] the whole category of [illegible] ating to it.

NEW YORK NEWSPAPERS HAVE PRINTED DETAILS

New York, Oct. 24—New York [illegible] with few exceptions, today [illegible] partial lists of income [illegible] not the amounts they [illegible] ing warnings issued [illegible] Washington that such information would be published at the [illegible] own risk.

The expected rush of the general [illegible] to satisfy curiosity failed to [illegible] however. There were comparatively few requests for information. Bond salesmen, insurance men [illegible] others who might use the information to good advantage encountered cold receptions. They were advised that making public names and figures on the tax lists except for good reason would be regarded as "vitiating the spirit of the law."

Frank K. Bowers, collector of revenue for the second district, said that his office must take steps to protect itself from interruption of its business by a rush of the curious. He explained that the tax records of the district comprising 3,000,000 names, occupy 76 ledgers, and that the names were not in alphabetical order. He estimated that several hours would be required by each individual for perusal of the lists, which would interfere seriously with the routine work.

Mr. Bowers recognized and furnished information on requests based on acceptable reasons.

MORRIS ABSOLVED FROM CRIMINAL NEGLIGENCE

New Haven, Oct. 24.—Charles G. Morris, democratic candidate for governor whose automobile struck and killed Mary Kiral, 9 years old, in Wallingford last Tuesday, was absolved of all criminal negligence in a finding made by Coroner Eli Mix today. The coroner found in his examination, according to his finding, that the brakes on Mr. Morris' car were in proper working order and that he was "operating the vehicle in a careful manner, having the same under control."

"I find said operator," the finding continues, "applied the brakes and pulled sharply to the left in an effort to avoid striking deceased. I find there were parked in front of the said garage (owned by Thomas Konopka) near the easterly edge of the highway, four motor vehicles, one back of the other, which would tend to obscure the vision of the motor vehicle operator approaching from the south of persons at the easterly edge of said highway for some distance north of said garage building; and I am of the opinion by reason of said parked motor vehicles and to some extent the garage building, said operator was unable to observe deceased until she appeared at the edge of the roadway and started to run across, at which time he did all he reasonably could to avoid striking deceased as she ran into said highway.

"I am satisfied that said death was not caused by the criminal act, omission or carelessness of any person or persons."

BRANDS THE LAFOLLETTE PROGRAM REVOLUTIONARY

Des Moines, Iowa, Oct. 24—Attorney General Stone, in a speech here tonight, attacked the LaFollette court amendment suggestion as a "revolutionary proposal," which would make supreme a branch of the government, "most dominated by political passions."

"One finds in the third party platform," he said, "what is perhaps the most remarkable program ever seriously proposed by any responsible political party, and that is the proposal that congress may by constitutional amendment make an enacted statute effective over a judical veto."

In some quarters, Mr. Stone continued, "this proposal has been referred to as an assault on the supreme court, but as a matter of fact it is an attack upon the fundamental principles of constitutional government and of the organization of our government which are symbolized by the supreme court."

The effect of such an amendment, Mr. Stone asserted, would not alone confer on congress the power to take away the rights and immunities reserved to the states and citizens of states, but would give like power with respect to the coordinate branches of the government.

The attorney general charged that the LaFollette-Wheeler ticket sought to throw the election into the house. Hoping to secure the election of Charles W. Bryan, the democratic vice presidential nominee, and afterwards dictate legislation in the interests of the "third party," by the "domination of a minority holding the balance of power."

14 PERSONS INJURED IN MOTOR BUS IN NEWARK

Newark, N. J., Oct. 24.—Fourteen passengers in a crowded motor bus were injured, one possibly seriously, tonight when the driver lost control in an attempt to avoid collision with another automobile, causing the bus to strike a telegraph pole and fall over on its side.

Members of a nearby fire engine company assisted in getting the injured to the hospital.

MEMBERS ASK PUTNAM PASTOR FOR RESIGNATION

Putnam, Oct. 24.—It became known today that the members of the First Baptist church at a meeting Wednesday night adopted a resolution calling upon the pastor of the church, Rev. John C. Stoddard, to resign. He has been pastor of the church for three years. None of the members would comment on the action they had taken or given any reason for wishing their pastor to terminate his services.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

21 Lives Lost in Shipwreck

Riga, Latvia, Oct. 24—All the passengers and the crew of the motor-driven vessel Bolinder, a total of 21 persons, perished today when the boat ran ashore in a heavy gale. The boat was on the way to Salismeunde, about 60 miles north of Riga.

Lady Astor Heckled.

Plymouth England, Oct. 24 (By the A. P.)—Intense feeling marked the election campaign of Lady Astor here today. Several times she was heckled when addressing meetings. At one of the gatherings, Lady Astor was asked about the old cry of "hanging the kaiser." With considerable spirit, she replied: "I think it is far worse than death for a man who thinks he was sent from heaven to rule the world to be locked up in a Dutch village with a dull wife."

RETAIL TRADE CONDITIONS CONTINUE BELOW NORMAL

Boston, Oct. 24.—Retail trade conditions in New England have not yet received any great stimulus from the gradual improvement in business and manufacturing conditions which has been noted in the past ten or 12 weeks, the federal reserve bank of Boston said in a report made public today.

The report said that average daily sales by department stores in Boston in September were 3 1-2 per cent less than in September, 1923. The average store in New England outside of Boston reported a decline of about 8 per cent. In average daily sales in September as compared with the corresponding month a year ago. Boston department store sales from October 1 to Oct. 18 were 6 per cent less than for the corresponding period in October 1923.

Increased activity of New England manufacturers, notably those in the boot and shoe industry, has helped to provide a better volume of trade for some New England wholesalers, the report said, although sales of the New England wholesale shoe dealers are still less than a year ago. September business was only 11 per cent less than in September 1923. Sales of a group of New England wholesale grocery firms were larger in September than in the corresponding month of either of the two preceding years.

PROTEST SEMI-MONTHLY GOV'T CROP REPORTS

New York, Oct. 24. — Edward E. Bartlett, Jr., president of the New York Cotton Exchange, announced today that he had received letters from A. Bryce Muir, president of the Liverpool Cotton Association, and Edward S. Butler, president of the New Orleans Cotton Exchange, protesting against the issuance of semi-monthly government crop reports and asking the local exchange to use its efforts to have the present system hanged. The next report will be published at 11 a. m. tomorrow.

Prominent interests in the local cotton trade said that while the department of agriculture in adopting the system of semi-monthly reports had sought to stabilize the industry, the plan had worked quite the opposite. The frequency of the reports it was stated, proved to be an irritant, exerting a depressing influence upon the cotton business generally and greatly increasing the hazards of the trade.

NEW BRITAIN MAN SERIOUSLY INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Meriden, Oct. 24.—Philip A. Nelson, 32, of 167 Hart street, New Britain, is reported to be in a serious condition tonight at the Meriden hospital, where he was taken early this morning, after an auto accident in Milldale. He has a punctured bladder, a fracture of the pelvis and a fractured leg.

Two companions, Henry Dolan, of 1310 Stanley street, and Joseph Nealon, of 335 North Burritt street, both of New Britain, are recovering from bruises and shock. William Caspro, of 42 Maple street, also of New Britain, the driver, who said his machine overturned after being struck by another car, the operator of which did not stop, was held for the coroner on a technical charge of reckless driving.

END OF CHINESE WAR OFFICIALLY ANNOUNCED

Mukden, Oct. 24—(By the A. P.)—Ending of the war with the Chinese central government was officially announced in a communique issued at the headquarters of Chang Tso-Lin here at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

The communique stated that Feng Yu-Hsiang was in possession of Peking; that President Tsao Kun had taken refuge in the legation quarter of the capital city; and that Wu Pei-Fu, commander in chief of the Central government armies, was in full flight.

Retreat of Central government armies at Shanhaikwan had been cut off, it was declared.

EMERY RETURNS TO OFFICE WITH ONE ARM IN SLING

Grand Rapids, Mich., Oct. 24—With one arm still in a bandage, John G. Emery, former national commander of the American Legion, returned to his office today after having been discharged from a hospital where he was taken Wednesday after he was shot by Chedell Simpson, husband of one of Colonel Emery's stenographers.

Simpson, whose wife, Olivina, has filed suit for divorce, is held in $20,000 bail charged with intent to kill Colonel Emery, who signed the warrant.

CHARGED WITH SMUGGLING BROTHER INTO COUNTRY

Hoboken, N. J., Oct. 24—Patrick Sullivan of West New York, was released in $1,000 bail today on a charge of violating the immigration law by smuggling his brother into this country at Malone, N. Y., on June 18 last. Sullivan was arranged before U. S. Commissioner Stanton today who released him for a hearing before Federal Judge Cooper of Malone.

SEVEN MEN RESCUED FROM SCHOONER AFIRE

Halifax, N. S., Oct. 24.—The fishing schooner L. and S., reported yesterday as the L. and F., from which the crew of seven men was rescued by the steamship Montclaire is a floating furnace and a menace to navigation, according to wireless reports received here today.

Ulster Minorities Arrest De Valera

Was Taken Into Custody at Town Hall in Newry, County Down.

Newry, County Down, Ireland, Oct. 24 (By the A. P.)—Eamon De Valera, republican leader, was arrested here today by the Ulster authorities.

Mr. De Valera was arrested in the vestibule of the town hall before he entered the meeting which it had been announced he would address.

When the time came for the meeting it was found that large cordons of police were drawn up by the vicinity of the town hall. The speaker's platform was also in possession of the police. The chairman's seat being occupied by a sergeant. In fact, the police completely surrounded the building and no civilians were permitted to enter.

At shortly after 3 o'clock De Valera arrived at the main entrance alone. The warrant for his arrest was immediately read to him by an inspector of police. De Valera was then surrounded by police and removed from the scene.

Scenes of confusion followed when Mary MacSwiney, with other speakers, entered the hall and began to speak. Their speeches were frequently interrupted by Orange songs, cat calls and groans.

Before the meeting ended copies of a statement signed by Mr. De Valera were thrown from the platform upon the table occupied by the newspapermen.

In the statement De Valera said he was going to Newry to address his constituents and to insist on his right of citizenship. Evidently the statement had been prepared in anticipation of his arrest.

It was announced by Irish republican headquarters in Dublin Tuesday that Eamon De Valera intended to go to Newry, in the Ulster area, today, to address a political meeting there. Mr. De Valera was elected a member of the Ulster parliament for County Down in 1921 but did not take his seat, and the Ulster government some time ago forbade him from entering certain of the Ulster areas, one of them being County Down.

It was forecast in Dublin early in the week that if the republican leader put in an appearance in County Down he would immediately be given notice to leave and, if he ignored such notice would be arrested. In addressing a meeting in Dublin Wednesday night Mr. De Valera answered the challenge of the northern government to arrest him if he crossed the border, recalling that he had been elected a representative for County Down and declaring no man worthy of the people could ignore that challenge.

RELIGION DISESTABLISHED BY MODERN CONDITIONS

Boston Oct. 24.—Religion has been disestablished by modern conditions and must now make its own way without the support of tradition, Bishop Edward M. Cross of Spokane, Washn., said in an address today at a meeting of the Episcopal clergy of Massachusetts.

"Religion can no longer build on the faith and experience of past generations," Bishop Cross said. "It must, after a manner of speaking, prove itself all over again. The essential content of it must be relieved and re-experienced. It must prove its reality and necessity in an age more or less persuaded than religion is not indispensable.

"This is the stupendous challenge to the church of today. It is a challenge that will find many nominal Christians faint hearted and inadequate. The effects of this challenge may appear for the time being and in some places to be destructive. But in the long run the necessity that religion be brought forward out of the realm of tradition and be relieved and re-authenticated through vital present moment experience and conviction will prove of incalculable benefit to civilization."

BANDITS GET $40,000 WORTH OF JEWELRY IN PHILADELPHIA

Philadelphia, Oct. 24.—Motor bandits this afternoon kidnapped a 15-year-old boy watching a car for a jewelry salesman, and escaped with three sample cases said to have contained about $40,000 worth of jewelry. The boy was later found in the abandoned car in the northeastern part of the city unhurt. The jewelry belonged to S. E. Dickson, local agent for J. R. Wood company, New York.

Train Collision in Putnam Freight Yard

Four Persons Seriously Injured — Passenger Train Struck Standing Freight.

Putnam, Conn., Oct. 24.—Four persons were seriously injured and scores were shaken up when a New Haven railroad passenger train, bound from Worcester to Putnam, collided with a freight train standing on a siding in the freight yards here late this afternoon. An open switch was said to have caused the accident.

Those seriously injured were:

Eugene W. S. Carpenter, of Putnam, engineer of the passenger train, serious gash on head, left foot severed above the ankle.

Joseph H. Hoppman, of Putnam, fireman on the passenger train, fracture of the skull; internal injuries.

Stephen Stickney, of Putnam, fireman off duty, riding home in cab of passenger engine, both legs broken near the ankles.

Roy Hopkins, of New London, baggageman on passenger train, internal injuries.

John H. Breen, of Southbridge, Mass., conductor of the passenger train, who was walking in the aisle at the time of the accident, was hurled over the backs of several seats and was rendered unconscious for a time. His left ankle was sprained. The engineer of the freight train was uninjured.

AN INFALLIBLE GUARD

According to Celtic mythology Heimdall was a perfect sentinel with his acute hearing and his remarkable eyesight.

Advertising, if you use it properly, is an infallible sentinel for you. It guards you against fraud and inferiority. It protects you against making unwise and unsatisfactory purchases.

Merchants and manufacturers who advertise must give full value because they have good names to protect. They cannot afford to jeopardize the worth of these names by selling any but good goods of full measure and fair price.

So you can bank on this. Advertised goods must be as advertised. That is why it pays to read Bulletin advertisements, to deal with advertisers and to buy advertised goods. Advertising is your guard and guide.

During the past week the following news matter has appeared in The Bulletin's columns:

Among the passengers who received minor injuries were Mrs. Ainley, Mrs. A. L. Skinner, Mrs. Patterson and Robert Rawley, of Putnam, and F. G. Provo, W. J. Hinson, F. M. Smith, J. G. Wolf and C. G. Edge, of New York city.

It was reported that the passenger train split a switch while nearing the Putnam station. The train, leaving the main line, took the side track, crashing head-on into the freight train which was not in motion. Every passenger in the train was hurled from the seats, many of them striking the seats ahead and others being thrown into the aisles. Many were bruised and cut, but not serious enough to need hospital attention.

Both of the engines were derailed, but none of the passenger cars left the track. Two cars on the freight train were thrown over into a lot. One of the wrecked engines caught fire after the crash, but the blaze was extinguished by yardmen before it did much damage. Another train following the wrecked passenger picked up the passengers and carried the wounded to the Putnam station. Ambulances awaiting there carried them to the Day Kimball hospital.

A wrecker at Midway was sent for and soon had the tracks cleared.

ONLY NINE VESSELS NOW IN RUM ROW OFF BOSTON

Gloucester, Mass., Oct. 24. — Only seven vessels now form the Rum Row between this port and Boston, where, a week ago, 19 liquor laden vessels were anchored, coast guard officials said today. Four two-masted schooners, one three-master and two steamers are strung about six miles apart approximately 22 miles southeast of Eastern Point Light. A week ago Rum Row consisted of three steamers and sixteen schooners, many of them having gone, it was believed, from Block Island and Montauk Point. Long Island, as a result of coast guard activity.

Coast guardsmen attributed the shrinkage in the number of vessels in part, at least, to the close supervision to which the fleet and small craft have been subject by destroyers and coast guard cutters and coast guard patrol craft.

EUROPEAN NATIONS EXPECT HELP; NOT BENEVOLENCE

President Coolidge so States in Outlining the Attitude of the Administration in Foreign Affairs—Asserts That There is a "Moral Obligation" to Make Repayment of War Loans—Assures American Investors That Loans to Foreign Governments Will Not Be Supported by American Arms, Notwithstanding That the Government Has Given Such Loans Its "General Approbation"—States That Our Foreign Policy Follows the Golden Rule.

Washington, Oct. 24—The "hope and aim of America," is to help Europe to help itself, President Coolidge declared tonight in an address devoted to international relations at a Golden Rule dinner of the Near East Relief Association.

Speaking before an audience which included many members of the diplomatic corps, Mr. Coolidge outlined at some length the attitude of the Washington government in foreign affairs, which he declared followed the golden rule.

"Europe does not want our benevolence," the president said. "It does want our help, and we are ready to give it. America wants the peace of good will and of the golden rule; not the peace of force imposed by those who have power. It wants peace, as the normal, the right, the assured estate in a world from which a wiser generation shall have forever outlawed aggressive war."

Recalling that this country had expended millions in charitable relief, Mr. Coolidge called attention that it also had extended to other governments loans and credits, "which they are beginning to repay." There is a "moral obligation," to make such payments, he added.

The president took occasion also to re-state that while this government has given its "general approbation," to numerous loans made by its private citizens in aiding the refinancing of European countries, the loans were made "without the assumption of any obligation whatever by our government."

"American investors receive no assurances that their loans or agreements will be supported by American arms," Mr. Coolidge explained. "It is gratifying that American capital has been able to facilitate the carrying into effect of the Dawes plan with its promise of economic recuperation abroad from which we as well as the peoples abroad will benefit. But loans are made without commitments on the part of this government."

Going into a detailed account of the errands of mercy by this government in Europe, and the far east in recent years, and to its accomplishments in stabilizing economic conditions generally, the president referred to those, "exceedingly modest souls," who "constantly depreciate their own assumption that our country has done nothing for Europe."

"I do not think that our country," he added, "needs to assume any attitude of apology. I have every respect for the governmental and social institutions of other peoples, but I have little sympathy with our fellow citizens who profess to see in them something better adapted to their own needs than those which we have developed ourselves, and who are vaguely apologetic of the fact that they are Americans. Neither have I any sympathy with those who are unwilling or unable to look beyond our shores and who content themselves with an equally vague and unmeaning assertion of their Americanism.

"I preserve my approval for those who while thoroughly American, yet do not propose to live unto themselves alone, who are neither oblivious to duty or to charity but who cherish as individuals and as citizens the golden rule of action among our own people."

American relief during the famine periods in Russia had prevented, he declared, the spread of bolshevism over a large portion of Europe. But for this relief, he added, civilization "which has been set back a generation in Russia, would have had the same setback over a half score of other countries. Peace would have been impossible."

"We disapprove of the Russian government," he declared "but America has held humanity higher than international laws."

America in the past eight years has expended more than $18,000,000,000 through various wartime and relief agencies in charities, donations and loans, Mr. Coolidge recalled.

"We might have taken the attitude," he continued, "that we had completed our obligation to Europe the day the armistice was signed. But the object of America in the war was greater than military victory. It was the maintenance of human institutions, re-establishment of orderly governments, and preservations of civilization itself in Europe.

"I do not recount these things in a spirit of vainglory. It was the good fortune of America to be able to help in such a time. The story would not be fairly told if I omitted to add that already many of the nations that received help in his crisis have begun to repay the credits advanced by our government. Others have indicated their intention to repay as fast as their economic strength permits. There has been a fine demonstration of good faith, a full realization of obligations.

"It is through such practical, workaday procedures that our country has sought to be helpful in a world filled with troubles. It may be admitted that our people have given little confidence to fine professions and pious phrases. They have placed small faith in plans to insure peace by the threat of using force. They want peace and will do their full part to assure peace. But they will sacrifice no part of their absolute control over their own destinies. They will assent to no international trusteeship to shape their future relations to the rest of the world.

"America is profoundly concerned in behalf of whatever promises to make the world a better neighborhood and its peoples better neighbors. We have no better wish than to be a good and helpful neighbor with all. Through we may have seemed aloof from the scenes of conflict, our people insisted on bearing their share in the worst struggle. Later, when for a time peace was threatened in many parts and there was a loosening of bonds that stopped to menace the very basis of society, our people were ready with assistance for the unfortunate and suffering, wherever they were."

RULING OF ERRORS MADE BY REGISTRARS OF VOTERS

Hartford, Oct. 24.—Errors made by registrars of voters, previous to the last session for making voters, cannot be corrected by boards of selectmen and town clerks at the first session, Attorney General Francis A. Healy has notified Town Clerk J. Thomas of Rockville. By mistake the registrars of Vernon, it was informed a person that his name was not on the registration list when as a matter of fact, his name was on the list.

The attorney general's opinion was asked as to whether a person having appeared to be made was performed as to his legal rights, can now be made at the last meeting of the board of selectmen and town clerk of Vernon. Mr. Healy's answer follows:

"It is, of course, unfortunate that this situation has occurred, but I am unable under the law to advise you that your board of selectmen and town clerk have any power under the statute to correct an error of the registrars.

"If you were to admit the principle that this board had authority to admit persons applying to be electors after mistakes of this character before other boards, that principle could be so enlarged as to practically nullify the law.

"The provisions of the statute as to the powers of the board at the final meeting, is mandatory and leave nothing for either the judgement or discretion of said board, but they must strictly follow the provisions of the statute and admit only those whose qualifications of age or residence have matured since their last official meeting."

CONDITION OF SECRETARY WALLACE VERY SERIOUS

Washington, Oct. 24.—Announcement was made after a consultation of physicians tonight that the condition of Secretary Wallace of the department of agriculture, was still regarded as "very serious."

Coming from the sick room at the naval hospital where the secretary is suffering from complications resulting from an operation performed last week for the removal of his appendix and gall bladder, Dr. Joel T. Boone one of the White House physicians in attendance, in making this announcement added that he believed there were "certain reasons for encouragement."

It was added that a definite change one way or another in the patient's condition was expected by tomorrow morning. Mrs. Wallace is at the bedside.

Dr. Boone arranged to remain at the hospital throughout the night. Participating in the consultation which lasted for an hour and was the second of the day, were Dr. Boone, Major P. Cowpal, personal physician to President Coolidge; Dr. Thomas Boggs of Johns Hopkins university and hospital physicians.

KILLED WIFE, TWO CHILDREN AND THEN SHOT HIMSELF

Topsfield, Mass., Oct. 24.—Homer Kennedy of this town, today shot and killed his wife and their two young children and then turned the pistol on himself. Three older children were at school at the time. Kennedy, who was 50 years old, recently suffered a nervous breakdown, neighbors said.

Kennedy had been absent from home several days. This afternoon while Miss Irene Walsh, daughter of the chief of police of the town, was visiting Mrs. Kennedy, the man walked into the room and without saying a word drew a pistol and opened fire.

The first shot killed Mrs. Kennedy and two more were aimed at Richard, 4 years old, and Elizabeth, an infant. Paying no attention to Miss Walsh as she ran out of the house to call help, Kennedy fired his fourth shot at his own head. All four died almost instantly. The three children absent at school ranged in age from seven to 11 years.

According to Chief of Police Walsh Kennedy bore a good reputation in the town. Until recently, he had been employed on a large estate here.

BRITISH IN CONFLICT WITH RUSSIAN PROPAGANDA

London, Oct. 24 (By the A. P.)—The British government again is in conflict with the Russian soviet government on the question of propaganda, according to correspondence issued by the foreign office tonight for publication in tomorrow's newspapers.

In a letter dated today signed "in the absence of the secretary of state" by one of the permanent officials of the foreign office, J. T. Gregory, and addressed to Christian Rakovsky, the Russian charge d'affaires in London, attention is drawn to an accompanying copy of a letter received by the central committee of the British communist party from M. Zinoviev, president of the committee of the communist international, dated August 15.

Sedrick Kenett, 18, of Westford, took up the bandit role in earnest last Wednesday and began depredations by taking possession of a Ford car owned by Joseph Schwoman of Westford. He had traveled but a short distance in this when the machine mounted a bank off the road, going down the other side and coming to rest at the edge of a pond. Kenett then resumed his journey on an Indian motorcycle owned by John Piasek, also of Westford. In his travels he entered the homes of Clarence Lee and Hartley Colburn, Westford residents and stole jewelry and money to the amount of $21, about evenly divided between the two pieces. The articles stolen included silverware, a jack knife, a watch and money. Kenett was later located at the State Policeman Henry Helmold, of the Stafford Springs barracks. The young man was presented before Justice of the Peace E. O. Zeller of the Ashford town court, charged with taking an automobile and a motorcycle without permission from the owners and also with theft of goods. Probable cause was found and Kenett was bound over to the criminal term of the Windham county superior court under bonds of $1,500 which he was unable to furnish and he was taken to Brooklyn jail by Officer Heinold. Grand Juror Otto Hattin prosecuted the case.

A forty minute short calendar session and assignment of cases of the Windham county superior court was held in this city Friday forenoon, with Judge William M. Maltbie on the bench. When adjourned the session was put over until Friday morning, October 31 at 10:30 o'clock. The case of Anthony Plonsoky, et al vs John Brak, each on the trial list to court was listed to be heard after the short calendar session on October 31. The assignments made of the cases follow: Wednesday, November 5, first, Chas. Hegarty vs Ellen Pegram; second, Frank A. Phillips vs James W. Baker; third Doyle & Murphy Co. vs John Konarski.

Frank P. Fenton of Windham, candidate for congress from the Second district headed the list of speakers at the largest attended political rally held in many years in Andover Thursday evening, in the town hall there. Besides an overflowing audience of democrats from Andover, Columbia, Hebron, Coventry and this city, many well-known Andover republicans were present. Herbert A. Thompson, chairman of the Andover democratic town committee presided. Edward M. Yeomans, chairman of the democratic state central committee was among those who occupied seats on the stage and spoke briefly. Other speakers besides Captain Fenton were John A. Markham of Hartford, candidate for secretary of state; Geo. J. Dunn of Rockville, candidate for state senator from the 36th district and John Blackhall of Hartford, former secretary to Congressman Augustine Lonergan. Practically all the speakers repudiated the statement of Col. H. Bingham, republican candidate for governor, that the democrats, while in charge of the state affairs, had squandered $7,000,000. The Andover Symphony orchestra played during the evening.

PRINCE OF WALES SLUMBERS GOING THROUGH WILLIMANTIC

(Special to The Bulletin)

Willimantic, Oct. 24.—The Prince of Wales, wrapped in deep slumber following strenuous days of hunting and dancing in the Bay State and was an unconscious visitor to Willimantic shortly after the noon hour Friday and sorely disappointed several hundred people including Acting Mayor George W. Hickey who had gathered at the local railroad station in anticipation of catching a glimpse of the popular successor to the British throne. The special train of ten cars of the Canadian National Railway drawn by Engine No. 1290 halted at the local station at 12.08 o'clock, three minutes late, preceded by a pilot. A hot journal of the right rear trucks of the car London caused the delay and the trouble was repaired in quick order by John P. Carlsen, foreman of car inspectors at the local yard, assisted by Engineer John Grant, Chief Conductor E. J. Hennessey of New York was in charge of the train. The spectators lost considerable of the spirit which had caused them to turn out in numbers when word was passed that H. R. H. was enjoying a sleep in [illegible] and that there was no indication of his arising. The prince [illegible] into his berth at six o'clock in the morning in Lowell Mass. A. J. Scheurer and William Donnehey, New Haven railroad policemen and Chief of Police Allan McArthur and Train Announcer Thomas J. Killourey were on duty while the train was stopped here. On the train were forty members of the royal party and some sixteen uniformed train guards of the Canadian National railway, presumely all ex-service men as indicated by the medals which adorned their uniforms. The engine displayed the Stars and Stripes and the Union Jack of Great Britain. The crowd remained on hand until the train pulled out for Hartford and then to New York from which port Prince Edward will sail for England on the Olympic today Saturday.) The fact that the royal youth was enjoying rest was explained by the fact that he attended a party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Lawrence, at Gravelly Brook, Hamilton, Mass., and he did not retire until 5 o'clock Friday morning. Precautionary measures were taken for the safety of the prince and his party over the several divisions of the New Haven railroad. Special operators were on duty until after the train had passed Clark's Corners and Abington which were designated as two of the blocks along the line where telegraph sets were temporarily attached at the stations to announce the movement of the train. Engine 3291, Engineer J. H. Cornell and Conductor O. B. Chase preceded the train at a distance of two miles to further safeguard against an accident and Engine No. 1332 with Engineer McQuaid and Conductor D. H. Richards followed in the rear at the same distance. F. S. Hobbs, superintendent of the Midland division and Thomas Rowley, trainmaster of the Norwich and New London division rode on the train from Worcester to this city, where they were relieved by Superintendent Carl A. Mitchell, trainmaster I Wickham and George Marcouiller, traffic manager, officials of the Hartford division. Local matters were in charge of Station Agent Harry A. Franchette, Yard Clerk L. Vincent Shea and Train Announcer Thomas J. Killourey.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Robert Thomas, 70 and homeless, was bound over under bonds of $500 Friday after an appearance before Deputy Judge Charles S. Francis in the town court, on a charge of breaking and entering. He is at Brooklyn jail, awaiting disposition of his case by the superior court.

Thomas was arrested about 1.30 Friday morning on Mechanic street by Officer John Gebert. A checkup established that Thomas had used the leaf of an automobile spring to pry open a window at the rear of the Star bakery at Main and Academy street. He had stolen a quantity of food stuffs and stocked them away in a week end case with which he was traveling.

Questioned at the police station, he said he had no home, has been out of work for a year and a half and that he made the break for which he is now held in order to get something to eat.

Thomas is a man of considerable education, as indicated by his pleasing and particular address. Apparently he is a machinist by trade. Though more or less uncommunicative as to his history, he has drifted about this section of the country considerably. A pawn ticket found on his person showed that a set of tools had been pledged at a place in Providence. He had a note book with names of various towns in this section written in it.

Officer Gebert's attention was first attracted to Thomas about midnight when the man was loitering about, apparently with no place to go. Accosted by the officer, he told a fairy tale about waiting for his wife, whose arrival evidently had been delayed. He was told to move on. Shortly after one o'clock the officer caught sight of him coming out of Academy street and followed him over a course that led into Mechanic street. Upon the approach of the officer, Thomas threw himself into a hole in a vacant lot. He was ordered out and arrested. His possession of the foodstuffs led to the discovery of the break at the bakery.

Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth of New London and Dr. Samuel T. Clayton of Winsted, will be among the speakers at the semi-annual meeting of the Woman's Congregational Home Missionary union of Connecticut at the Westfield Congregational church, here next Wednesday. They are numbered among the best known pastors in the state. Others who will have a part in the program are Rev. Elisha E. Adams, in charge of the Assyrian mission in New Britain; Miss Madeline Gibbs, under the commission of the Congregational Home Missionary society of Utah, and Miss Elinor Cook of Hartford. Women from various towns in this part of the county will come here for the meeting.

About 100 attended the progressive rally held in the town hall Thursday evening with Mrs. Helen Hill Weed as the principal speaker. What the La Follette-Wheeler campaign is in the state street of war clearly and interestingly set forth by Mrs. Weed. She checked up the records of the republicans and democrats in congress during the past few administrations and set forth what the progressive purpose to do to better these records if they are entrusted with the power to do so. The veterans bureau scandal, oil leases, the tariff and sundry other leading subjects received careful attention in Mrs. Weed's speech. She held the undivided attention of her audience throughout her address.

Charles B. Montgomery of Oneco, was another speaker at the meeting. During the course of his colorful talk he hauled out the Ku Klux Klan as a typically unAmerican thing and what he had to say went big with a great majority of the audience.

Thursday noon the group of progressive workers that appeared here were heard at an open air meeting arranged for the employes of the Wauregan company in Wauregan. About 250 heard the speakers.

There will be no dearth of election news in Danielson on the night of November 4. If all the plans of which one hears are made effective no one should be without early information as to voting results in so far as they are obtainable. The radio will play a feature part in this high speed transmission of information. Incidentally it will be recalled that when the aurora borealis cut in on the transmission of election news by wire four years ago, at the presidential election, a radio set over in Brooklyn—a home-made one at that—continued to function and to keep this section in touch with the latest developments and the latest returns. The radio will not fail this year, either. In addition there will be the wire service bringing messages of what has happened in local territory, in more distant parts of the state and in other states.

More complete returns at least from points as far west as the central states may be expected this year than has heretofore been possible. There are about 400 radio sets in town and all of them will be tuned in for election news, the night of November 4.

Friday morning, the funeral of Louis Golen was held from his home in Goodyear with services at St. Joseph's church in Dayville at 8 o'clock. Rev Ignatius Kost was celebrant of the high mass of requiem. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery. The bearers were Michael Dzink, Stephen Morcinon, Jacob Shewahslo, Michael Kosiol, Frank Grandalirki, Samuel Wejelsks, Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. J. Clark, in Canterbury, Friday afternoon at 1.30, a funeral service for Albo H. Stevens was conducted by Rev. Ralph Knight of Canterbury. Burial was in Hyde cemetery. The bearers were W. F. Herr, Chris Kerr, M. T. Shea and A. Laframboise. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

It was asserted here Friday that 100 signatures have been obtained in Windham county to a petition that is intended to play a part in placing the name of Helen Hill Weed before the voters of Connecticut as an independent candidate for election as United State senator December 16. Mrs. Weed is running as an independent candidate.

William S. Brown of the Shepard Hill farm at Wauregan was gloomy Friday morning, as he told of damage done his potato digger while engaged in rolling out many acres of potatoes down at his farm place. According to Mr. Brown, who is careful as to what he says and how he says it, the digger was wrecked when it encountered three large potatoes lying in a boulderous group.

Weather sharps were inclined to admit Friday that the day represented the arrival of Indian or St. Martin's summer. All did not agree on this, as is the case on many things. Some hold that Indian summer is not due until about November 10. Those who like perfect weather hope they are right.

Of interest here is the fact that up to Friday noon $1830 in subscriptions had been received for a special fund being created to aid the Day Kimball hospital at Putnam and intended to reach $4,000, so to meet an assessment of that amount for which the institution will be liable as holder of 40 shares of the stock of the First National bank of Putnam, now in the hands of the receiver. Friends of the [illegible] everywhere are being asked to aid in completing this fund.

Officers of the state assembly were present Friday evening when degrees were conferred on a class of Dorcas Rebekah lodge.

Ralph H. White, representing the Connecticut Anti-Saloon league is to speak at the morning service at the Methodist church Sunday.

Killingly's schools were closed Friday to allow the teachers to attend conventions scheduled in different cities.

Rev. Harry Alcott, who represents the Connecticut Anti-Saloon league will speak at the morning service at the Baptist church Sunday.

PUTNAM

"The Prince!" "The Prince!" "All Hail, the Prince!" That's about the way the crowd that gathered at the railroad station here Friday morning had it all planned out, but it didn't work out just that way. There wasn't any prince to hail. There was just a very fine string of steel Pullman type cars of the Canadian National Railways hauled by a New Haven road locomotive bedecked across its front with the Stars and Stripes and the Union Jack and strung along the train in vestibules and windows an array of uniformed police and staff officers and secretaries, such as is usually attendant upon royalty.

Inside one of the cars the Prince of Wales was in repose, so it was understood. A score of pretty girls scattered about in the crowd of about one hundred that gathered at the railroad to see His Royal Highness were palpably disappointed over not glimpsing E P. The same might be said about the men who were in the party. But they were philosophical about it and agreed that a prince probably has to sleep at times, much like ordinary mortals.

The fact that the special train of the Prince of Wales was coming through Putnam, noised about fully two hours before the arrival thereof and those who thought they might see him gathered at the station. His coming was heralded by the passing of a pilot locomotive hauling a single coach. Eventually his eight-car train hove in sight. It did not make a stop in this city, but slowed down to run past the station at about twenty miles per hour. The fleeting inspection that was possible gave the crowd a flash of the luxury in which a prince may travel and the care with which he is guarded. An array of flowers on a table in the dining car arrested the attention of many.

There was evidence that every precaution had been taken by the railroad to insure the safety of the prince on his trip to New York. Railroad police and railroad detectives were on duty at the station here.

But Putnam did not see the prince. It must be satisfied with fond memories of what his train was like.

Some $60,000 of the capital and surplus of the new Citizens' National bank had been paid in, up to Friday noon, and the flow of stock subscription payments was steady. Enthusiasm marked attitude of the committees that is in charge of the work of making the new institution an actuality. Putnam, as a city, is heartily applauding the success of the work being done and is boosting it in a manner that guarantees its future.

It was very evident on Friday that many days will not elapse before 50 per cent. of the money that it is required shall be paid in at this time. That start made is indicative of that. As soon as the money is obtained, further progress toward the actual beginning of business by the bank may be anticipated.

The annual meeting committee of the Windham County Farmers' association feels exceedingly fortunate in obtaining Andrew L. Felker, commissioner of agriculture of New Hampshire, as speaker at the meeting November 12. Mr. Felker is considered by men in a position to know to be one of the most interesting and forceful speakers in New England. For a number of years he was lecturer of the New Hampshire state grange and he also has served as a trustee of the New Hampshire State College of Agriculture. Mr. Felker has been an outstanding figure in bringing New England agriculture back to its present status.

Plans are being made by the town directors of the Farmers' association to conduct annual meeting automobile parties. This is expected to materially increase the attendance at the meeting, which is to be held in Odd Fellows' hall in this city.

In view of the fact that thirteen cases of scarlet fever have developed in this city during the past few weeks, throats of the children in the Israel Putnam school, where eight of the children taken ill have been studying, have been examined, with a view to excluding from attendance temporarily all who showed signs of developing the disease.

Dr. George T. LaMarche, school physician, and Miss Viola Snyder, school nurse are taking every possible precaution against the spread of the disease. Speaking of the situation Friday morning, Dr. LaMarche said that children who are sent home as suspected cases or because there is a case in their homes should be kept on the home premises. They should be kept isolated from other children and not allowed to go about as they are sometimes allowed to do, instances being known of where such children have gone to public entertainments and other gathering.

The first symptoms of scarlet fever are sore throat and loss of appetite. Indigestion is apt to be another indication that a child is developing the trouble.

As the rolls now stand, 2872 men and women of the town of Putnam are qualified to vote in the state and national election to be held a week from next Tuesday. This is the highest total to which Putnam's voting force has ever attained. Of the number enrolled as electors here 1687 are men and 1185 are women. Though they have had the right of franchise only a few years, the women have done notably well in accumulating such a voting strength, within 500 of the total achieved by the men after generations of their sex have had the right to vote. Out of a group of 300 voters made here a few days ago 230 were women. In expressing their political preference, the great majority of them enrolled on the republican caucus list.

Robert Thomas, elderly man who was bound over from the town court of Killingly to the superior court Friday, to answer to a charge of breaking and entering, is something of an exaggerator and prevaricator. Thomas, who is 70 and has no home, told Chief McFarland of the Danielson police of breaking into a store "near the railroad station" in this city last Saturday night and detailed how he removed a screen from a window as a part of the effort of letting himself in. Chief McFarland inquired of Captain Jarvis as to such a break having occurred here and was told that Thomas story was moonshine. No such break has been made or reported.

A special meeting of the Baptist church, held Wednesday evening, voted to release Rev. John S. Stoddard from his duties as pastor, the release to be effective three months hence. The action follows more or less discussion among church members as to whether Rev. Mr. Stoddard's pastorate should be continued indefinitely.

Rev. Simeon E. Cozad, former pastor of the Congregational church of this city, arrived here for a visit Friday.

Attorney Walter Gilpatric of New York is spending the week end with relatives in Putnam.

EAST KILLINGLY

The Worth-while Bible class entertained the men's class last Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Gordon. After devotions the program of the evening was musical. Among the many enjoyable numbers was a song by Henry Mason, entitled The Royal Telephone. Mr. Mason is 75 years young, and made the echoes ring with the very spirit of the song. A collation was served by the hostess. Clarence Soule is class president.

Mrs. Martin Hetherington and Mr. and Mrs. Warren Thompson, of Fitchville were callers Sunday at the parsonage.

John Hafner and Arthur Thibeau of Norwich were Wednesday evening callers on Rev. and Mrs. W. D. Hetherington.

It is grand fall weather. The thermometer registers in early morning about 26 degrees.

The Willing Workers are busy every week making quilts, etc.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre.

Every once in a while a story comes to the fore that seems to have been made to order for motion pictures. "The Side Show Life" adapted by Willis Goldbeck and Julie Herne from the novel, "The Mountebank" by William J. Locke, is just such a tale. It concerns a man literally born in a circus tent, who has lived a fun-maker's life until the great war came, enlists, conducts himself right nobly, is decorated with the Legion of Honor and at the armistice finds himself a bridagier general, promoted from the ranks—a story of a man who beneath his paint and powder is really a cultured English gentleman whose fate has thrust into the world of the stage.

And Ernest Torrence plays this part! Torrence is great as "Bill Jackson" in "The Covered Wagon," but he's greater, if that's humanly possible, as the clown, Petit Pates. Torrence and Anna Q. Nilsson are featured in the production.

If you thought Miss Nilsson was good in "Ponjola," wait until you see this one. Neil Hamilton, who had a prominent role in D. W. Griffith's "America," has the juvenile lead. Louise Lagrange, a French beauty, is Torrence's partner in his juggling act. Others in the strong supporting cast are Maurice Cannon, William Riccardi, Katherine Lee, sister of the equally famous Jane; Lawrence D'Orsay, Effie Shannon and other big names.

"The Side Show of Life" is a veritable three-ring circus of screen entertainment and thrills.

It will be on view at the Broadway theatre starting tomorrow and we earnestly advise you not to miss this real attraction. Short subjects will consist of a comedy and new Kinograms.

Palace Theatre

Laughs, thrills, an occasional sob and more laughs are in the ingredients that make Hollywood with Potash and Perlmutter, which comes to the Palace Sunday for 4 days one of the most entertaining and pleasing First National pictures of the year.

Alexander Carr, who will be remembered by theatergoers for his excellent characterization in the previous Potash and Perlmutter picture, and George Sidney, veteran stage star, head the distinguished cast of this production in the title roles. Vera Gordon, who also played in the first screen venture of the partners, again plays Rosie. Betty Blythe is the appealing vampire around whom the story centers and the cast includes David Butler, Anders Randolf, Cyril Ring and Lillian Hackett.

Special added attraction, Sunday nights only starting this Sunday. The sensational police serial Into The Net with Edna Murphy and Jack Mulhall. First two episodes will be shown this Sunday and one every Sunday night thereafter for nine consecutive weeks. Also Pathe news and Aesop Fables.

Breed Theatre

The picture announced for the Breed theater for the first half of next week is the new Metro-Goldwyn special, Tess of the D'Urbervilles, a screen version of the Thomas Hardy's world-famous novel, which for years has remained a model in the realistic school of literature.

The production marks Marshall Neilan's biggest directorial effort so far, and in attaining this end, he combined with Blanche Sweet, who is featured in the role of Tess. Others in the cast include Conrad Nagel, Stuart Holmes, George Fawcett, Courtenay Foote, Victory Bateman, and Joseph J. Dowling. It is a Louis B. Mayer presentation and was adapted by Dorothy Farnum.

The Spat family in a two part Pathe comedy titled Radio Mad and Topics of the Day make up the remainder of the bill.

Today's bill consists of the Tom Terriss production The Bandolero, William Duncan in The Fast Express, the Pathe news and a Sunshine comedy.

Next Week at United Congregational Church.

Hallowe'en supper for all members of the Sodalitas, at the Community house at six o'clock, Monday evening.

EASTFORD

About 30 people from here attended a C. E. meeting at North Ashford Sunday evening.

Mr. Frank K. Abbott returned home Friday after spending several days with his family in Wilkesbarre, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Alpheus Buell, of Los Angeles, Cal., who have been visiting relatives here, started on their return trip last Wednesday. They will make several stops one being at Washington, D. C.

Rally day exercises were held at the Congregational church Sunday morning, October 5th. There were exercises by all the Sunday school classes from the Ladies' class, who read the Scripture to the Cradle Roll department. Six of this department received promotion certificates to the beginners' class of the Primary department. The programme was in charge of the pastor, Rev. Frank K. Abbott, Mrs. J. C. Tatem, Primary superintendent and Mrs. Charles Clark, Cradle Roll superintendent.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Deans and Miss Bicknell are entertaining relatives from Hartford.

Callers at Marc Lewis' Sunday were Mrs. Arthur Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Bryant, Mr. Bryant's mother, Ernest and Carl Lewis all of Hartford, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Marcy and family of Putnam.

Miss Mary JuNette Chapman, 89, of Eastford, Conn., died Wednesday, Oct. 8, at the home of her niece, Mrs. Estella A. Whittemore, East Douglas, Mass., where she had resided for the past seven years. She was born in what was then Ashford (now Eastford) July 15, 1835, the youngest daughter of the late James and Emily Moore Chapman. She received her education in the common and private schools of Eastford; at an early age showing her fondness for books. She was a student at North Wilbraham Academy, also at New Britain Normal school She was a teacher in District No. 2 in the spring and summer of 1849. At that time they had two terms in a year, viz., summer and winter.

She gave good satisfaction her first term and was engaged by the district committeeman to teach the winter term of school. She received $1.50 a week and board around in the district, if she desired to do so. It was not far from her own home in the village, therefore she spent most of her time out of school there, occasionally stopping over night with one of her pupils. Then they considered it a great favor to have their teacher for a guest. She taught many years in her own town, also in Woodstock, Ashford, Pomfret, Westford and Canton, 12 miles beyond Hartford, going from the normal school to the latter place. To show her popularity as a teacher, she never made application for only one school during her fifty years of service, that was from Canton to East Douglas, Mass.

She took a recommendation from the supervisor of the school in Canton. She taught in the grammar school in East Douglas for many years and one year at Northbridge, Mass.

She united with the Congregational church in Eastford in the summer of 1884 and was a member there at the time of her death she was a charter member of Crystal Lake grange, was secretary for a number of years in a temperance organization and a member of the Ladies' Aid society of the Congregational church. She was a correspondent for the Grange Home, published in Boston, Willimantic Journal, Putnam Patriot, The Standard of Putnam, and later the Norwich Morning Bulletin for many years.

Funeral services were held Friday, Oct. 10, in East Douglas, Rev. Hubert Allenby, pastor of the Congregational church officiating. Burial was in the Grove cemetery at Eastford, Conn., by the side of her mother and father. The bearers were Newton Whittemore, Preston Whittemore, Robert Walker and Howard Marshall.

She is survived by two nieces, Mrs. E. H. Whittemore, Mrs. H. Newton Marshall and a nephew, Harry J. Chapman. She was a sister of Mrs. A. V. Preston of East Douglas, Mass., and of Zenas R. Chapman of Springfield, both deceased.

POETRY

Joy of My Life

Joy of my life, while left me here!
And still my love!
How in thy absence thou dost steer
Me from above!
A life well led
This truth commends
With quick or dead
It never ends.

Stars are of mighty use: the night
Is dark and long;
The road foul: and where one goes right
Six may go wrong.
One twinkling ray
That o'er some cloud,
May clear much way
And, guide a crowd.

God's saints are shining lights: who stays
Here long must pass.
O'er dark hills, swift streams and steep ways
As smooth as glasse;
But these all night,
Like candles shed
Their beams, and light
Us into bed.

They are indeed our pillar-fires,
Seen as we go:
They are that cities' shining spires
We travell to.
A swordlike gleame
Kept man from sin
First out: this beame
Will guide him in.

—Henry Vaughn

Said the Traffic Cop

"Yes, of course, it's all a nuisance,
Traffic rules are pests, I know;
I'd be glad, if I were curious,
Just to wink and let you go.
But I'm not—I'm just a hireling
With my weary rounds to trudge.
It's all right with me—but, brother—
Better go and see the judge.

"How's that, madam? Ain't it awful?
You just drove your [illegible]
Then dropped in [illegible]
And a simple little [illegible]
In the store just to [illegible]
Ain't this awful?
See the judge tomorrow
Nice young fellow [illegible]

"O, your watch stopped? [illegible]
dening"
Mine stopped, too, the [illegible]
Nearly made me late to [illegible]
Guess I'll give the [illegible]
Tell the judge [illegible]
Judge is [illegible]
Tell him you were [illegible]
Blame it on the [illegible]

"Wife forgot to telephone [illegible]
Where she'd parked [illegible]
Ain't that like [illegible]
Don't they do things [illegible]
Well, let's see how [illegible]
Say, I'll tell you what [illegible]
See the judge tomorrow
He won't do a thing to you."

Guest—Sorry, old chap, [illegible] has beat you to it.

Louise—Why can't you [illegible] like a man?

Thelma—Oh, men are [illegible] easier to catch—[illegible]

A—Why is an [illegible] criminal?

B.—Because [illegible] out their sentence [illegible] don.

Johnny—Mother, [illegible] my face?

Mother—Certainly [illegible]

Johnny—Aw, [illegible] like you do yours! [illegible] zine.

Doctor—So you've [illegible] and gone in for [illegible] isn't it?

Patient—Game! [illegible] as a treatment [illegible]

The foreman looked [illegible] down.

Are you a mechanic? he asked.

No, sorr, [illegible]

Most of the fish-planting operations have been in charge of the bureau of fisheries [illegible] a hatchery at Yellowstone [illegible] though the plantings [illegible] fingerlings supplied by the Montana state bureau of fisheries was done by park rangers.

A heavy dripping [illegible] the Pacific ocean [illegible] tively a fierce forest fire which had been burning for days in the Olympic peninsula southwest of Port Angeles, Washington. This is the only time recorded in northwest forests of the occurrence of such a phenomenon. With no indication of rain and having water with which to fight the advance of the flaming menace fought [illegible] the fire [illegible] toward the town [illegible] Quillayute and which lay valuable tracts of [illegible] when suddenly the wet fog descended. Like a huge gray cloud it settled down upon the forest [illegible] everything. The fire fighters fled in terror lest they become bewildered and lost on the mountain [illegible] Soon the pungent smell of cedar and hemlock smoke disappeared and by mid-afternoon when the fog lifted there remained only a few smoking [illegible] logs, while all about the charred trunks of former merchantable trees dripped with water from the providential fire extinguisher.

THE PRESIDENT'S POLICIES.

If you haven't taken the time to read the address by President Coolidge before the Chamber of Commerce of the United States Thursday night get your copy of The Bulletin of Friday and do so. It is excellent reading and well sets forth the president's policies under which he proposes to "maintain peace, promote economy, provide a protective tariff, assist the farmers, leave the people in possession of their property and maintain the integrity of the courts."

There is no mistaking where the president stands in regard to sound and economical government. There is question as to what his views are concerning an efficient handling of the nation's affairs or the sane reduction of taxation. Concerning the tariff he puts the matter in few words when he says "American industry cannot exist, American wages cannot be paid, the American standard of living cannot be maintained, without a protective tariff." When he said that he spoke to a nation which has long since had a chance to test it out and prove it for itself.

Concerning the permanent court of international justice, President Coolidge stands for adherence under desirable and practical limitations, and he likewise declared himself for cooperation with other nations in the interest of peace but opposed to participating in conferences with other nations concerning "our own domestic affairs."
